JUROR PUBLICLY UPBRAIDED FOR NOT GUILTY VOTE

Judge Rutledge Bars Nathan Bender From Service After Failure to Convict Holdup Suspect.

CASE DECLARED TO BE MISTRIAL

Leonard Byington, 21, Twice Before Found Guilty of Robbery, Identified by Victim.

Discharging a jury that failed to agree on the guilt of an alleged grocery robber, Circuit Judge Charles W. Rutledge yesterday excoriated Juror Nathan Bender, spokesman for the five jurors voting for acquittal, and said he would never again accept Bender on a jury panel in his court. Bender, the secretary of the Cosmopolitan Life, Health and Accident Insurance Co., resides at 5844 Easton avenue.

The man on trial was Leonard Byington, 21 years old, twice convicted of robbery and who, having served one penitentiary term, was out on appeal from a second penitentiary sentence when arrested for the robbery of a Kroger store at 3342 Iowa avenue, June 23. The manager of the store identified Byington as the youth who drove the car in which two other men escaped from the scene of the attempted robbery.

The Judge put Bender in the witness chair and asked him his reason for voting acquittal, after the four other jurors of the minority had indicated Bender as their spokesman. Bender's explanation was that he was not fully convinced that the man who had driven the automobile in the attempted holdup was the defendant.

Bender pleaded that he was not trying to establish innocence for Byington, but that he simply lacked belief beyond a shadow of doubt that Byington was in the car.

Judge Flays Weak Juries.

"There is too much crime in the city and throughout the country," Judge Rutledge said, "and the reason, in part, is men like you. We haven't enough men with enough red blood in their veins to convict a criminal even when they find him guilty. That's the trouble, even if conviction is clearly warranted.

"I didn't order dinner for you men. I didn't see how you could be out very long. This man has twice been convicted of burglary. He has no legitimate alibi save his own word that he wasn't there. We must convict men who are guilty just as quickly as we must free men who are innocent.

"And if you are ever again assigned to jury duty in this court you won't serve," he added. "I'll see to that."

He then declared a mistrial, the second to occur in his court within a week.

Store Man Identified Three.

Byington, the defendant in the case, was indicted jointly with two other youths but was placed on trial first because of his criminal record. The manager of the Kroger store identified the other youths with whom he had scuffled in the store, and said he also looked out of the store and saw the driver of the automobile used in the escape. He said it was Byington and seven of the jury moved for conviction on their testimony.

Byington was last convicted in January, 1927, in Jefferson County, Mo., and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He appealed the sentence, and pending a hearing, was released under a bond which still obtains.

Judge Rutledge's action, in singling out a minority spokesman, and attacking him for an opinion, is unprecedented in local courts.

REVOLVER EXPLODES IN HAND OF PROBATIONARY PATROLMAN

Officer Who Was Practicing Marksmanship and Policeman at His Side Injured.

A revolver exploded in the hands of Probationary Patrolman James Cook, 2849 Neosho street, as he was practicing on the basement target range of the Fourth District Police Station, Tenth and Carr streets, yesterday afternoon.

A splinter of steel entered Cook's thumb and several other small pieces of steel from the shattered barrel entered the lower right arm of Patrolman Charles Donnelly, 4766A Ashland avenue, who was standing nearby. They were treated at City Hospital and sent home.

BEBE DANIELS HURT IN MAKING PICTURE

Rescued From Wreck of Imitation Pullman by Actor Who Suffered Broken Rib.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 11.—Bebe Daniels, film actress, today suffered injuries which physicians said would keep her in a hospital for several days when a make-believe Pullman car in which a movie was being filmed fell from an automobile truck on which it was mounted.

An X-ray examination showed no fractures, physicians said. Miss Daniels suffered a sprained back and severe bruises.

Miss Daniels, Clarence Badger, director; James Hall, motion picture actor and Roy Hunt, cameraman, were in the Pullman "set" when it struck a limb overhanging the road.

The imitation Pullman compartment was completely wrecked as it crashed to the pavement.

Hall, who suffered a broken rib, rescued Miss Daniels from the wreckage. Badger and Hunt escaped injury.

SEEKS PROOF THAT FIRST AMERICANS CAME FROM SIBERIA

Party of Scientists at Seattle Will Board Schooner Which Sails From New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—In quest of traces of the men believed to have crossed the Bering Strait to become the first inhabitants of North America, the schooner Effie M. Morrissey put out for the Aleutian Islands today. The little vessel, veteran of many scientific expeditions into the Far North, headed for Seattle on the first leg of its cruise, which is for the American Museum of Natural History. At Prince Rupert, British Columbia, scientists who will make up the party, will board the vessel. Only the crew were aboard for the trip to the West coast through the Panama Canal.

Elaborate archeological researches will be made in the Aleutian Islands, where the discovery of entombed mummies has given new impetus to the search for traces of the first men who are believed to have crossed Bering Strait from Siberia.

The schooner is scheduled to sail from Prince Rupert next April.

BULLET-SCARRED AUTO IN DITCH NEAR EDWARDSVILLE

Held Pending Investigation; Only Clew Is License Tag Issued to St. Louisan.

A bullet-scarred coupe, found in a ditch early yesterday on a deserted cinder road five miles south of Edwardsville and a few hundred yards off the Sunset Hill road is held at Edwardsville pending an investigation to determine in what sort of a shooting it figured.

The machine, a Buick without license tags, was found lying on its side. More than a dozen holes had been made by pistol bullets and shotgun slugs in its sides and hood, and the windshield and a window had been partly shot away. There were no marks of blood in the car, however.

A single Missouri license tag found inside the machine had been issued to a St. Louis man who will be questioned.

12 SAVED IN GOLD MINE FIRE, 6 DEAD, ABOUT 40 MISSING

Rescuers Using Oxygen Masks Penetrate Shaft of Deep Workings at Timmins, Ontario.

BLAZE ATTRIBUTED TO RUBBISH PILE

Workers Rescued in Good Condition Although They Had Been Imprisoned Since Friday Morning.

By the Associated Press.

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 11—Twelve men were brought out alive from the burning Hollinger gold mine this afternoon by rescuers, who were able to penetrate through deadly fumes with oxygen helmets brought by special train from Toronto.

Hopes that 24 hours of futile effort almost had smothered, were rekindled by this first success, and mine officials said prospects of bringing out some 40 men still imprisoned in the deep workings seemed good. Only six are known to be dead.

500 Feet Under Surface.

Most of the men are believed to be more than 500 feet under ground and perhaps widely separated, but rescue work with the new apparatus is proceeding rapidly. Before the special train arrived, rescue workers had made persistent attempts to descend into the workings only to be driven back each time by the poisonous gas, many of them in a state of collapse. A United States mine car is on the way here.

When the fires suddenly broke out yesterday, it caught the big day shift in the mine, but all but about 50 were able to make their way to the surface.

Those rescued today were in good condition, although they had been underground since yesterday morning, three were able to walk home with their relatives.

Bell Brings Rescuers.

When rescue parties wearing respirators made reconnaissance descents into the mine, they found that, in one place, then inaccessible to them, a group of men had broken an air line and by gathering close about had been able to keep alive through the night and day.

Hope of getting any of the imprisoned miners out alive, however, had almost died when a bell was sounded weakly at shaft Number 11. The cage was lowered and at the bottom was George Zolob, who had crawled to the shaft through dense fumes. He told the rescuers where six of his comrades were waiting, and all were saved.

The rescued men were brought to the surface amid scenes of emotion among wives and children. Zolob was given credit for saving all the lives in his party.

Then later five more men were brought up alive from another part of the mine.

The fire is said to have started at the 550-foot level in rubbish which had been accumulating for years. Smoke and fumes drifted down the shafts as far as the 1800-foot level.

American Rescue Car Being Rushed From Pittsburg.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Extraordinary efforts by the American Government and by American and Canadian railroads are being made to help save the lives of about 40 men trapped underground in the Hollinger mine at Timmins, in Northern Ontario.

The latest American Bureau of Mines rescue car left Pittsburg today behind a special engine on the Pennsylvania Railroad for Buffalo and from there another special on the Canadian lines will rush it via Toronto across Ontario. This is the first time that American Government equipment has been sent out of the country in such an effort.

"We have assigned to the task the finest crew of rescue workers ever assembled," Director Scott Turner said, "and the railroads are breaking all known time schedules to get the car there. The car is equipped with oxygen tanks and masks and a cage of canary birds. These birds are sensitive to atmospheric conditions under round and signal conditions which are dangerous sometimes before human beings or instruments can detect air taint."

The situation is understood to have been produced by the burning of timber used to support the openings made in the gold ore.

Wolf Killed in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—A police squad went to Douglas Park in the heart of the residential district today in response to a report a wolf had been seen there. The animal was cornered, dispatched and identified as a wolf.

TROTZKY ARRIVES AT PLACE OF EXILE WITH 70 TRUNKS

Citizens at Seeing Entourage Think He Is American Millionaire.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—The arrival of Leon Trotzky, former soviet leader, at his place of exile in a special car encumbered with 70 pieces of baggage, caused the inhabitants to suppose he was an American millionaire, says the correspondent of the official Tass Agency. The correspondent said that Trotzky and his family traveled in "lordly comfort" to Frunze, where his exile is to be spent. Besides his baggage, he took a hunting dog and considerable hunting equipment.

At the time of his exile with other opposition leaders of soviet Russia, it was said Trotzky had been given his choice of several places of exile, including some far in Russian Central Asia. Frunze was not named at that time. It does not appear in available atlases.

HEFLIN TALKS BEFORE FIERY CROSS, GUARDED

Marines and Police Watch as He Attacks 'Catholic Machine' at K. K. K. Rally

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11. — United States Senator Thomas J. Heflin of Alabama attacked what he termed the Catholic influence in America in an address before Ku Klux Klansmen in the Metropolitan Opera House tonight. A large cross ablaze with electric lights stood behind the speaker and another cross blazed beside him on the stage.

A squad of 14 marines and sailors from the Navy yard surrounded him on the platform as a guard and more than 100 policemen and plain clothes men were stationed at every entrance and in the aisles.

Heflin was wildly cheered when he appeared on the stage. Hundreds of persons bearing counterfeit tickets had been turned away.

Heflin said that the church in Mexico gets land by frightening dying men, and he denounced the Knights of Columbus "for raising money for propaganda."

"I am not attacking anyone's religion," Heflin said, "but I am attacking the Catholic political machine."

A feature of the program was a demonstration by a hooded klansman in full regalia, who entered the stage while the auditorium was dark, except for a spotlight that followed the robed figure. He stood by the cross and recited a tribute to the klan.

U. S. TO INVITE GERMANY TO SIGN ARBITRATION PACT

Secretary Kellogg Says Treaty Similar to One With France Is Contemplated.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Germany will be invited by the United States to enter into an arbitration treaty similar to that recently signed with France and which is now pending before the Senate, awaiting ratification.

Secretary of State Kellogg said today negotiations would be begun with the various nations having arbitration treaties with the United States as these treaties approach expiration and as Germany has no such treaty with America, that nation would be invited to sign one.

The arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States and that with Japan will be among the first taken up. The new treaty with France will form the basis of these new treaties.

400 FISHERMEN BLOWN OUT TO SEA ON ICE BLOCK

Searching Parties Able to Start Out Yesterday After Storm Blocks Night Efforts.

By the Associated Press.

LENINGRAD, Feb. 11.—Fear is felt for the fate of 400 fishermen who were carried out to sea last night on an ice block which became detached from the shore 40 miles from Leningrad during a heavy storm that swept the Finnish bay.

The storm made rescue efforts at night impossible and searching parties were able to start only this morning.

NO GREAT FLOOD THIS YEAR

Weather Bureau Says Indications Are Against Calamitous Rise.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. Another assurance that the great flood of 1927 in all likelihood will not be duplicated in 1928 was received today in a statement from the Weather Bureau that unless rains increased far above normal in the next two months there would be no "calamitous rising of river levels."

The rivers will rise, as they usually do in the spring, and some areas will be partly flooded, the Bureau said, but present indications are that there will be no general flood.

UNSECURED LOANS BY BANKS HELPED TO MEET HARDING CAMPAIGN DEFICIT

Senate Public Lands Committee Seeks to Learn How Debt Now Put at $2,000,000 Was Paid.

CONTINENTAL SLUSH FUND COVERED PART

Check of Bonds Shows $25,000 From That Source—Hays and Others to Be Called to Testify.

By BASIL MANLY.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1928.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—As a result of the disclosures today tracing bonds of the Continental Trading Co. slush fund to pay off debts of the Republican National Committee, the Senate Committee on Public Lands, on the initiative of Chairman Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, and Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana, is now planning to trace the loans and large contributions made in 1920 to cover the $1,600,000 deficit of the Harding campaign, as well as any loans and large contributions to pay off the smaller deficit of the Democratic National Committee.

The committee is already in possession of an incomplete list of the loans made by national banks to cover the Republican deficit of 1920 and is taking steps to obtain the complete list. The list which the committee now has includes some of the largest banking institutions in the United States in cities all the way from Boston to San Francisco.

Tracing Loans by Banks.

The principal banks included in this list are the Liberty National Bank of New York, the First National Bank of Boston, the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, the Crocker National Bank of San Francisco, the New York Trust Co. and the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston. The committee has reliable information that loans were also made by one or more of the Mellon banks in Pittsburg.

Hornblower & Weeks of New York, with which the late John W. Weeks, Secretary of War under President Harding, was once associated, is one of the several investment banks which are alleged to have participated in loans to cover the Republican deficit.

The list of loans now in the possession of the committee totals approximately $750,000. The comtee is now endeavoring to obtain information regarding the banks which covered the balance of the deficit—$850,000.

Revives Stories of Deal.

The evidence just obtained that Liberty bonds derived from oil profits connected with the leasing of Teapot Dome were used to pay off the Harding campaign deficit is considered by some members of the committee to lend color to reports which were persistent during the Teapot Dome hearings of 1924. According to these reports the leasing of Teapot Dome and other Naval oil reserves was a result of a deal made at the Republican National Convention in 1920 by which certain interests undertook to pay off any deficit incurred in the Harding campaign in return for an agreement that Fall should be appointed Secretary of the Interior. Other questionable transactions such as the manipulation of properties held by the Alien Property Custodian and the handling of Veterans' Bureau contracts were understood to have been included in the alleged deal.

During the Teapot Dome investigation in 1924 Senator Walsh attempted to get evidence confirming these rumors, but was led off on a false scent connected with the late Jake Hamon of Oklahoma. Much conflicting testimony regarding Hamon was given. It is now believed, however, that Hamon did not play a very large part in the deal which is understood to have included some much more distinguished personages.

G. O. P. Deficit $2,000,000.

While it was admitted by officials of the Republican National Committee following the election of 1920 that the deficit of the Harding campaign amounted to $1,600,000, the Senate committee now has information indicating that the total deficit was probably increased to more than $2,000,000 because of separate deficits by state and local committees.

Soon after the election of President Harding, according to information now in the possession of the committee, there was a conference

John D. Rockefeller Jr. Wants 'Disgraceful Scandal Cleared Up'

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11

FOLLOWING are comments on the effect of the oil scandal on business made in a prepared statement read today by John D. Rockefeller before the Senate Teapot Dome Committee:

"You will observe that the total interest of my family (in the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana) is less than 15 per cent. I want to make that clear, because the public seems to have a misconception on that point.

"However, I want to make it equally clear that if my holdings amounted to only 100 shares I should have the same sense of responsibility and my desire to assist this committee in clearing up this unfortunate situation—this national scandal—would be exactly the same.

"As a citizen who is interested in the public welfare, I appreciate the work that this committee is doing. I am anxious that it shall get to the bottom of this matter in all its details.

"More than that I have very large investments in the oil industry, outside of those in the Standard of Indiana, and for that reason I am anxious that this situation shall be cleared up.

"More than that, my father was a pioneer in the oil business. Our family name for more than 50 years has been prominently connected with the oil business, and I have that added reason for wanting to give you all the facts in my possession and for aiding you in any way possible to obtain other facts.

"I want now to express my appreciation for permission to appear here to make this statement. This condition affects not only certain individuals but the oil industry. The entire industry is under suspicion. The business structure of the country is under suspicion. The cynic is asking whether there is any underlying honesty in business in this country. Only by bringing all the facts to light can this suspicion be dispelled.

"The duty of the stockholder is to insist that the management shall conduct the business in a manner consonant with the public interest, and when I am not satisfied with the management of a company in which I am interested my only alternative is to withdraw my support and endeavor to bring about a change of management.

"I think business generally is under serious criticism at this time. I know a great many honorable and upright men are in the oil business, many of them in companies of which I am a stockholder. For their sake also, this disgraceful scandal should be cleared up. The moment, in any case, the evidence is such that I can no longer believe in them, I shall withdraw my support.

"I believe that business can be run on sound, honest, and high grounds. You gentlemen understand that I never have been actively engaged in business. I never have participated in the management of any business. True, I am a stockholder in many corporations, but my interest is an invested interest, and not a managing interest. As a stockholder, I want no profits derived from a compromise with right. I am prepared at any time to withdraw my support from any management in whose honor and honesty I can no longer believe.

"Perhaps the greatest service that my father has rendered was not his philanthropies, but his investment of large sums of money in enterprises which were economically organized, thus furnishing the public with important commodities at a fair price and at the same time paying their employes a fair wage and providing them with good working conditions."

OFFERS FORTUNE FOR CANCER RESEARCH WHEN WIFE DIES

Millionaire Husband of Fannie Fuchs, Pianist, Seeks Remedy for Disease That Killed Her.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 11.—Albert Fuchs, Chicago millionaire, whose wife, Fanny Richter Fuchs, internationally known pianist, died of cancer at Pasadena last night, announced today an offer "of all my wealth for cancer research." He is said to have sold his Eastern holdings recently for $2,000,000. The immediate cause of Mrs. Fuchs' death was given as embolism of the brain.

Mrs. Fuchs was born in Berlin 58 years ago and made her debut in America under the auspices of Walter Damrosch. Her skill won decorations from three foreign governments. Illness forced her retirement from the concert stage several years ago.

MAN SHOT AND LEFT BESIDE CLAYTON ROAD IN COUNTY

Russell Inman, 23 Years Old, Says He Was "Taken for a Ride"—In Serious Condition.

Shot in the abdomen and right wrist, Russell Inman, 23-year-old clerk, of 713 South Boyle avenue, was found early this morning by the side of the Clayton road, one-half mile west of the North and South road, in St. Louis County, by Deputy Sheriff Kick.

He told a brief story of having been kidnaped by several men in the vicinity of his home last night and "taken for a ride." He was in a critical condition.

RACES JOIN IN CHICAGO CHURCHES TO HONOR LINCOLN

White and Negro Ministers to Exchange Pulpits in Move to Improve Relations.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. — Fitting their commemoration to one of the highest ambitions of Lincoln, a better understanding between Negroes and whites, 40 churches of the two races will join here tomorrow in a mutual exchange of pulpits to honor his birth. The attempt at a closer brotherhood will be the first demonstration of its kind ever witnessed in Chicago.

Sponsored by the commission on inter-racial relations of the Chicago Church Federation, of which Dean Shailer Mathews, dean of the divinity school of the University of Chicago, is chairman, the services will be held at the various churches throughout the day.

The demonstration is also intended to be the impetus behind a movement for allaying race prejudices, now constantly aroused by politicians seeking to capitalize the feeling to their own ends, Dean Mathews said.

Temperature 69 in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 11.—Temperatures went above 65 degrees in parts of Kansas and Missouri today and the weather bureau predicted that fishing and baseball would be more appropriate than winter sports tomorrow. In Topeka the mercury reached 69, a new record. Kansas City, Mo., reported 65½, also a record.

ROCKEFELLER TELLS HOW STEWART DEFIED HIM

Commends Teapot Dome Committee's Work but Says He Is Unable to Aid in Clearing Mystery.

AGREES TO HELP IN TRACING BONDS

Takes Copy of Post-Dispatch Containing Serial Numbers of Securities Bought by Continental.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Teapot Dome was in violent eruption again today, spouting new disclosures and producing additional developments of a grave character. Conspicuous among the events of the day were the following:

The Senate Investigating Committee definitely ascertained that part of the Liberty bonds accruing from the corrupt operations of the Continental Trading Co. were donated to the Republican National Committee, by Harry F. Sinclair in 1923 to pay off debts incurred in the Harding-Coolidge campaign of 1920.

John D. Rockefeller Jr., testifying before the committee, declared that the entire business structure of the country was under suspicion because of disclosures in the oil scandal, and that this suspicion could be removed only by bringing out all the facts. Warmly commending the work of the committee, he declared that he was bitterly disappointed by the refusal of Robert W. Stewart, head of the Standard of Indiana, to answer questions, and by the conduct of other oil men whose testimony has been sought.

Stewart's Indictment Expected.

District Attorney Gordon began laying before the grand jury the evidence of Stewart's refusals to answer, and Stewart's indictment, probably next week, on a charge of contempt of the Senate, is now foregone conclusion.

Members of the Senate committee have become dissatisfied with the efforts of the Treasury Department to trace the remainder of the Continental bonds to the recipients and may resort to outside methods.

In addition to the bonds which Sinclair is known to have contributed to the Republican National Committee, information has been received indicating that still other Continental bonds were received, the donations being made under the names of Republican politicians and their friends.

Adams Sails for Italy.

The committee was informed that John T. Adams, who was chairman of Republican National Committee when the donations were received, sailed today for Italy.

An apparently reliable report was received that James E. O'Neil, former head of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co who remorsefully made restitution to his company of $800,000 in bonds which he received out of the Continental Oil deal, has entered a monastery in Italy. His son, Wayne O'Neil, wanted as a witness, has been found in Italy.

Will H. Hays, "Movie czar," former chairman of the Republican National Committee, and former Postmaster-General, together with Senator T. Coleman du Pont (Rep.) Delaware, will be called to tell about the receipt of the bonds from Sinclair.

Bonds Traced to G. O. P. Fund.

The first definite evidence that the Republican party managers had received a "cut" out of the Continental's corrupt profits was obtained for the committee by a Post-Dispatch reporter. To defray the high costs of the 1920 campaign, the Republican leaders obtained from the Empire Trust Co., of New York, two loans, totaling $266,620. It was known that the balance due on these loans had been paid in 1923 by the present Senator du Pont, of Delaware, with bonds given him by Hays. It was known that Hays had received $75,000 in bonds from Sinclair that year. Investigation of the Continental's operations raised the suspicion that the bonds given by Sinclair to Hays to pay off the party

SENATE BODY WILL HEAR OF INDIANA INJUNCTION ABUSE

Witnesses Called Who Are to Tell Judiciary Committee of Action Against Street Car Men's Union.

GREEN ATTACKS ACTS OF JUDGES

Senators Expected to Accept Proposal to Visit Mine Strike District to View Conditions.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Witnesses will tell the Senate Judiciary Committee the story of the injunction issued by Federal Judge Robert P. Baltzell in Indianapolis against officers of the Street Car Men's Union, as described in the Post-Dispatch of Jan. 15 last. This was announced by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor at the close of today's session, in which explanations of the Indianapolis case figured largely in the testimony of labor witnesses.

The committee will resume its hearings Tuesday on the shipstead anti-injunction bill.

Among those who are expected to testify are Frank Baker and Alexander J. Groesbeck, Indianapolis counsel for the street car men, president William D. Mahon and others.

To Tell of Jail Terms.

In this newly-opened phase of the hearing, over which Senator Norris is presiding, and which is pursuant to the committee's decision of yesterday to investigate the Indianapolis case, the committee will be informed of the jail sentences meted out to Robert B. Armstrong of St. Louis and John M. Parker of Niagara Falls, vice president of the Car Men's Union, for alleged contempt of court in violation of Judge Baltzell's injunction.

Evidence also will be presented to show that Harry Boggs, while posing as president of the local union and advising contempt of the injunction, was an "undercover man" on the payroll of the street car company, drawing $50 a week and operating in accordance with orders received from his employers or their agents. This was promised by President Green today.

The committee also will be informed of the police conduct in "hounding" Armstrong and Parker prior to the granting of the injunction, and of the declaration made by Superior Court Judge Solon J. Carter, branding the police conduct as "criminal."

Says Abuse Fans Discontent.

"I know of nothing that is fanning discontent more than the misuse of the injunction. The American Federation of Labor is in the front line of the forces that meet these destructive forces that are seeking to develop class hatred. The corporation heads are not there. If this war on the organizations of labor is to be continued until those organizations are destroyed the employers of America will find erected upon the ashes a form of organization that will tear them limb from limb. It is because we know this that we come before this committee. If we are to have economic peace we must have economic freedom.

"Is it right that in this modern age the workmen be rendered voiceless by the injunction, rendered speechless by denial of free speech and free press, rendered helpless by denial of the right of assembly—common rights that are fundamentals of American citizenship?"

President Green discussed the company union, the so-called "yellow dog contract" used to place individual workmen under agreement not to join a union or to quit the union if they have joined, as well as other phases of the injunction and its effects. He also placed before the committee a formal and considered statement of labor's attitude toward violence, upon which he touched yesterday. This he did because in many applications for injunctive writs prospective violence is offered as a reason for the issuance of the writ.

Opposed to Lawlessness.

"The American Trade Union does not believe in lawlessness," he said. "It does not believe that the right of humanity, under a government by law, can be secured through violence. We believe that our salvation as trade unionists and citizens depends upon government by law functioning under the duly constituted authorities."

President Green continued to be labor's star witness today, supplemented by John P. Frey, secretary of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades Department, regarded as one of labor's best authorities on the injunction and frequently selected as labor's representative in conferences of national and international scope. Frey presented to the committee an exhaustive history of the development of the writ of injunction decree, citing a large number of specific injunctions and holding the most earnest attention of the committee during his recital.

Two Men Now in Prison.

Armstrong and Parker were sentenced to serve sentences of 90 days each. They began the sentences Nov. 29, and if the hearings continue, as they may, these two victims of one of labor's principal exhibits in what has been termed its "chamber of injunction horrors" may go from a prison cell to a senatorial witness stand.

Branching into another avenue of first hand, on the ground investigation, the committee, or a part of it, may go to Western Pennsylvania and the Pittsburg district to observe the effects of the 300 mine strike injunctions.

With more than a probability of acceptance, the committee this afternoon was invited to visit the Pennsylvania strike districts by President Green. His object was to enable the committee to observe on the ground particularly the effects of the injunction issued by Federal Judge Schoonmaker, including what Green described as "the empty houses, many of them boarded up, vacated by the miners under the injunction order on the plea of the companies that the houses were wanted for new employes."

Chairman Norris of the committee made no announcement of the course the committee might pursue, but it is understood that the invitation is viewed with favor by a majority of the members.

It is one of the main contentions of labor that the injunctions, as issued in labor disputes, does deny the right to trial by jury for acts which, if committed, are misdemeanors, and which, if there were no labor dispute in progress, would be tried in courts of law instead of before an equity Judge as acts of contempt in which the Judge is prosecutor, Judge and jurist.

NINE DEATHS IN GALE THAT SWEEPS ACROSS BRITISH ISLES

Flood Conditions Add to Distress in Valleys and Ireland; Shipping Affected.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The fierce gale which swept the British Isles last night and today and which was sweeping over Denmark tonight caused the loss of nine lives.

Three houses were blown down in Manchester and hundreds in other parts of the islands were damaged. At Liverpool the velocity of the wind reached 104 miles an hour and in London 60 miles an hour. The torrential rains which accompanied the storm increased the flood distress in the English valleys and from Ireland came reports that the counties of Tyrone and Donegal were experiencing the worst inundations in 20 years.

The British oil tanker Lucigen, bound for New York, lost it rudder 500 miles west of Queenstown, and other ships in the North Atlantic reported that they were buffeted by the howling blasts and tremendous waves.

A Birmingham man was killed when a roof collapsed, while a baby in Gloucester was killed by a chimney stack which crashed through the roof. A workman at Lydgate, Lancashire, was crushed to death when bales of hay were blown upon him and the captain of a schooner was drowned in the Mersey at Liverpool when the gale sank a small boat. A woman was killed at Carraore in the Irish Free State.

Knocked Down, Robbed of $350.

Max Adelman, a fruit dealer of 5916A Lotus avenue, was knocked down in front of his home last night when he refused to comply with the demand of an armed man to hold up his hands. The robber took $350.

Rockefeller Jr. Says Stewart Defied Him on Oil Bond Deal

debts had come out of the Continental jackpot.

Following the publication in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch of a list of the serial numbers of most of the $3,080,000 in bonds known to have been distributed by the Continental, Basil Manly, a special correspondent of this newspaper, obtained authority from Chairman Nye of the committee to proceed to New York to compare the Continental bond numbers with the numbers of the bonds received from du Pont.

$25,000 So Far Checked.

The very first number of the Empire's list proved to be a Continental bond. Further comparison, which has not been completed, showed nearly $25,000 of the Republican party bonds to have come from the Continental. The comparison is being continued by another agent of the committee.

It is considered entirely possible that Sinclair, in making his donation to Hays, did not use Continental bonds exclusively, but substituted other bonds as part of the total sums, but the source from which he derived the entire amount seems, beyond doubt, to have been established as the Continental.

Hays, du Pont and Leon W. Baldwin will be subpenaed to testify in a few days, and Baldwin will be asked to bring the bank records with him. Nye was preparing to issue a subpena for Adams, who succeeded Hays as Chairman of the National Committee in 1921, when he was informed that Adams had sailed from New York a few hours before.

The investigating committee is by no means satisfied that Sinclair's $75,000 donation represents all that the Republican committee received out of the Continental deal. It has information indicating that a much larger amount was contributed in comparatively small blocks, under the names of various Republican politicians and their friends. Whether these amounts were furnished by Sinclair, whether they came from other Continental partners, or whether the Republican committee itself was made a partner in the deal under the name of some individual, has not been ascertained.

District Attorney Gordon made the first move toward the indictment of Stewart when he submitted to the Grand Jury a transcript of Stewart's testimony, including his refusal to tell what he knew about the disposition of the bonds. Senators Walsh and Nye will be called as witnesses next week.

Treasury Search Slow.

Since before the inquiry was resumed, Senator Walsh has had the Treasury Department at work tracing the Continental bonds. It has been explained that when the coupons are cashed they are returned to the Treasury Department. It was expected that Treasury experts working back along the route traversed by the coupons, would be able to learn who had the bonds immediately after they left the hands of the Continental. By working forward in the other direction, government counsel originally traced to the Continental the $233,000 in bonds received by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall a month after he leased the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve to Sinclair. It has since been established that Sinclair got these bonds from the Continental and sent them direct to Fall.

Results of the present search, however, have been extremely unsatisfactory to certain members of the committee, and Chairman Nye intends to adopt additional means unless better progress is reported soon.

Reports that the conscience-stricken O'Neil apparently had entered a monastery, were received from government agents who have been vainly endeavoring for nearly three years to serve a subpena on him. It fits in perfectly with what is known of O'Neil's character before he became involved in the Continental's shady operations, and with what has been learned of his subsequent remorse.

As has been explained, the Continental was a bogus corporation which was organized on one day, and on the following day, purchased 33,333,333 barrels of oil from the Humphreys-Mexia Co. at $1.50 a barrel, and resold it immediately at $1.75 a barrel to two companies—the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., of which O'Neil was the head, and the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co., controlled by Sinclair and Stewart. The deal was made possible by the guarantee of the Continental's credit by Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neil although, by doing so, they enabled it to make a profit of several millions at the expense of their own companies. Another man present was Harry M. Blackmer, head of the Midwest Refining Co. owned outright by Stewart's company, the Standard of Indiana.

After taking a profit of more than $3,000,000 on the deal, which it immediately invested in Liberty bonds, the Continental was disbanded, and its records burned. Those are the bonds out of which Fall was bribed, and the purpose of the present inquiry is to learn what came of the remainder. It was inaugurated after the Post-Dispatch had learned that no attempt had been made by the Department of Justice to trace the remainder of the bonds.

Crowd Hears Rockefeller.

John D. Rockefeller Jr., was called to testify today because he was known to have a large interest in the Standard of Indiana, and because he had assured Senator Walsh in letters that he had urged Stewart to tell all he knew. His appearance yesterday resulted in the greatest crush of the hearings.

The younger Rockefeller is still youthful in appearance, despite his graying hair. Short, like his father, but squarely built, his gravely pleasant manner and his apparent sincerity made an extremely favorable impression. He came clean 100 per cent so far as the committee was concerned. Those who have been denouncing "Government investigation" will take little consolation from his testimony. He not only praised the committee's work, but the vigorously denounced the conduct of the oil magnates who have endeavored to obstruct it, and promised to do anything in his power to assist in eliciting the facts.

Will Try to Trace Bonds.

During the course of his testimony, Senator Walsh showed him a copy of Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, containing the numbers of the tainted Liberty bonds, and asked him if he would aid in tracing the bonds. Rockefeller responded with alacrity, asked that a copy of the paper be furnished him and declared he would ask every corporation in which he is interested to examine its securities, to discover whether any of the sinister bonds are among them.

"I want no profits derived from a compromise with what is right," Rockefeller declared. "I think business can be conducted on sound, honest and high grounds. As a stockholder, I am prepared to withdraw my support from any management in whose honor and honesty I can no longer believe."

He disclosed he had more than once urged Stewart to tell the committee all he knew about the malodorous deal out of which came the profits with part of which Fall was bribed for leasing the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve to Sinclair, but confessed that Stewart not only defied him, but had refused to discuss the transaction with him.

Nobody Controls Stewart.

Rockefeller immediately upon taking the stand began to read from a prepared statement. He was eager to emphasize that he, his family and the Rockefeller Foundation do not own controlling interest in the Standard of Indiana. Their total holdings he said was less than 15 per cent. He repeatedly insisted that the Rockefellers had no control over Stewart. He gave the impression, in fact, that nobody could control Stewart.

There was a little ripple of laughter in the room when Senator Walsh opened the session by saying: "Please state your full name, Mr. Rockefeller.

The answer was firm and clear: "John D. Rockefeller Jr."

Rockefeller opened his testimony by reading a prepared statement.

He began by describing the extent of the Rockefeller interest in the Standard of Indiana. He personally owns 402,280 shares of the stock. The Rockefeller Foundation, of which he is the head and under which the Rockefeller charities are financed and administered owns 460,760 shares and slightly more than 500,000 shares are held in trust for the two daughters of John D. Rockefeller Sr., to whom the witness referred only as "my sisters." Also 30,000 shares are owned by the University of Chicago. Rockefeller said neither he nor his family had any control of that institution.

After discussing the criticism directed against business in general as a result of the disclosures of the Continental deal he said:

"I am aware that three of those related to this national scandal are not available as witnesses (Blackmer, O'Neil and Osler). Two more of those involved are before the courts (Sinclair and Fall). Then there is Col. Stewart. I have every confidence in the integrity of Col. Stewart. At the same time I am bitterly disappointed by his refusal to answer all your questions, and I totally disagree with him as to the wisdom of the position he has taken."

Rockefeller then said that, in March, 1925, when the facts about the Continental deal first became known, and it was disclosed that Stewart, badly needed as a witness, was not in the country, Rockefeller had sent him an urgent cablegram stating that the absence of himself and Blackmer, then a fugitive in Europe, was "being misconstrued" and that it was proving "extremely embarrassing to the stockholders, including myself."

"Col. Stewart displayed considerable resentment in response to my cablegram," Rockefeller said. "Later, when I took it up with him personally, he refused to go into the details of the transaction at all." With a rather wry smile the oil magnate added: "It was impossible to discuss the situation with the Colonel, as perhaps you gentlemen can understand."

The committee, full of vivid recollections of Stewart's spectacular bull-dozing and ranting on the witness stand, grinned sympathetically.

Rockefeller disclosed that he had again discussed the subject with Stewart last Monday, following Stewart's arrest on a Senate warrant for his refusal to testify, and his release on application for writ of habeas corpus.

"In that interview," he said, "I expressed my great disapointment at his failure to answer your questions, and my utter disagreement with the position he had taken. My own position was, and is, one of wanting to co-operate in every way in exposing the wrong that apparently has been done."

He delivered his statement with great earnestness, pausing often to look into the faces of the committeemen, apparently to discern the effect it was having. Hemmed in by reporters, confronted by a battery of cameras and in the midst of a jam of spectators the Oil King appeared timid to the verge of nervousness.

At the conclusion of his prepared statement Rockefeller was questioned.

Walsh asked him when he first heard of the Continental. He said that his first information about it came from the newspapers, and explained that his cablegram to Stewart in March, 1925, was sent after the newspapers had reported that Stewart would not be available as a witness for the Government in the trial of the civil suit at Cheyenne, Wyo., to recover Teapot Dome. For his benefit, therefore, Walsh reviewed the history of the Continental deal, as it has been disclosed and asked him if he had been aware of these details when he first interviewed Stewart. Rockefeller said that his information had not been that complete.

"Did you question him about it?" asked Walsh rather sharply.

"As I have said he was unwilling to discuss the details of the transaction at all," Rockefeller replied.

"He contented himself with saying that he had done nothing improper, and that the trade was the best he could make. Even if I had been in possession of the facts which you now give me, I still believe it would have been impossible to induce him to discuss the details."

"As a substantial stockholder," said Walsh, "would it not have been natural for you to question him? It seems to me that one who had a large investment at stake would have the right to request the facts about a transaction of this magniture especially, when it was so very extraordinary."

"Quite rightly, I think, Senator," was the response.

"Well, all I desire to ascertain is whether you have exhausted all means of obtaining all the facts from him," said Walsh.

"I will be very grateful to you, Senator, if you will suggest any way in which I can induce him to disclose those facts," said Rockefeller.

"Can you make any surmise," asked Walsh, "as to how Stewart was so badly out-traded? It appears perfectly obvious that Humphreys at all times was willing to sell the oil at $1.50 a barrel, yet Col. Stewart, who has been described to us, and who impressed us, as one of the shrewdest traders in the business, let O'Neil, Blackmer and whoever was in the Continental, step in, corner the oil and compel him to pay $1.75 a barrel."

"Well," said Rockefeller, grimly, "it certainly is not characteristic of the Colonel to pay more than he has to."

"Do you know anything whatever about the disposition of the Continental bonds?"

"Nothing whatever, except what I have read in the newspapers. I am very earnest in saying that I want to do what I can to help the committee ascertain what was done with those bonds, and I hope that you can suggest a way that I can render assistance."

"The St. Louis Post-Dispatch," said Walsh, "has printed a complete list of the serial numbers of the bonds purchased by the Continental Trading Co. through the Dominion Bank of Canada. Here," he said, holding up Tuesday's edition of the paper, "I show you a copy of it." It has asked its readers to report any of these bonds which may come into their possession, in order that, if possible, they may be traced back to the persons into whose possession they came from the Continental. Do you think you could prompt any of the many companies in which you are interested to make a search of their securities to ascertain whether they have any of these securities?"

"I will be very happy to do so," said Rockefeller. "May I have a copy of the paper?"

"I shall be very glad to supply you," said Walsh.

"Have you made any effort to find out whether, by chance, some of these bonds got into the possession of any of the companies you are interested in?" Rockefeller was asked. "That had not occurred to me."

Rockefeller had come off remarkably well in this examination, partly because of his obvious and sincere desire to help, partly because the committee believed his profession of lack of knowledge of the facts and partly because they were disposed to accept his assertion that he had been unable to control Stewart. However, Senator Ashurt (Dem.), Arizona, let fly one barbed shaft.

Didn't Ask Stewart's Reasons.

"Do you know what prompted Col. Stewart to refuse to answer the questions last week?" he asked. "I haven't any idea," was the reply.

"When you talked to him afterwards, did you make any effort to find out?" "No. I didn't." was the hesitant answer.

"That's all," said Ashurst.

"Because," Rockefeller hurriedly added, "as I have said, he has always refused to discuss it with me."

"Oh, by the way," Walsh interposed sardonically, "I understand that Col. Stewart has received a large number of telegrams from business men over the country congratulating him upon his action in refusing to testify. You didn't by any chance send one of those, did you?"

"I certainly did not," was the vigorous rejoinder, as the spectators laughed. "I am not in sympathy with that position."

Chairman Nye inquired if the Rockefellers had not at one time owned a controlling interest in the Standard of Indiana.

The witness said this was not true, that his father at no time had owned more than 25 per cent of the stock.

Nye reminded Rockefeller that, according to Stewart's testimony, he had been held up for 25 cents a barrel by Blackmer, who was head of a company owned outright by Stewart's company, and that, nothwithstanding, Blackmer had been permitted by Stewart to retain his position.

"I have known," said Rockefeller, "of instances where company officers took a personal profit out of transactions carried on in behalf of their companies, but I regard the practice as indefensible, and I would never stand for it. No man can serve two masters. I am unable to explain Col. Stewart's attitude in that connection."

As the pleasant and youthful looking oil magnate left the witness stand, Chairman Nye thanked him for his co-operation, and Rockefeller in turn expressed gratitude for the consideration which he had received from the committee. He promised, moreover, to read carefully the transcript of Stewart's testimony and his refusal to testify last week, and said that if the perusal suggested any further action he would communicate with Senator Walsh.

Osler Ordered Bond Purchase.

C. S. Howard of Toronto, Canada, inspector of the Dominion Bank of Canada, was called next. He was manager of the New York branch of the Dominion Bank during the Continental transactions. He said he purchased Liberty bonds at the instruction of H. S. Osler, president of the Continental Trading Co. He added that Osler had no connection with the bank except that occasionally the institution availed itself of his legal advice.

"To whom were these bonds delivered?" Walsh asked. "To Mr. Osler, in his capacity as president," Howard replied.

"Have you any knowledge of the disposition of the bonds after they reached Mr. Osler?" "No sir."

It was developed that Osler had a special account aside from his general account. Into this special account went two per cent of the transactions of the Continental Co., Walsh said, and Howard agreed.

The witness said that under Osler's instructions the Liberty bonds purchased with the Continental profits were divided by the bank into four separate packages of equal amounts.

"Then what happened?"

"Mr. Osler would take them away under his arm."

$500,000 Unsecured Loan.

During a painstaking examination of the records of the bank which Howard produced, Walsh developed that the Dominion Bank had lent the Continental Trading Co. $500,000 without any security and at a time when the company's balance was $51,000.

The prosecutor expressed surprise and asked Howard if he ever knew of such a loan to be made before without security.

"I've had no experience with that aspect of the business," Howard said.

Upon further inspection of the files, the witness found that the bank held a note for $500,000 from Humphrey's Mexia Co. to the Continental Co. at the time the loan was made.

After the purchase of $3,080,000 of Liberty bonds by the Continental Trading Co. had been shown, Walsh asked Howard if he knew what the transactions meant.

"Absolutely not," the witness replied. "I would have considered it an impertinence on my part to have asked him. Mr. Osler is a client of the Dominion Bank of the highest standing."

Hays Denies Any Knowledge of Continental Trading Co.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 11.—Will H. Hays, directing head of the Motion Picture Producers' and Distributors' Association, sent this telegram tonight to Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the Senate Public Lands Committee:

"The press has just informed me of dispatches from Washington that your committee may desire me to appear personally. May I take this opportunity of assuring you that I shall be very glad to do this if the committee so desires?

"For the information of your committee may I state that neither at the time I was chairman of the Republican National Committee, nor in the three years thereafter during which the deficit was being raised, did I have any knowledge whatever of the existence of the Continental Trading Co., nor do I have any knowledge now of [illegible] bonds ever owned by it.

COSTES AND LEBRIX ARRIVE TO SPEND WEEK IN NEW YORK

French Flyers Are Greeted Enthusiastically on Arrival From Washington in Plane.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The intrepid French flyers, Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, arrived at Mitchel Field today from Washington, completing a 22,000-mile tour across four continents, and will be the guests of New York for a week.

PERCY WERNER JR. ENDS LIFE; CAUSE OF ACT A MYSTERY

Attorney's Son, Found Dead in Bed at Home, Had Not Seemed Despondent and Left No Note.

GAS AND POISON POSSIBLE AGENTS

Former Newspaper Man, 36, Recently Had Been Engaged in Organizing Students' Camps.

No reason could be advanced by the family of Percy Werner Jr. for his suicide yesterday at his father's home, 5505 Cates avenue. Werner, 36 years old, was the son of a prominent attorney, a former newspaper man and the organizer recently of a system of educational travel for university students.

Members of his family were convinced he killed himself, but said he had shown no signs of despondency. He left no note. Talking over the telephone to a brother Friday midnight, he gave no indication of anything wrong.

He was found in bed at 8:40 a. m. by his aunt, Mrs. Emma Werner. In his room was a strong odor of gas, but it was not determined whether there was a leak or if a burner had been opened intentionally. A bottle bearing an apparently misleading medicine label was beside the body and the Coroner was told it contained poison. A neighboring physician who was called did not seek to establish the exact cause of death, but an inquest will be held tomorrow.

Wife in Kansas City.

Werner's wife is employed on the staff of a Kansas City newspaper. The family said her work, and not marital difficulty, was the reason for the separation. Their two small children are with her. Friends suggested that Werner had been brooding over his wife, a fact which might have contributed to a condition of melancholia.

After graduating from the agricultural school of the University of Missouri in 1914, Werner taught dairy bacteriology in the school for a time. While in this work at Columbia, Mo., he was married. His wife, who came from Quincy, Ill., had been a writer of newspaper syndicate articles. Coming to St. Louis not long after his marriage, Werner was employed for a time on the St. Louis Star, first as a reporter and later as an editorial writer.

Next, he went to Yellow Springs, O., where he established a dairy in connection with the agricultural school at Antioch College. Recently he returned to St. Louis, making his home with his father, and was engaged in promoting an "educational travel camp," to take university students about the country to see places and industries bearing on their studies. He had made good progress in this promotion and friends thought it had reached the assured stage.

At Great Lakes Navy School.

During the World War Werner enlisted in the navy and was assigned as an instructor at the Great Lakes training school. After the end of hostilities he was sent to the Pacific fleet, sailing to Siberia and China. While in the Orient he took advantage of an opportunity for honorable discharge and returned home.

Werner is survived by his father, Percy Werner; four brothers, Courtney, Howard, Saunders Norvell and Matthews, two sisters, Mrs. Dorothy von Schrenk and Miss Virginia Werner, and his widow and children. He was a grandson of Leonard Matthews, 99-year-old St. Louisan.

All Records Broken With 153,576 Admissions, Exceeding Last Year by 30,000.

All attendance records were broken by the twenty-first annual St. Louis automobile show, which closed last night with a total of 153,576 paid admissions. This was an increase of 30,000 over last year. Yesterday's attendance was 23,200. The highest figures for a single day during the week were recorded Friday, when 29,617 were admitted.

The increased attendance, in line with that recorded by shows held in other cities, is due largely, according to Robert E. Lee, manager of the show, to the public interest stimulated by the widespread belief that several of the big interests are entering a price war.

Hardly was the last spectator out of the building at 11 o'clock last night when cars began to be whisked away and decorations removed. All cars—nearly 400 of them—will be out of the building this morning.

Salvador May Seek Loan in U. S.

SAN SALVADOR, Feb. 11.—A resolution seeking authorization to contract for a loan of $3,000,000 with the Marine Bank and Trust Co. of New Orleans was introduced in Congress here today by Finance Minister Lozano. A Commission was appointed to study the proposal.

3000 Join in Central High Alumni Celebration

First Preparatory School West of the Mississippi Was Founded 75 Years Ago; 1775 at Banquet.

Youth was thrust into the background and the memories of three-quarters of a century awakened, at the reunion of Central High School alumni last night, in celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary to the day of the establishment of that institution as the first public preparatory school west of the Mississippi.

Nearly 3000 men and women foregathered using the halls and rooms of Beaumont High, for Central is without a real home of its own. First there was a banquet attended by 1775 of them, and which hundreds more would have joined in had there been facilities. Then there was a mass meeting for all in the auditorium, with representatives of 115 of Central's 119 graduating classes seated on the stage. Not content with this mingling, the loyal sons and daughters met in numerous rooms later by class groups and renewed the tales of text book and lecture days.

In Once Fashionable Gawns.

Fully half of the crowd appeared to date their high school graduation prior to the World War, including many from the 70's, the 80's and the 90's. A few of the women of that latter gay decade appeared in the once fashionable gowns they had worn at commencement. The first class to graduate from Central, in 1858, was represented by one survivor, former Judge C. Orrick Bishop.

Speakers—The surviving first graduate, a spokeswoman for the girls of yore, a former Cabinet member, the two living former principals, the present principal and a recent graduate who is leading the newly formed alumni association—all stressed the theme of loyalty and gratitude to the institution which had done so much for the community. In 75 years Central has had about 9500 graduates and about 20,000 other students.

Leaders of the reunion regarded it as an impressive and successful demonstration of the feeling of the alumni and of the city for "the mother of high schools." Throughout the evening, in speeches and conversation, ran an undercurrent of insistence that Central, now using temporary quarters because of the tornado, must be continued in a new building, under its own historic name.

GROCER, 70, SHOT RESISTING ROBBER

W. H. Johnson's Skull Fractured by Bullet—Assailant Escapes With $10.

A bullet fired by a Negro robber in a holdup last night fractured the skull of William H. Johnson, 70-year-old grocer, of 2117 Pine street. The bullet plowed along the top of his head, inflicting a deep laceration, but did not enter the skull. He was taken to city hospital in a serious condition.

A shabbily dressed Negro entered Johnson's grocery store at 7:30 o'clock and asked for tobacco. Alone in the store, Johnson went to a case and when he turned, looked into the muzzle of a revolver. Instead of raising his hands, as was ordered, he lunged to grasp the revolver. The Negro fired once. Snatching $10 from the cash register, the robber fled through the front door.

Johnson lived in rooms in rear of his store.

AMERICAN ARTISTS HONORED

Three Exhibit Work in French Salon; One From St. Louis.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—A portrait of Mary McCormick, the American singer, by Albert Gihol of Kittery, Me., is one of the features of the classic winter salon which opened its doors to the public today.

Only three Americans are represented in the exhibition, these three having received special invitations from the French artists. The Americans show up well in the salon which experts declare averages the best of any art display here in recent years. Paul Berdanier of St. Louis shows three landscapes while Cary Weston of Virginia, has a bronze bust and bronze medallion. In art circles here it is considered a great honor to American art that of the seven foreigners invited to exhibit three are from the United States.

Anti-Catholic Lecturer Acquitted.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Neva Miller Moss, who says she was once a Roman Catholic nun, was acquitted when tried in nearby Arlington, Va., today on charges of having accepted money under false pretenses in connection with a series of anti-Catholic lectures which she gave earlier in the week at Clarendon and Ballston, Va. The court ruled that Mrs. Moss' testimony, including descriptions of life in the House of Good Shepherd in Detroit, outweighed evidence to the contrary.

AUTO IN WHICH CONVICTS AND DEPUTIES VANISHED IS FOUND

Pistol, Holster and Pocketbook in Car Left at Garage at Decatur, Ill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 11.—The trail of John Burns and Samuel Baxter, youthful convicts who disappeared Tuesday, was followed to Decatur, Ill., today when the automobile of Deputy Sheriff John P. Grove was found there in a garage. The fate of Grove and Deputy Wallace McClure, who dropped from sight while transporting the prisoners to the Pendleton, Indiana, reformatory, was still a mystery, however.

The car was left at the garage Tuesday by two men. Burns and Baxter previously had spent a short time in Danville, Ill., riding in an automobile similar to the one found at Decatur.

In the car were found a .38 caliber pistol and holster and a pocketbook containing receipts made out to McClure. There was a bullet hole in the lower right hand corner of the windshield, evidently from a shot fired from inside. There were no signs of a struggle inside the car.

A check of cars stolen in Decatur since Tuesday showed all had been recovered inside the city limits. It is believed the convicts escaped from here by train as the deputies had a considerable amount of money with them.

Decatur police are watching the car in the hope that one or both of the men may turn up to claim it.

A hat bearing the initials J. P. G identified as belonging to Grove, and a belt from a corduroy coat, believed to have been worn by Burns, were picked up on a road two and one-half miles east of here. Authorities said this indicated the prisoners began a fight for freedom immediately after leaving Lafayette.

The theory that it was near that point that the prisoners overpowered the deputies was further substantiated when Walter Sheets of Maple Point reported today that he heard three shots about 6 a. m. Tuesday.

SUNDAY'S "BOOZE SERMON" FOR MEN THIS AFTERNOON

Opens Sixth Week of Revival Tonight by Preaching for General Public.

Billy Sunday, in his sermon at the Coliseum last night, dismissed as of no importance the old question as to where Cain got his wife, aimed a few shots at the philosophy expounded by Count Keyserling Friday night, and returned to an attack on skeptical professors. His text was from John 7, 17, "If any man will do His will, he shall know of the doctrine."

Today at 2 p. m. the evangelist will preach his "booze sermon" for men only. He will preach again for the general public tonight. "Ma" Sunday departed last night for California, but will return before the scheduled end of the revival two weeks from today. Last night closed the fifth week.

SLAYER OF AMERICAN BORDER PATROL OFFICER IS KILLED

Jose Prado Shot by Chief of Mexican Rural Police When He Resists Arrest.

By the Associated Press.

CALEXICO, Cal., Feb. 11.—Jose Prado, identified as the Mexican who killed Norman G. Ross, American border patrol officer near here last night, was shot and killed tonight at a ranch two and one-half miles from Mexicali, Mex., by Alberto Garcia, chief of the Mexican rural police.

Prado, who was being hunted on both sides of the border, resisted arrest. The search for him had been started after his brother, Julio Prado, was arrested. The automobile in which Ross was killed belonged to Julio Prado. Another Mexican, Francisco Carillo, was sought as the accomplice of Jose Prado.

KEY WEST, Fla., Feb. 11.—Postmaster-General Harry S. New arrived here today for a two weeks' stay to recuperate from a recent severe illness. He was accompanied by Mrs. New and W. Irving Glover, second assistant Postmaster-General. The latter said that New's condition demanded "absolute rest and quiet." The party is at a hotel.

OUR MOST ENJOYABLE CAGE BIRDS

SWEETHEART LOVE BIRDS

The Paroquets

Price $5.95 Per Pair

The body is about the size of a canary—graceful and slender, with a shaft-like tail 3 to 4 inches long.

The plumage is smooth, of a beautiful grass-green color. The back and wings are prettily marked in dark colors and the throat decorated with perfect little polka dots.

Much may be said of the paroquets. The Japanese people have bought them by thousands in the past few years.

The supply comes mostly from Toulouse, Southern France, where they have large aviaries.

The birds are cage raised and much more desirable than the wild trapped paroquets.

PAROQUETS can be kept in pairs or singly, though we advise keeping them in pairs. The male has a devotion to his cagemate that is touching.

¶ A tiny bell hung in the cage or a small mirror arranged at one side seems to give Paroquets a great deal of pleasure. They will often tease each other by making love to the bird in the glass, they learn to swing on the ribbon with bell attached and have great fun in making the bell ring.

They are hardy birds, exceptionally clean in their habits, making them still more desirable.

SAYS JURY HEARD EVIDENCE OUT OF COURT ON HICKMAN

Attorney Walsh, Moving for New Trial, Makes Charge, but Refuses to Cite Any Proof Thereto.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Filing of a motion for a new trial, the first step in legal maneuvering by which defense attorneys hope they may save William Edward Hickman from the gallows, today gave the slayer of Marion Parker a delay until Tuesday in hearing sentence passed.

Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco postponed sentencing of the confessed killer after Jerome K. Walsh, chief defense attorney, entered the request for a new trial. Arguments on the motion were set for Tuesday morning.

If a new trial is denied, the defense has announced, an arrest of judgment will be interposed. If this also is denied, the court procedure calls for the sentencing of the youth who Thursday was found sane by a jury.

Will File Appeal Notice.

After Hickman is sentenced, which under the law, may be to death by hanging or to life imprisonment, Walsh announced he would file a notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court.

County Jailer Frank Dewar said Hickman would be sent to San Quentin prison to await action on the appeal.

In urging another trial, Walsh told Judge Trabucco important evidence had been discovered which was not available for presentation to the jury which found Hickman sane.

The defense motion set forth a score of allegations of errors in the trial.

The alleged grounds for a new trial included: That the verdict was contrary to the law and the evidence; that the Court erred in granting the plaintiff the right to employ jury challenges after the State and the defense had passed the jury; that the defendant had been deprived of his right to a jury trial for murder; that new and material evidence had been discovered; that in violation of United States Constitution the defendant had been compelled to act as a witness against himself; that the court erred in instructing the jury, and that the jury received evidence out of court.

Objects to Use of Confession.

The allegation that the defendant had been compelled to act as a witness against himself was interpreted by attorneys as referring to the use as evidence of Hickman's written confession of the crime.

The possibility of a mistrial being declared was foreseen by Prosecuting Attorneys in the allegation that the jury had "received evidence out of court."

District Attorney Asa Keyes declared he knew nothing about it.

"Of course, the defense will have to prove it before the hearing could be called a mistrial," he said.

Walsh and his associate, Richard Cantillon, declined to amplify the allegation, merely pointing out that it was in the motion. They refused to disclose any evidence they had as proof of such assertion.

Second Trial Ordered.

Hickman and Welby Hunt, his 16-year-old accomplice will have to stand trial for the murder of C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist, District Attorney Asa Keyes announced tonight. Thoms was shot when his store was robbed, the youths have admitted on Christmas eve, 1926.

The announcement came as a surprise. It was generally believed that the second charge against Hickman would be dropped since the jury found him sane at the time he killed the girl.

Hickman, together with Hunt, must appear before Superior Judge Hardy Wednesday morning for trial. A short continuance is expected by the prosecution.

The youthful slayer today declared from his cell that he "felt pretty good" and that he was eager to take the stand against his former friend, Hunt.

Hickman came into court this morning with a jaunty step and a smile on his face, prepared to hear the court pass sentence on him. He was before Judge Trabucco waiting to hear the sentence when Walsh moved for the new trial.

The youth stood erect and with concentrated attention when Judge Trabucco read the terse facts of the crime and reiterated to him that he had been found sane when tried on the plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity," which he had entered to the kidnaping and murder indictments. The Court then asked if the defendant was ready to be sentenced, at which point Judge Trabucco paused.

Jerome Walsh, chief defense counsel, promptly interposed the motion for a new trial which he had drawn up ready for the moment. After it had been read, Judge Trabucco ruled that the sentencing of the defendant would be postponed until Tuesday.

SCOTTISH SALMON FISHING RENTALS AS HIGH AS $10,000

More Than $62,000 Paid for Water Rights Along River Dee Alone This Season.

By the Associated Press.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Feb. 11.—Fishermen on Scottish rivers, where the salmon season opened today, must carry heavily loaded pocketbooks, for salmon fishing is a rich man's sport in Britain. For an average fisherman it is estimated each salmon landed costs the equivalent of 8 pounds (roughly $40).

Fresh salmon is a summer delicacy, but a small portion garnished with a sprig of parsley and a slice of cucumber costs five shillings ($1.25) in a London restaurant. For this reason the only salmon most Britons ever get comes from America in tin cans.

In Scotland as in England, and Wales, a fisherman rents his fishing ground just as he rents his house. Huge figures are paid for stretches of water. Three miles of the River Dee, for instance, has just been rented for 2000 pounds ($10,000) for the season, which lasts until November. Rentals paid by rod fishermen on the Dee for the present season total more than $62,[illegible].

U. S. COURT FINES IRONTON SHERIFF $50 FOR CONTEMPT

S. E. Fitts Accused of Granting Liberties to Dry Act Prisoner.

Federal Judge Faris fined Sheriff Sanford E. Fitts of Ironton, Mo., $50, and assessed court costs of $85 yesterday for contempt of court in granting liberties to a St. Louis saloonkeeper sentenced to the Iron County jail for a violation of the Volstead Act.

The prosecution of Sheriff Fitts is part of a Federal investigation of preferential treatment of bootleggers by Sheriffs of Missouri counties to whose jails bootleggers were committed for short terms.

The Government charged that Sheriff Fitts had permitted Joseph Kroupa, a St. Louis saloonkeeper convicted of violating the Volstead act, to leave the Ironton jail to go on fishing trips to Lake Killarney, three miles away, and to go on drinking trips to Dew Drop Inn, a roadhouse.

Also surviving are three sons, John and Edward of St. Louis; Lee, of Newburg, and two other daughters, Mrs. Nellie Carry of St. Louis and Mrs. Frank Brammer of Rogers.

SHAW'S GARDEN SHOW OF ORCHIDS AT ITS BEST

Rare Jungle Plants to Continue on Display Until End of Month.

The loveliness of the orchid show at Shaw's Garden has been brought to its utmost degree for today and the remainder of the show, which began two weeks ago and will continue until the end of the month. The display literally is unmatched by any other public garden in the world. It embraces the selected best of the world's finest public collection of orchids.

Hundreds of additional rarities have been brought in from the 1600-acre extension garden at Gray's Summit. The blossoms are crisply fresh. Their evanescent beauty is at its brightest, and their fragrance — particularly of the golden-throated flora de Mayo — pervades the floral display house with a subtle enchantment.

Weird no less than lovely flowers of the jungle have their place in the new exhibit. An elongated cluster of tiny flowers with a ponderous scientific name looks like a refined corn tassel—one that belongs in a vase instead of a silo.

It is on the mound—a rounded mass of daintily colored blossoms, green foliage, and soft gray stone—that forms the center of the exhibit. Near it, contrasting to the bright Tulipans and flores de Mayo, another oddity with green petals and a strangely red-flecked throat.

The strange and beautiful meet in a huge blossom, much larger than those about it, which surmounts the mound. It is a three-way hybrid, Brasso - Laelic - Cattleya, blooming for the first time in this country. Petals, green in the opening flower, become a delicate cream at maturity. The inner throat, large and rich, is an unusual green-gold, with a lip which seems to be a mauve over this same strange gold. Upon closer acquaintance this flower's admirers may discard its scientific for its familiar name, and call it "Evelyn."

An exhibit demonstrating the new process, worked out by Miss Elinor Alberts of the garden staff, for growing orchids from their microscopic seed, continues to be a leading attraction of the show.

Visitors to the display have asked in such numbers to see the spring-blooming witch hazel, now in flower as told last week by the Post-Dispatch, that it has been labeled. It may be seen at the right of the path beside the garden wall by a 150-foot stroll south from the main entrance of the garden.

BLOODHOUNDS USED IN HUNT FOR MISSING 82-YEAR-OLD MAN

Son Offers Reward of $100 for Information Concerning Aged Granite City Resident.

After searching unsuccessfully with bloodhounds for Jacob Buehrer, 82 years old, who disappeared from his home, 2533 Edward street, East Granite City, Thursday morning, members of his family have appealed to police of St. Louis and East St. Louis to assist in the quest. A reward of $100 has been offered for information as to his whereabouts.

John J. Buehrer, son of the aged man, placed bloodhounds on the trail when his father failed to return home Thursday. These trailed him to the McKinley interurban tracks near his home and inquiry disclosed an elderly man of his description had traveled to St. Louis Thursday, getting off the car at Broadway, near the McKinley station. There all trace was lost.

He wore a full beard and was dressed in a black overcoat with plush collar, and black gaiters.

YOU keep on piling coal into the furnace, yet the bedrooms never seem warm enough. For as fast as the heat comes up through the registers, a good share of it leaks out through the roof.

But how to stop this heat-waste? Just roof your house with Carey Cork-Insulated Shingles. These shingles not only give weather-protection and fire-retardance, but they insulate as well. Having an under-surface of cork, the Carey Cork-Insulated Shingle is equivalent in insulating value to a half-inch layer of special insulating material. It keeps the heat from escaping through the roof in winter; it keeps the heat from coming in through the roof in summer. It makes bedrooms comfortable all the year 'round—and saves fuel at the same time!

This new Carey Cork-Insulated Shingle improves the appearance of your house, too. The 50% greater thickness provides a deep shadow-line. The shades offered—Indian Sage Red, Silver-Green, Blue-Black, and the handsome, new Carey Blend—are the most approved for roofs.

Remember—this shingle costs no more than most ordinary shingles. Come in and see it—now!

PERMITS USE OF CINDER BLOCKS IN SOME BUILDINGS

Commissioner Christopher Issues Regulation Which Recently Failed of Passage by Aldermen.

Although the Board of Aldermen, by a tie vote Oct. 7, refused to pass an ordinance authorizing the use of concrete and cinder blocks in the walls of residences and other buildings not more than two and a half stories high, Building Commissioner Christopher has issued a regulation permitting the use of such materials.

A Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday called the Commissioner's attention to a circular issued by a large lime and cement company to its trade, in which the blocks are advertised and it is stated that Commissioner Christopher and his superior, Director of Public Safety Brod, have approved such materials. In response to an inquiry, Commissioner Christopher admitted this was true, and he then issued a formal statement, which he said he would have issued anyway.

City Counselor Quoted.

The formal statement quotes an opinion by City Counselor Muench that it is within the Building Commissioner's discretion to specify any "incombustible material" for small building walls, provided the material is of such quality "as to insure ample safety and security to life, limb and neighboring property."

There are about ten firms dealing locally in concrete and cinder blocks, and Building Commissioner Christopher says he has authorized use of such materials on the following conditions: Blocks must bear the name of the makers, must be submitted to the city for tests as to strength and water resistance; must be laid in Portland cement; must have a brick, stucco or veneer finish, and must not be used in buildings more than two and a half stories high or in walls less than 12 inches thick.

The ordinance for use of these blocks, which failed of passage by the Board of Aldermen, was sponsored by Alderman Schwartz, who said it would decrease construction costs, particularly of small homes and garages. It was opposed by Alderman Brinkman, who declared the tornado had convinced him the building code should be made more rigid rather than weakened. Brinkman added that St. Louis fire underwriters class hollow concrete blocks with frame construction and impose a premium twice as high as upon a similar brick building.

Commissioner Christopher expressed the opinion that the Aldermen should have passed the ordinance. He pointed out that the only distinction in the authorization by regulation of his office, rather than by ordinance authority, is that he can withdraw permission for its use at any time in his own discretion when the material is not particularly specified as acceptable by ordinance.

Recently, in the construction of his new home in the 6000 block on Cabanne avenue, Commissioner Christopher used concrete cinder blocks for the interior walls, the exterior walls being veneered with granite.

CITY HALL TO BE CLOSED FOR LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Judge Ittner to Address DeMolay Members in Pilgrimage to Emancipator's Tomb.

In observance of Lincoln's Birthday, a legal holiday which this year falls on Sunday, all City Hall offices will be closed all day tomorrow. Automobile license seekers therefore will be unable to obtain their tags before 9 a. m. Tuesday.

A pilgrimage of St. Louis members of the Order of DeMolay will be made to the tomb of Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Ill., today in honor of the birthday of the Emancipator. Circuit Judge Ittner, Masonic Grand Master of Missouri, will be the speaker at Lincoln's tomb at ceremonies to be attended by several thousand members of the order from Missouri and Illinois. The St. Louis delegation will leave o a special train over the Illinois Central at 8 a. m. and will return tonight. About 600 DeMolays and their friends are expected to make the trip.

URGES DEFEAT OF HAWES BILL

Missouri Board Opposes Restriction on Prison-Made Goods.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11. — The Missouri State Penal Board has written every Congressman and United States Senator, including Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri, urging defeat of the Hawes bill to restrict sale of prison-made goods in competition with products of free labor, it was learned at the penitentiary today. The letters assert passage of the bill would mean an additional burden of about $2,500,000 every two years to Missouri taxpayers.

The penal board points out such a law would virtually compel the State Penitentiary to close many of its factories and rely upon State appropriations for support, ending any hope of making the prison self-supporting, or nearly so.

LABORER LIVING AT CITY LODGING HOUSE AUTO VICTIM

Jesse Miller, 67 years old, a laborer living a tthe Municipal Lodging House, died yesterday at City Hospital of injuries suffered Friday when struck by an automobile at Franklin avenue and Third street.

George Bauer, salesman of 3405 Keokuk street, drove the car that struck Miller. He said that Miller stepped from behind another car, full in the path of his machine, and that he did not have time to stop. Miller suffered a skull fracture, a broken right leg and internal injuries.

Bauer was arrested and released pending his appearance at the Coroner's inquest Tuesday.

UNSECURED LOANS BY BANKS HELPED TO MEET HARDING CAMPAIGN DEFICIT

participated in by a number of leading financiers and officials of the Republican organization at which arrangements were made for loans by a number of national banks, trust companies and investment houses to cover these deficits. These loans, it is understood, were made without any security whatever, upon notes signed by officers of the Republican National Committee or the Ways and Means Committee of that orgainzation.

List of Borrowings.

Among the loans which were made by these banks according to the present information of the committee were the following:

Liberty National Bank of New York, $125,000.

First National Bank of Boston, $50,000.

Continental & Commercial Bank of Chicago, $50,000.

State Bank of New York, $75,000.

Crocker National Bank of San Francisco, $25,000.

Hornblower & Weeks, $100,000.

Old Colony Trust of Boston, $50,000.

Empire Trust Co. of New York, $100,000.

Mellon National Bank of Pittsburg, amount unknown.

In addition to the loans listed above the committee has evidence that the Empire Trust Co. made a loan of $166,620.85 to the Republican National Committee to cover an outstanding loan of equal amount at the New York Trust Co. There is reason to believe that the original amount of this loan was much larger. This loan of the New York Trust Co. is regarded by the committee as having particular significance in connection with the present investigation because of the following facts:

1. This loan was made on April 25, 1922, less than three weeks after Secretary Fall awarded the lease of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair.

2. The New York Trust Co. is the bank in which the committee has found a large account of Harry M. Blackmer, one of the principal participants in the Continental Trading Co. transactions, who is now exiled in Europe, defying the Senate Committee and the courts to compel him to testify. Several hundred thousand dollars of Continental Trading Co. slush fund Liberty bonds are understood to have been traced by the committee to Blackmer's account in this bank.

How the Story Was Turned Up.

Analysis of the testimony regarding these bonds given in 1924 by Leroy W. Baldwin, an officer of the Empire Trust Co. of New York, furnished the writer with the first lead upon which suggestions were made to Senators Nye and Walsh leading to the recent disclosures. Evidence now in the hands of the committee gave significance to this testimony which was not understood when it was originally given four years ago, before the existence of the Continental Trading Co. fund had been discovered. Baldwin's testimony also checked with testimony given by Will H. Hays, Harry F. Sinclair and other witnesses who appeared before the committee at that time in confirming the theory that the bonds used to pay off the loans at the Empire Trust Co. were derived from the Continental slush fund.

An important clew was furnished by Baldwin's testimony that the $75,000 of Government bonds sold by Gen. du Pont yielded the sum of $74,718.87, which was used in paying off the balance of the loans. This showed that the bonds were sold at a net price of approximately 99⅝, when due allowance was made for commissions, this was found to be approximately the price of Liberty 3½-per cent bonds on the date of this transaction. This was materially higher than any other Government bonds were selling for at that time, because of the important tax exemption feature carried by this particular issue.

As all of the $3,080,000 profits of the Continental Co. were invested in Liberty Loan 3½-percent bonds, this evidence impressed Senator Nye and other members of the committee, who considered it sufficient to justify a searching investigation.

Serial Numbers Checked.

The writer then went to New York with a special investigator of the committee and personally checked the numbers of the bonds used to pay off the Empire Trust Co. loan which were obtained from the brokers through whom they were sold.

Comparison of these numbers with the official list of Continental bonds was accepted by Chairman Nye and Senator Walsh as conclusive evidence that a large part of them came from the Continental slush fund.

In tracing the methods used to pay off the loans, growing out of the Harding campaign to ascertain whether they were paid from bonds connected with the oil scandals it is probable that the committee will find it necessary to subpena many of the leading financiers of the nation. Important disclosures will be made during the next few days as a result of the dragnet investigation which the committee is now conducting along the lines of the new evidence which has come into its hands.

Youth Wounded by Chicken Thief.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Ok., Feb. 11.—William Morris Jr., 17, was in a Vinita hospital tonight in a serious condition as a result of a bullet wound suffered last night when fired upon by a chicken thief. The bullet pierced the youth's lung. The unidentified assailant escaped.

FUNERAL OF MRS. VAN RIPER AWAITS ARRIVAL OF SONS

Widow of Investment Broker Died at Sedalia on Way Home From Colorado.

Funeral services for Mrs. John C. Van Riper of St. Louis, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack Friday night at Sedalia, where she had stopped to visit friends on her return from a visit to Colorado, will await the arrival of her two sons, Walter Van Riper of Denver, Colo., and George Van Riper, who resides in California.

Mrs. Van Riper, who was the widow of John C. Van Riper, St. Louis investment broker, who died two years ago, was coming to visit her daughter, Mrs. Guy W. Oliver of Price road, St. Louis County, when stricken. It was said at the Oliver home that funeral services probably would be held from Christ Church Cathedral.

BUS MERGER COMPLETES TRANS-CONTINENTAL LINE

Pickwick Corporation and Greyhound System Operating 400 Coaches Over 50,000 Miles.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The first trans-continental bus route in the United States, stretching from the Pacific Coast to Philadelphia and ultimately coming to New York, was completed today. The bus line, operating more than 400 busses over 50,000 miles of this country and linking more than 1000 cities, towns and communities, resulted from the merger of the Pickwick Corporation and the Greyhound Bus System.

Fare on a trans-continental bus trip is said to be a trifle more than one-third of existing railroad rates. Stopovers at hotels owned and operated by the bus corporation bring actual expenses to an amount approximating ordinary rail costs. Time required, however, is several days or more longer than on train.

The new line is known as the Pickwick-Greyhound System. It is operating busses on 430 schedules daily. Pickwick statistics for 1919 disclose operating profits of $19,952 and 90,815 passengers carried, compared with $735,544 and 1,534,824 [illegible] in 1926. The company reported $181,767 paid in cash dividends in 1926. It is incorporated in California and operates there under direct supervision of the Railroad Commission, which fixes its rates.

The Greyhound system has been a closed corporation.

CHICAGOAN SAYS ST. LOUIS IS FAVORED IN FREIGHT RATES

Tariffs on Grain Give This City Advantage, He Tells I. C. C. Examiners.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—St. Louis enjoys a shipping advantage over Chicago, because a Chicago Board of Trade executive asserted it costs 4 cents less to ship Iowa grain to St. Louis than to Chicago.

Also, continued Jack S. Brown, manager of the board's transportation department, before the Interstate Commerce Commission examiners here, St. Louis has a rate on southbound grain that is 7 cents under the tariff applicable to grain through Chicago. Brown asked for a readjustment of grain rates on movements from Iowa to St. Louis and Chicago.

The Board of Trade executive developed the comparable rates by cross-examining G. A. Hoffelder, assistant traffic manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad.

100,000 Pledge Votes to Al Smith.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The Tammany Society of Illinois announces it has obtained 100,000 signed pledge cards indorsing Governor Alfred Smith of New York for the Democratic Presidential nomination. The event was celebrated tonight by a banquet in the Society's club rooms. One million signatures promising to vote for Governor Smith if he will enter the race are sought by the society.

WILLIS OUTLINES PLATFORM FOR HIS PRESIDENTIAL HOPES

Would Bury World Court Issue and Maintain Administration Nicaraguan Policy.

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 11.—In his first prepared address since announcing his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio, tonight outlined a platform of 10 "planks" at a Republican party banquet here.

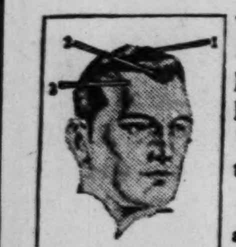
Facing a primary fight with Secretary Hoover in his own State the Ohio Senator made no reference to other candidates and confined himself to his platform which called for the following:

Maintenance of "an old-fashioned William McKinley Republican protective tariff; continuation of the present program of tax reduction and debt retirement; solution of the flood control, as a national problem, within the next two years; independent action by America in world affairs and outside of the League of Nations; burial of the World Court "issue as a campaign issue in 1928;" continuance of "friendly relations with Mexico with every encouragement for stronger development;" maintenance of the administration Nicaraguan policy; no cancellation of World War debts; an "American program" of restrictive immigration with "the idea that America must remain American," and obedience to the law and to the Constitution.

Nullification, he contended has "raised its horrid head again in certain quarters" and he called upon the party to "speak in no uncertain terms in favor of maintenance of law and order and the upholding of the Constitution."

"WE GROW HAIR"

(Registered U. S. Patent Office No. 187012)



Watch These Points

When your hair begins to recede at the temple (3) frontal (2), or get thin on the crown (1), nature is painlessly warning you that you have been neglecting your scalp and baldness is surely approaching. Heed this positive warning and save your hair by having The Thomas' correct the scalp disorder that is causing your loss of hair.

HONEST merit and ability to really grow hair on bald heads has gained The Thomas' exclusive legal and moral right to use the slogan "We Grow Hair" and register it in the U. S. Patent Office.

The same high professional standards which have gained The Thomas' this distinction have caused their expansion into forty-two offices throughout the United States and Canada and won for them recognition as "The World's Leading Hair and Scalp Specialists." All Thomas' offices are in charge of skilled specialists who do nothing but examine and treat scalp disorders.

The Thomas' End Dandruff and Prevent Baldness

If you are bald or becoming bald as a result of dandruff or some other scalp disorder, you can afford to consult only the "leading scalp specialists"—The Thomas'. Their fifteen-year proved treatment is specifically adapted to your own scalp disorder. It eliminates dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp and the baldness producing germ and results in a growth of strong new hair within a remarkably short time.

Call at The Thomas' office today for a complete scalp examination without charge or obligation. Let them show you what they are doing for others and what they can do for you.

BILLY SUNDAY SWATS KEYSERLING'S 'BUNK'

Calls Count's Lecture '$1000 Joke' and His Philosophy 'High-Brow Whoop-la.'

Count Hermann Keyserling, who is by way of being an expert on souls, said things in his lecture Friday night which yesterday evoked from the Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday, himself a soul-expert of parts, loud cries of pain and hoots of derision.

The Count made his stand out in the West End, where souls are discussed, if at all, with decorum and restraint. Billy Sunday is located on Jefferson avenue in the new Coliseum, where daily the famous evangelist endeavors to swat the devil with a chair and jerk souls out of hell by main strength and awkwardness. The two soul-experts, therefore, approach the subject from separated viewpoints.

"Hey!" roared Billy, sashaying into the Coliseum yesterday afternoon, for his vesper services, "I've just been reading this guy Keyserling's bunk. Do they pay $1000 for jokes like that? I consider his lecture the most poisonous free love, Godless sort of public speech that a second-story nut ever spilled out of his beard. It's a lot of the worst anti-God, anti-Christ, anti-moral bunk St. Louis ever heard, and, if all these foreign counts can do is to attempt to bring American manhood and womanhood down to the barnyard level, let them keep their contaminating bilge from our citizens."

"Ma" Sunday reminded Billy it was time for his sermon. 'I'll see you later," he told the reporter. "I'll answer this stuff in full. Later on I'm going to answer it from my pulpit.'

"That Free Love Junk."

At the Gatesworth Hotel, after the sermon, Billy took up where he had left off.

"If they want to pollute Europe with that free-love jurk, all right, but America, never! And St. Louis? Not on your tintype, not while I am here fighting for God, honor and native land. According to this little Keyser (for that's what 'ling' in the German means—Keyserling), all a man or woman has to do is to get into a goofy pickle called cosmic harmony and then they will be free to do as they please. Every man a law unto himself. The heart of the Count's whole address was to let every man be a law unto himself and throw morality away.

"Say-y-y, that cosmic harmony stuff is nothing but high brow whoop-la. I wonder how those folks felt who came out in soup and fish to hear this foreign nibbynibs uplift the Junior League by telling them 'Go to it, girls, morality doesn't mean anything. The Junior League girls may not know yet what cosmic harmony means but the average American girl knows at once when she has been handed any variety of lemon.

"Before Christ and Christian morality came into this world, who doesn't know what a miserable moral mess the best intelligence of the earth brought it into? And yet, this so-called Russian count comes into this fair city and dares to say that even Jesus Christ was free in the sense that morality didn't mean very much to him. Such philosophy is an insult to every virtuous woman in St. Louis. When this philosophy comes to pass, civilization is through.

Would Wreck Society.

"Civilization and society rest on God, on Christ and on the Bible. Count Keyserling's doctrines, if practiced, would wreck morals, society and civlzaton and all that makes life worth living. He says morality doesn't mean much to great souls. Then, according to that philosophy, only immoral men and women are great. Then Washington, Lincoln, Wilson were not great, for they all believed in and lived moral lives, and Coolidge is not great, for he believes in and lives a moral life. Count Keyserling's doctrine, if put into practice, would turn our churches into bawdy houses.

"He says strict morality means cowardice; he says it means a narrow outlook. Then, if that is so, the immoral man and the immoral woman are braver and have the farthest and most comprehensive outlook on life. Count Keyserling says that really great souls realize that there is 'an underworld in each of us' and, of course, the inference is that, this being so, and every man being a law unto himself, he is at liberty to live this underworld life. He says 'the old culturie, the old morality, has come to an end, for it has grown stale.' I regard such a statement as an insult to God and every virtuous man and woman and an encouragement to vice.

"I have nothing against society girls or society people. I am for them. But it gives me the pip to see a lot of supposedly intelligent people making such a fuss over an imported billy goat, as if they had a tablespoon of hot mush in their mouths, without knowing what such a man really stands for."

Count Keyserling, who reached St. Louis Wednesday evening from Chicago, is a house guest of Harry Langenberg of 49 Westmoreland place. He will leave this afternoon for Columbia, where he will address the girls of Stephens College.

10 Killed, 8 Injured in Mine.

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—Ten men were killed and eight injured by the explosion of a box of dynamite in a mine in the Donetz coal basin in Southern Russia, says a telegram received her. The explosion occurred when a German foreman of the Tiessen Co., which works the mine, attempted to open the box.

OTTO KRAMER ESTATE GOES TO RELATIVES AND CHARITY

Many Charitable Organizations Named in Will of Late Executive of Dry Goods Firm.

Relatives and charitable organizations receive the estate of Otto Kramer, territorial manager for the Ely-Walker Dry Goods Co., who died Feb. 3 at the age of 80 years, under his will filed in Probate Court yesterday. The value of the estate was not estimated.

To his daughter, Mrs. Chester L. Harvey, Kramer left his residence at 3626 Flora place. A second daughter, Mrs. Rudolph Kasting, receives property at 2823 Olive street. After charitable bequests totaling $4100 and a $2000 trust fund in favor of a brother, Alvin Kramer, are deducted, the residue of the estate is to be divided equally among Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Kasting, a third daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Henley, and a son, John, is named executor of the estate.

Charitable bequests include $1000 to the St. Louis Altenheim; $500 each to the Children's Outing Farm at Eureka, Mo., the German Protestant Orphans' Home and the Convent of the Good Shepherd. The will directs that $200 is to be given to each of the following charities: St. Louis Provident Association, St. Vincent de Paul Society, St. Joseph's Orphan Home, St. Francis Orphanage, Mount St. Rose Sanitarium, Bethesda Charities, St. Louis Tuberculosis Society and the Little Sisters of the Poor.

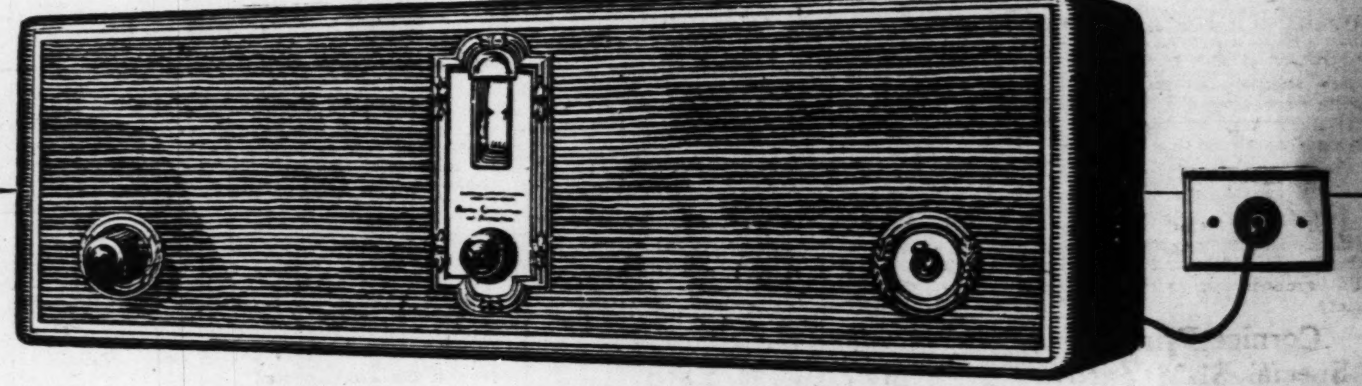
the "wonder box" that has become the most popular of all Radiolas



RCA RADIOLA 17. The "wonder box" that operates from the electric light circuit (110 volt, 60 cycle, A. C.) as simply as an electric fan. Wonderfully balanced sensitivity, selectivity and tone fidelity. Built of the finest tested materials. The entire set self-contained in a fine mahogany cabinet. Equipped with Radiotrons, $157.50

THE great staff of engineers in the service of the Radio Corporation of America spent two years in the laboratories perfecting and testing Radiola 17 before it was offered to the public.

Their goal was to design a moderate priced instrument, extremely simple to operate, but so perfect in performance that it would meet the most exacting requirements of fine broadcast reception.

They achieved this goal—and more—for they revolutionized radio when Radiola 17 made its spectacular debut.

The radio industry quickly realized that this new receiver, with its simple operation from the electric light outlet, was the instrument the whole country had been waiting for. The new principles of design developed by RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse in Radiola 17 opened a new era in radio manufacture.

Radiola 17 is the most popular Radiola ever offered because it meets these exacting tests of a fine radio instrument:

Sensitivity—ability to pick up broadcasting stations, near and far, over the entire broadcast range.

Selectivity—ability to select the program from one station to the exclusion of all others.

Tone Fidelity—ability to reproduce faithfully—realistically—music and voice as transmitted from the broadcasting station.

Simplicity—inexpensive operation as simple as an electric lamp or electric fan, at the touch of the finger.

Dependability—long life, with a minimum of upkeep—resulting from precision manufacture with the finest materials under competent engineering direction.

LOSS OF 700 LIVES LAID TO POLICY OF U.S. IN NICARAGUA

Senator Wheeler Says Treatment of Country Is "Most Disgraceful" Episode of "Dollar Diplomacy."

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 11.—Assailing the Nicaraguan policy of the Washington Government, Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, declared here today that recent activities of the United States in the little republic have constituted "a war waged privately by Calvin Coolidge in defiance of the Constitution, without the consent of Congress or the approval of the American people."

Nicaragua, he asserted in an address before the City Club of Cleveland, has been reduced from "a sovereign state" to "a Wall street protectorate."

He charged the Coolidge administration with having "sacrificed at least 700 lives" in Nicaragua, "deviaed from the policy of economy, squandered countless thousands of our public treasury, cost our country the good will of all South and Central America, and permitted certain Wall street bankers finally to fasten their financial tentacles upon the unfortunate Nicaraguan nation and suck it dry."

Most Disgraceful Chapter.

"We have dealt harshly enough with Haiti, Santo Domingo and other Carribean republics," he continued, "but our treatment of Nicaragua is the most disgraceful chapter of our whole course of 'dollar diplomacy,' and every real American who knows the whole ghastly history of this crime must hang his head in shame."

He said that "if the American people, hopeless, apathetic, duped by the systematic propaganda of the State Department, had not lost every memory of true American tradition, they would protest so loudly that this administration would stop this unjustifiable war and the killing of innocent men, women and children. When the history of our times is written truthfully, this administration will be called to account for its unwarranted conduct, which has been actuated solely for the benefit of a very few Wall street banking firms, no matter how much they may seek to hide behind a paper canal."

Using such terms as "sophomoric utterances" and "pious platitudes," Senator Wheeler criticised President Coolidge's recent speech before the Pan-American conference at Havana. Mr. Coolidge's reference to the Golden Rule, in particular, aroused the Montanan's displeasure. He declared it "the Golden Rule of Wall street bankers," and asserted that Mr. Coolidge "when he implied that for the last 20 years the United States in its dealings" with the Caribbean countries had followed this precept, had "revealed anew his lack of understanding of the facts surrounding our dealings with these countries."

And even as Mr. Coolidge was delivering his address, the Senator said, the Havana newsboys were "selling 'extras' telling about American bombing planes scattering death and terror over defenseless Nicaraguan villages."

Swinging into a review of Nicaraguan history, Mr. Wheeler said that the years had unfolded in that country "a long, sordid story of greed, intrigue, treachery and unrestrained violence."

Revolutions Fomented.

He charged that United States Consuls have encouraged and aided revolutions "to further the financial interests of certain Wall street banks"; that the Government itself had acted as a "debt collector" and "bond broker." He said, too, that "influential officials in the State Department" after assisting in certain "deals" had on "at least two occasions" resigned and found employment "with the bankers they benefited."

Senator Wheeler mentioned Lawrence Dennis, former charge d'affaires in Nicaragua.

American banking firms, he said, had "looted" Nicaragua's public funds, "instigated revolution after revolution" and "exploited the unhappy Nicaraguans in much the same manner that Imperial Rome ruled its conquered provinces." He named these firms as J. and W. Seligman & Co., and Brown Brothers.

Since 1909, when American forces were first landed in Nicaragua, Wheeler said, the marines have been used for the advantage of American financial houses. He charged they had been employed to keep in office Nicaraguan officials who favored the American interests, but that on one occasion when a president inimical to the American banking houses had been put in office, the marines were withdrawn, inviting a revolution which quickly followed.

The Montana Senator concluded with a plea that the United States should not "substitute for 'righteousness exalteth a nation' any maxim that sounds even remotely like 'the world be damned.'"

"The world simply does not intend to be damned by any imperial individual or any imperial nation," he asserted. "That kind of junkerism, however camouflaged to suit our times, will win us neither honorable nor lasting victories. The universe in which we are living is a moral universe. In the end, right not might; justice, not injustice; truth, not lie, prevails."

RIVER FRONT WELCOME TO LINDBERGH TUESDAY

Later in Afternoon He Will Fly Over St. Louis, East St. Louis and the County.

The reception to be tendered by St. Louis Tuesday afternoon at the river front to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in honor of the completion of his 9000-mile Central American flight, is likely to mark the last formal appearance here of his famous monoplane, the "Spirit of St. Louis."

When he leaves St. Louis again, presumably within the next two weeks, it is understood Lindbergh will fly the plane to Washington and there turn it over to the Smithsonian Institution, to which he informally has pledged the airplane for display alongside the other famous airplanes of American flying history.

Lindbergh is expected to arrive at Lambert-St. Louis Field tomorrow night, after a nonstop flight from Cuba which should bring him to St. Louis an hour or more after sundown. He will be formally welcomed home on the following day, when pupils of the public, private and parochial schools will gather on the river front to wave a welcome as he swings overhead in the "Spirit of St. Louis."

He is scheduled to arrive at the river front at 2:30 p. m. and, after performing evolutions for the throng there, will fly over every section of St. Louis, East St. Louis and the county. Residents have been urged by the Reception Committee to gather on the roofs, where conditions permit, to wave a welcome to the flyer.

Wednesday Lindbergh will be guest of honor at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon. That will end the formalities until Feb. 20, when he will return to the air mail service, carrying a load of mail northward on that day and returning on the following day with another load. He is expected to leave for Washington early next week.

Lindbergh Takes 20 Passengers in Flights Over Havana.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Feb. 11.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, having demonstrated to a series of distinguished passengers the wonders of the air, returned to earth today to speak again on the thing nearest to his heart—aviation.

To 600 business men and diplomats who gathered at a luncheon at the Casino Club in his honor, given by the American Chamber of Commerce, he said there is nowhere greater need of air lines than in the West Indies and Central America, where travel is ordinarily so difficult.

The aviator, who is soon to turn the Spirit of St. Louis toward the city for which it was named, flew a commercial plane for three hours today. Cuban officials, a party of young Cuban girls and the wives of several prominent Americans were among his 20 passengers.

Col. Lindbergh blushed and retreated today before the advances of a young lady. He had accepted a bouquet of Cuban roses when the young miss attended to encircle his neck with her arms. Lindbergh dodged the embrace. The luncheon hall, where the incident occurred, resounded with laughter until his admirer, Jaqueline Merendi, 4 years old was drawn back by her mother.

With the round of fetes and social obligations at an end, the American aviator expects to devote tomorrow, his last day in Cuba, to preparations for an early departure Monday. Lindbergh hopes to get away at daybreak on his attempted non-stop flight to St. Louis.

The 1250-mile flight to St. Louis is expected to take Col. Lindbergh from dawn to dusk to accomplsh even in favorable weather. He said tonight he would not attempt any schedule run and that his route would be from Havana to the Keys, thence along the coastline to a point parallel with St. Louis. He intends to fly over no cities on the way.

WILLIAMS AVERS DRY ACT VIOLATES G. O. P. PRINCIPLE

People Not Legislatures Should Rule U. S. He Says Addressing Editors' Session at Jefferson City.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—Former United States Senator George H. Williams of St. Louis, speaking at a banquet of the Missouri Republican Editorial Association at Central Hotel here tonight, demanded that the Republican party have the frankness in its next platform to omit a plank favoring law enforcement. He denounced prohibition as a violation of a "cardinal principle of the Republican party."

As a prospective candidate as a wet for the party nomination for United States Senator this year, Williams addressed the editors of rural Missouri Republican newspapers on the subjects which he thought should be covered by the party platform. As a candidate in 1926 he sidestepped the prohibition issue and was defeated by Senator Harry B. Hawes, who is frankly a wet. His opponent, if he runs, probably will be former Gov. Hyde, a radical dry.

Williams' argument tonight was that a mere law enforcement plank in a party platform was a deception.

Jeers at Subterfuge.

"What do we mean by law enforcement?" he demanded. "We declare for the rigid enforcement of all laws. We look in vain for such pronouncements in our party platform before prohibition. We began to insert these planks in our platform after prohibition became effective.

"We would naturally assume that all law officers who swear that they will enforce the Constitution and laws of the United States, or o fthe State, would do so. We had no such declaration before prohibition.

"When we insert such a plank in our platforms now we mean that we pledge the party to the support of the eighteenth amendment, the Volstead act and the prohibition laws of the State. We are not frank enough, however, to go that length.

"What is the occasion for a law enforcement plank? Is it due to the fact that prohibition laws are not being observed or enforced? I think that they are being observed and enforced in dry territory as they always have been. I think that they are not observed or enforced in territory where the people do not want them enforced.

"A plank for law enforcement does not reach the real problem. It is intended to smear over a situation which we are afraid to tackle. It temporizes with a most tragic situation. The tragc situation in America is the terrible cleavage between law enactment and law enforcement.

"Ours is not a Government by force but a Government by consent. All just Governments receive their authority from the consent of those governed. Do you point with pride to that large number of convicts in our State penitentiary—sent there for violating the State prohibition laws. Do you take pride in the thousands brought before the Federal courts in St. Louis in 1927 for offenses against the national prohibition laws? Do you say that that is evidence of law enforcement? In my opinion that is rather an evidence of law violation than law enforcement.

Law Defined.

"A law is but the crystallization in legal form of the public will. When people desire a law and in response to that desire the law is enacted, then there is no cleavage between the law and its observance. When the people get tired of a law or outgrow it, it ceases to be enforced and becomes what we call a blue law. Legislatures cannot anticipate the will of the people and impose a law of universal application and expect it to be observed if the people are not ready for it. When they attempt to do so, the law is broker as soon as made.

"The trouble with prohibition is that it violates a cardinal principle of the Republican party. That principle is involved in the question: Who owns the United States? Does this country belong to the people of the United States or does it belong to the State Legislature? If it belongs to the people, then Congress should have the consent of the people before it passes a Volstead act—that is, if this is a just Government, and derives its authority from the consent of the governed."

Not Many Editors on Hand.

The session of the Republican Editorial Association today, in advance of the annual Lincoln day dinner of the Association of Young Republicans, which will take place Monday evening at the Missouri Hotel, was not largely attended by rural editors, but an all-day speaking program was carried out in the hall of the House of Representatives, the speakers including Gov. Baker, State officers and candidates for nomination in the coming primary.

Most of the speeches were of the usual propaganda variety and were devoid of any public interest. One by Dr. James Stewart, a candidate for the nomination for Governor, was something out of the usual line, however, disclosing campaign methods usually attempted to be hidden from public gaze.

Dr. Stewart quite frankly announced that if elected Governor the jobs would be filled by persons selected by the practical politicians in the party organization.

The Editorial Association adopted a resolution urging the circulation of initiative petitions for a redistricting of the State into new senatorial districts. It provided for the appointment of a committee of five members to co-operate with the Republican State Committee in the circulation of the petitions. The present districts were established in 1901 and the Republicans contend that under them the Democrats have a decided advantage.

MRS. SARAH F. KAUFFMAN DIES AFTER HIP FRACTURE

Widow of Col. Albert B. Kauffman to Be Buried Tomorrow at Jefferson Barracks.

Mrs. Sarah F. Kauffman, widow of Col. Albert B. Kauffman, died at St. Luke's Hospital yesterday afternoon of the infirmities of age. A fractured hip suffered in a fall a week ago contributed to her death.

Mrs. Kauffman, who was 80 years old, was born in Boston, Mass., and was taken to California as a child by her father, who joined the gold rush of '49. She was married to Col. Kauffman at Tucson, Ariz., then an outlying post in the Indian country, 57 years ago.

The family moved to Webster Groves 37 years ago and Col. Kauffman subsequently was retired from the army. He died 12 years ago. Three sons and two daughters survive. They are R. King Kauffman, Andrew H. Kauffman of Webster Groves, and G. A. Kauffman, Oakland, Cal. Mrs. R. W. Bryan of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. R. C. Taylor, with whom Mrs. Kauffman made her home at 4416 Westminster place.

Funeral services will be Monday afternoon from the Emmanuel Episcopal Church of Webster Groves. Burial will be in the National Cemetery at Jefferson Barracks beside the body of Col. Kauffman.

PROPOSES ALL TREATIES BE OPEN TO ALL NATIONS

Cuban's Suggestion Carries Provision Original Signatories Must Be Agreeable to Adhesion.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 11.—Much debate is expected to develop on two original aspects of a report presented to the Committee on Public International Law of the Pan-American Congress by Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Ambassador at Washington, on the formalities concerned with the conclusion, observation and denouncing of treaties.

The report proposes that, when the conditions which prompted or surrounded the conclusion of a treaty, disappear or are fundamentally altered, then one of the parties may denounce the agreement, leaving arbitration as the only recourse of the other party if not agreeable to the denouncement.

The second innovation would open all Pan-American conventions to adhesion of all countries if the original signatories were agreeable to such an extension.

A sub-committee meeting called today by Charles Evans Hughes, head of the American delegation, to continue efforts to find a common definition of the independence of states, which should appear to the other delegates to abolish intervention from international practice, adjourned almost as soon as it was called because the members wished to attend the full committee session.

The Word "Intervention."

In the earlier full committee discussion centered mostly on a question of terminology, especially with reference to the word "interventon."

Hector Castro of Salvador objected to an article in the proposed treaty in which it is stated that, if a third country has guaranteed the execution of a treaty between two other countries, then the former "can intervene in the execution of the treaty only by virtue of a request of one of the interested parties and then only under conditions expressly stipulated for intervention."

Fears Are Laughed Away.

The reference to "intervention," Senor Castro said, sounded badly in his ears, and in this he obtained the support of several other delegates, who confined themselves to suggesting substitute phrases. After more than an hour of debate on the point, during which it was declared that intervention should only be diplomatic and friendly, Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon of Argentina settled the matter by asserting that the Congress appeared to him to be becoming excessively afraid of mere words.

"We seem to object to words as such quite irrespective of their significance in any particular context," he said. "Soon we will have eliminated so many words for our personal antipathies that there will not be enough left with which to conclude a treaty."

Amd much laughter the original text immediately was approved.

THREE RAIDS, SIX ARRESTS, AT ALLEGED HANDBOOK PLACES

Second in Three Days on Purported Cleaning House for Horse Race Betting.

Three raids were made by the police on alleged handbook places yesterday. A second raid in three days on which the police said was a clearing house for horse race betting resulted in the arrest of William Rutstein, 3407 Belt avenue, and Gilbert Goldstein, 1525 Franklin avenue, in a seventh floor suite of the Oriel building, 310 North Sixth street.

In the previous raid, Thursday, detectives of the gambling squad found six girls at telephones. Yesterday they found one. She was sent away with a reprimand. Racing forms were seized.

In a raid on Room 611, Central National Bank building, detectives arrested three men who said they were Hamilton Tabacnic, 1209 Hamilton avenue, Albert Portnay, 2201 Clark avenue and Jack Bender, 2607 Burd avenue. A man who said he was Henry Tabacnic, 5128 Palm street, was arrested as the proprietor of an establishment at 806 Lucas avenue. All were released on $200 bonds. They were booked as "suspected of gambling."

MERCHANT KILLS WIFE, THEN IS SLAIN BY SON

Houston (Tex.) Man Is Shot as He Fires at Fleeing Woman After Quarrel.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 11.—T. D. Martin, 52 years old, a merchant, shot and killed his wife, Ellen, 48, after a quarrel, and was in turn shot to death by his son, Roy D. Martin, 30, in a futile effort to save her, at the son's home here today.

The elder Martins had separated and the wife had sued for divorce. The husband, the testimony at the inquest showed, shot his wife with a pistol as she fled from him through a yard. The son killed his father with a shotgun almost at the same instant. He was charged with murder and released on nominal bond.

Woman, 120 Years Old, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Feb. 11. — Mrs. Narcissa Arais, who said she was 120 years old, died today. She came here from La Paz, Mex., 80 years ago.

GRAINS CLOSE HIGHER ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 11.—Wheat and corn closed higher at the week end session on the local market, the coarse grain being influenced late by report of forecast of temperatures above normal next week. This was interpreted as likely to interfere with movement. Wheat went up too. Chicago dispatch told of report that no price concession was being made on domestic wheat to get export business.

In the local cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was steady to 1c higher, offerings being light with choice wheat wanted. There was no No. 2 red on market. There was better inquiry for garlicky, prices being up 1c. There were 20,000 bushels of Idaho soft white marked at $1.58 to arrive. Demand for hard wheat was improved and market steady to 1c higher. Local mills led the buying. No. 2 hard 13 per cent protein offered to arrive 18½c over Kansas City May price, 12½ per cent at 13½c over and 12 per cent at 9c over, f. o. b. Kansas City basis. Cash corn was 1½ to 2c higher, there being good demand at the advances, cash grain gaining slightly on the futures. Industries were best buyers, mills, shippers, local trade and elevators also purchasing. Cash oats were steady to ½c higher. Offerings were moderate.

Wheat opened unchanged to a shade better, later on May, and ruled similarly in the early trade. May corn shaded some for time. Liverpool wheat closed ⅛d lower on March and May and ½d lower on July. Winnipeg wheat early was ⅛c lower.

Hard May wheat opened at $1.31, July wheat $1.26⅞. May corn 95⅝c and July corn 96⅛c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 64,400 bushels, compared with 67,200 a week ago, included 34 cars local and 12 through. Corn receipts, which were 107,800 bushels, compared with 172,000 a week ago, included 37 cars local and 49 through. Oats receipts, which were 36,000 bushels, compared with 42,000 a week ago, included 14 cars local and 4 through. Hay receipts were 5 cars local and 8 through.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 1487 cars of wheat, compared with 456 a week ago and 395 a year ago, Minneapolis receiving 109 cars, Duluth 109 and Winnipeg 992.

Primary receipts of wheat were 960,000 bushels, compared with 834,000 a week ago; corn receipts were 1,315,000 bushels, compared with 2,338,000 a week ago; oats receipts were 579,000 bushels, compared with 477,000 a week ago. Wheat shipments were 523,000 bushels, compared with 580,000 a week ago; corn shipments were 1,067,000 bushels, compared with 1,080,000 a week ago; oats shipments were 341,000 bushels, compared with 352,000 a week ago.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—With the refined sugar market closed there was little activity in the raw sugar market today, but the undertone was steady and prices were unchanged, with spot Cuban quoted at $4.24 duty paid. The only sale reported was a small quantity of Philippines for a February-March shipment at $4.28 delivered to an operators although nearby duty frees were still around at $4.24.

There was not much activity in the raw sugar futures market and price movements were narrow. There was a little covering and Cuban support early which advanced some of the active positions 1 to 2 points, but liquidation and a little hedge selling, principally in May against purchases in the spot market supplied the demand and caused slight reactions. The close was 1 point lower to 1 point net higher. Approximate sales 15,850 tons. March closed $2.51; May, $2.56; July, $2.68; September, $2.76; December $2.82; January, $2.80.

LIVELY ADVANCE IN CORN FUTURES IN CHICAGO TRADE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Corn prices made a lively advance today, going to the highest level reached in many weeks. Promise of unseasonable warm weather likely to curtail the movement of corn was largely responsible for active buying which set in on the part of commission houses and speculators as well.

Closing quotations on corn were strong, 1⅛c to 1⅝c net higher, with wheat ⅝c to ¾c up; oats showing ¼c to ⅜c advance and provisions unchanged to 15c down.

At first the corn market tended downward, the early weather conditions prevalent being construed as auspicious for the crop movement. Subsequently a forecast that temperatures would be somewhat above normal next week led to persistent buying which toward the last included the execution of numerous standing orders to stop losses at various fixed limits. Under such circumstances, the surplus offerings in the corn pit disappeared at a rapid rate and the close was at virtually the day's top figures.

On today's price advances in the corn market, profit-taking sales were rather free at times, but nevertheless the gains were tightly held as a rule, and the advance for the week ranged from 4c to 4⅜c a bushel. Aggressiveness shown by bull leaders in the late dealings today proved to be especially disconcerting to scalpers who in earlier hours had been on the selling side expecting that the week end with a holiday ahead would witness heavy realizing on what the scalpers mistakenly judged to be an over-bought market.

Wheat and oats ascended with corn and as a result of some buying of cash wheat here for outside mills. Prices for March delivery of wheat showed an inclination to gain as compared with May and in this connection a good deal of stress was laid on talk of high quality of domestic wheat stocks, the present smallness of winter wheat arrivals and indication of better flour business as seen in mill purchases at one period of week, and the firmness of holders in refusing to shade prices for exporters.

Provisions averaged lower, sympathizing with hog values, but there was some buying later on account of corn strength.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for Feb. 11, 1928 $19,100,000; corresponding day last year, $23,1000,000; this year $906,200,000; corresponding period last year $906,800,000. Report of debits for Feb. 10, 1928 were debits to individual accounts $27,700,000 total to date $1,1073,000,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts $16,900,000; total to date $621,600,000; combined debits were $1,728,900,000; total to date to individual debts were $1,728,900,000; total to date to individual and bank and bankers' accounts $44,600,000.

EXCHANGES WILL BE CLOSED MONDAY, LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.

BUSINESS in the financial district will be suspended on Monday in observance of Lincoln's birthday. The New York Stock Exchange, curb market, Cotton Exchange and all other securities and commodities markets will be closed. As it is a legal holiday, the banks also will not be open.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The Chicago Board of Trade will be closed Monday.

The St. Louis Stock Exchange and St. Louis Merchants' Exchange will be closed Monday. Local banking institutions will be open as usual.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly review of the foreign exchange market, says:

"The foreign exchange market during the week was a slow-moving affair generally and where wide fluctuation occurred it was generally due to lack of interest where special reasons for trading prevailed.

"Sterling, after starting with a heavy tone, improved in its position, demand ranging from $4.86⅝ to $4.87⅛, the highest price being made in the early trading on Friday. The market in the beginning of the week was influenced by the high rates for money in this market and also was reflected by the contraction of bank accommodations, but these influences lost their force before many days passed. Dutch exchange was directly influenced by the high money rate all through the week, the position for guilders being unsettled because while money was high here it was in supply at far lower rates in Holland. Guilder checks which had been declining in the preceding week dropped from 40.27 to 40.21

"French exchange fas in supply for a time, the French check falling to 3.92⅝ but moved back to its previously established level of 3.93. Italian eased off at the beginning of the week with a recovery after the first few days.

"Spanish had its usual wide fluctuations, ranging from 17.07 to 16.95. Swiss was steady. German, after showing strength during the greater part of the week, reacted in the last few days.

"Rupee exchange was the feature of the Far Eastern trading, making a new low for the year on a decline from 36.60 to 36.40.

"Japan was fairly well held, rallying after a recession at the beginning of the week.

"Canadian held around 3-16 discount, a level that should cause further gold shipments. Havana exchange, after holding around par in the preceding week, moved up to close to ⅛ per cent premium.

"Silver exchanges had a narrow range and showed little change as a result of the week's trading. There was little action in South American exchanges.

HOG MARKET ADVANCES SHARPLY, THEN REACTS

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last wk.	Prev. wk.	Last yr.
Cattle and calves	17,715	23,377	19,668
Hogs	90,773	109,245	75,790
Sheep	2,982	4,673	5,475
Horses&mules	2,777	4,349	2,036
Totals	114,247	141,644	102,969

The most prominent feature of the past week's cattle trade was lighter receipts, arrivals totalling sharply under the previous six-day supply. Although this proved beneficial in the matter of advancing prices, gains were uneven and a slack demand for some classes found prices lower. Beef steers ran mostly to common and medium fleshed kinds, weights in the majority of cases under 1000 lbs. The $13.85 figure was the best obtainable with material available and sales were comparatively few above the $13.25 mark. Bulk of all steers sold for the week in a spread of $10 to $13.25. The better end of steers sold around 50c higher with a gain of 25c indicated in most of the plainer descriptions. Uneven prices ruled in butcher yearlings with the least change shown in low priced kinds. Fat yearlings were comparatively scarce and a slow demand brought declines early in the week followed by some advance toward mid-week and a further decline on the close. The result was a steady to strong basis of clearance was compared with the previous week's finish. Top for considerable lots of mixed was $13, straight heifers at $12.15 and bulk of sales made $8.50 to $12.50. Beef cows proved the most in demand this week and sales averaged 25c higher, canners and cutters 15c to 25c up. Top for beef cows was $12, bulk running to the $7 to $9.50 kinds. Cutters made a spread of $6 to $6.50 popular and canners were most numerous from $5.25 to $5.75, low end reaching $5 for a light kind.

Up until mid-week the killing interests paid scant heed to bulls but a fair inquiry from outside buyers prevented serious breaks in the market. Prices nevertheless averaged 25c lower for the week, top bolognas stopping at $8.50 and few above $8.25. Bulk were available at $7 to $8, beef bulls upward to $9.50. Common and Southern bulls ranged downward to $5.50. Light weight feeders made up the bulk of supplies in this class and cleared largely from $7.50 to $11.25, one car of freshly feeders reported going out at $12.25. Values were steady to strong all around. Stock cows ranged from $6 to $7.50, bulk at $7.25 down. Top veals closed at an advance of 50c to 75c over the previous week top at $17 the highest this year. First cuts in proportion went at $14 to $15, second cuts from $12 to $14. Throwouts and common calves ranged from $11.50 down. Rannies were 50c to 75c lower, prices mostly $6.50 to $7 late in the week.

At no time during the week hog prices were sharply higher as compared with last Saturday's market but declines late in the week forced prices downward and the market closed strong to 5c higher than last week's close. The week started off with a lower price trend under heavy supplies but the next three days saw prices take a sharp upturn under light receipts. Due to the conditions of the country roads making it impossible for some stockmen to get their hogs to the railroads the receipts fell off sharply in the mid-week periods. Top at the close of the Thursday period was $8.85. However, towards the close of the week the country roads were in better condition and the market received 22,000 Friday and 11,000 Saturday. This caused a downward reaction and top today was down to $8.50 with extreme heavies down to $8. All buyers furnished good outlets during the week. Pigs and lights followed an uneven trend and the price spread is still as wide as ever. Light pigs under 100 lbs. were very difficult movers at all times with sales ranging downward to $5.50. Packing sows closed the period slightly lower than a week ago after mild fluctuations during the week. Stags closed steady to 25c off. Southern crop eared hogs were extremely unsatisfactory sellers. The market was a catch as catch can affair. Stock pig movement was slow with prices on vaccinated kinds mostly around $8. The supply coming in is moderate.

Upturn in Lamb Prices.

Light supplies, with prices taking a sharp upturn, featured the local sheep and lamb market the past period. The supply, including directs, made about a good day's run in normal times. As a result of the sharp advances of all classes prices are at the highest point of the season and lambs are the highest since last June. Top for the period reached $15.90 awarded by city butchers for a choice drove of 90-pound natives. A great deal, or more than three-fourths, of the lamb offering were weighty and as a consequence that class is, due to the fact that there were so few lambs on sale buyers overlooked weight, a good deal higher in comparison with light-weights. One drove of 98-pound Nebraskas made $14.85 and one drove weighing 91 pounds $15.50 to packers. Other offerings were largely medium quality and prices ranged from $14.75 to $15.25, with one drove medium quality to city butchers at $15.50. Cull lambs cashed mainly at $10.50 to $11. Very few wethers were included in the supply. Prices on the few offered ranged from $13 to $13.50 and they were not the best of quality. On this strength choice handy-weight yearlings are quoted up to $14. Only a handful of ewes were offered and quality of them could have been a good deal better. They sold largely at $8.50. Quotations: Slaughter stock—fed Western and native —good to choice lambs, $15 to $15.90; medium to good, $14 to $15; plain to medium, $13 to $14; cull and common, $10.50 to $12.50; good to choice yearling wethers, $13.50 to $14; medium to good, $13 to $13.50; plain to medium, $12.50 to $13; cull and common, 12 to $12.50; good to choice mutton ewes, $8.50 to $9; medium to good, $7.50 to $8.50; plain to medium, $6.50 to $7.50; choppers and bucks, $5 to $6; canners, $3 to $4.

HORSES AND MULES.

The only unfavorable aspect of the generous run here the past week was the decline on plain and low priced mules, all other classes holding to a full steady basis. Good big mules especially were good sellers. There was a good trade in farm horses here as well as for chunks and wagon horses. There was comparatively small inquiry for big horses except in the best kind, all of this class finding steady outlet.

Receipts were considerably lighter than last week's run but heavier than for the corresponding week last year. Quality was about an average in both horses and mules as compared with previous runs recently. A good clearance of all supplies was effected for the week.

NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

Good to choice draft, $140@200; medium to good draft, $85@140; good to choice chunk, $75@100; medium to good chunks, $50@60; choice Southern horses, $45@60; fair to good Southern horses, $25@35; smooth-mouthed Southerners, $15@25; plugs, $6@15.

Less Cotonseed Crushed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Cottonseed crushed in the six-month period, Aug. 1 to Jan. 31, the Census Bureau announced today totaled 3,577,438 tons, compared with 4,262,775 tons in the same period a year ago, and cottonseed on hand at mills Jan. 31 totaled 763,353 tons, compared with 1,035,766 tons a year ago.

Cottonseed products manufactured during the period and on hand Jan. 31, were:

Crude oil produced 1,117,378,354 pounds compared with 1,268,202,188, and on hand 168,519,168 pounds compared with 175,191,058 a year ago.

Refined oil produced 853,052,497 pounds compared with 979,483,723 and on hand 538,256,701 pounds compared with 395,022,025.

Cake and meal produced 1,594,004 tons compared with 1,905,695 and on hand 177,118 tons compared with 147,144.

Linters produced 656,937 running bales compared with 693,139 and on hand 157,959 running bales compared with 224,897.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The cottonseed oil market was again active and firm today, closing 12 to 20 points net higher on renewed covering and a general demand through cotton and commission houses in response to the strength of crude oil and the bullish January consumption report. The Census Bureau report placed consumption during December at 270,055 barrels, against 222,000 consumed in December, and 352,000 in January last year. Preholiday profit-taking supplied the offerings. Sales, 18,700 barrels. Prime crude, $8; prime summer yellow spot, $9.50; March closed, $9.49; May, $9.70; July, $9.91; August, $10.02; September, $10.04.

U. S. BANK RATE RAISE EFFECTS FELT ABROAD

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The rise in the New York bank rate has been the chief factor dominating our money and stocks during the past week. Moreover, it has affected the money market all the more because it coincided with the stringency occasioned by the ingathering of the tax revenue.

The movement was attributed to the size of your brokers' loans and many here express the view that it might be well if our bankers' balance sheets showed Stock Exchange loans as distinct from other advances. It is not believed there is any unwieldly bull position in stocks here. Nevertheless, there is a feeling that the great growth of our banking advances during the past three years must be largely connected with Stock Exchange activity.

As anticipated, our bank is inclined to keep the rate at the present level, which is partly due to a desire not to hurt trade and probably due to a co-operative movement, thereby possibly avoiding a fresh rise on your side. Moreover, the retention of our bank rate was helped by the fact that since the latter part of December the bank has gained about £7,000,000 gold.

While the rise in your bank rate plus the heavy capital issues depressed gilt-edged securities, other markets, and especially speculative issues, remain cheerful and are comparatively firm. Rubbers are, of course, a prominent exception.

These shares are peculiarly sensitive to adverse influences because so many disappointed holders have been waiting for an opportunity to sell on any important rally. The present decision of the Appointment Committee to investigate the position is possibly wise, but it is feared that the announcement may decrease the chances of gauging results of the current during the next three months when precautions against smuggling and other avoidances of restrictions were intensified.

At the recent bank meetings the point has been clearly demonstrated that, measured by the standard of real wages, that is purchasing power wages, we are much above most European centers, including Germany. Consequently, if foreign competition is to be met reduced cost of production must be provided for either through lower wages or greater industry and efficiency.

Owing partly to larger shipments from Argentina the decline in the price of wheat continues and markets are inclined to anticipate little renewal of activity until next month when possibly lower level prices may stimulate buying. Low prices, however, are regarded as among our favorable economic factors.

FURTHER ADVANCE IN COTTON AT WEEK-END SESSION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—A continuation of the recent buying movement was reflected by a further advance in the cotton market today. May contracts sold up to 18.23c, a net advance of 15 points and an advance of 117 points from the recent low level, and closed at 18.17c, the general market closing very steady, at net advances of 6 to 14 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 8 points, and soon showed net gains of 10 to 15 points on overnight buying orders and buying attributed to Liverpool and the Continent. The advance met a good deal of week-end realizing promoted by the proximity of the holiday here on Monday. There also may have been a little selling on a bearish interpretation of the cotton cloth statistics for January.

Offerings were absorbed on a reaction of 10 or 15 points, and the market steadied up again on a continuation of the recent demand. This buying probably found additional encouragement in reports of a better tone in the cotton goods market and of continued steady spot situation in the South. Failure of weather advices to show rains in West Texas also was a sustaining factor, and closing prices were within a few points of the best.

The standard cotton cloth statistics showed an increase of 9 1 per cent in stocks during January and a decrease of 18.8 per cent in the yardage of unfilled orders for the month. These figures appeared to be without much immediate effect on the market, however, and the opinion was expressed by some local traders that they had been discounted by unfavorable trade reports during January.

Liverpool made a relatively easy showing, private cable attributing the failure to meet yesterday's advance in New York to realizing, which had supplied further covering. London adn continental buying. There was an improved demand for cotton cloths from India, but sales were unimportant, with many offers unworkable, it was said.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 95,000 bales, against 178,000 last year.

Liverpool Spot Steady.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 11.—Cotton spot quiet; prices steady: American strict good middling 10.75d; good middling 10.45d; strict middling 10.30d; middling 10.25d; strict low middling 10.15d; low middling 10.10d; strict good ordinary 9.85d; good ordinary 9.55d. Sales 6000 bales, including 3000 American. Receipts 29,000; American 26,500. Futures closed quiet, March 9.64d; May 9.59d; July 9.55d; October 9.38d; December 9.33d; January 9.33d.

KEWANEE

The Ace of the Boiler Field

The real cost of a heating boiler is not the price you pay when you buy it—but the money you invest in its operation over a period of years.

Even if the price of the KEWANEE ALL-STEEL FIREBOX BOILER were immeasurably greater than it is, it would be an insignificant sum compared with the savings this boiler effects in fuel.

It is true that you can buy some other type of boiler for less money than a Kewanee costs—but that would be false economy unless the boiler can perform as well as the Kewanee. We never have been able to find one in forty years of experience.

A cheap boiler is always a cheap boiler and for that reason it can't do the same work as a boiler of perfect design and lasting qualities. You can save on the materials in your building if you wish but you can't accomplish anything but expense if you choose a boiler because of its first cost.

The Kewanee All-steel Firebox boiler is designed and built to outlast the building. In the vast majority of cases it does. Moreover, it will burn any kind or grade of fuel. If you are a big user of fuel, think this statement over seriously.

The saving it effects, because of its scientific design and superior workmanship, easily reaches 25 per cent. Just imagine how this saving grows over a long period of time. When other boilers are succumbing to atmospheric conditions, creating distress and untold inconvenience, the Kewanee Boiler pursues the even tenor of its way and earns its first cost many many times by the excellent service it renders.

If you want details and proof, write the Old Man Behind the Boiler and get the information he has collected during an experience of 40 years in steel boiler making.

WEEK'S STEEL STATEMENTS IMPORTANCE

Bring Most Convincing Evidence of Reviving Business Revealed in Statistics of Year to Date, Says Review — Ingot Production Jumps and Unfilled Orders of Corporation Increase.

Total stock sales, 1,270,500 shares.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review today, says:

This week's steel statement brought the most convincing evidence of reviving business revealed in the statistics of the year to date. A recession in the steel industry was partly what reduced the general flow of 1927 business, but since late December operations of the Steel Corporation have been speeded up from 60 to 88 per cent of capacity. That is not all. Forward bookings on the Steel Corporation's records were increased by 303,000 tons during January which, including the 518,000-ton increase in the month before raises the level of unfilled orders to 4,275,947 tons. Not in nearly two years, since March, 1926, have these orders been so large. Meanwhile the production of steel ingots for January has jumped 26 per cent—the best gain since the war month, March, 1918, and prices since last October have continued their upward trend.

Building Industry Active.

"Aside from the heavy demands from the motor industry, about which everybody knows, the building industry continues active. The F. W. Dodge Corporation figures the construction contract awarded during January in states that represent 91 per cent of the country's total construction volume as surprisingly high. They reckon it at $427,000,000, which represents an 11 per cent gain over January a year ago and makes January, 1928, without a single exception the largest January on record. New high totals for the month were actually made in New England, the Central West and Texas, whereas next to the highest records in history were recorded by three other important districts—New York City and Northern New Jersey, Southeastern states and the Middle Atlantic states. Not only have the two key industries that slowed down in 1927 picked up, but the active pace of building continues.

Money Flows to New York.

"To what extent the Federal Reserve system's move to a higher rediscount rate has slowed down the expansion in brokers' loans is difficult to say, but certainly it has not yet checked that growth. In the last two weeks roughly covering the period since the first rate change came, brokers' loans have risen $46,000,000. This recent and somewhat unexpected expansion lifts the total to a new high record. Still more significant is it that the increase reflects entirely a growth in loans for out of town banks and for others—it reflects no gain whatsoever in loans by New York member banks for their own account. It means that money still is flowing into New York from the outside. Indeed, the $46,000,000 increase in brokers' loans in the last fortnight results from a $82,000,000 jump in loans for out of town banks and a $68,000,000 jump in loans for others, despite a $104,000,000 drop in New York member bank loans for their own account. Apparently the Federal Reserve's policy has not been entirely effective in cutting off outside offerings.

U. S. Issues Sold to Restrict Credit.

"If there were those who looked upon the Federal Reserve system's January sales of Government securities as an operation merely to offset the seasonal easing influences of returning currency, the real purpose of the plan must now be plain. The return flow of currency ceased in late January, but sales of Government securities did not cease. Through the sale of another $32,000,000 of Government securities last week the Reserve banks increased the total of such sales in the last month to $219,000,000. Those operations are designed to restrict the use of credit in speculative channels and put the Reserve banks in a position to satisfy fresh demands for commercial credit when they arise. While the financial district does not anticipate dearer money in the near future, its confidence both in the stock and bond markets has been to an extent shaken by developments in money and by the threats of congressional investigations. On the other hand, its faith in business multiplies as the weeks pass.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Cotton goods were firmer today, business continuing to show more breadth in gray cloths, wash fabrics and other lines. Burlaps were unchanged with a steady undertone. Raw silk was steady. Silk goods were more active. New lines of wool goods will be opened on Monday in men's wear departments. Reductions in knit underwear ranging from 25 to 50 cents a garment have been made by some large producers.

SHARES SOLD

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Total sales for the week were 14,296,100 shares, compared with 12,805,700 shares last week. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 81,032,500 shares, compared with 54,838,200 shares a year ago.

PACKING SHARES RISE SHARPLY IN WEEK-END TRADE

About Dozen Specialties Also Advance — Railroad Shares Are Bought — Market as Whole Irregular.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—A sharp upturn in the packing shares and about a dozen specialties, steady accumulation of the rails after a fortnight of heaviness and the renewed weakness of the oils provided the high lights in today's brief and irregular stock market. Trading was in fairly heavy volume for a pre-holiday session, the day's sales running over 1¼ million shares.

There was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Export of $1,000,000 in gold to the Argentine offset a slightly larger influx yesterday from Canada. Week-end trade reviews continued optimistic in character. Some selling developed in the motor group, however, as a result of the passing of the Yellow Truck preferred dividend, the common stock of that company sinking to a new low and then recovering the day's loss.

Short Covering Factor.

Short-covering operations by traders who had sold stocks freely earlier in the week stimulated the buying of a number of specialties. Pools were again active in a few issues in which special developments are pending, despite the uneasiness created by the recent advance in brokers' loans to a new high record.

There was a brisk demand for the packing shares. Recent improvement in that industry, particularly in the hide division, has been reported. All the Armour, Wilson and Cudahy issues reached new high ground for the year, some of the gains running as high as 5⅝ points. Gold Dust, after several false starts last week, suddenly ran up nearly 5 points to a new high record at 101⅝ on unconfirmed rumors of merger developments and large current earnings.

Tobacco Products A moved into new high ground in further reflection of the recent report that the company would be dissolved and its assets distributed. New peak prices for the year or longer, also were established by a number of other issues, including American Zinc and Lead common and preferred, City Stores B, Eaton Tile, Paramount, Famous Lasky and Warner Brothers "A."

Rails Were Higher.

Rails, which have been sluggish for some time following poor December earnings and rumor of another unfavorable dicision in the Van Sweringen merger case, moved upward in impressive fashion. Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Texas & Pacific, Western Maryland second preferred and the Western Pacific issues climbed 2 to 3½ points, and a number of others, including the New York Central, Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Delaware & Hudson advanced a point or two.

Foreign exchanges were a shade easier, with Sterling Cables quoted around $4.87 7-16.

The weekly Clearing House statement showed a deficit in reserve of $18,100,000, as against a deficit of $20,283,840 a week ago. Aggregate reserve was $631,939,000. The detailed statements of actual condition this day showed mixed changes. Loans, discounts and investments dropped $60,873,000; reserve in the Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $4,337,000, and net demand deposits, $52,156,000, cash in own vaults showed a gain of $200,000, and time deposits $15,468,000.

Metal Markets of Week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Improved trade conditions continued to feature the steel market during the week. Ingot production for January showed a large increase compared with December and at the same time the rate was at a higher total than during January last year. Railroads came into the market for orders of [illegible] while the majority of the mills [illegible] rather good increase in the [illegible] specifications against contracts. Prices generally were well maintained. The blowing in of additional furnaces by steel companies was taken to confirm the reported increase in the output of crude and finished steel at the various producing centers.

Pig iron trade improved, although the general orders were said to be confined to relatively small tonnages.

The copper market was rather quiet and except for a slight flurry in export demand, which soon subsided, very little business materialized. Consumers both here and abroad appeared to be awaiting the publication of January statistics before making commitments. Second hands and custom smelters were reported to be offering some metal at concessions without attracting any business, while producers were holding steady at 14⅛ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley.

Tin prices averaged lower. The feature apparently was the good demand, mainly for consuming account, as a result of the more attractive price levels.

Lead ruled slightly easier. There was a fair consuming inquiry reported, but principally for prompt and nearby delivery positions.

Zinc was steady. Sellers were reported as not pressing on the market. Consuming demand was moderate. Ore values were maintained.

Antimony ruled irregular. The spot position was slightly easier and futures averaged steady. Consuming requirements were not believed covered for nearby positions and the delay in buying was thought due partly to the disappointing trade in lead.

SHOE STOCK PRICE RANGE IRREGULAR IN A LARGE TRADE

More Than 6800 Shares of International Shoe Common Change Hands Between 69 1-4 and 74 1-2 on Exchange During Week.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Feb. 11.—International Shoe rose and reacted on the local market during the past, final prices, however, showing most of the late week lost ground, recovered. The turnover was large at 6860 shares. On Wednesday when transactions in this issue reached a total of over 2300 shares there was much activity also in Huttig, sales of which amounted to more than 1000 shares. As a result, total sales for the session of all securities mounted to virtually 5400 shares making it the largest total for session for several years.

Due largely to the big trade in the Shoe stock the week's total business exceeded 19,500 shares against 16,694 the week before. The market was broader with 66 issues selling compared with 58 preceding week.

The feature of Huttig was the upturn of 4 points on one day. A net gain of 4 points was shown at close, Fred Medart was up for the week. American Trust sold at 200 and Elder Common at 30 with top of week of 32. Wagner Electric gained more than 2 points on 1500 share turnover.

Announcement was made of listing of $500,000 first preferred $100 stock of the Champion Shoe Machinery Co. The stock has been listed on a special rule, which provides that "no delivery of first preferred stock of the Champion Shoe Machinery Co. deemed good unless accompanied by equal shares of common stock."

Wall Street News and Comment

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Stock prices moved sideways this week as Wall Street endeavored to gauge the market effect of recent business and financial developments, chief of which were the sharp pick-up in the steel industry and the marking up of Federal Reserve rediscount rates throughout the country. Although sharp fluctuations took place in a number of special stocks, the average of 20 leading industrials showed a gain of only slightly more than half a point on the week, while the railroad average was practically unchanged. Bond prices held steady in the face of another large influx of new offerings.

The further expansion of brokers' loans to a new high record was the chief source of uneasiness to operators working for higher prices. Many traders and investors liquidated part of their holdings in the fear that further measures might be taken to force a reduction in loans, although the presence of a large short interest inclined to cover on the declines acted as a brake on the selling movement.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to heaviness on selling inspired by fears that a further stiffening of interest rates here would result in a withdrawal of American funds from Europe, creating a demand for dollars and increasing the offerings of foreign bills. A further import of gold from Canada was offset by a shipment to the Argentine. Reports that Soviet gold was being shipped here was one of the week's most interesting financial developments.

Commodity markets were mixed. Cotton and grain futures gained ground in a week of erratic movements, but rubber prices broke sharply on report of proposed investigation by British into the Stevenson restriction scheme. Coffee prices also moved upward, but sugar prices were inclined to heaviness.

Establishment of a new high record in brokers' loans, while due largely to the tremendous volume of new financing, nevertheless revived speculative uneasiness over the credit situation. Call money rates ruled slightly easier, due to the heavy influx of out-of-town funds, and an easier undertone was reported in the bankers' acceptance market.

Reports of further improvement in the steel industry, which was reflected in the increase of more than 300,000 tons in the January unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, imparted a firm undertone to the steel shares. No new developments were reported in the merger negotiations now in progress among some of the independents.

Motors, which are believed to harbor a large short interest, likewise displayed a strong undertone, with General Motors temporarily regaining the leadership of the market.

Declaration of only the regular dividend on General Motors common was in line with general expectations, as Wall street did not believe that consideration would be given to the subject of extras until at least the first quarter's earnings were available. Passing of the Yellow Truck preferred dividend also had been anticipated, although General Motors' offer to purchase the preferred at 100 up to May 10 was somewhat of a surprise. Chrysler and Studebaker were heavily bought but buying operations in Hudson dwindled considerably.

Oils were under pressure as a result of unfavorable trade news, including continued over-production and a cut in Smackover crude. Atlantic Refining rallied sharply.

Coppers moved forward under the leadership of American Smelting. New York City Gas and Electric Light stocks reached new high ground on merger rumors, but other public utilities failed to follow up their recent advance.

Rubbers turned weak on a further collapse in rubber prices.

Special strength of the tobacco products and United Cigar Store issues followed the report that the former company would be dissolved. Share gains also were recorded by U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Zinc and Lead preferred, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Kresge and a few others.

Poor preliminary 1927 earnings statements and rumor of an unfavorable decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the revised Van Sweringen merger plan had a depressing effect on the railroad shares, the general average of which touched a new low level for the year.

PACKING SHARES RISE SHARPLY IN WEEK-END TRADE

About Dozen Specialties Also Advance — Railroad Shares Are Bought — Market as Whole Irregular.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—A sharp upturn in the packing shares and about a dozen specialties, steady accumulation of the rails after a fortnight of heaviness and the renewed weakness of the oils provided the high lights in today's brief and irregular stock market. Trading was in fairly heavy volume for a pre-holiday session, the day's sales running over 1¼ million shares.

There was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Export of $1,000,000 in gold to the Argentine offset a slightly larger influx yesterday from Canada. Week-end trade reviews continued optimistic in character. Some selling developed in the motor group, however, as a result of the passing of the Yellow Truck preferred dividend, the common stock of that company sinking to a new low and then recovering the day's loss.

Short Covering Factor.

Short-covering operations by traders who had sold stocks freely earlier in the week stimulated the buying of a number of specialties. Pools were again active in a few issues in which special developments are pending, despite the uneasiness created by the recent advance in brokers' loans to a new high record.

There was a brisk demand for the packing shares. Recent improvement in that industry, particularly in the hide division, has been reported. All the Armour, Wilson and Cudahy issues reached new high ground for the year, some of the gains running as high as 5⅜ points. Gold Dust, after several false starts last week, suddenly ran up nearly 5 points to a new high record at 101⅝ on unconfirmed rumors of merger developments and large current earnings.

Tobacco Products A moved into new high ground in further reflection of the recent report that the company would be dissolved and its assets distributed. New peak prices for the year or longer, also were established by a number of other issues, including American Zinc and Lead common and preferred, City Stores B, Eaton Txle, Paramount, Famous Lasky and Warner Brothers "A."

Rails Were Higher.

Rails, which have been sluggish for some time following poor December earnings and rumor of another unfavorable dicision in the Van Sweringen merger case, moved upward in impressive fashion. Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Texas & Pacific, Western Maryland second preferred and the Western Pacific issues climbed 2 to 3½ points, and a number of others, including the New York Central, Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Delaware & Hudson advanced a point or two.

Foreign exchanges were a shade easier, with Sterling Cables quoted around $4.87 7-16.

The weekly Clearing House statement showed a deficit in reserve of $18,100,000, as against a deficit of $20,283,840 a week ago. Aggregate reserve was $631,939,000. The detailed statements of actual condition this day showed mixed changes. Loans, discounts and investments dropped $60,873,000; reserve in the Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $4,337,000, and net demand deposits, $52,156,000, cash in own vaults showed a gain of $200,000, and time deposits, $15,468,000.

Metal Markets of Week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Improved trade conditions continued to feature the steel market during the week. Ingot production for January showed a large increase compared with December and at the same time the rate was at a higher total than during January last year. Railroads came into the market for orders of rolled steel, while the majority of the mills reported a rather good increase in the volume of specifications against contracts. Prices generally were well maintained. The blowing in of additional furnaces by steel companies was taken to confirm the reported increase in the output of crude and finished steel at the various production centers.

Pig iron trade improved, although the general orders were said to be confined to relatively small tonnages.

The copper market was rather quiet and except for a slight flurry in export demand, which soon subsided, very little business materialized. Consumers both here and abroad appeared to be awaiting the publication of January statistics before making commitments. Second hands and custom smelters were reported to be offering some metal at concessions without attracting any business, while producers were holding steady at 14¼ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley.

Tin prices averaged lower. The feature apparently was the good demand, mainly for consuming account, as a result of the more attractive price levels.

Lead ruled slightly easier. There was a fair consuming inquiry reported, but principally for prompt and nearby delivery positions.

Zinc was steady. Sellers were reported as not pressing on the market. Consuming demand was moderate. Ore prices were maintained.

Antimony ruled irregular. The spot position was slightly easier and futures averaged steady. Consuming requirements were not believed covered for nearby positions and the delay in buying was thought due partly to the disappointing trade in lead.

SHOE STOCK PRICE RANGE IRREGULAR IN A LARGE TRADE

More Than 6800 Shares of International Shoe Common Change Hands Between 69 1-4 and 74 1-2 on Exchange During Week.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Feb. 11.—International Shoe rose and reacted on the local market during the past, final prices, however, showing most of the late week lost ground, recovered. The turnover was large at 6860 shares. On Wednesday when transactions in this issue reached a total of over 2300 shares there was much activity also in Huttig, sales of which amounted to more than 1000 shares. As a result, total sales for the session of all securities mounted to virtually 5400 shares making it the largest total for session for several years.

Due largely to the big trade in the Shoe stock the week's total business exceeded 19,500 shares against 16,694 the week before. The market was broader with 66 issues selling compared with 58 preceding week.

The feature of Huttig was the upturn of 4 points on one day. A net gain of 4 points was shown at close, Fred Medart was up for the week. American Trust sold at 200 and Elder Common at 30 with top of week of 32. Wagner Electric gained more than 2 points on 1500 share turnover.

CURB TRADE IMPROVES IN THE LATE SESSION

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Although the lisinclination of speculative operations to maintain an active position over the holiday period had a retarding influence for a short period at today's opening on the Curb Exchange, there was a pronounced broadening of interest in the later trading. The buying was distributed over a long list of stocks, but the extremely wide movements were limited to few issues.

Aluminum shares, Swift International and several mining issues displayed early strength. St. Paul issues were inclined to yield on small offerings and Pittsburg Lake Erie dropped to the year's low on a fractional decline. Bancitaly Corporation opened up 1⅛ points, but failed to hold the advance on subsequent trading.

Public utility shares produced some strong spots under the buying in American Superpower "A" and "B" certificates.

Oils improved in the last hour, with Standard Oil of Indiana recovering 1¾ points, selling above 76.

MODERATE ACTIVITY IN THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Only moderate activity was recorded in the bond market today, and prices showed consuderable irregularity. With new issues totalling about $149,000,000, following an aggregate last week of $202,000,000, traders were cautious about extending their commitments, while many of them were marking time until after the holiday recess.

A few bonds which ordinarily are inactive stood out with rather sharp gains. Remington-Rand 5½s, Long Island 5s, and New Jersey Junction 4s had gains of 1 to 2 points. Announcement was made that Joseph B. Kennedy, President of F. B. O. Pictures Corporation had become associated with Pathe Exchange. There was a moderate recovery in the latter concern's 7 per cent bonds, which broke badly earlier in the week.

A few active railway issues, such as Denver & Rio Grande Western 4s, Chicago Great Western 4s and Southern Railway 6½s, changed hands in rather large amounts around yesterday's closing levels. Armour & Co. issues were firm on large transactions.

A few Italian industrial liens were prominent in the foreign group, in which prices generally were irregular.

A firm trend was followed by U. S. Government list but trading was in volume.

WILLIAM PENN IS WINNER OF LINCOLN HANDICAP

WRAY'S COLUMN

Ban Johnson Objects.

THAT a practical joke played on the founder of the American League, Byron B. Johnson, figured powerfully in the affairs of the league and in ultimately retiring Mr. Johnson, after 28 years as "Czar" was a story broadcast by Hugh Fullerton, veteran baseball writer, in a recent number of a weekly of national circulation.

That the joke of the statement is on Mr. Fullerton and not on himself is the smiling retort of the former league head himself, who is at the Lutheran Hospital here for eye treatment.

Fullerton's story related that Johnson and Comiskey, then friends went on a shooting trip together. A practical joke was played on Johnson, who had brought a new gun for a tryout. His vest was filled with blank shells, with which he banged away until, exasperated, he discovered that a joke had been played on him. He blamed Comiskey and thereafter became his lifelong enemy. That was Fullerton's version.

Joke Was 25 Years Old.

THIS enmity of Comiskey undoubtedly has played a prominent part in the fortunes of the league and in the personal fortunes of Johnson. The joke, too, is admitted by Mr. Johnson. But it is a 25-year-old joke, while Comiskey's enmity dates back to only 1915, the former Czar of baseball says. Comiskey was not concerned in it.

"I remember the shooting incident well. But at no time was Comiskey concerned in it. The trick was planned by George Thompson of the Wisconsin Central Railroad in October some 25 years ago," Mr. Johnson said reminiscently.

"Thompson issued a hurry-up invitation to me to go up to the shooting lodge with him and then telephoned my wife to hide all my shells, so that I would have to use those he supplied me.

"It worked," said Ban with a chuckle. "I couldn't stop to buy shells and Thompson assured me on the train that he had plenty. I fell right into the trap.

"I went out shooting alone for partridge. And I missed so many shots that I became curious. Then I put up a piece of paper on a tree and fired at point blank range, but no sign of a 'pattern' resulted.

"After that I cut the shells and found they contained nothing but powder and wadding. We all had a good laugh at that. It played no part in the affairs of the American League other than to put the refreshments for the crowd on me.

The Quinn Case Caused It.

"THE real cause of the breach between Comiskey and myself was the awarding of

Browns to Try Out Fred Bennett, Young Outfielder

CARDS SEND ALLYN STOUT, PITCHER, TO OMAHA CLUB

Local American Leaguers Now Have Seven Men for Garden Duty, Including Guy Sturdy.

Rhem Not Satisfied With Offer From Cards for 1928

IN a telegram to the Post-Dispatch yesterday, Flint Rhem, righthand pitcher of the Cardinals, stated that the contract offered him by the club was not satisfactory but he hoped he would be able to reach an agreement so that he would be able to get the advantages of the work at spring training camp. Flint added that he expected to have a great year.

Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, when told of the telegram from Rhem, said the club had had no word from Flint direct and that he was not prepared to say what his attitude would be until he heard from the pitcher. Breadon added, however, that no player would be permitted to remain at the training camp without his contract being signed.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Fred Bennett, an outfielder belonging to the Tulsa Club of the Western League, will accompany the Browns to spring training camp at West Palm Beach, Fla., for a tryout and if he proves satisfactory, he will be purchased by the St. Louis club.

Bennett is a young player, a righthand hitter and thrower and has an excellent record for the season and a half he has been with Tulsa. In 1927 he hit for an average of .385 in 153 games. He was at bat 601 times, made a total of 234 safeties for 380 total bases. He had 55 two-baggers, 14 triples and 21 home runs, 19 sacrifices and 11 stolen bases.

In 1926 he was in 69 games and had a batting mark of .350. He was at bat 254 times, had 89 hits, including 20 doubles, 5 triples and 13 home runs.

Seven Outfielders on Roster.

The Browns now have seven outfielders, counting Guy Sturdy, the first baseman whom manager Howley hopes to make an outfielder. They are Manush, Schulte and McNeeley, considered as the regulars. The other are McCoy and Badgro, former semi-professional players from California and Bennett, who, incidentally, is no rela-

Open Tennis Tournaments Approved by National Body; Tilden Again Ranked No. 1

"Big Bill's" Proposal for Two Teams in Davis Cup Play Recommended to Committee for Consideration—Helen Wills Tops Women Players.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—The two-team plan of William T. Tilden II and Francis T. Hunter to recapture the Davis Cup precipitated a long and stormy debate in the United States Lawn Tennis Association meeting today, but eventually the association voted to present the proposition to the Davis Cup Committee.

Tilden and Hunter were forced to give ground before the resolution was adopted. Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the Davis Cup Committee, led the argument opposing giving the new committee definite instructions and it was only after the resolution had been amended to read: "Recommends for consideration," that it carried.

"We are willing to follow the wishes of the committee," said Tilden, "but we are not willing to take part in both American and European zones.

"Hunter and I are willing to do almost anything the committee suggests, but we are not willing to make fools of ourselves," said Tilden, declaring it was impossible for a team to compete in the American zone and arrive in Europe in time to condition itself for the inter-zone matches and the finals the following week.

Open Tournaments Approved.

By passing the proposal of the amateur rule committee the association voiced its approval of open tournaments, an innovation in the tennis realm. However, approval of open tourneys must be obtained from the association.

In deciding the rankings, a few favored giving William M. Johnston ranking in the First Ten, but they failed to make any impression when Hunter and Tilden expressed themselves as sorry that "Little Bill" was left out but no precedent should be set. Johnston failed to play in a sufficient number of tourneys last year to gain recognition, although a member of the Davis Cup team.

Efforts to prohibit players "glaring at a linesman, who in their opinion had made a wrong decision," was voted down after an argument as to the merits of the American and English code.

Samuel H. Collom of Philadelphia was elected president to replace Jones W. Merserau, head of the association for the past three years. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Louis B. Dailey, New York; secretary, Harry S. Knox, Chicago; treasurer, Louis J. Carruthers, New York.

Delegates at large—Harry S. Walsh, Chicago; Arthur Hellen, Washington; G. Peabody Gardner

GIANTS TRADE GRIMES FOR VIC ALDRIDGE

Pirates Give "Hoosier Schoolmaster" to New York in Straight Exchange for Spitball Star.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Burleigh Grimes, veteran spitball pitcher of the New York Giants, was traded to Pittsburg today for Vic Aldridge, curve ball star of the National League champions, in a deal that caught the baseball world again by surprise.

Made on a straight playing basis with no cash involved the trade was completed in a long distance telephone conversation between Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates, and Jim Tierney, Giants' secretary.

On the basis of 1927 records, which showed Grimes a much more consistent performer, the Pirates got the better of the deal but both twirlers rank among the best in the league.

Grimes Won 14 Straight.

Grimes, who pitched his first big league game for Pittsburg in 1916, turned in a sensational streak of 14 victories in a row last year. Aldridge failed to show his best form at the start of the 1927 race but rose to great heights when Ray Kremer, ace of the champions' mound staff, was injured. At this point the Hoosier schoolmaster jumped into the breach, pitched and won two games in one five-game series against the Giants, and continued to turn in victory after victory until Kremer returned to the lineup.

So far as figures go, Grimes outranked Aldridge both in games won and lost and in earned run allowance. Appearing in 39 games, Grimes won 19 and lost 8 to rank third among the league's pitchers in the won and lost column. Aldridge, with 15 games won against 10 lost, stood eleventh in the list.

Stecher Camp Grim and Silent in Preparing for Title Match With Lewis

It's All Business, No "Clowning" Tolerated — There'll Be Nothing to It if Lewis Will "Mix," Says Tony Stecher.

By Dent McSkimming.

When a member of the wrestling fraternity wants to determine whether a certain bout is worthy of his attention as a spectator he first makes inquiry as to how the men are training. If he learns that they are going along with their usual course of "one night stops," wrestling in every town and hamlet and clowning in their gymnasium workouts, the aforementioned colleague puts his tongue in his cheek and proceeds to forget about the affair.

If, on the other hand, he learns that both principals have canceled bouts for two months in advance of the match and are devoting from two to three hours a day to practice on the mat and another hour to outdoor training he immediately turns an interested ear and asks for more details; and then he wires the promoter for a place on the card, or at least an Annie Oakley.

Tom Packs, who is promoting the match here on Feb. 20 between Champion Joe Stecher and Ed Lewis, "the Strangler," has a stack of letters and telegrams from wrestlers who ask for free transportation at the door of the Coliseum that night. To some this will appear to be significant.

Stecher in Earnest.

At least one party to the affair is in real earnest, if his conduct during his training sessions can be accepted as a true indication of his attitude toward the bout. Joe Stecher is training as he has never trained before.

His mien is glum, grim, serious as he works out at the gymnasium of the Knights of Columbus building in East St. Louis, where the champion has established headquarters. His training partners display the same symptoms of earnest endeavor and the only one of the staff who ever cracks a smile is little Jimmy Reynolds, the masseur.

"I wouldn't have a fellow in our camp who couldn't give Joe a tough workout," explained Brother Anton, who bosses the champion's affairs. "If any one of them is unable to resist Joe's efforts for a reasonable length of time I'll get a new training partner. These fellows, La Deaux and Tomek fight like the mischief to keep from being pinned or to prevent Joe from getting the scissors."

Anton, or "Tony," ordered a slight let-up in training two days ago, cutting down on the amount of road work. "Too much is worse than not enough," explained Tony. "Joe was overtrained when he met Lewis in that five-hour match in

HELEN'S BABE VICTOR OVER WAR EAGLE IN 'BIDWELL'

Worthington Colt Shows Improved Form at New Orleans and Owner Must Appear Before Stewards.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.—C. T. Worthington's William Penn, showing a decided improvement over his recent effort on a fast track, scored a sensational victory in leading home the field in the Lincoln Memorial Handicap, a mile gallop, for 3-year-olds, at Fairgrounds here today. N. H. Johnson's Elizabeth was second and E. B. McLean's Algol, the favorite, third. The race carried a net value of $2060 and William Penn ran the mile in 1:39 4-5.

Doc and Ancient Mariner attempted to race each other into the ground in the first half mile. They drew away from the rest of the field and at one part of the journey they were five lengths in front. However, their early efforts told on them as they swung into the stretch and both stopped. Algol came up to the field and took the lead, only to give way in the final sixteenth to William Penn, which ran like a wild horse into the stretch to win in a drive by a head. Elizabeth took the place by half a length.

Stewards Summon Owner.

William Penn was ridden by W. W. Long and paid $13.20 in the mutuels.

Worthington, owner of William Penn, has been ordered to appear before the stewards Monday to explain the running of William Penn.

Helen's Babe, running in her best form, scored in the fifth, defeating War Eagle, with Nor'Easter third. Sea Rocket, the favorite, suffered a lot of interference and all through the stretch tried to get through on the inside but was blocked. Helen's Babe won in a drive by half a length, with War Eagle a half length before Nor'Easter.

Opener Won by Street Liz.

E. E. Major's Street Liz, favorite in the betting, scored by half a length in winning the first race, a mile and a quarter gallop. Pride was second and Ramkin third.

Gaffney led for half a mile, then Street Liz was rushed to the front. She held her slight advantage to the finish, winning by half a length. Pride took the place by two lengths.

J. D. Grant's Flora M. with W. W. Long up, was an easy winner of the second event, a mile gallop, for fillies and mares, 3-year-olds and up. Mysterious was second and Twinkling third.

Patsy Jane Wins by Head.

Patsy Jane, under Pichon's hustling ride, gained a head victory over the odds-on favorite, Oh Susanna, with McTinkle third, in the third race.

W. Garner rode Oh Susanna and he gave a timid ride, taking the mare back at the far turn, then brought her around the leaders in the stretch. Oh Susanna closed gamely on her own courage. McTinkle was two lengths back of Patsy Jane.

Parole II, favorite, won the sixth race, easily, by a length and a half, with Jealous second and Hilary third.

Schaefer and Cochran Challenge 3-Cushion Players to Novel Match

Balkline Champion and Former Title Holder Will Meet Any "System" Player With the Diamonds Covered.

Jake Schaeffer and Welker Cochran, champion and former champion of the world at balkline billiards, have issued a challenge to any player in the world for a match at 3-cushions WITH THE DIAMONDS COVERED.

Schaefer and Cochran played an exhibition match at balkline here yesterday, and in the course of a discussion on billiards, with Charles C. Peterson, Schaefer suggested the novel match.

"The so-called 'system' players are not billiard players in the true sense of the term," said Schaefer. "They are mechanics. By utilizing the inlaid diamonds on the rails of the table, they are able to reduce shot making to a mathematical science. Now, if the diamonds are removed from the table, the key to the mathematical figure is gone; the player is left to his own resources, his own knowledge of natural angles, his own billiard instinct, without mechanical aid. With or without diamonds, the billiard genius will survive, but to prove my point, I suggest that Cochran and I will play any players in the world, with the diamonds removed or covered."

Schaefer and Cochran both expressed a desire to participate in a three-cushion tournament in which three leading balklin players would compete with three of the greatest three-cushion stars. Such a tournament has been suggested by C. C. Peterson.

ROOSEVELT DEFEATS BEAUMONT FOR FIFTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

SOLDAN WINS OVER CLEVELAND IN CLOSE GAME

Sauselle and Kessler Score Total of 30 Points as Title Favorites Win Again.

Roosevelt High basketball team is removing all doubt as to what school will win the city high school league championship. In the first game of the second round of the league schedule, played at Roosevelt last night, the Rough Riders won their fifth straight game, defeating Beaumont, 48 to 28.

Soldan won a closely played match from Cleveland at the Cleveland gym, 24 to 19.

About 1500 persons witnessed the game at Roosevelt High and only 200 were at Cleveland.

Kahn Very Promising.

Sauselle and Kessler, right forward and center of the Roosevelt team, continued to dominate the attack and between them they scored 30 points against Beaumont. Kahn, at left forward, was quite serviceable. He has starred in every game since he succeeded Moffett and Bailey, former regular at the left forward position.

There was never any doubt of the outcome, Beaumont's defense going to pieces before the clever and fast maneuvering of the Rough Riders.

Cleveland Starts Too Late.

Soldan started with a rush against Cleveland but the South Siders were leading at the close of the first quarter, 4-2. Cleveland seemed too eager to play a defensive game and although the strategy was momentarily successful. Soldan finally broke through and popped a couple of field goals into the basket and at the close of the half Soldan was leading 9-6.

When the score reached 33-15, late in the game, Cleveland rallied but the spurt came too late.

KIND DAVID TRIUMPHS IN THE 'WE' HANDICAP

HAVANA, Feb. 11.—The National Stables' King David gave the spectators of Oriental Park another brilliant exhibition today in winning the fifth race, the "We" Handicap, at a mile and 50 yards. He won by a length from Euphrates, while Queen Towton was third, after being mussed about all through the race by Jockey J. Mann.

The race was the second in two days named in honor of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is in Havana with his "Spirit of St. Louis."

SPORT SALAD

by L. C. Davis

Abraham Lincoln.

THE birthday of a famous guy
Today is celebrated;
Among the many reasons why—
The slaves he liberated.
When Abraham was in the chair
The job was hard to handle,
But Honest Abe was always there
Without a breath of scandal.

The law he studied as a boy
And promptly graduated;
Then afterwards through Illinois
With Douglas he debated.
By candle light he had to learn
His store of legal knowledge;
He had no "midnight oil" to burn,
A cabin was his college.

Although of low and humble birth
He scaled the heights of glory,
Withal he had a vein of mirth
And loved to tell a story.
While Honest Abe had many cares
Because of office seeking,
There were no multimillionaires
With oil and scandal reeking.

With patient hands he wrought and patched
Our sadly severed nation;
No hint of boodle was attached
To his administration.
No guile was in his kindly heart,
His enemies he cherished;
In life he bravely did his part
And as a martyr perished.

Perhaps.

See where Tony Foley's gambling house was damaged by a bomb. Probably some crap-shooter trying to shoot the works.

By a vote of 56 to 26 the United States Senate voted against third terms for Presidents. There was nothing said, however, about putting a time limit on Senators.

Who Started It?

Aggressive war must be outlawed but war for legitimate defense is quite all right, according to a committee of war experts. The only thing wrong with that picture is to find the aggressor.

Fourteen years after the World War we haven't found out who started it. We haven't even found out who won it.

Germany will swear on a stack of Bibles 14 feet high that she didn't start it and we are positive that America, England, France, Italy or Belgium are entirely innocent of knocking the chip off Germany's shoulder. Maybe Sandino started it.

As for the winner we hold no brief, but we notice that they are paying off on America and will be for some years to come.

There is only one way to stop those big fights. Grab the promoters and throw them in jail. Nations, like box fighters, are not going to fight for the fun of it.

Dr. Peltzer lays his defeat by Hay Conger on the soft condition of the track. Anyhow, it was pretty soft for Conger.

Republic First Colt Named for Fairmount Derby

Polk Lafoon Nominates His Great Runner for $25,000 Race, June 2.

The first nomination for the $25,000 Fairmount Derby to be run Saturday, June 2, as the paramount feature of the spring meeting at Fairmount Park, came from Polk Lafoon, member of the Kentucky Racing Commission, who named the good colt, Republic. As a 2-year-old Republic raced in consistent form and showed wonderful promise of developing into the Derby class. He has also been named in the Kentucky Derby and other stake events for the coming season.

According to C. Bruce Head, general manager, indications point to an excellent list of nominations in all of the six early closing stake events of the Fairmount Park meeting which opens May 26 and continues to include Saturday, July 7. In addition to the $25,000 Fairmount Derby, the stakes book issued this week carries the conditions of five other stakes, each of which will provide $5000 in added money. These include the Collinsville Handicap for 3-year-olds and up at six furlongs, the Statler Hotel Handicap for 3-year-olds and up at one and one-sixteenth miles, the Jefferson Hotel Handicap for 3-year-olds and up at one and one-eighth miles, and two events for 2-year-olds, the Illinois Stakes for fillies and the Valley Stakes for colts and geldings, both over a distance of five and one-half furlongs. Entries for the stake events close Saturday, March 31.

Other than the stakes several features for the spring meeting will be provided in special overnight events, Mr. Head said yesterday. These will include Memorial Day and Independence Day Handicaps and the Benish Cup, the latter event named in honor of the well-known St. Louisan, E. A. Benish, who will present to the owner of the winner a magnificent sterling silver trophy.

Eastern Skaters Win National Indoor Titles

INJURY TO KEEP BASS IDLE FOR 2 OR 3 MONTHS

Philadelphia Fighter Fought Last 12 Rounds Against Canzoneri With Fracture of Collarbone.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—A game little ring terrier, Benny Bass of Philadelphia, lay in a private hospital tonight and pondered the vicissitudes of a fight "racket" that brought him a broken collar bone in the midst of the greatest opportunity of his fistic life time.

About his right shoulder snuggled a plaster cast, holding together a fractured clavicle, suffered in the third round of his brilliant but unsuccessful bulldog effort to wrest the featherweight crown from Tony Canzoneri in a 15-round slugfest last night. Besides the broken main bones, the cast held in place splinters of bone ground away in the last 12 rounds, when Bass, despite the agony of his hurt, smashed and tore at the elusive Italian in a thrilling effort to win the title.

It is believed that Bass will be out of the ring for two and possibly three months. The boxer will remain at the hospital for about a week.

Aug. 27—Men's Doubles, Veterans and Father-and-Sons, Longwood, Boston.

Sept. 1—Girls' National Hard Court, Berkeley, Cal.

Sept. 3—Girls' National Turf Court, Philadelphia Cricket Club.

Sept. 10—Men's Singles, Veterans' Singles, Forest Hills.

Dec., 1928—Junior and Boys' National Indoor, Longwood, Boston.

March, 1929—Men's National Indoor, Seventh Regiment, T. C., New York.

Tilden Again No. 1.

Tilden again heads the men's national singles rankings. Hunter is second, with George M. Lott Jr., the young Chicago star, in third place on the list.

Tilden, paired with Hunter, also was given first ranking in the national men's doubles, with William M. "Little Bill" Johnson and R. Norris Williams second.

In the women's national singles division, Miss Helen Wills was given top position, followed by Mrs. Molla Mallory and Mrs. A. H. Chapin Jr., of Springfield, Mass.

The seven others of the first 10 ranking players in the national men's singles in the order named were Manuel Alonzo of Philadelphia; John Hennessey of Indianapolis; John Van Ryn of Orange, N. J.; Arnold W. Jones of Providence, R. I.; John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal.; Lewis N. White of Austin, Tex., and Creston W. Holman of San Francisco.

Wray Brown Not Observed.

Richard N. Williams II joined Johnston among those grouped at the foot of the ranking list with the statement "not ranked due to insufficient playing data." A. H. Chapin Jr., Wray Brown of St. Louis, and L. B. Rice were also disposed of this way.

Among the women stars of former years, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup and Mrs. C. J. Hubbard Jr. were excluded from the ranking list for the same reason.

The leading 10 women players of 1927 follow:

1. Miss Wills.
2. Mrs. Molla Mallory, New York.
3. Mrs. A. H. Chapin Jr., Springfield, Mass.
4. Miss Helen Jacobs, San Francisco.
5. Miss Eleanor Goss, New York.
6. Mrs. J. D. Corbiere, New York.
7. Miss Penelope Anderson, Richmond.
8. Miss Margaret Blake, Boston.
9. Mrs. E. H. Roeser, New York.
10. Miss Alice Francis, Montclair, N. J.

Other Rankings.

Junior singles—No. 1, Frank W. Shields, New York.

Boys' singles—No. 1, William Jacobs.

Junior doubles—No. 1, C. A. Smith and E. Jacobs, Baltimore.

Boys' doubles—No. 1, Kready and Kamrath.

Girls' singles—No. 1, Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal.

Girls' doubles—No. 1, M. Gladman and J. Cruickshank, California.

Ruth Bailey of Webster Groves was ranked No. 9 on the girls' list.

Saxon	108	4	5	2^{h}	1^{h}	1^{h}	1^{h}	5	G. Arnold	15.19

Helen's Babe, showing improvement, rated off the early pace, closed fast and held War Eagle safe. The latter made game effort. Nor'Easter no mishap. Sea Rocket, probably best, never had a racing room; all through the stretch he was held in on the rail and could not get through. Saxon quit badly after showing early speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Helen's Babe, win $12.76, place $5.64, show $3.94; War Eagle, place $4.16, show $3.06; Nor'Easter, show $3.40.

SIXTH RACE—$1200, claiming, the Made Last Night Purse, 4-year-olds and up, mile and one-eighth: Start good; won handily; place same. Went to post 3:26, at post 4 minutes. Winner, b. g. 6, by Setback-Bud. Trainer, F. Jenkins. Time, :24 4-5, :49 1-5, 1:14 1-5, 1:40, 1:53 1-5. Value to winners: $850, $200, $100, $50.

Upstart	110	5	3	3^{n}	6	6	6	6	W. Garner	34.45

Parole II was hustled into lead soon after the start and holding on well won with much in reserve for entire trip. Jealous was taken back repeatedly and raced hard restrained and wide for three quarters, moved fast thereafter, but was not good enough for the winner. Hilary was kept far out of it for half mile and outstayed Black Bart in final drive. Black Bart raced well up during early stages and tired in stretch. Upstart moved up strongly in first quarter, but tired badly.

$2 mutuels paid: Parole II, win $4.12, place $2.88, show $2.22; Jealous, place $3.62, show $2.40; Hilary, show $2.46.

DOWN the STRETCH

America Well Represented.

THE United States is well represented in the Grand National Steeplechase, to be run over the Aintree course, Liverpool, March 30. Stephen Sanford heads the American owners with two entrants. His Bright's Boy is placed at the top of the list with 175 pounds. Mount Etna, his other racer, is in at 164. A. C. Schwartz, who won the event in 1926 with Jack Horner, has again named his great fencer for the race. He is assigned 161 pounds. Other American horsemen with entries in the Grand National are: Victor Emanuel, Howard Bruce and R. V. Strassburger. Bruce's entry is Billy Barton, which won the Winchester Steeplechase in England recently and was made favorite in the future book on the Grand National.

Bill Barton raced over the flat in this country for Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, and won the $25,000 Cuban Derby. After being retired from flat racing, Billy Barton became the property of Howard Bruce, who paid $2000 to Sam Louis, king of the halter brigade, for him. Bruce raced him with considerable success at the hunts meeting in this country and he impressed Bruce to such an extent that Bruce determined to try for the Grand National, and accordingly shipped him abroad some months ago for training. His first race abroad was the Winchester Handicap Steeplechase. At that time he was held at 33 to 1 in the future betting on the Grand National. He went to the post in the Winchester at 100 to 6 and won easily by three lengths. He fenced so cleverly in this race that his Grand National odds shortened to 16 to 1. His odds recently dropped to 10 to 1. Billy Barton will be given another race before he faces the barrier in the great steeplechase.

It is probable that A. C. Schwartz will send both of his horses, Jack Horner and Darracq, to the post in the Grand National Steeplechase if he can get a couple of suitable riders for them.

To Race Three Divisions.

THE Greentree Stable, owned by Mrs. H. P. Whitney, will be raced in three divisions this year. They will be handled by Tommy Murphy, Clyde Phillips, Vince Powers or Ray Waldron. Powers, as usual, will devote most of his attention to the cross-country division of the stable. Phillips has some 20 head of active campaigners in New Orleans, where this winter he has won more than his share of purses. Later he will take a part of his string to Tijuana for the Coffroth and other handicaps. He will send Peter Peter and Saxon after the Coffroth and Rosinante after the Tijuana Derby and Oaks.

More than $1,710,000 was distributed to horesmen in Kentucky for the season of 1927, according to statistics recently released by the Kentucky racing officilas. Hal Price Headley, owner of Mike Hall, which set two records at Latonia during the fall meetings, led the owners with $89,300 to his credit. H. P. Whitney was second with $71,248 and J. N. Camden third with $63,466. H. P. Whitney's Whiskery, which started only once in Kentucky, was the leading thoroughbred by grace of his $51,000 victory in the Kentucky Derby.

OKLAHOMA IS VICTOR OVER TIGERS, 34-33

Missouri Has Early Lead but Loses Ground When Center, Baker, Is Put Out.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NORMAN, Ok., Feb. 11.—Taking a slight lead at the opening of the second period after the score was tied 18 to 18 at the half way post the Sooners barely nosed out Missouri 34 to 33 tonight to keep a clean slate in the Missouri Valley basketball race.

Missouri fought the Oklahomans all the way and the game was a toss-up until the final gun. Baker, tall Missouri center, who had battled Holt, Oklahoma pivot man, almost on even terms, went out on four personal fouls when the final half was only five minutes old and from then on Oklahoma took the tip-off without argument, but the floor work of the visitors just about offset the advantage.

Coach George Edwards scrambled his line-up at the start, starting Captain Yunker and Ruble at forwards, Baker at center, and H. Walsh and Waldorf at guards.

This combination pulled into an early lead at the opening of the game, and was ahead 9 to 2 before the Oklahomans called time out to reorganize their attack. Thereafter, except for a short interval Missouri led only to have the score tied at the half. Oklahoma's lead in the last half was continuously threatened, and Flamank's long field goal just before the end of the game cut the margin to a single point.

WASHINGTON RESORTS TO LONG SHOOTING

But Oklahoma Aggies Fall Back on Stalling Tactics to Frustrate Late Rush of Bears.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STILLWATER, Ok., Feb. 11.—Although they threw a real scare into their opponents, the Washington University basketball team was defeated by the Oklahoma Aggies here tonight, 34 to 30. It was the second defeat Washington suffered on this trip, as the University of Oklahoma defeated them last night.

A persistent long-range attack led by Capt. Eckert cut the Aggie lead of seven points at the half-way mark to a scant three in the closing minutes of play and the home team stalled with the ball, while substitutes were being rushed in. With less than a minute to play, Capt. Statton sank a free throw, which made the Aggie margin four points.

Eckert Finds the Target.

After striving in vain to penetrate the Aggie defense, Washington resorted to long-range shots and with unusual success. Capt. Eckert made seven field goals during the game, every one of them from the middle of the court and several of them hurried shots at that. Three of these long shots came in the first half and the other four in the second half.

Toward the end of the game, when Washington was making its spirited bid fo the lead, he was given the ball practically every time. The entire crowd held its breath when he let go for one of his long shots. Eckert was the high point man of the game, getting a total of 15. Wright, Aggie scoring ace, and now in second place in the high scorers of the conference, made 12 points, five field goals and two free throws.

Washington took time out when there was four minutes yet to play in the first half and the Aggies were leading 15 to 10. At the half way mark the score was 19 to 12 for the Aggies.

Long Range Shots.

Eckert opened up the second half scoring with a long shot. McCoy and Wright each counted a basket and Washington called time out. With eight minutes left to play and leading, 31 to 22, the Aggies called time out. In the last eight minutes of play Washington opened up with her long range guns and scored eight points, while the Aggies were scoring three. Only the fact that the Aggies stalled for time prevented Washington from getting several more shots at the basket.

With 45 seconds to play Weintge committed his fourth personal foul and Capt. Statton made the free throw good which gave the Aggies a four-point victory.

Olympic Games Begin With Britain, France and Sweden Gaining Victories at Hockey

Heavy Snowstorm Rages as Banners of 25 Nations Are Unfurled for Parade—American Skaters in Action Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 11.—The first victories of the 1928 Olympics fell to Great Britain, France and Sweden today on a day about evenly divided between ceremonies, speeches, parades and the four hockey games that opened the winter sports program.

While guns boomed and echoes sounded back from the lofty Alps, the banners of 25 nations were unfurled in a raging snowstorm for the parade of 900 athletes. At the Olympic ice rink, President Schulthess of the Swiss Athletic Federation welcomed the competing nations to his country in ceremonies that occupied the entire morning.

Four hockey matches comprised the competitive program for the afternoon. France defeated Hungary, 2 goals to none; Great Britain swamped Belgium, 7 to 3, and Sweden shut out Czecho-Slovakia, 3 to 0, while the best the highly-touted Austrian team could do against Switzerland was tie, 4—4.

Britain and Sweden displayed the best ice form, but experts do not believe that either has the slightest chance of defeating Canada.

The United States will appear in the winter sports competition for the first time on Monday, when heats will be skated in the 500 and 5000 meters races.

O'Neil Farrell of Chicago has drawn Backman of Finland in his heat, and is considered fortunate. Backman is fast enough to carry the American along at a stiff pace, observers believe, and the races are against time. Irving Jaffe of New York, skates against Baroni, the Italian, and Eddie Murphy of Chicago is paired with Heiden of Holland.

WRAY'S COLUMN

spitball pitcher Jack Quinn to the New York Yanks in the fall of 1915, I think it was. The old National Commission was functioning, with Garry Herman as chairman.

"Comiskey had obtained permission to use Quinn for a few games, late in the season, Quinn having been with a Pacific Coast club after the Federal League settlement. The Yanks had a clear title to this player and when the case came before the commission we unanimously voted to give Quinn to New York. It was an open and shut case.

"But Comiskey seemed to take that to heart and from that time he became my bitterest enemy. We had always worked together. I had picked Comiskey for the job when we went into St. Paul, and I brought him to Chicago and financially aided him in many ways, at the start."

Nemesis.

At every step of the way for 12 years Comiskey has resolutely fought Johnson. On occasion it is said that his club has cast the sole American League vote with the National League clubs, in effort to defeat the policies of President Johnson.

And all because of the title to one player of ordinary value!

Smoke! Is There a Fire?

A few months ago testimony was brought forward to show that William Demetral had been forced to put up a forfeit of several thousand dollars in the form of a mortgage on some property in Chicago, as "protection" money that he would not try to throw an opponent. It developed from a suit filed or contemplated by Mrs. Demetral, wife of the wrestler, to recover the deed of trust.

Wednesday, in Chicago, Jimmy Logas, a wrestler, filed suit to recover $1000 "protection money," which he states he was compelled to post to guarantee that he would lay down to Johnny Meyers, middleweight champion.

At the hearing of the Illinois committee of charges against the Illinois Athletic Commission, Martin Slattery, former manager of John Pesek, made similar allegations, involving matches in St. Louis and elsewhere.

One wonders if all this smoke is without a fire?

Might Be Mere Alibi.

In the underworld of the wrestling game the gossip for years has been that in matches where championships have been involved on more than one occasion the titleholder has been forced to put up thousands of dollars as guarantee that the "challenger" would not throw the titleholder.

In an interview in Los Angeles not so many months ago, John Pesek let out a yelp that he was being pinched, in much the same way.

We will have to pass the buck as to the truth or falsity of all these allegations. It is just as likely that a defeated wrestler would use such a plea as an alibi for his defeat—that he was forced to "lay down"—as it is that the champion actually demanded a money protection against defeat.

However, there seems little doubt that in several instances this practice was actually resorted to—and in high places.

Come Clean, Men.

It is this constant malign gossip and the overdoing of showmanship and exhibition stuff in wrestling, that has weakened public confidence.

Today the big cities of Nebraska, the home of several great mat stars, are no longer interested in promoting championship mat shows; while New York, the logical center of promotion, will have practically nothing to do with the game.

Joe Stecher and Ed Lewis can do much to restore confidence by a real struggle in St. Louis. If these men actually "shoot" their best, the atmosphere will be cleared.

Pontiacs Lead in Women's Tourney

Coibion League Tenpin Five Totals 2473 in Handicap Event.

The Pontiac five of the Coibion League rolled into first place in the St. Louis Women's Handcap Tenpin Tournament at the Gravois Recreation Alleys last night, with a total score of 2473.

With 115 pins a game handicap, the Pontiac team made net scores of 676, 738 and 714. The team is made up of Mrs. E. Jacobsmeyer, Mrs. A. Umbright, Mrs. B. Jacobsmeyer, Miss M. Meyer and Mrs. E. Lepping.

Schaefer's Delmar five, with a 2471 score, landing in second place and the Nationals third, with 2464. The Schaefer team had scratch scores of 819, 634 and 838. The low middle game hurt the team's chances.

Mrs. H. Huhl and Mrs. M. Musick, with 1051, including 111 pins handicap for the three games, took the lead in the doubles. Mrs. H. T. Speck and Mrs. W. G. Sober were one point behind the leaders in total count.

Mrs. A. Dillman's score of 174, 184 and 196, with eight pins a game handicap, gave her 578 and top position in singles. Next came Mrs. A. Horling with 564. Mrs. Horling had a 201 game. A 206 count in the third game gained Mrs. Speck third position with a total of 562.

CHERKOIAN ELECTED PRESIDENT BY THE GUARANTY CLUB

The Guaranty Cycling Club at its recent meeting elected officers for 1928. George Cherkoian was elected president, while Jack Vickers was named vice president and Don Rehm secretary and treasurer.

Plans have been drafted for the coming season. Runs, races and various contests will be numerous, as well as the regular six-hour boys' week event, which is held annually. The club will also hold their tourney races during the summer months. Henry Dunn, Missouri junior champion for 1927, was presented with an engraved certificate at the meeting.

tion to Herschel Bennett, formerly with the Browns and now with Milwaukee.

As five outfielders likely will be carried by manager Howley, Sturdy, McCoy, Badgro and Bennett will have to fight it out for the two reserve berths.

In the meantime, the club will continue its search for more experienced men to bolster the outer defense.

Bill Friel, business manager, said yesterday that the club has had no difficulty over contracts with the players so far and anticipated none..

Cards Release Allyn Stout.

Allyn Stout, pitcher, a native of Webster Groves, has been released by the Cardinals to the Omaha Club of the Western League under an optional agreement, Branch Rickey, vice-president and business manager of the St. Louis Nationals, announced.

Under the terms of the deal the Cardinals will have the right to pick any one player from the Omaha Club at a stipulated price by Aug. 15 next. Stout probably will remain with Omaha for the season.

The youngster is considered a real hurling prospect and it is thought he will develop faster with Omaha, where he will get plenty of work, than he would with the Cardinals or any of the St. Louis team's associated minor league teams.

The Handy "Quick Recall."

Rickey has announced a policy to be followed by the club of placing good young men out on option with clubs not affiliated with the Cardinals, most of them under quick recall agreements, as a means of giving them experience and providing a supply of players for the Cardinals in case of injury to any of the regulars.

Actually this has the effect of increasing the club's active list. Each team is allowed to carry 25 players regularly and the privilege of having eight men out on quick recall. Thus, the team which is able to take full advantage of the option rule will have 33 available men.

12 Pitchers Available.

The release of Stout cuts the number of pitchers on the Cardinal roster to 12, hardly enough to perform the routine work at training camp. It is likely this staff will be augmented by another dozen youngsters who will be with the team for tryouts. Manager Bill McKechnie, therefore, will have plenty of men to pitch to his batters and the youngsters will have the advantage of getting acquainted with members of the team with which they hope to play some day.

Rickey is a strong advocate of the system of having youngsters attend a big league club's training camp. He believes it relieves them of any awe of the major leagues and has the effect of fitting them for fast company a year earlier than in the natural development.

O'Farrell Gets License to Marry Chicago Girl

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.

Robert O'Farrell, former manager, and at present a catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, obtained a marriage license today to wed Miss Arolene Edwards of Chicago. He gave his age as 31 and Miss Edwards stated she was 26 years old.

Plestina Meets Syrian Wrestler

Ojile Substituted for Scharpegge on This Afternoon's Card.

Frank Ojile, Syrian champion, has been substituted for Fritz Scharpegge in the latter's scheduled match with Marin Plestina, Slav heavyweight, at Croatian Hall this afternoon. Scharpegge was forced to cancel his engagement because of an injury suffered in training at Milwaukee.

Plestina, who admits of only one defeat in his last 800 engagements, appeared here two weeks ago and defeated George Latzgoff, Russian title claimant, in straight falls. Plestina has posted a forfeit with the Illinois State Commission for a match with the winner of the Stecher-Lewis match.

Ojile's weight for the match today will be about 245 pounds. Plestina will weigh 235.

Two preliminaries have been arranged, matching Speedy Shaeffer and Johnny Mason in the curtain-raiser, which has a time limit of one hour, and pairing John Kadish and Mike Zanovich in the semi-final for two falls in three to a finish. The program will open at 2:30 p. m.

WASHINGTON JOINS VALLEY RIFLE LEAGUE

As a result of the fine showing of the Washington University Rifle Team against Missouri, last year's champions, they have been invited to join the Missouri Valley Rifle League.

The league opens the week of Feb. 18. During this week Washington will oppose Kansas and Kemper Military School. During the week of Feb. 25 the team meets Oklahoma Aggies and Dayton U. Other rifle teams on the Bear schedule are: Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas Aggies, Seventh Corps Area, Texas Aggies and Hearst International, Intercollegiate.

During the week of March 24 Washington will take part in the league finals.

Martin and Beye Lead in Classic

Bowl 2510 to Take First Place in Frank Heidel's Annual Tourney.

Lee Martin and Forrest Beye were apparent winners of the Heidel second annual two-men bowling classic at the Park Avenue Recreation last night. They bowled into the lead with a total of 2510, Beye getting 1304 pins and Martin 1206.

Jerry Ameling and Ben Cohen were second with 2486, Cohen gathering 1327 and Ameling 1159. Ollie Oberbeck, with 1250, and Oscar Whitehead, 1231, totaled 2481 for third place.

Other leading scores late last night were: Roy Flesh and Larry Brock, 2455; J. Dickerson and C. Bascom 2431, and J. Monnig and W. Kleeburg 2420.

DORAIS TO DIRECT ATHLETICS AT DETROIT FOR NEXT FIVE YEARS

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 11.—Charles E. Dorais today signed a five-year contract as athletic director of the University of Detroit.

Dorais, the throwing part of the famous old Notre Dame forward-passing combination, "Dorais to Rockne," came to the local school as head coach three years ago. Prior to that he was athletic director of Gonzaga University, on the Pacific Coast.

ST. CHARLES FIVE SWAMPS PRINCIPIA

The St. Charles High School basketball team gained a one-sided victory over Principia in a practice game at St. Charles last night, score 32 to 9. Bacon, right forward for St. Charles, made 11 points.

St. Charles will entertain Kirkwood with a County League game next Friday night.

Co-Ed Fencer Beats Two Men in College Meet

By the Associated Press.

DELAWARE, Feb. 11.

A "CO-ED" fencer, defeating two representatives of the sturdier sex, led Michigan State College to victory over Ohio Wesleyan today, 15 to 2.

Miss Audrey Glenn thrust and parried her way to victories over William Craig of Wheeling, W. Va., and Archie Peace of Amityville, N. Y.

THUMM TO PLAY AT CENTER FOR THE BEN MILLERS

As compared with the special attractions which have preceeded and the cup game which will follow, on February 26, today's soccer program at Sportsman's Park may appear to lack color but it will scarcely lack action. Two league games are booked, the Ben Millers, lone St. Louis survivors in the national cup series, will oppose the Wellstons in the feature match. John Marre's Tablers, who lead the league, will face the Morgans.

As the close of the season approaches, the club managers increase their efforts to discover new talent to replace players who have failed to deliver. Thus, there will be changes in each lineup and the forward line of the Ben Millers will undergo a sweeping transformation.

Most important of the changes, probably, is the return of Gene Thumm, the German boy, to professional company after a year's seasoning in the Municipal League. He will play center forward for the Millers today. Joe Hennessy, the regular center, will switch to inside right during Thumm's tenure. Peewee Fitzgerald will return to inside left, Nash remaining out of the game because of illness. Manager Foley also has a new fullback in George Klund, a husky fellow who had a trial with Tate Brady's Wellstons, three years ago.

W. E. Barker, president of the St. Louis Soccer League, announced last night that he has asked Joe Stecher, world's wrestling champion, and his party, to be guests of the league at today's game.

TWO NEW YORK CLUBS IN RACE

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The National Challenge Cup competition, annually conducted by the United States Football Association to determine the champion soccer eleven in the United States, has now reached the stage where a single game remains to be played to complete the list of divisional semifinalists—four in the East and four in the West.

One hundred and seventeen entries were received for the present tournament which opened last October. This number was 17 less than the record attained in 1923-24. A qualifying series was conducted in which a field of 95 clubs reduced itself to 10 teams for entrance into the competition proper, with 22 exempted elevens. Of the 10 qualifying survivors which were stacked against the cream of the various sections but one has reached the semifinal round—the American Hungarian eleven of Cleveland having accomplished this by taking the measure of the Wellstons of St. Louis and the Vienna S. C. of Chicago.

The remaining semifinalists in the Western group are the Sparta and Bricklayer teams of Chicago and the Ben Millers of St. Louis. It is quite likely that St. Louis and Chicago will be selected as the sites for the semifinals in that division.

New York Clubs to Replay.

Although the Eastern games were scheduled to be completed on Jan. 25, inclement weather conditions and drawn games have retarded the progress and if the Nationals-Giants second-round game is concluded next Sunday it will have required three weeks to determine the quartet of semifinalists.

Fall River, the present national champions, again loom up as the likely candidates to represent the East against the West in the grand final which will take place in April.

The J. & P. Coats team upset the dope in Eastern soccer circles recently by eliminating New Bedford and Providence in the first and second rounds, respectively. They will meet the Fall River booters in the New England semifinals.

Brooklyn a Factor.

Brooklyn has already established itself as a semifinalist by defeating the powerful Bethlehem Steel team in the second round last Saturday.

University City Soccer.

Following is the schedule of games in the University City Soccer League this afternoon:

Slatterys vs. Arts; St. Johns vs. Trumbulls.

ST. LOUIS AT DISADVANTAGE AS TO HEIGHT

Creighton's Tall Lads Turn the Match Into One-Sided Volley Ball Contest — Jensen Prominent.

In a game raggedly played and raggedly supervised, St. Louis University suffered its sixth basketball defeat in 16 starts last night on the Billiken floor at the hands of Creighton University of Omaha, 38 to 25.

Superior height that dwarfed the tallest of the St. Louis U. men gave the Omaha team a big advantage and enabled it to prosecute a long passing game and turn the match into a one-sided volleyball contest. A return game will be payed at Omaha on March 3.

Creighton Sure of Tip-Off.

Center Jensen of Creighton gave the Billikens no end of trouble. Standing about 6 feet, 7 inches tall, he had an easy time getting the tip-off, was always under the basket ready to bat the ball, and had an astounding talent for getting into "held-ball" plays, in which he hardly had to jump.

In spite of their towering opponents, the Billikens looked good in their short passing attack, Oldfield and H. Strong playing brilliantly in darting through the Creighton defense. But they were smothered on the follow-up except for Drury, who managed to retrieve two wild shots by pushing the ball through.

Desperately fast play enabled St. Louis to keep up with Creighton for the most of the first half, tying the score tied. H. Strong and Drury did most of the scoring with Anderson, Oldfield and J. Strong feeding the scorers. But the accurate shooting of Fogarty, in particular, nullified the best work of the locals and Kampf dropped in two field goals at the close of the period to put Creighton in the lead, 18 to 10.

Billikens Get Wild.

In the second period Creighton's guarding showed considerable improvement while the Billikens, on the other hand, developed wildness on their passes and spoiled many potential scores.

STECHER CAMP GRIM AND SILENT IN WORK FOR TITLE CONTEST

Omaha. I swore then that I'd never let it happen again."

A Day's Work.

In answer to a question, Tony explained in what manner he determines how much work Joe should indulge in each day.

"So long as he goes at his gymnasium work with spirit, and enthusiasm, I let him have plenty of it. When he appears to be reluctant to get on the mat, or when he becomes irritable or cross, or he tires too quickly, I order a let-up. I can tell, too, by wrestling with him whether he is as strong and eager for work as he should be, and I plan the work accordingly.

Up at 6:30, Retires at 9.

"He is doing a tremendous amount of work each day, but don't forget that he gets lots of rest. He retires to bed at 9 o'clock or earlier every evening, and he is up at 6:30. He rests a bit each afternoon after a gymnasium work-out. This gives his system a chance to build up the tissue which was torn down in the four hours of exercise during the day. That's why he has been able to put on weight during his training period which covers nearly two months."

One doesn't need Tony's assurance that Joe is in great condition for his match. He looks the part.

"If Lewis will 'mix,' there won't be anything to it," added Tony Stecher, referring to the outcome of the title bout. "If Lewis refuses to meet Joe on the offensive, it may be a weary bout, but the fault will not be Joe's, for he is perfectly willing and eager to settle the thing quickly. If Lewis will come out of his corner with the same eagerness to wrestle, Joe will beat him easier than he could beat a man of the ability and style of Jimmy Londos. If Lewis crawls into a shell and takes a purely defensive stand, the bout will probably be a long drawn-out affair, but Joe will win, just the same."

As to the other camp, Lewis and his manager, Billy Sandow, are due in St. Luis tomorrow morning from Kansas City.

SOUTHWARD TREK OF MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS IN FULL SWING THIS WEEK

FEB. 18 STARTING DAY FOR BROWNS, 19TH FOR CARDS

St. Louis Fans Will Watch Rebuilt American League Team — Squads Smaller This Year.

By Herman Wecke.

Before another week has passed, several of the major league clubs will be headed South to prepare for the campaign. The Chicago Cubs, going to Catalina Island, Cal., will be the first to migrate. Joe McCarthy's advance guard will start for the Pacific Coast today. On Feb. 18 the first contingent of Brownies will head for West Palm Beach, Fla. The following day, the Cardinal battery candidates will start South.

It will continue in that manner until the first of March, when all the teams will be in the sunny climates preparing for the opening of the season, April 11.

The athletes of the various clubs will get into condition, in the American League, for the purpose of heading off Jake Ruppert's high-salaried Yankees and in the National to dethrone the present champion Pittsburg Pirates.

Interest in Browns.

The 1928 Browns will present more changes than any team in either major league. Owner Phil Ball certainly kept his word last fall when he made the announcement that he would wreck the club. Many new faces are certain to be in the batting order. The club has only three veteran outfielders, two of them new to St. Louis. And then there will be changes on the infield, the pitching staff and even behind the bat, with Clyde Manion sure to grab one of the places.

The Cardinal IF List.

While there will not such a great deal of fight for positions with the Cardinals, there nevertheless are a great many IFS connected with the world champions of 1926. Among these are the condition of several athletes, who were unable to perform at their best during 1926. These IFS are as follows:

The condition of Tommy Thevenow's leg.

The condition of Ray Blades' knee.

The condition of Chick Hafey's eyes.

The ability of Lester Bell to come back.

The ability of Flint Rhem to come back.

The condition of Bob O'Farrell's throwing arm.

There are enough IFS to put gray hair in any manager's head. However, advance reports on all the injured athletes state they are "set for a great year." However, reports, in the case of baseball players, mean little. It will take regular combat on the baseball field to prove whether or not they are "as good as ever." And that will be enough for Bill McKechnie, the new manager of the club to worry about.

Training Squads Smaller.

One thing is noticeable regarding the spring training trips of this season. The squads, as a general rule, are smaller than ever before. This holds true even in the case of the Cardinals, who usually take a whole army of athletes South each spring. Magnates are retrenching on high salaries and it even seems to have gone to taking athletes south for the training trip.

Several old stars will be missing—notably Walter Johnson and Ty Cobb. Johnson is now manager of the Newark club, while Cobb is still out in the "cold." Tris Speaker, another veteran, has signed with the Athletics.

And then other old stars will be in new uniforms, including George Sisler and Rogers Hornsby, the greatest who ever wore St. Louis uniforms. Sisler is with Washington and Hornsby has gone again, this time from the Giants to the Boston Braves.

SODALITY LEAGUE TITLE AT STAKE IN BASKET GAME TODAY

The Junior Sodality League basketball championship is at stake in the game between the Visitation and St. Marks teams at Sherman Park Community Center this afternoon. A double-header will be played, the Hip A. C. meeting the Holy Names in the first game, starting at 2 p. m.

Y. M. H. A. WHITES BEAT DOWNTOWN Y.

The Y. M. H. A. Whites basketball team defeated the Downtown Y. M. C. A., 33-19, on the former five's court last night. Farbstein, with nine points, and Steiny, with eight, led the winners in scoring, while Newby and Steinhoff had five each for the Downtown Y.

In a preliminary game, the Y. M. H. A. Blues ran away from the Stuarts, 57—6. Roodman had 22 points for the Blues, while Sacks had 15.

Former Champion Tells of Battles With "Philadelphia Lightweights," Weighing Up to Middle Limit.

By George (Kid) Lavigne.
Former Lightweight Champion of the World.
(As told to E. P. Rucker.)

No. 14—"Memoirs of a Savage Ring."

(Copyright, 1928.)

JACK EVERHARDT and I fought our return match in 1896 at the Bohemian Athletic Club, New York. The promoters of the club had the idea of patterning it after the National Sporting Club of London, but this didn't succeed.

The plan originated with Charles H. Genslinger. Membership was limited to 500. Each member paid $50 to see Everhardt and me fight. More than 5000 fight fans stood outside, hoping to get in, and eagerly awaiting the result.

Everhardt was a native of New Orleans, but had adopted Philadelphia as his home. He was one of the "Philadelphia lightweights." He was five feet six inches tall, powerfully built and a fast boxer who could hit. Jack had championship stuff.

Everhardt was shifty on his feet and fought me at long range. He gave me a lacing for 20 rounds. As the twenty-first round began, both my eyes were nearly closed. My nose was bleeding, and my mouth was terribly swollen. The ear Walcott had damaged was bleeding.

Honest-to-Goodness Fighting.

SAM FITZPATRICK had to use leeches on my eyes between rounds, and he put a strip of adhesive plaster across the bridge of my nose. Those certainly were the good old days of honest-to-goodness fighting.

I hadn't neglected to sock Everhardt, but most of my work had been directed to his body, and didn't show so much.

Everhardt was full of confidence. He looked like a sure winner on points. The championship was not involved, as we were fighting at 138 ringside, the lowest Everhardt could do. But it would have meant a loss of prestige for me to have a decision go against me.

Once more I had the satisfaction of noting an ebbing of my foe's strength. I felt this distinctly in the clinches. There were four more rounds to go. I was satisfied. Once more my own endurance and strength had carried me through a fearful pace, and I retained my full power.

Blinded, but Hitting.

"RIGHT on top of him," whispered Fitzpatrick as I started up for the twenty-third round.

I rushed. Everhardt fell into a clinch. I threw him off and ripped in a couple of solid body smashes that sent him staggering to the ropes. I was covered with blood and almost blind, but I could still hit.

I dimly saw Everhardt's body bounce off the ropes. I shot out a terrific straight right with all my weight behind it. It caught him in the mouth and he fell forward. I hooked a left uppercut and a right to the head. Everhardt lurched drunkenly. He was out on his feet.

The referee stopped the slaughter. Everhardt's seconds carried their man to his corner.

He Broke Owen Zeigler's Nose and Gained a Decision Over McPartland After Chasing Latter 20 Rounds.

Another "Philadelphia lightweight' was Owen Zeigler. That was a joke expression of those days. A "Philadelphia lightweight" differed from those of other cities in that they were really welterweights or middleweights who fought at catch weights, but called themselves lightweights.

Ziegler was a chunky Dutchman with the head and shoulders of a heavyweight.

Broke Opponent's Nose.

WE MET at the old Arena Gardens, in Philly, and went six rounds. No decisions were permitted. In the opening round I broke Ziegler's nose. In the second he was down on all fours for a count. I beat him in every round.

"Kid" McPartland stayed with me 25 rounds, thanks to his fleetness of foot. We met at the Broadway Athletic Club in February, 1896. McPartland had a long reach and he was clever. I chased him round after round, and got the referee's decision.

One of the New York papers published a half-page cartoon showing McPartland riding a bicycle around the ring, with me chasing him.

Sam Fitzpatrick was dissatisfied with a decision victory, and was for arranging another match.

But I said, "What for? To give him another chance to run a footrace with me?"

Knost Meets Formidable Foe In Ohio Champion

Billy Miller Has Held Cincinnati Heavy Title for Three Years.

Three interstate bouts, with the pick of the local amateur mittmen opposing three outstanding amateurs of Ohio, will feature the boxing tournament of the People's Motorbus A. C. at the Armory, Wednesday night.

Dave Knost, of the Motorbus Club, who has been idle for slightly more than six months, will go up against one of the most formidable foes of his career, when he clashes with Billy Miller, of the Fenwick A. C. of Cincinnati, O., present Ohio State champion, and three-time champion of his home city.

Miller crowds the sixfoot mark and weighs in at 180 pounds, whereby he is giving away 20 pounds in weight and four inches in height to Knost. However, Miller's ring generalship and shifty style of attack is expected to even up things. Miller won an intercity bout at Cleveland last night.

Others Not Chosen.

Patsy Haley, coach of the Cincinnati Club, will bring two additional boxers along, a middleweight and a lightweight, but the boys have not yet been definitely decided. The lightweight, however, will probably be Jimmy Konerman, another Ohio State title holder, who also won his clash with a Cleveland boy at the latter city last night. Jake Kraswick, of the East St. Louis Knights of Columbus, Western A. A. U. junior lightweight ace, is picked as the logical local boy to defend St. Louis at this weight.

Al. Stillman, of the Motorbus Club, Western A. A. U. junior champ, will be the invading middleweight's local opponent. Stillman is another kayo artist, his heavy wallop having won six of his last seven bouts. The last one was a technical kayo over Frankie Powers, of the South Broadway A. C., Western A. A. U. senior title holder for five consecutive years.

Entries for pairings in the preliminary contests are reported coming in at a fast rate.

5 MUNY SOCCER FINALISTS ARE RATED ON A PAR

Elimination Series Starts Today With No Outstanding Favorite—Palermos in Again.

Probably never before in the history of the organization has the Municipal Soccer League offered such an even balance of strength in the opening round of the championship elimination series. Three games will be played This afternoon. Five of the seven group champions are practically on a par.

It is generally expected that the St. Thomas Club will win from the Union Electric League champions in the game at Fairground Park, and the Palermos are outstanding favorites over the SS. Mary and Joseph team, champions of the Concordia Junior League. But in the third match, there is lots of room for doubt. The Geraghtys had a fierce struggle all season at Sherman Park and are therefore in fine shape for their test against the People's Motorbus team at Carondelet but the bus drivers are regarded as one of the strongest teams in the competition.

Luck Favors Angelicas.

The luck of the draw favored the Angelica team, the champions of Group Two at Fairground having drawn a bye. This club is regarded by most observers as a certain finalist. Standing in their path, in the semifinal round, will be the Palermos, a team which has not been scored against by any opponent in the full season of 11 games.

By reason of the fact that there have been but few changes in the lineup of the Palermos since their days as a junior club, the team has been able to develop a better understanding and a higher degree of team play than any of the other group winners.

Ever since the season of 1924-25, this group of players has been winning titles for the neighborhood of Columbus Square, at Tenth and Carr streets. Charles Ellersick, a Park Department guard, encouraged the organization of a soccer team in 1924 and it is due largely to his efforts that the original group of players has retained its identity through four seasons. Under the name of Paganos, the Columbus Square boys won the junior championship in 1924-25; as the S'Rencos they won their group title in 1925-26; as the Palermos they won their group title and went through to the semifinal of the championship series last season and now they are again in the championship fight. This is one of the finest records ever made by a Municipal League team.

All games of the elimination series, today, will start at 2:30 p. m.

Following is today's schedule:

AT FAIRGROUND PARK.
St. Thomas (Carondelet No. 1) vs. Steam Club (Union Electric League).

AT SHERMAN PARK.
Palermos (Fairground No. 3) vs. SS. Mary and Joseph (Concordia Park Juniors).

AT CARONDELET PARK.
Geraghtys (Sherman Park) vs. People's Motorbus (Carondelet No. 2).
Angelicas (Fairground No. 2) drew a bye.

WOOD ACCEPTS BRITISH CHALLENGE FOR WORLD MOTORBOAT HONORS

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—Commodore Gar Wood of Detroit, holder of the British international trophy symbolic of motorboat race supremacy, today accepted the challenge of the British Royal Yacht Club to defend his title next fall. The challenge was received by J. Lee Barrett, secretary of the Yachtsmen's Association of America, Friday, by cablegram, stating that details would follow by letter.

By telephone from Miami, Fla., Woods expressed satisfaction that a challenge had been made and said he would guarantee the Y. A. A. and the Detroit Yach club that he would be ready. He said he did not know whether he would build a new boat for the classic or drive one of his three "Miss Americas." The last British challenge was made in 1921 by the R. M. Y. C., but the boat owned by Sir Mackay Edgar sank during the race. France has challenged twice. Teddy Clarke, driving the "Excelsior France" made a poor showing against Wood's bot in 1926.

Many St. Louisans Are Visiting Southern Resorts

Miami, Orlando, Daytona Beach and Other Points in Florida, With Cruises to Nassau, Some of the More Popular Outing Places—Palm Beach Also Has More Than Its Usual Quota of Travelers From This City.

THE lull in the winter social season occasioned by the advent of Lent is affording members of society an interlude for delightful visits to Southern resorts, interesting cruises and short trips abroad.

Mrs. Edward Magnus of 4 Hortense place will leave St. Louis tomorrow to join the unusually large colony of St. Louisans in Florida. On Wednesday she will meet Mrs. Stewart McDonald of 24 Washington terrace and her debutante daughter, Miss Carol McDonald, who have been in the East where Miss McDonald attended the Yale prom, and together they will sail for Havana. Mr. Magnus will join his wife in a few days. Mrs. McDonald and her daughter plan to visit Nassau, that luxurious mecca for winter travelers, in the Bahama Islands. Mrs. Magnus' sister, Mrs. Arnold Stifel and her mother, Mrs. William D. Orthwein of 15 Portland place, are at Pass Christian, Miss., where they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Orthwein.

Mrs. John Fowler of 35 Westmoreland place departed yesterday for Mountain Lake Club, Fla., to join her sister, Mrs. John Hill of Boston, and today Mrs. Henry Elliot of 11 Kingsbury place and her daughter, Miss Georgia, will leave for the same resort.

The greater part of the St. Louis contingent apparently is at Miami. The Edward M. Goulds have a winter house their and have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Nugent. Later this month Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes of the St. Louis Country Club grounds will visit them. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Garrison Jr., also are there, prior to sailing for Nassau to spend three weeks. They will end their Southern tour in Miami on their return from the islands. Miss Elizabeth Scudder, daughter of Charles Scudder, is in Miami with Mr. and Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin of Westmoreland place, who went there with their daughter, Miss Roccena, after a visit in Savannah, Ga.

Palm Beach has more than its usual quota of local society. Mr. and Mrs. Wooster Lambert and their small son are there for the late winter, and Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Wells of 25 Westmoreland place and the latter's daughter, Miss Louise Church, have gone for an indefinite visit.

The debutantes in the South in addition to Miss McDonald, are Miss Jane Pirrung, who is in Miami with her mother, Mrs. Clifford Gaylord; Miss Janet Gardner, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dozier Gardner, and Miss Loraine Grover and her father, James Hamilton Grover, who are in the same resort. Miss Virginia Hemenway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hemenway are in Palm Beach, and Miss Kathleen Sheldon and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Sheldon, are on a cruise to the West Indies. Miss Dorothy Bemis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bemis, who will return home Monday from a visit with friends in Little Rock, will go to Florida later with her family.

Miss Mary Brooks Holmes, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Holmes, is

French Actress Heard By Alliance Francaise

MLLE. ADRIENNE D'AMBRIDOURT of Paris gave a charming matinee last week before the members and guests of the Alliance Francaise at Forest Park Hotel. Her recitations of poems and dramatic excerpts and her cantillations to the accompaniment of Mrs. Paul Blackwelder proved her thorough training at the Comedie Francaise and Theatre Sarah Bernhardt.

Announcements of future programs were made by the president, Mrs. Everett W. Pattison. These events include a meeting and loan collection of rare French jewels and manuscripts at Missouri Historical Association, under the chairmanship of Miss Berthold; a card party where instructions in contract bridge will be given in French by Mrs. Rufus Lackland Taylor; a lecture by Prof. Andre Morize and one by Prof. Cons. Plans for class instruction in French were discussed and referred to a committee.

MISS VIRGINIA MILLER FEILBACH

Miss Virginia Heffern's Engagement Announced

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Virginia Louise Heffern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam E. Heffern of Ferguson to Charles Otis Wilding, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Wilding of Columbus, Ga., at a bridge luncheon which Mrs. Heffern gave at their home for her daughter.

The table was decorated in an arrangement of red roses in the form of hearts and was lighted b yred tapers in silver candelabra. The news was told in valentine verses in small envelopes sealed wih a crimson heart. Sixteen guests were present, among them being Miss Elizabeth Rice of Wilmette, Ill., and Miss Mildred Bosner of Buffalo, N. Y., former classmates at Smith College of the prospective bride.

Miss Heffern was graduated from the Mary Burnham School, Northampton, Mass., and Smith College. She made an informal debut last winter and was maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball. Mr. Wilding is a graduate of the Georgia Institute of Technology. No date has been set for the wedding.

Descendant of Early St. Louis Family Weds British Subject

AN out-of-town wedding of much interest to St. Louis society is that of Miss Martha Anderson Hawley, daughter of Mrs. G. Anderson Hawley of 829 Park avenue, New York, and Edmund Melhado, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Melhado of Devon House, Kingston, Jamaica, British West Indies.

The ceremony was performed yesterday in New York at the Church of St. Thomas at noon by the Rev. Dr. Brooks in the presence of a large gathering of socially prominent guests. A breakfast followed at the Colony Club. The bride was attended as matron of honor by her cousin, Mrs. Allen Melhado, whose husband is a brother of the bridegroom, and who has lived with the bride and her mother since a child.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Melhado will make their home in Albany.

Mrs. Hawley and her daughter are of an old St. Louis family and took an active part in its social life until the World War. The bride is a niece of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norris Gregg.

A LaRue Permanent Wave may be repeated as often as you wish with absolute safety!
Time and again your hair may be waved by the LaRue method with the comforting assurance that it will remain always soft and lustrous. For unlike many other methods, La Rue treats each head of hair strictly according to its individual requirements, waving only the new hair growth, gently resetting the previously waved hair....The La Rue method has banished forever the uncertainty and disappointments in permanent waving. It has made repeated waves as safe and as beautiful as your first wave.

Sale of LATEST MODEL NICKEL PLATED COPPER Eden WASHERS

At the Lowest Price Ever Offered!

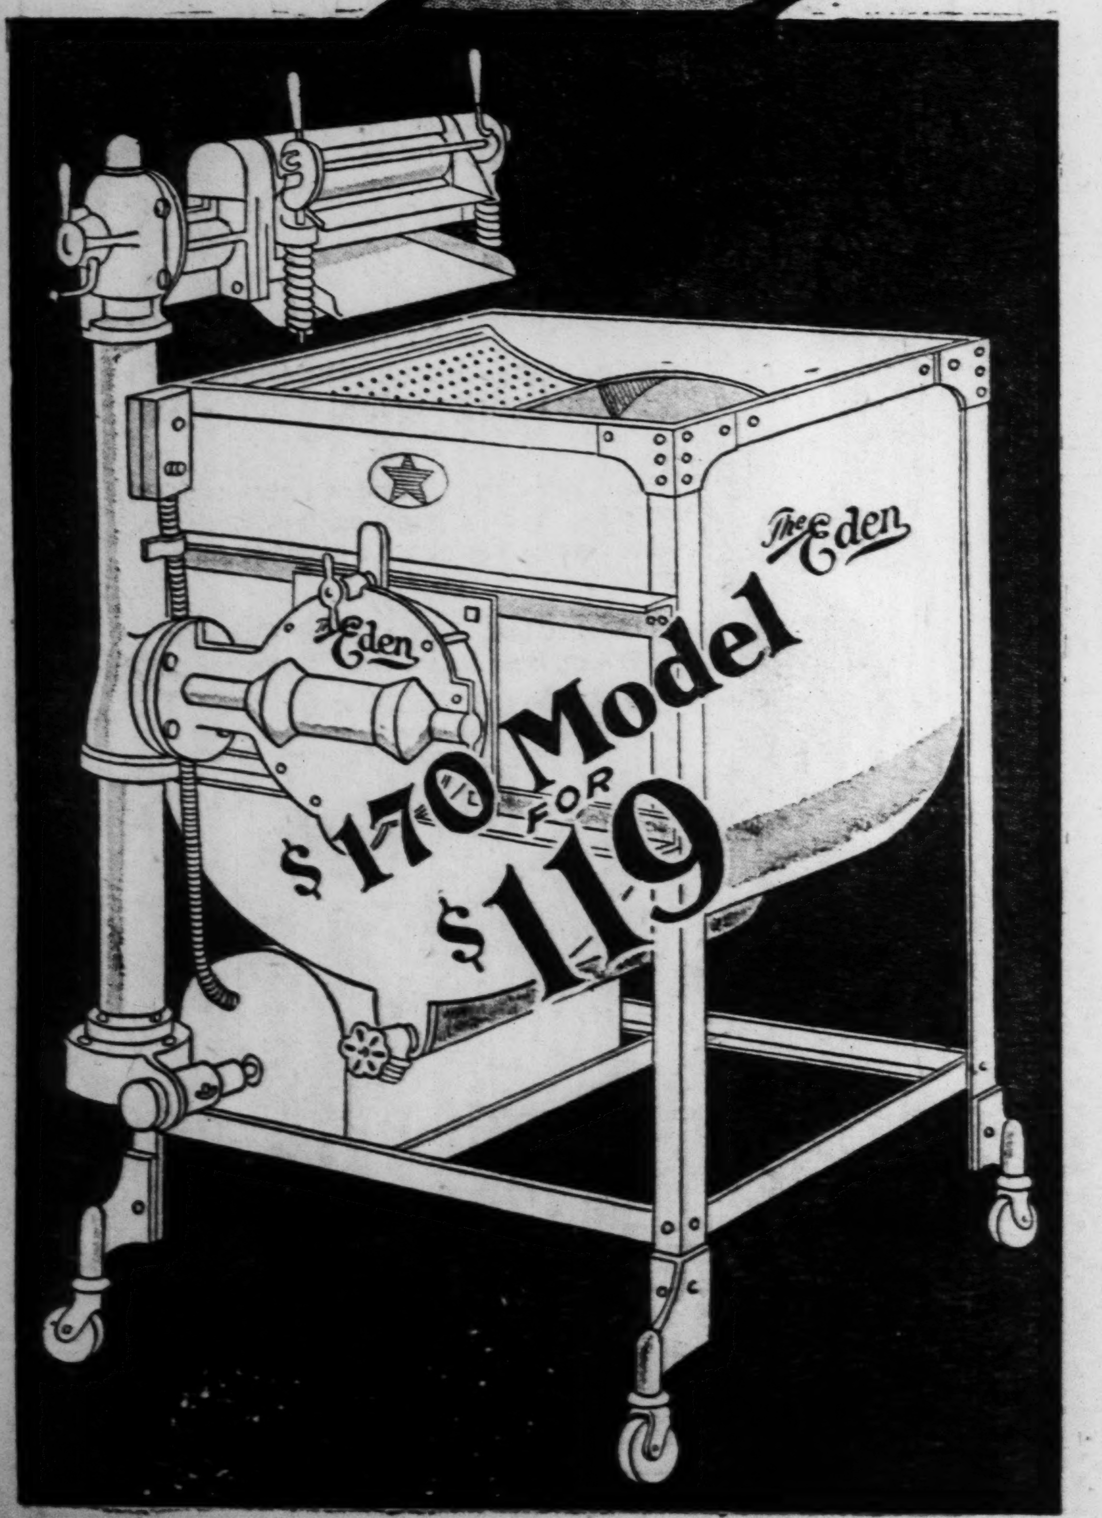
While They Last

$119 CAS

Regular Price · $170
Sale Price ···· $119.
You Save $51.

ONLY $5 DOWN! $7.33 a Month for 18 Months

At This Sensational Low Price You Get a Brand-New, Fully Guaranteed Eden With Nickel-Plated Copper Tub, Lacquered Outside in Gray, With the Permanently "Shiny" Nickel-Plated Eden Cylinder



THIS startling sale will electrify all St. Louis! Never before, in the Eden's 16-year career as St. Louis' favored Electric Washer (and there are now nearly 40,000 in use here) has the High-Grade Copper Eden sold for so small a sum. The factory has not reduced the price. $119 is actually less than the pre-war price on the old model Eden with galvanized tub. Hundreds who have been waiting and hoping for just such a sale as this will be quick to act . . . and wisely, because such an opportunity may never come again.

Because, at inventory time, the Eden factory had 500 more copper Eden Washers than their normal stock, they made us a special price on the entire lot. St. Louis gets them all, and at a price which represents even more than our saving. This IS a sale.

This wonderfully improved copper Eden does all the hard work of washday. Preserves youth and health. Gives hours for pleasure or recreation formerly spent at hard toil, and it will do this for years and years..

Any one of the Eden users in St. Louis will tell you this is a wonderful value, and a wonderful washer. (Some have been using their Eden washers 16 years and more). This sensational low price includes full factory guarantee and free service for one year just as though you paid the full price. Don't delay, the quantity is limited and should sell in a very short time. Order in person or by phone from your favorite store listed.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

"My skin was a sight"

"I couldn't look people in the face, I was so ashamed of my skin. It was always blotched with pimples and blackheads and at times itched terribly. I had tried everything and was so discouraged that I couldn't bring myself to take hope in anything. You can imagine my surprise therefore when one application of Rowles Mentho Sulphur almost completely cleared my skin. I could have danced with joy! In a short time you wouldn't know my skin—it was so clear, so soft and white."

Thousands of people are discovering that there is a remedy for skin trouble—even fiery, itching eczema! It's the magical combination of sulphur and menthol—sulphur for clearing the skin, menthol for healing the broken and irritated tissue. Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive, and all druggists supply it in jars ready

Face Peeler Keeps Skin Young

To maintain a clear, white, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercolized wax, which you can get at any drug store. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream. It causes the old worn-out scarf skin to come off in tiny particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh, young underskin now in evidence is healthy and girlish looking and free from any appearance of artificiality. To quickly remove wrinkles and age signs, use as face lotion 1 ounce powdered saxolite and one-half pint witch hazel.

French Embassy Ball Colorful; Coolidges Attend

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Washington society cut some gay pranks this week, ranging from the fancy dress ball at the French Embassy on through a series of interesting episodes such as only the Capital can produce. Weeping hearts were left to those who could not attend the second Empire ball at the Embassy when the Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel, Mme. Claudel and their two daughters turned back to Napoleonic days for their splendid costumes, and court ladies and gentlemen danced with jesters and ladies whose historic names once brought a blush to the cheeks of the discreet members of French society.

Many of the 300 guests sent to Paris costumers for their garb while others trusted New York and Philadelphia designers to be true to the period. The Ambasador, who is quite tall and slender and looks like a poet, wore an elaborate costume which was only rivaled at the ball by that of Mme. Claudel and her daughters. Fortunately special characters of the period were not portrayed except in a few instances that most brilliant period being represented in a general fashion.

The exquisite French drawing rooms gave the setting and there was no special effort at a tiresome program or pageant of which society has had a surfeit this season. The two French flyers, for whom the ball was really planned, Lieutenant-Commander Joseph Lebrix and Lieut. Dieudonne Costes, stood with the hosts and were applauded as they moved about the drawing rooms.

Next Saturday night the same gay crowd will attend the Red and White ball to be given by the Belgian Ambassador and Princess De Ligne for their very charming daughter, Princess Elizabeth de Ligne. The invitations to the ball give an idea of what the costumes should be.

The President's dinner to Speaker and Mrs. Longworth given Thursday night at the White House brought together the most cosmopolitan group that has graced any dinner there this winter. Just as soon as the musicale was over, a violinist and a tenor giving the program, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth went to the French ball.

Tuesday night the President and Mrs. Coolidge went to the dinner given in their honor by the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, who entertained the company of 14 in their apartment at Stonleigh court. Next week the state program will be brought to a close with the Army and Navy reception, which is second in brilliancy only to the diplomatic receptions.

The pitfalls of official society known as precedence will be removed, or presumably so, when the reorganized social bureau gets going at the State Department, and the straight and narroy way for hosts will be well defined. Or at least it is hoped so. The division of protocol, it is to be called, and it will handle all such knotty questions as arose when the Governor-General of Canada and Viscountess Willingdon came visiting and attended the White House reception. Inquiries at the White House, the State Department and at the Canadian legation were met with non-commital response. Apparently the problem solved itself for the Willingdons went to the White House and enjoyed themselves very much.

"Supervision of and action on all matters involving questions of ceremonial and precedence" is to be the first duty of the new division, which exists in counterpart even in the smallest of the Latin-American countries.

It was one of the British diplomats who stepped out of his place with the British Embassy staff at the White House on a recent occasion and when he returned was introduced as the Ambassador of Chile. The master of ceremonies, Charles L. Cooke, who knows every diplomat by name and face, was not present at the moment.

All new diplomats are carefully looked over when they come to Washington, just as perhaps our diplomats are inspected and criticised in other countries, but evidently there is satisfaction in surveying Bolivia's new Minister, Senor Eduardo Diez de Medina, and his pretty wife and daughter. Senor Diez de Medina is a scholar and a poet, and is the senior in diplomatic service in his country. He is young in years for such a full career, being only 46. He speaks English beautifully and like other diplomats of the Pan-American countries, deplores the fact Americans do not, generally speaking, learn Spanish. Senora de Medina has many old friends in the capital, as her father, Fernando E. Gauchalla, was Minister of Bolivia to Washington for some years until 1902.

She attended school at the Holy Cross Academy and her second daughter, Senorita Gabriela, will also enter school in the capital. The elder daughter, who is very pretty and accomplished, Senorita Maria Hortensia, has been presentenced to society in La Paz, and also "went out," as it is termed, while her father was Minister at Lima, Peru, from which post he came to Washington. The mother and daughters are musical, as are most Latin-Americans, and their home offers a charming center for both literature and music.

Club Presidents' Council Meets.

The County Council of Presidents of Federated Clubs met Jan. 20 at the Monday Club in Webster Groves. There was a luncheon and Mrs. Fred Armstrong and Mrs. F. J. Keiser of the Eighth District Board gave talks. Mrs. J. K. Stribling presided.

YOUR ST. LOUIS

How Well Do You Know It?

GEO. KILGEN & SON, Inc.

GEO. KILGEN & SON, Inc., organ builders are located in a large plant at 4016 North Union Boulevard and are one of the oldest institutions of its kind in the world.

The first Kilgen organ was built in 1640 in Durlach, Germany, and since that time, through succeeding generations, the Kilgen family have built organs. In 1851 the firm moved to New York where it remained until 1879 when it moved to its first location at Ewing and Atlantic streets in St. Louis. Twenty years later they moved to a larger plant at 3800 Laclede avenue where they remained until two years ago. Their business had grown to such an extent that it was necessary to move to much larger quarters on Union Boulevard where they are now located.

The firm at the present time comprises an organization of over five hundred and the officers are: Chas. C. Kilgen, president; Alfred G. Kilgen, vice-president; Geo. J. Kilgen, vice-president; Chas. C. Kilgen Jr., treasurer; Eugene R. Kilgen, secretary.

Some of the most notable organ installations in the world have been built by Kilgen, such as St. Vincent's church in Los Angeles, St. Ignatius church in Chicago, new Cathedral, St. Francis Xavier's and Third Baptist church in St. Louis. They are now building an organ for the Pontifical College in Rome, another for the Cathedral at Belize, British Honduras, and another for famous old St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York.

The firm at present holds the place of the leading builder of pipe organs in the world and their plant has been acclaimed as the largest and most modern organ plant to be found anywhere. This plant is always open to visitors.

Every day this space will be devoted to some one particular manufacturing plant or industry which is contributing to the dynamic growth of Saint Louis.

The fame of the little green capsule, because of its canny power to speedily stop the terrible rheumatic pains that make life almost unbearable, is rapidly spreading all over America.

You go about conquering your merciless rheumatic enemy in a different way—a knock-out way. Every hour the first day you take one little green capsule for just ten hours—then relief comes.

The second day, take one every two hours for 14 hours—then take 4 little green capsules every day until every little twinge and every bit of tenderness is gone and your rheumatic troubles have ceased.

The little green capsule now so much in demand from coast to coast must have a name so it is known in every worthwhile drug store in America as Allenrhu Number 2.

For your own protection insist on Allenrhu Number 2. And please remember this—the little green Capsule must give you prompt relief—must give you abundant satisfaction—must free you from rheumatic distress or the price you pay for the first full bottle will be promptly refunded by Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores or any reputable druggist in America.

Mrs. Edgar Paul Sommers reported for the Literature and Reciprocity Committee.

The open meeting of the Better Homes Group of the Monday Club of Webster Groves was held Monday at 2 p. m., Mrs. E. W. Nowlin presiding. Community singing was led by Miss Esther Retlogle with Miss Minerva Crowe at the piano, both of whom are teachers at the Bristol School. Mrs. Frank L. Eversull, Eighth District chairman of American Homes, spoke on "Where Do You Live, Mentally, Physically and Spiritually, in Your Own Home?" Mrs. Jonne Niebling sang, with Mrs. W. H. H. Schaefer at the piano.

Mrs. Henche of the Carondelet Women's Club and Mrs. Williams of the Twentieth Century Art Club, were guests. "The Reader," a one-act comedy, under the direction of Miss Francis L. Dewey, was given by members of the group.

The next meeting of the Better Homes Group will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. A book review of "Mother India," by Mrs. W. V. Kopfstein, and of "Prairie Years," by Mrs. R. Stobie, will be given.

The History and Literature Section will meet tomorrow at 10 a. m. The Art Section will meet at 2:30 p. m.

The Board of Religious Organizations will hold three regional rallies and teas within the next four weeks, to bring together all of the churches and synagogues in each district; to renew the interest of the women in social service and indicate what they may do through the B. R. O. in the different fields of social and civic work.

The first rally and tea will be held at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union and Kensington avenues, Thursday, Feb. 16, at 2 p. m. Mrs. Roy Smith will give an inspirational talk on "Church Women and Social Service." The Rev. W. H. Pinkerton of the Kingshighway Christian Church will speak on "What the B. R. O. Means to My Church." Mrs. Samuel B. Blair will sing. A social hour will follow the program.

The second rally will be held Feb. 23 at 2 p. m. at B'Nai El Temple, Spring and Flad. The third rally will be at the Second Baptist Church, Kingshighway and Washington, March 14, at 2 p. m. The program for these rallies will be announced later.

The Current Topics Club met Tuesday. The next meeting will be March 6, at which time officers will be elected.

The South Side Women's Study Council will meet at the Carpenter Library Teusday at 7:30 p. m.

The Wanderers' Club met Feb. 8 at the home of Mrs. H. R. Murray, 5048 Waterman avenue. Following the business meeting a paper on the life and compositions of Richard Wagner were read by Mrs. H. A. Loevy. The next meeting of the club will take place March 14, at the home of Mrs. William F. Gould of 4432 Washington boulevard.

The Alphi Chi Omega Mothers' Club of St. Louis and Washington universities will meet at the home of Mrs. J. D. Boyles of 5924 Maple avenue, Monday, Feb. 20, at 2:30 p. m., to complete arrangements for a benefit entertainment to be given at McMillan Hall March 19, for the Woman's Building fund of Washington University.

The Piddy's of 1928 gave a program in the Shortridge Studio Friday afternoon, honoring Abraham Lincoln. "Untold Stories of Lincoln" were given by Mrs. Sue L. Allen. Silhouettes of episodes in the life of Lincoln were given by the members of the club.

The Uandi Literary Club will give a program at the Forest Park Hotel Thursday on "South America." Mrs. Fred Maxsted and Mrs. W. E. Strauss will be the hostesses. Mrs. F. C. Eichler will give the story of the Aztec Indian; Mrs. Felix Goerlich will play Ernest Kroeger's "March of the Indian Phantoms," and Mrs. Charles Newcomb will read a paper on "Vagabonding Down the Andes." At the last meeting of the club Mrs. H. Lyle Campbell and Mrs. J. F. Ericson were made members of the club. Mrs. E. G. Lasar, a member of the club who was recently elected president of the Big Sisters, spoke of the work.

The Ensee Study Circle will meet tomorrow at the home of Mrs. James R. Booth, 7109 Dale avenue. Mrs. Chester Heflinger will read a paper on "The Art and Music of the Malay States," and Mrs. A. E. Wright will tell of its native and foreign inhabitants. Facts about North and South Dakota and Iowa will constitute the roll call. The club is devoting the year to a study of a cruise around the world.

St. Rose's Mothers' Club will hold its meeting Thursday at 2 p. m. in the school hall.

The Friday Club was entertained Feb. 3 at the Town Club, with Mrs. W. P. Erhart and Mrs. W. B. McSorley as hostesses. Federated committee reports were given by Mrs. Elizabeth Sherzer, Mrs. M. C. Younglove, Mrs. H. A. Dailey, Miss Hazel Howe, Mrs. F. H. Littlefield, Mrs. E. W. Dolch and Mrs. Wilson A. Taylor. A talk on "Japanese Carving" was given by Mrs. William B. Kinealy, a former member of the Friday Club.

The next meeting of the Friday Club will be held on Feb. 17 at the home of Mrs. Wilson A. Taylor, 6214 Forsythe boulevard, with Mrs. Floyd Bennett as assistant hostess. This is to be "Home Coming Day," when all former members of the club living in the city will be invited.

"Lyric Poetry" by both white and Negro writers, was the subject for the day at the Tuesday Literary Club meeting at the Artists' Guild. Mrs. J. C. Sartelle had as her subject "Modern Lyric Poetry." Mrs. Thelma Hayman Carroll, sang two groups of songs. Mrs. R. H. Milligan was at the piano. Miss Ethel Knoblach played the violin. Mrs. Arthur Branch, the president, presided, and Mrs. Oscar Plochman and Mrs. Harry Linneman served tea.

The New Era Club will meet at the residence of Mrs. J. W. McCarthy, 6139 Vernon avenue, Tuesday. Mrs. Oscar A. Doerman will have charge of the program.

The St. Louis Section, National Council of Jewish Women, will meet tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Y. M. H. A. A musical program will start at 3:30 o'clock.

A regular meeting of the Carondelet Women's Club was held Monday in the Carondelet Library with Mrs. A. S. Hinchey presiding. The club was addressed by Frederick H. Brennan, author of a recently published book, "God Got One Vote." Mr. Brennan related his experiences in writing and publishing this book and short stories which have been appearing in popular magazines.

The music for the evening was in charge of Mrs. John H. Moorehead and was given by two soloists from the Morning Choral Club, Mrs. Winchell Eckhardt and Miss Lavina Cauen. The next meeting, Feb. 20, will be an open session and a patriotic program will be given.

Delphi Delphian Chapter met Monday. The discussion, led by Mrs. Alice Torrance, was "The Nineteenth Century in America." Mrs. Minnie Kitchen, secretary of the Cutlure Club, was a guest. The next meeting will be held at the Art Museum, Feb. 20 at 10:30 a. m.

The Weavers' Guild held its regular meeting at the Art School of Washington University. Mrs. E. C. Rowse presided. The subject of the afternoon talk by Mrs. William John Harris was "English Weaving," continued from the previous meeting. Many examples of raw materials and finished products of cotton, silk and woolens were displayed.

Miss Lillian Glaser is the instructor of weaving and the secretary of the guild whose members work also at home, having portable looms which are [illegible] to and from the school.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

You Can't Comb it Out

An Invitation

By Edna Wallace Hopper

You've heard of this woman who has been a stage beauty over forty years, and of the French beauty formulas that have kept her beautiful for a lifetime. But you never have had so wonderful an offer as she makes you here.

This is your golden opportunity to have your own beauty box of Edna Wallace Hopper's own beauty requisites. Not just a collection of stingy samples of commercial cosmetics, but liberal quantities of seven scientific aids to beauty culture; the self-same things this famous beauty spent years in searching out; the secrets once known only in France.

Look at the photograph of Miss Hopper—taken this year. At a grandmother's age, she still looks like a flapper. That's what the right beauty aids can do; what ordinary tallow creams and crude clays and starchy powders can never accomplish. Try these seven aids, in generous quantities; enough powder for six weeks; all in decorative box suitable for travel or home use; for coupon and only 50c.

Full-size packages would cost you over four dollars!

Certificate for full fifty-cent tube of exquisite Quindent toothpaste will be included, so this week-end beauty case really costs you nothing!

All toilet counters sell Miss Hopper's Beauty Aids.

Complete Beauty Outfit, 50c

Containing Every Beauty Need

Youth Cream
Cold Cream
Youth Fan Cream
White Youth Clay
Quindent
Youth Hair Lotion
Wave and Sheen

Mail this special-offer coupon at once to Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago—enclosing 50c (stamps accepted) for liberal trial sizes of all seven of these beauty aids, Miss Hopper's own beauty book, also certificate good for 50c tube of Quindent toothpaste.

Health Questions Answered

By Dr. Lewis Baker and Associates

An Advertisement Informing the Public in a Commonsense Manner How to Distinguish the Simpler Ailments and Symptoms, and the Right Remedies for Treatment. Each Medicine Possesses the Highest Qualities for the Purpose Intended.

Dr. Lewis Baker

A cold may be stopped if treated at the very hour it is manifested — by sneezing, or a feverish sensation in nostrils and throat.

Obtain a tube of triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve. Directions with it tell just how to use to quickly stop incipient colds.

When the neglected cold develops coughing and this in turn disturbs your rest, no time should be lost in ridding the system of the distress. Obtain essence Mentho-Laxene and use it as a laxative tonic cough medicine. I sincerely believe it the best home treatment ever produced.

Agent asks: "I am so affected with painful kidneys that I cannot work regularly. My sleep is disturbed by frequent calls, only to void small amounts and follows burning, smarting pains. Back aches and often have chills and fever, making me real sick for a day."

Answer: A good tonic, soothing and neutralizing medicine for such complaints is Balmwort tablets. Try them and continue for a few weeks and I am sure you will write me of your recovery.

F. F. B. asks: "Will you please tell me of a treatment for excessive oily hair and bad case of dandruff?"

Answer: Ask druggist for medicated Chex soap and use for shampoo, as per directions. There is nothing in my opinion so inexpensive and so thoroughly effective. Chex soap also destroys and prevents perspiration odors, foot odors, and is an exquisite beautifying complexion soap.

P. A. T. asks: "I have been in a weak, run-down nervous condition since undergoing operations which confined me in bed for many weeks. Appetite fickle, pale, thin and circulation not good. What can I use to improve health?"

Answer: I suggest Cadomene tablets for the benefit they afford to the anemic blood and weakened nervous system.

R. F. asks: "I have a stiffness, soreness, and severe pains in different parts; legs, arms and back. This is said to be muscular rheumatism. Have been treated for it but without relief. What do you recommend?"

Answer: The following mixture gives better results than any I know of: Potassium Iodide, 2 drams; Sodium Salicylate 4 drams; Tincture of Colchicum 4 drams; Comp. Fl. Balmwort 1 oz.; Comp. Essence Cardiol 1 oz.; Elixir Lactated Pepsin 5 ozs. Mix. Take a teaspoonful at mealtimes and at bedtime. For those that do not like liquid medicine, I recommend Cardiol Tablets, a formula similar to the foregoing liquid. To quickly relieve severe pains take 5 gr. Su-thol tablets.

M. C. B. writes: "My blood and skin are in poor condition, because of a constant tendency to be constipated. Also am bilious and have headache, besides pimples, itching, and occasionally a bad case of hives."

Answer: I suggest Sulpherb tablets, which tend to correct constipation while providing sulphur, cream of tartar, sarsaparilla as helpful in minor blood and skin disorders manifested by acne, itching, etc.

Mrs. M. A. writes: "I have found the 5-grain Su-thol tablets the most satisfactory in relieving pain, and so I am confidently writing for your advice as to an equally good medicine to use for my children's coughs and colds."

Answer: Obtain essence Mentho-Laxene. Use it—concentrated or dilute with sugar, syrup or honey. Children like it best diluted. Either way the taste is pleasant and the effect unusually quick. Colds, just beginning, may often be checked if used promptly.

Mrs. J. R. asks: "I suffer greatly with neuritis. Is there anything to help relieve the dreadful pain?"

Answer: Neuritis is a condition which your physician should attend to. The analgesic power of triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve may give relief if lightly applied without rubbing. Five-grain Su-thol Tablets are often effective in relieving the pain when of a rheumatic character, or in simple neuralgia.

H. E. V. writes: "I hope you can tell me what to do to banish stomach trouble manifested by bloating, gas, sour-risings and a heavy sluggish feeling after meals followed by severe headache."

Answer: Watch your diet. Try to find and eat only that which agrees with you. Discontinue coffee if drunk to excess. Then take Triopeptine tablets to aid the digestive processes, and in a short time the distress should be gone.

Miss C. R. C. asks: "Will you recommend a method whereby I may increase my weight and thereby improve my appearance? I am very thin and colorless and a few pounds is my wish."

Answer: Sleep in a well ventilated room and take deep breathing exercises at least three times daily. Drink milk daily. As a nutritional tonic take Hypo-Nuclane tablets, which contain elements often needed by the abnormally thin person.

A. I. G. writes: "I have a chronic catarrh of the nose and throat which often gives me severe headaches just above and between the eyes. Ordinary catarrh treatments don't help me."

Answer: Use Vilane powder as per directions with package, with warm water to cleanse the nostrils; on forehead and in nostrils apply triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve. This good salve is useful in scores of complaints and pleases all who try it.

Answer to Mrs. C.: To improve the quality of your blood, build strength and avoid catching cold so frequently, try using Cadomene tablets for several weeks as a tonic.

Note: Dr. Lewis Baker, Medical Director of The Blackburn Products Co., 312 College Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, will send his valuable guide to Health and Beauty, to any address upon receipt of 10 cents. Coin. The trustworthy medicines advised, can be obtained of all leading druggists.

LETTERS TO DR. BAKER

MONONGAHELA, PA.: Mrs. Tom Wood, Church St., writes: "I have been troubled by a bad condition of the blood for some time. My face would be unsightly, marred by blotches and pimples (acne). I suffered also with severe bilious headaches. On reading your advice in our Pittsburgh paper, I purchased three boxes of 3-grain Sulpherb tablets and today I can readily recommend them. They are worth twice the price asked for them. It is my wish that the whole world know of this wonderful remedy, etc."

VALLEY FALLS, RHODE ISLAND: Mary Cummings, 56 High St., writes: "Your Su-thol tablets (for relief of pain) and Cadomene tablets as a tonic are wonderful. I never had anything, no matter what price I paid for it, that worked so sure, so mild and wonderful. I am glad to write you about them and will always keep a supply in my home, etc."

* * *

CLEVELAND, OHIO: Mrs. H. Kohl, 2657 E. 130th St., writes: "I read your health helps in the paper. I had suffered with nasal and throat catarrh. After using two tubes of Mentho-Laxene Salve and two boxes of Vilane Powder, I am almost entirely well. They are both wonderful remedies, etc."

* * *

WACO, TEXAS: A physician endorses Chex as follows: "We find Chex to be a high grade toilet and deodorant soap and think no better could be made. By test it is far above any we have ever used, etc."

* * *

NEW ORLEANS, LA.: Miss Bessie E. Gilbert, 2616 Wisteria St., writes: "I would be simply lost indeed if it wasn't for the trustworthy products you have always advised. Every recommendation has been 'gold.' There has never been one that failed for me, and I have been using various ones for many, many years. I have saved many a dollar through following your kind advice, etc."

* * *

HANOVER, KANSAS: Mrs. Mina Jaedicke writes: "Last winter I used essence Mentho-Laxene with excellent results. I had a stubborn cough from which I could not get relief until I used it. The cough yielded almost instantly, and I was well pleased. With my best wishes, etc."

* * *

EAST LYNN, MASS.: Mrs. F. G. Billings, 26 Williams Ave., writes: "In the past two years I had two operations. They both left me with a weakened and nervous condition. I saw your advice about Cadomene tablets. Have taken 3 boxes and weakness has left me and my nerves are improving every day. I cannot speak too highly of them, etc."

MUSCATINE, IOWA, Harold Kopf, 106 E. Second St., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys and bladder so bad I could only work a few hours a day. At night was up and down 3 to 4 times and in the morning could hardly bend over to dress myself. I took one box of Balmwort tablets and never have been troubled since. Also have recommended to others and they have found relief, etc."

* * *

BIRMINGHAM, MICH.: Mrs. Jessie E. Miller, 516 Pierce St., writes: "Dear Sir: Three doses of your wonderful rheumatism prescription took the pain out of my husband's knees. He was crippled with the disease and it turned him pale to walk any distance, the pain was so great. Two bottles seem to have cured him and he is very grateful, I can tell you. He wanted me to be sure and write to tell you about it and we are passing the good word along, etc."

OUR INTERVENTION IN NICARAGUA

Record of Dollar Diplomacy of the United States As Practiced From 1909 to 1928.

"War Is Over," Stimson Cabled May 15, 1927— 600 Nicaraguans Killed Since Then.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.

THE case for and against the practice of "dollar diplomacy" by the United States in Nicaragua is set out impartially in a treatise by Dr. Isaac Joslin Cox, professor of history in Northwestern University, just published by the World Peace Foundation. "Nicaragua and the United States—1909 to 1927" is the title. The work is a comprehensive and scholarly inquiry into the background of the present intervention in Nicaragua and into the intervention itself. In an appendix are numerous official documents bearing on our relations with Central America.

The author is sparing of his conclusions. For the most part he has contented himself with a well-documented statement of the facts. He shows step by step how the present state of affairs in Nicaragua has grown out of events running as far back as 1909, when the United States took a hand in the rebellion that overthrew the dictator Zelaya. Now and then, however, Prof. Cox breaks into his narrative with a carefully worded expression of opinion. It is quite evident that his researches have led him gravely to doubt whether "dollar diplomacy" has been a good thing either for the United States or for Central America.

Open Intervention Follows Covert Aid

Speaking of the aid given by the United States to the Government which succeeded Zelaya's, he says: "The regime that it chose to support was technically 'legally constituted,' and Secretary Knox undoubtedly felt that its continuance in office, with the aid of American Bluejackets and Marines, was essentially 'for the benefit of the people of Nicaragua'; but so far the policy of intervention had caused far more destruction of lives and property than the ordinary Central American revolution. In view of these inordinate losses, therefore, the average Nicaraguan—granted that he compared results at all—might well have asked himself if intervention were preferable to non-interference.

"There were doubtless many in Nicaragua and throughout all Latin America who attributed to the policy of the United States other motives than the 'benefit of the people of Nicaragua' to such, its recent corporate and fiscal activities throughout the whole Caribbean area—not to mention growing influence at Panama—afforded an adequate explanation for military measures in Nicaragua. 'Dollar diplomacy,' so they reasoned, was simply taking the logical next step. Covert aid in factional strife had become open intervention."

The story goes back to Zelaya, who ruled the country for 16 years. He was a despot of the worst type, according to Prof. Cox. In 1909, a rebellion was started by Gen Emiliano Chamorro, a member of a prominent conservative family, who was aided by Juan J. Estrada and by Adolfo Diaz (the same Diaz who is now President by selection and aid of the United States). Diaz was then the secretary of an American Mining Company.

Groce and Cannon, Soldiers of Fortune, Executed

Here began the period of active interference by the United States in the domestic concerns of Nicaragua. Zelaya captured and put to death two American soldiers of fortune who had joined the rebellion. These men, Leroy Cannon (who claimed relationship to the late Speaker Joseph Cannon of Illinois) and Leonard Groce were executed by a firing squad, Nov. 16, 1909.

These men had no claim on the protection of the American Government, but Secretary Knox declared that their irregular status did not free Zelaya from the obligation to treat them with ordinary humanity. Knox said that the Government of the United States was convinced "that the revolution represents the ideals and will of a majority of the Nicaraguan people more faithfully than does the Government of President Zelaya."

Helpless in the face of the official American opposition to his regime, Zelaya "deposited" his functions with Dr. Jose Madriz and went into exile. Madriz, according to the historian, was personally worthy of the support of the United States. Knox, however, had put the United States on record not merely against Zelaya but against the system for which he stood. Madriz came under the ban. When he tried to blockade Bluefields, where he had cooped up the rebel army, the commander of an American vessel at that port promptly resorted to the device that later was so successfully used by the United States against Sacasa: He declared the city a neutral zone and forbade any military measures that would jeopardize the lives or property of foreigners. Thanks to this timely aid, the rebellion succeeded and Estrada became President and Diaz, Vice President.

"The triumph of Estrada," writes Prof. Cox, "meant that the conservatives had recovered political power. It also meant that the influence of the United States was the potent factor in achieving this result. But this use of external pressure could hardly be justified if the principals to the transaction were to remain satisfied by a mere political overturn. Thoroughgoing reforms must accompany these acts of intervention, and the nature of most of the reforms required, speedily gave to the American policy its suggestive title—'dollar diplomacy'—and made Nicaragua its most conspicuous laboratory."

Estrada was soon beset with troubles. Zelaya's supporters remained bitterly hostile. Factional difficulties split the conservatives. In May, 1911, only a few months after the new regime had come into power, an effort by Estrada to remove his Minister of War, Luis Mena, threatened to result in an armed clash at the Capital. Elliott Northcott, the American Minister, intervened to prevent bloodshed. The upshot was the resignation of Estrada and the elevation of Adolfo Diaz to the presidency. The government gradually became more conservative.

Loan Negotiated With Brown Bros. and Seligmans

Financially, as the author shows, the country was in desperate straits. Large issues of paper money had been forced into circulation. Revenues had fallen, and the service on the public debt had stopped. Foreign creditors were clamoring for a settlement. Concession holders whose privileges had been canceled by Estrada demanded compensation.

In this situation, an American financial expert was called in. Following his report, the Nicaraguan Minister to the United States, Salvador Castrillo, negotiated with Secretary Knox a treaty which provided for aid in obtaining a $15,000,000 loan from American bankers. During the life of the debt the customs were to be in charge of a Collector-General appointed by the Nicaraguan President on the nomination of the bankers making the loan. The treaty was rejected three times by the United States Senate.

In anticipation of approval of the treaty, the Nicaraguan Government, in September, 1911, contracted with Brown Brothers & Company and J. and W. Seligman of New York for a loan of $15,000,000. An advance loan of $1,500,000 was made, and Col. Clifford D. Ham was appointed Collector-General of Customs. Prof. Cox has high praise for the manner in which Col. Ham has administered his difficult office.

The Nicaraguan Government turned over to the bankers as security the majority stock of both the National Bank and the National Railway. It pledged itself, moreover, not to alter its customs laws and internal taxes without the consent of the American creditors.

American Interests Take Virtual Control of Country

"The bankers," writes Prof. Cox, "were unwilling to make the larger loan deemed necessary for the complete rehabilitation of the country. The preliminary loan of $1,500,000, however, in a measure bound them to continue their connection with the Nicaraguan Government and even to increase their stake by other small loans, when the first advance was shown to be insufficient.

"This led the bankers to take an option on 51 per cent of the stock of the National Railway and later to purchase this stock outright for $1,000,000. They also agreed to act as agents toward the English and French bondholders. This arrangement and the excellent management under the Collector-General form the outstanding features of 'dollar diplomacy' in Nicaragua."

Thus Nicaragua, as the writer points out, was placed virtually under the control of American interests. A substantial improvement was made in the national finances. Whether the net result was good, Prof. Cox does not say. He notes, however, the complaint on the part of some critics that the financial betterment of the country was "purchased by Estrada and his successor at too great a sacrifice of national independence."

Early in 1912 the followers of Gen. Mena, the Secretary of War, who had become increasingly antagonistic to the Diaz policies, forced through the assembly a constitution that would have prevented the making of further contracts with the New York bankers. In July of that year Diaz deposed Mena and appointed Chamorro in his stead. Mena proclaimed a revolt and was joined by many liberals.

The American Minister called upon Diaz to protect American lives and property. Diaz replied through his Minister of War that the Government needed all its forces to put down the rebellion; he suggested that the United States use its own forces to safeguard American interests in Nicaragua.

"This request," observes Prof. Cox, "betokened close relationship between the American Minister and the head of the Government to which he was accredited, the response was correspondingly prompt.

"On Aug. 4, a detachment of nearly 100 men from the U. S. S. Annapolis arrived in Managua and at once took precautions to keep the railway open to the coast. Some 11 days later, after the revolutionists had bombarded the Capital and the representative of Brown Brothers had requested further protection, Major Smedley D. Butler reached the Capital from the Canal with a force of about 350 marines. Early in September Admiral Southerland brought reinforcements, and in the course of the next two months eight American vessels landed Marines and Bluejackets so as to bring the total forces up to more than 2700 men.

Following Precedent Established in Panama

"One of the avowed purposes of this military occupation was to protect and keep open the railway, then under the control of an American corporation. This, it will be observed, is in keeping with the famous precedent established at Panama a decade earlier. The prompt arrival of these troops disheartened the revolutionists. Mena surrendered to Admiral Southerland Sept. 25. A few days later the American contingent stormed and captured the rebel position at Masaya and Oct. 6 the insurgents surrendered Leon, their last stronghold. Seven Americans lost their lives in these encounters and an unrecorded number of Nicaraguans.

"In view of these casualties, not to mention other serious losses, one is tempted to inquire if the intervention was worth while."

A presidential election came while the Marines were still in Nicaragua. Again the influence of the United States was decisive. Most of the conservatives preferred Chamorro, but through the intercession of the American Minister a bargain was struck whereby Diaz was given the presidency and Chamorro the post of Minister to the United States. Diaz was elected, and the American Marines, with the exception of a legation guard of 100 men, were withdrawn. The guard, remarks Prof. Cox, "remained as a definite reminder of the real power that controlled the country." It was not removed till August, 1925.

Bankers Take All Revenues as Security

Diaz, according to the author, was neither popular nor highly successful. Unable to meet current expenses, the Government again called on the bankers for aid. The bankers secured themselves by assuming the collection of all the revenues. In October, 1913, the bankers took over a $1,000,000 issue of treasury notes and paid a like sum for a controlling interest in the National Railway.

"The financial arrangements with the New York bankers," says Prof. Cox, "rendered the Government increasingly unpopular. Intrigues and petty revolts were frequent, and only the obvious intention of the United States to prevent a general outbreak kept the country from another civil war."

Again the hand of the United States was shown in the election of 1916. There were three candidates. The American Minister openly supported Chamorro, and he was elected.

U. S. Pays $3,000,000 for Canal and Other Concessions

The narrative pauses here for another glance at the treaty negotiations between the two countries. After the refusal of the United States Senate to ratify the Knox-Castrillo loan pact, a new agreement was drawn up under which the United States was given the option, good for a century, to build a canal across Nicaragua. The United States received also the perpetual privilege of fortifying the Corn Islands on the Caribbean coast

THE Fates, carrying out their reputed duties of guiding men and making history, conferred together 119 years ago today. As the result of their deliberations, two families—one in Hardin County, Kentucky; the other in Shrewsbury, England—each welcomed a new baby boy Feb. 12, 1809, and the Fates had given the world two of the nineteenth century's outstanding figures. To the log cabin of a pioneer on the American frontier came Abraham Lincoln. To the comfortable cottage of a successful physician in Shropshire came Charles Darwin.

Controversies were to rage when they grew to manhood about the heads of the two born that day. Each was to have his battles to fight, and Darwin was to live with equal kindliness and sincerity the creed of Lincoln: "With malice toward none, with charity for all."

Both men gave the world something to think about and to talk about. And each, in his own fashion, preached a doctrine of tolerance while advancing beliefs that brought, on the one hand, a great war which resulted in full physical liberty in America, and, on the other, produced intellectual strife that is not yet ended, resulting in a fuller measure of intellectual freedom to the world.

Both Largely Self-Educated

Both Lincoln and Darwin were largely self-educated. Perhaps because pedagogy and dogma had so little part in their early training, they held themselves always capable of error and were quick to admit shortcomings that few but themselves were able to see.

Darwin had every opportunity for the conventional classical education of the day, in academy and two universities—Edinburgh and Cambridge—but he wrote later that his classroom days had been largely a waste of time. His friendship with other students and with teachers out of school hours proved of more benefit in defining his capacity for science, but his real education did not begin until his 5-year voyage when a young man on the Beagle scientific expedition. Then he returned to England, married, and gave himself over to scientific investigation and rearing a family of 10 children. Darwin was always an invalid, never able to do a full day's work, and his laboratory equipment would be rejected in disgust by a college student of today—but he wrought a lasting work.

The story of Lincoln's education has become a classic example in America—the books he read in the glow of the fireplace after walking miles to borrow them, the sums he worked on the fire shovel, his study of law in the rear of the country store and finally his legal practice in rural Illinois. Then the wheel of political fortune took him to the White House, a sad-eyed man with twin senses of humor and of pity.

Darwin on Lincoln's Side

Darwin favored whole-heartedly the cause of the North in the Civil War. Lincoln's stand on Darwin's principles is not so well known, but Carl Sandburg, one of the most recent Lincoln biographers, relates how Lincoln read twice, at an interval of six or eight years, a book called "Vestiges of the Natural History of Creation," by Robert Chambers, a Scotchman, who said his work was "the first attempt to connect the natural sciences with the history of creation." His theories preceded Darwin's and were similar.

Lincoln found the Scotchman's idea blended with his mode of reasoning for, said he: "There are no accidents in my philosophy. Every effect must have its cause. The past is the cause of the present, and the present will be the cause of the future."

Although Darwin doubted at times the ability of the North to conquer the South, and feared the after-effects of the conflict, he was led by his hatred of slavery to express himself to an American scientist friend, Asa Gray, far beyond his usual vigor of statement.

"I never knew the newspapers so profoundly interesting," he wrote June 5, 1861. "North America does not do England justice;-I have not seen or heard of a soul who is not with the North. Some few, and I am one of them, even wish to God, though at the loss of millions of lives, that the North would proclaim a crusade against slavery. In the long run, a million horrid deaths would be amply repaid in the cause of humanity. Great God! How I should like to see the greatest curse on earth—slavery—abolished!"

In September of the same year he wrote Dr. Gray: "If abolition does follow with your victory, the whole world will look brighter in my eyes, and in many eyes."

Religious Views Alike

In their attitude toward religion, the stand of the two great contemporaries was strikingly similar. Darwin, when plumbed on his religious belief by a lay devotee, replied dubiously he supposed he was a "sort of Christian."

"Close friends of Lincoln," says Sandburg, "had a notion he was a sort of infidel."

So the two may be considered as meeting in spirit on a plane of modified "every day" religion, neither giving much attention to the matters involved in the "doubtful differences which divide denominations," as Lincoln alliteratively characterized sectarian disputes. But both had a simple sense of their duty to their fellowmen which made their characters shine in purity in a distracted age.

Lincoln said once that in his days of trouble "the Scriptures unfolded before me with a deeper and more logical appeal than anything else I could find to turn to, or ever before had found in them. I do not claim that all my doubts were removed then, or since that time have been swept away. They are not.

"Probably it is to be my lot to go on in a twilight, feeling and reasoning my way through life, as questioning, doubting Thomas did," he continued to the eager little group as he paced before the fireplace that night in Illinois. "But in my poor, maimed, withered way, I go on, seeking the faith that was with him of olden time who in his need, as I in mine, exclaimed: 'Help Thou my unbelief.'

Dubious of Creeds

"I do not see that I am more astray—though perhaps in a different direction—than many others whose points of view differ widely from each other in the sectarian denominations. They all claim to be Christians, and interpret their several creeds as infallible. I doubt the possibility, or propriety, of settling the religion of Jesus Christ in the models of man-made creeds and dogmas.

"It was a spirit in the life that He laid stress on and taught, if I read aright. I know I see it to be so with me. The fundamental truths reported in the four gospels as from the lips of Jesus Christ, that I first heard from the lips of my mother, are settled and fixed moral precepts with me. I have concluded to dismiss from my mind the debatable wrangles that once perplexed me with distractions that stirred up but never absolutely settled anything. I have ceased to follow such discussions or be interested in them. I cannot without mental reservations assent to long and complicated creeds and catechisms."

Darwin's view was similar in expressing the spirit of doubt that moved Lincoln.

"Let each man hope and believe what he can," Darwin expressed his creed. "Certainly my views are not at all necessarily atheistical."

Lacking the simple eloquence of Lincoln, but succinctly, the English scientist in 1873 stated an outline of his beliefs in a letter to an inquiring Dutch student, as follows:

"The impossibility of conceiving that this grand and wondrous universe, with our conscious selves, arose through chance, seems to me the chief argument for the existence of God; but whether this is an argument of real value, I have never been able to decide. I am aware that if we admit a first cause, the mind still craves to know whence it came and how it arose. Nor can I overlook the difficulty from the immense amount of suffering throughout the world. I am also induced to defer to a certain extent to the judgment of many able men who have fully believed in God; but here again I see how poor an argument this is. The safest conclusion seems to me that the whole subject is beyond the scope of man's intellect; but man can do his duty."

Science and Christ

"Science has nothing to do with Christ," he wrote six years later, "except insofar as the habit of scientific research makes a man cautious in admitting evidence. For myself, I do not believe there ever has been any revelation. As for a future life, every man must judge for himself between conflicting vague probabilities."

Darwin's writings on evolution caused popular attention to focus on the matter of his personal beliefs. But, despite the spotlight on this side of his personality, he was no less tolerant than Lincoln, whose kindly view and firm faith in the Bible as a creed for living rather than for worship were accepted quietly.

"Darwin knew well what fierce hostility he should evoke from those who had grown up in the orthodox belief, were wedded to it by all the force of habit and tradition and were intellectually unqualified to adapt themselves to any other," says a late biographer, Gamaliel Bradford. "Therefore, from the beginning, he proceeded with the greatest caution and moderation of statement. This arose partly from his sweetness of temper. He had no desire to wound or destroy, except as the truth might compel him to do so."

So the great Emancipator and the great scientist clung to their purposes and kept their unelaborate creeds so well that their lives have become examples of accomplishment and tolerance and right living.

Tributes to Their Virtues

Edwin Stanton summed up Lincoln for eternity at the martyr's deathbed with the pronouncement: "Now he belongs to the ages."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

A Texan Comes to Bat.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"IMPRESSIONIST," under the caption "A Traveler's Impressions of Texas" undertakes severely to criticise that State. Just was wondering what happened to this individual upon his visit to Texas. No doubt, he reached Texas with a superiority complex, expecting to find a bunch of rubes and easy pickings, and to his discomfort he found regular he-men, fully capable of taking care of themselves and matching wits with the mightiest brains of the North and East.

If he had taken the trouble to refer to the 1920 census he would have found Dallas listed under Government census as 158,976 instead of 139,000.

I wonder if he took occasion to develop the extensive grain growing in the Western part of the State. In the Rio Grande Valley we find bananas, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, and in the Eagle Lake-Wharton District, potatoes.

Did he overlook the extensive cotton-growing in the Central part of the State; the cabbage and onions in the Southern part of the State; the naval stores produced in the Pine District of the Eastern part of the State; the extensive sulphur beds in the Southern part of the State; coal, lignite, iron ore and the extensive petroleum production throughout the entire State, with numerous refineries in all sections; the cement mills in the Dallas-Fort Worth District; at San Antonio, Houston and El Paso?

I wonder if he visited the coast country and saw the ocean-going boats serving Houston, Galveston, Beaumont and Port Arthur. It is possible the only boats he is accustomed to are the river boats docking at St. Louis?

A careful study of the statements made by "Impressionist" leads me to believe that the activity and industry found by him in Texas is so great, so vast, that his mind was not capable of absorbing what an important State the Empire of the Southwest is.

A TEXAN.

A Great World Teacher.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AS THE Rev. William Sunday has consigned to eternal hellfire Theosophists, Evolutionists, Unitarians and a number of others may I, as one of the prospective damned, express my appreciation of the fine letter of Silvan Bois de Kalk published in your issue of last Friday.

Confucius was indeed a great world teacher and the mighty philosophy he uttered will remain the heritage of the thinking world long after the fanatical blatherings of the intolerant and the bigoted shall have passed into the limbo of forgotten things.

THEOSOPHIST.

For a Survey of Missouri Prison.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Missouri State penitentiary is a million dollars in debt. One excuse offered for this condition is that there are now 3600 inmates in an institution built to care for about 2000, and that only one-third can be efficiently employed.

Is this not a splendid time for a general overhauling of the institution, inmates as well as administrators? Why not a survey of the prison population, and a scientific classification in line with modern penal methods?

There is no reason to believe that the types of prisoners have changed since I sojourned there. And, basing my statement on personal knowledge, I am certain that if a survey were properly made, and the prisoners intelligently classified, the surplus one-third would be found to be the sort of individuals who never should be sent to prison, but handled in other sorts of institutions. If the mental subnormals, dements, mental defectives, epileptics, psychopaths, cripples, physically diseased and lowgrade paupers were sifted out, and cared for intelligently in other types of institutions, or by State supervised care, there would be plenty of room in the State penitentiary to care for the prisoners. If the intelligent, highgrade portion were separated from the social culls and rejects, and given education and vocational training they would not only be more productive while in prison, but they would also be trained to make their way when they were released.

Ozark Bird Killers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

CITY people who care for the birds throughout the winter would be surprised to learn how they are being destroyed by boys and even men in the Ozarks.

I believe there is a law for the protection of birds. If it is not enforced, am afraid it won't be many years before our birds who stay with us in all seasons will be extinct.

A FRIEND OF THE BIRDS.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY.

Today is the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birthday. What it may mean to schoolboy and schoolgirl in America we can only surmise. Our competent teachers have seriously tried to give to their pupils an adequate picture of this extraordinary character. They have read "The Prairie Years" and have been thrilled by the tenderness of pathos and humor and striving for truth which Carl Sandburg put into that monumental work. Seeking for facts and their cool, judicial appraisal, they have pored over the pages of Ida Tarbell. Some of them may have even brushed away the dust that has settled on the volumes of Nicolay and Hay. Such teachers have done well by their charges.

What does Lincoln's anniversary mean to university America? Those young men and women, if capably guided, have drunk deep of Watterson's soul-satisfying eloquence, fervid with youth's hero-worship. They have reveled in Choate's brilliant essay. They have heard the massive voice of Beecher reverberating across the years. In their ramblings through the endless bibliography perhaps they have memorized Lowell's ode and Whitman's elegy.

What does this anniversary mean to adult America? What does it mean, in especial, to the leaders of the party that claims Abraham Lincoln for its patron saint? What to the rank and file?

Have they asked themselves the question: Would Lincoln be a Republican were he alive today? We think he might be. But, decidedly, he would not be a "regular." Were Lincoln contesting the United States senatorship from Illinois with Douglas in 1927 would Samuel Insull be the largest contributor to his campaign fund? Would Lincoln be associated with Len Small and Bill Thompson in the loaves-and-the-fishes leadership of Illinois' dominant political organization?

Politically, Lincoln was an insurgent. The Republican party was born under the sign of revolt against the powers that were. The Democratic party was then the party of wealth, privilege, social distinction. It was the party of Teapot Domes, what we know today as Coolidgism. Abraham Lincoln, we should say, was much nearer to the elder La Follette in philosophy and faith than any member of the Coolidge Cabinet is to Abraham Lincoln. Had Lincoln been born 75 years earlier or had Thomas Jefferson been born 75 years later they would, we feel, have been of the same political household.

Stanton's words, as the dying martyr breathed his last, are known of all. "Now he belongs to the ages." The ages venerate him. They cherish him as "the gentlest memory of the world." That is well. But it is the solemn duty of every American generation to know the man who saved the Union.

IN ST. CHARLES HOOSEGOW.

Jails have often been cited as the one institution where the equality of man is most nearly achieved. Not at St. Charles jail. At that charming home for bootleggers, there are three estates like unto those in France before Mme. Pompadour's deluge. 1. Aristocracy. These are the gents who live in the $25 department, which is the basement. There are no cells in the basement. Lord Old Crow can stretch his legs, or play pinochle after curfew with his cronies, Baron Cedar Brook, Count Kentucky Dew and Sir Sandy Macdonald. So we are told by colored saloonkeeper Eugene Burkins, who has been there.

The second estate is the bourgeosie in the $5.75 department. They, it is true, must live in cells, but they have the comforts of home in the form of good bedding and soft pillows laid on portable cots. Here one finds Mr. Hooch and Mr. Heimgemacht. No. 3, in the words of Saloonkeeper Burkins: "That's where us colored fellows go. The white trash that can't pay anything also goes to the zoo. We are locked in cells and have to sleep on hard iron cots." The boys in the zoo, too, must massage and manicure the quarters of the aristocracy.

Democracy? Burkins tells the world there ain't no such thing at St. Charles hoosegow.

THE POWER LOBBY GETS RESULTS.

Though some Senators possibly may be unable to see the great power lobby, there are quite a few of their colleagues who are evidently feeling its existence very acutely.

Amongst these are two prominent Democrats, Senators George of Georgia and Robinson of Arkansas. Both have lined up with the element which is trying to shunt the Walsh proposal to investigate the power industry into the Federal Trade Commission. They are in favor, that is, of rendering it harmless. Instead of the full investigation to which the country is entitled, and one openly held, in order that the people may know what is going on, these people are well content to risk a half-hearted inquiry by a hand-picked commission operating behind closed doors. What is more, the way in which this body proceeds would prevent bringing in any sort of report short of two or three years.

That the enemies of the inquiry would gladly grasp this method of ditching the Walsh proposal goes without saying. But that Democrats, particularly the Democratic floor leader, Senator Robinson, should lend their strength to such a denial of the public right is deplorable. It seems anything but a wise move for an opposition. It recalls the ridiculous performance of the Democrats in joining with old guard Republicans in passing the Mellon tax bill, and raises the question whether it is good politics for Democrats to try to excel Republicans at their own game.

But this isn't all it does. It presents added evidence that Senator Walsh was right in declaring that the utilities have the most powerful lobby ever seen in Washington.

"MADE IN GERMANY."

That trade mark, to be seen throughout the world in the years before 1914, became a veritable bugaboo for Germany's commercial rivals.

It was one of the factors that led to the great war, and one of the aims of the great war from the European standpoint was to crush or at least impede Germany's commercial progress.

This the great war did accomplish. Afterward, however, the Powers insisted on huge reparations, which Germany is paying partly in cash, partly in goods and manufactured products.

Now, in paying the price of defeat in the great war, German industry is busy turning out millions of articles, from toys to tractors, and they are being distributed throughout Europe. Each of them bears the trade mark, "Made in Germany."

How's that for an ironic fairy tale?

DISPENSING WITH THE JURY.

The American Bar Association Journal prints in its January issue an article entitled "Reforms in Federal Procedure," written by Charles H. Tuttle, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, which openly advocates the abolishment of trial by jury and the substitution of a summary process with respect to "petty offenses" against the United States. As to what constitutes a "petty offense" Mr. Tuttle points to the case of Schick vs. U. S., an oleomargarine case, decided in 1903, wherein it is suggested that the test may be found in the nature of the offense and the amount of punishment prescribed; and in that case a fine imposed upon Schick by the Court, without a jury, was upheld.

It is to Justice Hanlan's credit that he dissented in a decision which carries conviction to every informed mind. He pointed out that one of the serious grounds of opposition to the adoption of the Constitution was that it made even secret trials possible in the Federal courts, and to remove all doubt, the Sixth Amendment was adopted, declaring that, "In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury;" that never did the common law courts of England make an exception to trial by jury in the most trivial cases, save where an omnipotent Parliament had altered the common law.

Blackstone, himself, was not pleased with these summary exceptions. He said:

> And, however convenient these may appear at first (as doubtless all arbitrary powers, well executed, are the most convenient) yet let it be again remembered, that delays and like inconveniences in the forms of justice are the price that all free nations must pay for their liberty on more substantial matters; that these inroads upon this sacred bulwark of the nation are fundamentally opposite to the spirit of our Constitution; and that though begun on trifles, the precedent may gradually increase and spread, to the utter disuse of juries in questions of the most momentous concerns.

If the practice of this pernicious doctrine spreads God pity the people of the United States in their wholesale summary punishment by our countless Federal boards, bureaus and commissions which will certainly avail themselves of its convenience.

ANOTHER CRIME—AND NO NONSENSE.

"Kaiser Bill," German police dog, who resides at Mount Sterling, Ky., has been condemned to death by the County Judge of the district. "Kaiser Bill's" crime is a serious one. He is accused of murdering 36 sheep.

It appears that he has pronounced sanguinary tendencies, that he is severely antisocial. But his master objects to the Court's decision; he has appealed from the verdict. So far those appeals have been only technical objections, arguments as to the Court's right to inflict punishment. We hope they will continue to be only such. May the scant honor left to "Kaiser Bill" never be besmirched by depositions declaring his maternal grandpa refused to gnaw at bones, that his paternal grandma stole milk from a cat and refused to drink of water, that his mother, on occasion, was discovered chasing hens. If "Kaiser Bill" has violated the law of Kentucky, if the Court of that State has legal right to dispatch him, then let "Kaiser Bill," setting aside all subterfuge, take his medicine with the traditional bravery of his kind.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER JR.

If Mr. Rockefeller's appearance at Washington accomplishes nothing else, it furnishes an example of how a witness should behave. In his 58 minutes before the Senate Committee, he shed no light on the mysterious affairs of the Continental Trading Company. He said he does not know who got the missing bonds, and no one can doubt his word. But while he had no information, what a striking contrast was his courteous, even eager, manner to the offensive bellowings and truculence of Stewart, and the trickiness and evasiveness of most of the other oil men who have testified!

Mr. Rockefeller not only has nothing to hide, but he is plainly willing to do his part, as son of the founder of Standard Oil, to aid in the investigation. He has promised Senator Walsh that he will set on foot an inquiry to determine whether or not any of the missing bonds got into the possession of any of the Rockefeller companies. Throughout the questioning, Mr. Rockefeller showed his distress at the implications of the Senate's search, and made it clear that he was eager to have the truth told for the good of the oil industry, as well as business at large. Such is the attitude of a man of honesty and character.

It is true Mr. Rockefeller expressed his confidence in Stewart, but it was perfunctory. In the next breath, he said he totally disagreed with the position Stewart took before the committee, and was "bitterly disappointed" at his failure to answer Senator Walsh's questions. On the whole, Mr. Rockefeller acquitted himself with such satisfaction that he was complimented and thanked by Chairman Nye.

Unfortunately, Mr. Rockefeller is not a business man. He spends his time in philanthropic pursuits.

His father's great business can ill spare him. It needs a man who can say with evident sincerity, "As a stockholder, I want no profits that are derived by a compromise with right;" who has a high conception of the ethics and responsibilities of big business.

DR. LUDWIG AND AMERICAN GREATNESS.

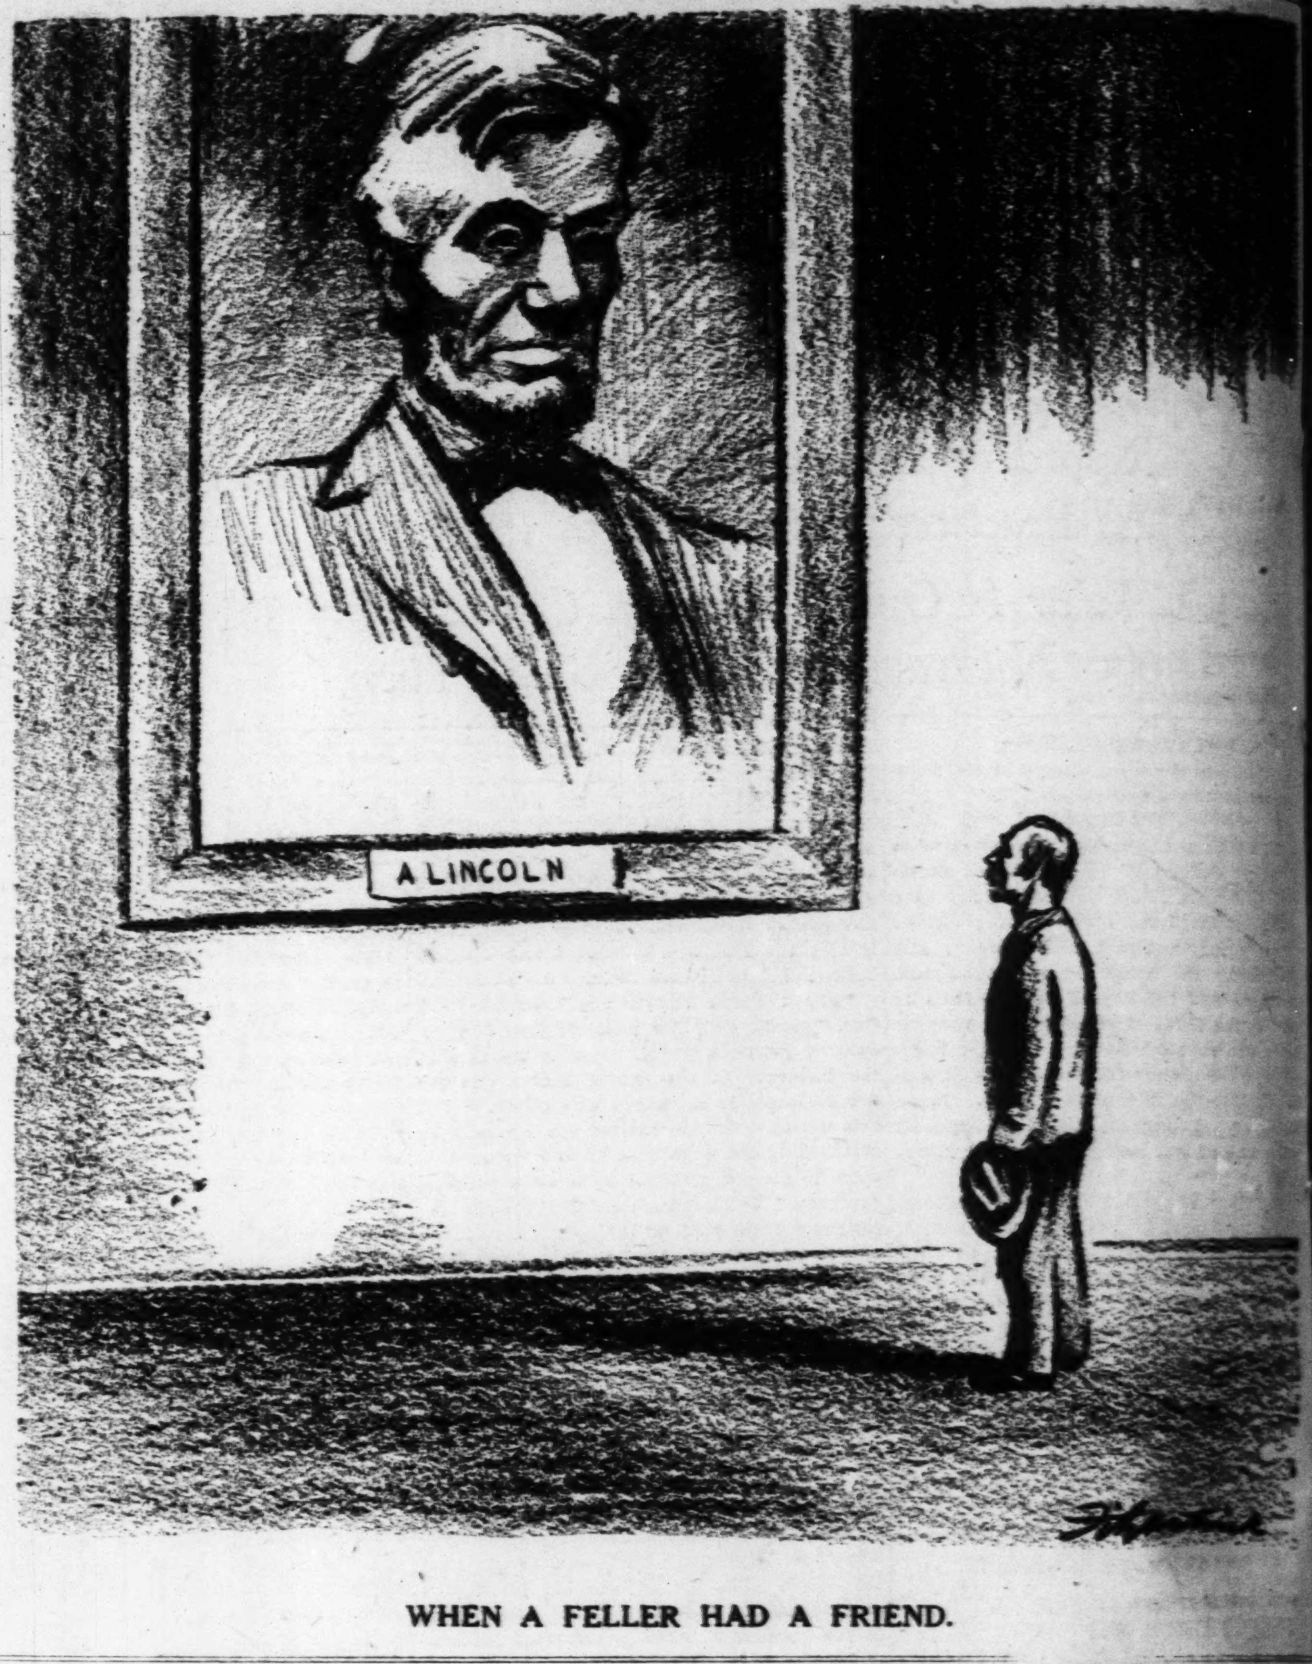
Dr. Emil Ludwig, biographer of Napoleon, thinks the four greatest living Americans are Miss Jane Addams, John D. Rockefeller, Thomas A. Edison and Orville Wright.

To quarrel very hard with that judgment would be to resort to prejudices which Dr. Ludwig does not, of course, share. The interesting thing about it is the respect in which he shows that the poet was right when he said:

> Honor and fame from no condition rise;
> Act well your part, there all the honor lies.

Mr. Edison worked in a laboratory, Mr. Rockefeller in a counting room; Mr. Wright on the flying field, and Miss Addams in the slums. Certainly those fields are sufficiently divergent to prove the poet's point. It is something that youth might very well think about.

No doubt Dr. Ludwig considered Mr. Ford, to reject him for Mr. Rockefeller, our other industrial Brobdignag, when he got to what they did with their money when they got it. That is right.



WHEN A FELLER HAD A FRIEND.

What Happened in the Senate Chamber After Mr. Stewart Had Obtained His Release From Durance Vile on a Habeas Corpus Writ.

From the Congressional Record for February 4.

Robert W. Stewart—Recusant Witness.

The Sergeant at Arms (David S. Barry) appeared and said: Mr. President, acting under instructions of a warrant issued to the Sergeant at Arms by the President of the Senate, Robert W. Stewart was taken into the custody of the Senate. He has applied for and obtained a writ of habeas corpus, which is returnable Tuesday, Feb. 7.

MR. WALSH of Montana. Mr. President, I offer the following resolution.

The VICE PRESIDENT. The Clerk will read the resolution.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution (S. Res. 133), as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Public Lands and Surveys be, and it hereby is, authorized in its discretion to employ counsel to represent the Senate in any proceedings taken by Robert W. Stewart to secure his release from the custody of the Sergeant at Arms in any court.

MR. KING. I just came into the Chamber and I was wondering whether the last resolution which the Senator offered contemplates the abandonment of any policy of procedure which would bring Mr. Stewart before the Senate?

MR. WALSH of Montana. Not at all. I am very glad that question has been asked.

MR. KING. It looks as though it might be inconsistent.

MR. WALSH of Montana. Not at all. Under the procedure which was contemplated, should Col. Stewart appear here he would be relieved from the custody of the Senate at any time he would signify a willingness to answer the questions which were propounded to him. Thereupon the power of the Senate is gone; we could not hold him for a moment.

But, Mr. President, this is an offense, a grave offense, punishable by imprisonment. I think that the time has come when the dignity of the Senate of the United States ought to be recognized and it ought to be appreciated that it is no trifling affair to defy its authority, however high the recusant witness may stand. I am not content at all to excuse Col. Stewart if he should now agree to testify. His offense is properly punishable, as was the offense of Mr. Harry F. Sinclair, who was sentenced to 90 days in the common jail.

MR. CARAWAY. I just came into the Chamber. I understood a motion was made to certify the matter to the District Attorney of the District of Columbia. Is that the plan?

MR. WALSH of Montana. Yes.

MR. CARAWAY. Have we ever had anything but delay in any matter that went down to the courts? Sinclair is out, and they have been pretending to try a contempt case before Judge Siddons since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. It seems to me that anything which is certified down there we might as well say is merely off our hands and that the parties involved are in no danger of being punished.

MR. GEORGE. Mr. President——

MR. HEFLIN. I yield to the Senator from Georgia.

MR. GEORGE. I merely wish to inquire of the Senator from Montana the purpose of certifying the record to the District Attorney. Is it to inform the habeas corpus court of what transpired before the committee and in the Senate? Or is it to enable the District Attorney to institute a criminal prosecution?

MR. WALSH of Montana. I asked that the proceedings be certified there in order that the District Attorney might procure an indictment against the offender.

MR. GEORGE. For his refusal to testify?

MR. WALSH of Montana. Yes.

MR. GEORGE. Is it the Senator's view that indictment of the witness for his refusal to answer the questions propounded by the committee would in no manner bar or embarrass direct action by the Senate?

MR. WALSH of Montana. I think it would not. If the Senator from Alabama will yield for a moment further, I desire to say that it is regrettable that these interminable delays occur, but we know of no way to avoid them.

MR. CARAWAY. It is more than regrettable; it has become a national scandal. There is not a law-abiding and law-enforcing citizen of America who does not realize that the proceeding which is going on here now in the court is just a farce. If there is no way to punish people for corrupting Cabinet members, for defying the courts, defying the Congress, we might as well know it. What is the use of certifying anything to court when we know we shall never live long enough to hear the end of it?

MR. BORAH. Mr. President——

MR. HEFLIN. I yield to the Senator from Idaho.

MR. BORAH. I understand that Mr. Stewart has sued out a writ. I presume the Senate will respect that writ. I take it that the certifying of the record there is to assist in determining whether or not he is entitled to release under the writ.

MR. CARAWAY. The Senator from Idaho will not live long enough to have that question determined by the court.

MR. BORAH. That may be true, but I am in fairly good health.

MR. CARAWAY. I know; but if the Senator lives to be as old as Methuselah—and I would be very glad if he should—he will not see the end of this matter.

MR. BORAH. The question is, Mr. President, the writ having been allowed, it is our duty to send the record down there so the court may have everything before it.

MR. CARAWAY. I do not think so. What does the court care for that?

MR. HEFLIN. Mr. President, Senators who have just spoken have said some of the things that I had in mind. The resolution was about to be passed without anything being said by the Senate, and I did not want that to happen so far as I am concerned.

This man Stewart has challenged the Senate and its authority. He has defied the Senate. He has been congratulated by other oil magnates for his impudence and insolence. They are encouraging him to stand out against the Senate. I do not think that the Senate should permit this case to drag along as the Sinclair case has dragged. We ought to keep behind this case until it is disposed of. This man ought to be put in prison. If he were a poor man in the common walks of life, he would be in jail now. There would not be any writ of habeas corpus for him. No delay would be had in his case.

But these men, who think more of their money than they do of their country, can go unwhipped of justice. They can come here and connive together to rob the Government, to steal its property, and when we catch them like we would any other thief, they sit up and tell Senators on the committee who want to know the truth that it is none of their business. Are we going to permit this thing to continue?

The trial of the Sinclair case is a [illegible] It has been a farce in this city for [illegible] They have sidetracked the main issue [illegible] off trying a detective and a juror, that they tried to bribe, for the purpose of dragging the main case along until they wear it [illegible] Has Sinclair ever served a day of his sentence for contempt of the Senate? PHIL. A. BENNETT FILES TO HEAD G. O. P. TICKET

Retiring Lieutenant-Governor Fourth to Come Out Officially for Governorship.

FOR $75,000,000 ROAD BOND ISSUE

Urges Budget System, Increased School Facilities, Reforestration and "Upholding of Constitution."

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—Lieutenant-Governor Phil A. Bennett of Springfield, today filed official notice of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor in the August primary.

He is the fourth to file, the others being former Judge Henry S. Caulfield of St. Louis; Frank Wielandy of St. Louis, and Probate Judge Sam D. Hodgdon of Webster Groves. William R. Schneider and Dr. James Stewart of St. Louis are active candidates, but have not formally filed.

Bennett's platform, made public at the time he filed, contains declarations advocating increased school facilities, indorsement of the proposed $75,000,000 road bond issue and inclusion in the State road system of 5000 miles of local or auxiliary roads, relief for the farm situation, reforestation of cut over lands, support of waterways improvements, helpful banking legislation, the Associated Industries movement for establishment of a budget system and consolidation of overlapping State departments, and advocating a State platform "upholding the Constitution in every respect."

He said nothing specifically on prohibition.

Bennett is 47 years old. He was born on a farm in Dallas County. He served one term as a State Senator and was elected Lieutenant-Governor in 1924. He resides in Springfield, where until recently he was president of the Bankers' Loan & Investment Co. and of the Commonwealth Savings & Loan Co. He resigned both positions a few weeks ago to become Vice president of the Northwestern Terminals Co. which has offices in St. Louis.

The local leageu will move its headquarters March 1 from the Bell Telephone Building to 3329 Washington avenue, and also will have in its new home the Economy Shop it now maintains at 2106 Franklin venue.

OPENS SHOP FOR AMERICANS

Berlin Hotel's Innovation Causes Wide Comment.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—Yielding to the demands of American patrons, a leading Berlin hotel has taken the initiative of installing a shop on the ground floor. For the first time in Germany, American travelers can now buy shirts, socks, shoes, medicines, lipsticks, face powder, jewelry and other necessaries without moving out of the hotel.

As a writer recently pointed out American travelers speak with the greatest enthusiasm of the cleanliness, comfort and service in the standard German hotels, but complain that they must send elsewhere in case they need articles of dress or adornment. The installation of a shop has caused wide comment in the Berlin press. That it is a paying proposition is admitted by the hotel management. A staff of six sales clerks finds plenty to do, and pages stand ready to hurry on bicycles to the department store of which the shop is a branch, to fetch articles not in stock.

and of building a naval base on the Gulf of Fonseca. For these concessions the United States undertook to pay Nicaragua $3,000,000.

While the treaty was under consideration Taft went out of the presidency and Bryan became Secretary of State under Wilson. In taking up the treaty, Bryan added an article embodying a plan which would have brought Nicaragua definitely under the dictatorship of the United States. This plan had been suggested by Diaz two years before. It would have given the United States the right to intervene in Nicaragua to preserve that country's independence or to protect life and property, and would have forbidden Nicaragua to declare war without the consent of the United States or to enter into treaties with foreign nations that would impair Nicaraguan independence. The "protector" article, in other words, would have placed Nicaragua in about the same status as Cuba. The Senate disapproved this article, but ratified a treaty containing the other provisions. This became effective in 1916.

U. S. Flouts Decision of Central American Court.

Both Salvador and Costa Rica protested again the treaty, claiming that it violated certain of their guaranteed rights, and carried their case to the Central American Court of Justice, which had been created under the sponsorship of the United States. The court in September, 1916, and March, 1917, upheld the claims of the protesting nations, but both the United States and Nicaragua flouted its decisions. Their attitude killed the court.

"This pointed disregard by the United States of a body that was in a peculiar sense its own creation," writes Prof. Cox, "seemed to render useless the further continuance of the court. Much had been anticipated from its organization........it was a praiseworthy experiment. Its course was brief and its sanctions restricted. It may be regarded as the victim of economic forces too powerful for its constituency."

The story of the financial difficulties of Nicaragua is too long and intricate to be told here in any detail. It has its pleasing as well as its disturbing features. Under American tutelage there was a gradual improvement in the country's fiscal structure, culminating in 1919-20 in full payment of the bankers' advances of 1913 and the purchase by the Nicaraguan Government of the stock in the National Railway.

Attitude of U. S. Blocks Central American Union.

Prof. Cox shows how the control of the United States over Nicaragua has operated against the realization of the century-old dream of a union of the Central American republics. The latest attempt to form a Central American Federation took concrete form in the pact of San Jose, of 1921. Nicaragua did not sign, and eventually the project was abandoned. Failure, according to Prof. Cox, was its foreordained lot. He believes however, that the unionist cult remains "a force with which banking contracts and the Bryan-Chamorro treaty—not to mention more subtle forms of intervention—must inevitably reckon."

Chamorro's Coup d'Etat Ousts Solorzano-Sacasa Group.

The narrative now comes down to the present intervention. In 1924, Carlos Solorzano was elected President and Juan B. Sacasa, a liberal, Vice President. The vote was decisive—48,000 to 28,000—and the election was said to have been the fairest ever held in Nicaragua.

Liberals and conservatives had united to elect the Solozano-Sacasa ticket, but after the election there was a break. Each faction tried to run the Government. The trouble came to a head on Oct. 25, 1925, when through the treachery of an officer, Gen. Chamorro, got possession of the fortress of La Loma, which commanded the Capital.

"From this point of vantage," as Prof. Cox tells the story, "he forced the President to dismiss the liberal members of the cabinet, pay him $10,000 for personal expenses in arranging the coup d'etat, and to appoint him commander of the army. The President hesitated to order the constabulary to attack the usurper. When he hesitated to ask aid from the war vessels already hovering along the coasts, his days as Chief Executive were numbered. Vice President Sacasa fled abroad in fear of his life."

Sacasa Invited to Be Party to His Own Demise.

Chamorro forced Congress to oust 18 of its members and replace them with his friends. This body summoned Sacasa, then in Guatemala, to return and answer charges of conspiracy to invade the country.

"Naturally," says Prof. Cox, "Sacasa refused to be a party to his own demise, so Congress declared his office vacant and banished him for two years."

Congress elected Chamorro as first designado. Solorzano resigned. Congress refused to accept the resignation, but granted Solorzano an indefinite vacation. Chamorro thereupon, on Jan. 17, 1926, installed himself as President.

"Technically he had complied with the letter of the law—at least in the final steps—but in reality he was a usurper who expected his former close relations with the State Department to absolve him from political crime."

The State Department, however, refused to recognize Chamorro. He tried unsuccessfully to sell the Nicaraguan Railway and the National Bank.

Neutral Zone Order Follows Raid on Bluefields Bank.

In May, 1926, the Liberals opened hostilities against him by raiding the branch of the National Bank at Bluefields. Immediately came a United States cruiser "to protect American citizens and property." Bluefields was declared a neutral zone. August saw the rebellion well advanced, and in September the United States declared an embargo against the shipment of arms to either faction. Toward the end of September, Admiral Latimer, who commanded the naval forces gathering about Nicaragua, negotiated an armistice for the purpose of bringing the factional leaders together at Corinto. Minister Dennis "assumed the usual directive role under orders from Washington."

At the Corinto gathering, the Liberals insisted that Sacasa be made president, but proposed as well several neutrals. The conservative faction demanded Diaz and no other.

"In this attitude," says Prof. Cox, "they confidently counted upon the support of Washington. Nor were they disappointed. When it appeared that the Liberals must either take Diaz or withdraw, they chose to retire and thus broke up the conference."

(This version by Prof. Cox corresponds with that given the reviewer by a Nicaraguan newspaper man, G. Aleman Bolanos, at Havana. Bolanos said that a spirit of compromise on the part of Dennis would have saved the day. But Dennis stood pat for Diaz.)

After the failure of the Corinto conference, Chamorro "deposited" the executive power with the second designado, his perksonal friend, Sebastian Uriza. Uriza gave Chamorro command of the army.

"Constitutional Procedure in Theory and in Practice."

"The State Department," writes Prof. Cox, "continued to withhold recognition until 'constitutional' procedure was gone through. In this emergency Uriza was brought forward to get Congress in special session for the purpose of choosing an executive to fill out the unexpired term. This was the method prescribed by the Constitution in case of a vacancy in the offices both of President and Vice President. "A more natural method would have been to permit the succession of the Vice President, Sacasa. It is true that he was then out of the country, but his absence was due to fear of Chamorro and his subsequent attainder by Congress was also determined by that dictator. A hint from the State Department after the abdication of Chamorro would have swept aside all technical pretexts and have established Sacasa as the constitutional executive for the unexpired term."

Diaz was elected President by an obedient Congress on Nov. 11, 1926, and six days later was recognized by the State Department. He immediately negotiated a new loan from American bankers. Diaz appealed to the State Department for aid against Sacasa. On instructions from Washington, Admiral Latimer landed Marines and began the establishment of "neutral zones."

American Interference Makes Recalcitrants Popular.

"The policy of hampering Sacasa and aiding Diaz," says Prof. Cox, "seemed to make the former more popular. American, Canadian and French officers, as well as Mexican, were reported as serving under his standard."

But Sacasa was doomed. Soon the State Department was selling arms and ammunition to the Diaz Government. Then followed the Stimson mission and the resultant agreement under which the Liberal Gen. Moncada laid down his arms—at $10 for each rifle. An arrangement was made for an election in 1928, to be supervised by the United States.

Last May 15, Stimson cabled that "the war in Nicaragua is now definitely ended." But since that date some 600 Nicaraguans have been killed by the Marines, and they are still chasing Sandino.

TEA PARTY ON BATTLESHIP

Two British Admirals Arrange Reunion of Retired Sailors.

By the Associated Press.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Feb. 11.—The battleship Nelson was the scene of a tea party which has written a new chapter to British naval, social history. English newspapers say it is the first time two Admirals invited the crew of ordinary rank to such a function.

The hosts were Vice Admiral Sir Hubert Brand, Commander in Chief of the Atlantic fleet, and Admiral Sir Osmond de B. Brock, Commander in Chief of the Portsmouth command. The guests were both men and officers, without distinction of rank, who served in the steam frigate Raleigh during the commission from 1885 to 1887 Both Sir Hubert and Sir Osmond were midshipmen of the watch together in the Raleigh. Their idea in giving the tea was to provide a reunion of the men who served together 40 years ago, and Sir Hubert offered his flagship as the most fitting place for the event.

And Edgar Lee Masters in "Autochton," a lengthy poem on the two great figures, thus appraises them together:

There is a windless flame where cries and tears,
Where hunger, strife and war and human blood
No shadow cast, and where the love of truth,
Which is not love of individual souls,
Finds solace in a judgment of our life.
That is the flame that took both Charles and you—

Anglican and Catholic Reports on Church Unity in Malines Conversations

Summary of Discussions in Which English Prelates Recognize the Primacy of the Pope—Other Points of Agreement.

PUBLICATION in England of the proposals advanced at Malines, Belgium, in an effort at a rapprochement between dignitaries of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches has aroused much discussion there. The chief points of the discussions are presented in the following review, published in the London Times of Jan. 19.

THE report in English and French entitled "The Conversations at Malines, 1921-1925," published by the Oxford University Press, is accompanied by an important memorandum presented by the Roman Catholics present at the discussions.

The conversations originated in a request by Lord Halifax, made in 1921, that Cardinal Mercier should receive some Anglican friends who were anxious to labor for a rapprochement of the Anglican Church to the Roman Catholic Church. At the first two meetings there were present Cardinal Mercier, Lord Halifax, Dr. J. Armitage Robinson (Dean of Wells), the Rev. W. H. Frere (now Bishop of Truro), Mgr. Van Roey, Vicar-general of Malines, and M. F. Portal, priest of the Mission, Paris. At the third and fourth meetings Dr. Gore, formerly Bishop of Oxford, and Dr Kidd, Warden of Keble College, Oxford, also attended at the request of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and on the other side there were present Mgr. Mattifol, canon of Notre Dame, Paris, and M. Hemmer, Cure de la Sainte Trinite, Paris, who had been invited by Cardinal Mercier.

The basis of doctrine recognized by each side was fully dealt with at the fourth meeting.

Anglican Essentials.

The report, after saying that "the Anglicans have not accepted the Council of Trent or the Vatican Council," adds:

"The basis suggested by the Anglicans is the Ecumenic Faith of the Councils, with a tolerance of diversities determined by the distinction between fundamental and nonfundamental. This must be considered a permanent element in the position of Anglicans: the demand for the distinction will go on. To this the Roman Catholics replied, first, that this distinction between fundamental and nonfundamental articles is one that cannot be reconciled with the presupposition that such articles are alike defined by one and the same infallible authority, and thus must be held equally to be de fide. This reply gave the Anglicans the opportunity of explaining that by 'fundamental' they mean what is de fide and by 'nonfundamental' what is not de fide."

Already at the second meeting the Anglicans had made it known that "an essential part" of a reunion settlement would be "the express provision for the recognition and retention of certain characteristic Anglican rites and customs," such as the use of the vernacular and the English rite, communion in both kinds, and permission of the marriage of clergy. The attitude of the Roman Catholics to this is described by the report, thus: "On the three points mentioned the Roman Catholics replied that precedents exist which partially are in agreement with the desires expressed by the Anglicans; but that such precedents come from the Uniat Churches of the East. There is no absolute bar to the granting of these desires, at any rate in part. But the Roman Catholic representatives are not in a position to anticipate what judgment the Holy See would pass on the motives that prompt these requests."

The Pope and the Bishops.

The Anglicans quoted the well-known axiom: "No foreign potentate hath any jurisdiction in this realm of England." They asked if it were possible so to interpret the spiritual authority of the Pope that the jurisdiction of the English Bishops should not be interfered with, and whether this could be secured if the right of the Pope to intervene in matters concerning the general interests of the universal Church were recognized. The Roman Catholics pointed out "that the right of the Pope to intervene anywhere could not be surrendered; but it might be a question how far he need exercise it. If the principle of the right were acknowledged, it was not inconceivable that the sovereign pontiff might allow that normally the local authority should work without his intervention."

The extent to which papal authority was repudiated at the Reformation in England was raised by the Anglicans at the third meeting. "In regard to the papal authority it was explained by the Roman Catholics that this transcends but does not extinguish episcopal authority; in exceptional crises, however, the Pope intervenes in full power. One of the Anglicans said at this point that it was right to make it plain that they could not admit the 'universal jurisdiction' claimed either for St. Peter individually or for the Roman Church, but only a spiritual leadership and a general solicitude for the well-being of the church as a whole. To the objection that a mere primacy of honor cannot be admitted by the Roman Church, it was insisted that this was more than a primacy of honor, it was also a primacy of responsibility."

St. Peter and the Church.

After discussion, an Anglican memorandum, dealing with the position of St. Peter and the Roman Church, according to contemporary evidence, was modified and formulated as follows:

1. That the Roman Church was founded and built by St. Peter and St. Paul, according to St. Irenaeus (adv. Haer. iii, 3, 2).

2. That the Roman See is the only historically known Apostolic See in the West.

3. That the Bishop of Rome is, as Augustine said of Pope Innocent I, president of the Western Church (Contra Iulianum Pelagianum, i, 13).

4. That he has a primacy among all the Bishops of Christendom; so that, without communion with him, there is in fact no prospect of a reunited Christendom.

5. That to the Roman See the Churches of the English owe their Christianity through "Gregory our father" (Council of Clovesho, A. D. 747) "who sent us baptism" (Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, Anno 565).

Grant Primacy of Pope.

At the last meeting the Anglicans, in conference among themselves, drew up the following document:

"The church is a living body under the authority of the Bishops as successors of the Apostles; and from the beginnings of church history a primacy and leadership among all the Bishops has been recognized as belonging to the Bishop of Rome. Nor can we imagine that any reunion of Christendom could be effected except on the recognition of the primacy of the Pope. But while we think that both the Eastern orthodox and the Anglican churches would be prepared to recognize such primacy, we do not think it likely that they would be ready to define it more closely. However, the following points may be usefully stated:

"1. The authority of the Pope is not separate from that of the episcopate; nor in normal circumstances can the authority of the episcopate be exercised in disassociation from that of its chief.

"2. In virtue of that primacy the Pope can claim to occupy a position in regard to all other Bishops which no other Bishop claims to occupy in regard to him.

"3. The exercise of that primacy has in time past varied in regard to time and place; and it may vary again. And this adds to the difficulty of defining the respective rights of the Holy See on the one side and of the episcopate upon the other."

Touch with Other Bodies.

At the first meeting the Anglicans emphasized the fact "that the unity contemplated in the (Lambeth) Appeal included both the Oriental Churches and the various Protestant groups throughout the world; that, in the view of the Anglicans, the Orientals hold in regard to this question of visible headship the same view as themselves; it was very generally believed among Anglicans that their own church had been placed by Providence in an intermediate position which involved a corresponding responsibility; so that, in attempting any approach towards unity, they are bound to maintain contact so far as may be possible with the Oriental churches, and that they are under a similar obligation in respect to the Nonconformists."

Summing up the results of the Conversations, the report gives the following: "The net gain of this series of Conversations may be described as the elimination of several subjects which have ceased to be causes of difference and the elucidation of others that still remain. As regards other dogmatic points, including those that were handled briefly in the first Conversation, and in particular the doctrine of the Sacraments, we say no more here because they are sufficiently treated in the French report, with which we are in substantial agreement, and also because there is an opening for further discussion, which, we think, would be profitable and would lead not only to a better understanding, but also to a greater measure of general agreement upon the matters in question."

Report Presented by Catholic Representatives

The French report, prepared by the Roman Catholic representatives, records agreement on the doctrine defined by the Ecumenical Councils, on the articles of the Apostles', Nicene, and Athanasian Creeds, and on the authority of the Church to interpret the Scriptures. This report then sets out a list of agreements as to the meaning and significance of the Sacraments. It says: "An agreement is reached without much difficulty on the following points:

"1. Baptism constitutes the measure of entry into the church, and the initiation which baptism inaugurates ought to develop within an organized social life.

"2. The social life of Christians is organized round an episcopal hierarchy.

"3. This social and organized life finds expression within the church in the existence and use of the Sacraments.

"4. In the Eucharist the body and blood of our Lord Jesus Christ are verily given, taken, and received by the faithful. By consecration the bread and wine become the body and blood of Christ.

"5. The Sacrifice of the Eucharist is the same sacrifice as that of the Cross, but offered in a mystical and sacramental manner.

"6. Communion in both kinds was once the practice of the whole church, but in the West communion came to be limited to one kind for practical reasons dependent upon circumstances. Consequently, in our view, communion in both kinds is not a matter of doctrine, but one of ecclesiastical discipline.

As to the Confessional.

"7. In both churches provision exists for a ministry and a discipline of penitence, whereby the sinner is reconciled to God through the sacramental absolution which the priest pronounces upon the sinner. Although the use of the Sacrament of Penance and of sacramental absolution is much more widespread in the Roman Catholic Church, yet the formulae given in the prayer book for the order of communion and for the visitation of the sick leave no doubt as to the belief of the Anglican Church in this respect, or as to the opportunity given to its members of having recourse to sacramental absolution for the purpose of their reconciliation with God, if they have fallen into any grave sin.

"8. In regard to the anointing of the sick, it is true that there is less agreement; but it is to be noticed that there is a tendency among Anglicans to revive the ancient custom of anointing the sick."

Rights of the Bishops.

With reference to the episcopate, the report says: "The institution of Bishops is of divine right. Even in the view of Roman Catholics, whatever right the Pope may possess to limit, in certain cases and for the general good, the powers of the Bishops, it does not belong to him to suppress the episcopate; and it would be an attack on the divine constitution of the church for him to take any steps which, even short of suppressing the episcopate, would nullify it in practice. * * * With regard to the special position of the Pope in the church, the divergences in belief and opinion are more serious and more difficult to reconcile."

The Anglicans are also accused of unwillingness to go into detail in defining "the duties of the Pope in acting for the well-being of the Church Universal," and his corresponding rights, yet the language used by them is said to indicate an identical tendency of thought. "The exact phraseology," says the Roman Catholic report, "is here of importance on account of the idea which underlies it. When they speak of 'spiritual responsibility,' 'spiritual leadership,' 'general superintendence,' 'care for the wellbeing of the church as a whole,' their mind seems throughout all such language to fasten upon, a very positive conception of a certain power rich in its capacity but ill-defined in its extent. Memories of ancient times have left some bitterness of heart. It is better not to go back upon the past, but to try to forecast the forms which papal activity might take in the future. But what emerges from these expressions is the sense of a lofty mission attaching to the Pope, with the implication that to a 'primacy of honor' there must be added a 'primacy of responisbility.'"

"Y" PLANS TO ERECT TWO NEW BUILDINGS

South Side and West End to Be Provided for in Next Few Years.

At the annual meeting of the metropolitan board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. Friday the extension of "Y" work to the South Side and the West End was authorized. This is part of the organization's $3,000,000 development fund plan. Buildings will be erected within the next few years at Grand Boulevard and Shenandoah avenue and at Union Boulevard and Raymond avenue, on sites bought last year. Preliminary plans for these building are in preparation. Meantime activities will be developed under the direction of the building commtitees of the two new branches. Secretaries with headquarters near the building sites will begin work within the next few weeks.

The directors also authorized the establishment of a city-wide committee to supervise work among high school boys, transferring this activity from the Bays' Work Commission to a committee directly responsible to the board of directors. The Boys' Commission will continue its program of co-ordinating boys' activities of all branches.

The total number of men and boys members of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. in 1927 was 16,645. During the last year payments of fees by members and the income of service departments provided 86 per cent of the operating budget of the Association, Community Fund appropriations covering the deficit. Daily attendance at "Y" buildings was 7700. The "Y" dormitories had 11,156 occupants in 1927. On 45 vocational classes 1243 students were enrolled.

Samuel C. Davis was re-elected president of the St. Louis Association, L. Ray Carter and Harry M. Pflager were elected vice presidents, Bert H. Lang, treasurer and Wilbur B. Jones, corresponding secretary.

PRIEST TO SING IN CITY

Father George Maguire, Irish Tenor, Was Wounded in War.

Father George Maguire, Irish tenor who is touring the United States, will sing in a recital at Moolah Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, Friday evening. There will be no admission charge but those attending may make voluntary contributions.

Father Maguire, who during his service as chaplain of the Irish Fusileers in the World War was wounded twice and gassed, is on leave from pastoral duties. Until recently, he has been in California, recovering from an aftermath of his war wounds. Funds which he raises during the tour will be used to build and endow a musical school in Ireland.

Half of German Income for Debts.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—More than half of Germany's revenue for 1928 is appropriated for expenditure resulting from the World War which ended 10 years ago. War pensions and allowances account for 33.6 per cent, and reparations paymens absorb 23 per cent, a total of 56.6 per cent. And this is likely to last for another generation.

SCHNEIDER SAYS STATE G. O. P. MUST CLEANSE ITSELF

Gubernatorial Candidate Tells Republican Editors Party Should Repudiate Selfish Leaders.

PRIVILEGE AND DUTY TO DO IT, HE URGES

Cites Own Efforts Against Waste in Government — Declares He Saved $5,000,000 per Biennium.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The misdeeds of the party leader become the misdeeds of the party only when the rest of the party seeks to condone such misdeeds, William H. Schneider of St. Louis, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, told the Republican Editorial Association, in session here, this afternoon.

He begged that they be not overawed by alleged powerful leaders who may be seeking self-aggrandizement and asked that they "be not led by them in their transgressions."

"The fact that you are an editor means that you have assumed a public trust. You are entrusted by your subscribers to keep them correctly informed on passing events and to analyze such events honestly, with a view of being a proper guiding influence in the general civic betterment of those under your sphere of influence.

Party Must Purge Itself.

"When we observe within the ranks of our party a tendency on the part of some to deviate from the sound and time-honored principles of the party, to disregard the law, to use and misuse the party name and organization for their own selfish purposes, I take it that under such circumsances it is not only our privilege but our duty to the party to call such person or group to account, regardless of the position that may be held by that person or group. The misdeeds of the party leader become the misdeeds of the party only when the rest of the party seeks to condone such misdeeds.

"Let us, therefore, not be overawed by alleged, powerful leaders who may be seeking self-aggrandizement. Let us not follow them in their transgressions and seek to condone them merely because they may appear to have great power. Remember, they will not retain it long if they abuse that power or trust or deviate from the principles of the party and bring the party into disrepute.

"I am a firm believer in party organizations and if I am elected to the high office of Governor of Missouri, the Republican party organization may expect and will receive full recognition by me.

Organization a "Blessing."

"Party organizations are a blessing to the State because they keep check on each other in the conduct of the Government. The citizen who affiliates with a political party, or better yet, becomes a party organization worker, is entitled to be more highly regarded and respected for his patriotism than the citizen who votes occasionally or not at all.

"We should try to nominate for the State office at the primary those of our candidates who are best qualified by knowledge and experience and who are least subject to honest or legitimate criticism.

"When the voters of the party have spoken by their free and untrammeled primary votes, let us forget the differences of opinion which exist in every primary and work together, shoulder to shoulder enthusiastically to elect the party nominees, and when elected, let us all help to make their administration the pride of all the people, parties and factions."

Points to Record for Saving.

Schneider expressed his happiness in behalf of the business methods of the government, that his efforts to reduce waste and corruption to a minimum to the saving of more than $5,000,000 biennially, have been incorporated in the platforms of all the gubernatorial candidates. He pointed out that he was the pioneer leader in the movement, which would, in his opinion, make him the logical nominee for the party in the coming election for Governor.

SHELTON ALIBI INQUIRY TO BEGIN THIS WEEK

East St. Louis Police Board to Examine Alleged Altered Records.

The East St. Louis Board of Fire and Police Commissioners will begin an active investigation this week of the alleged altering of the bound police records of 1924 which were used in the Shelton brothers' alibi at their trial last month for bank robbery at Taylorville.

Three East St. Louis police officers—Lieut. Thomas O'Brien, Detective-Sergeant Floyd Combs and Detective Ray Cashel—appeared as alibi witnesses for the Sheltons and the police blotter of Sept. 27, 1924, the day of the robbery, was introduced to corroborate their testimony that two of the three Sheltons were under arrest in East St. Louis on that day.

The blotter, which had been impounded as evidence at the trial, was brought back to East St. Louis Friday by Police Commissioner Henry Bischoff and placed for safekeeping in the vault of the City Clerk's office. It shows the sheet giving the record of arrests for Sept. 27, 1924, had been torn from the bound volume. It was charged by the prosecution at the trial that the names of Earl and Bernie Shelton were recently added to the record and the sheet pasted back into the volume.

The police board also has a record of the testimony of the police officers and will conduct an investigation, according to President Stephen Hynes, with a view to placing responsibility for the alleged alterations.

CARMEN NEED HIGHER PAY FOR BETTER DRESS, THEY SAY

Head of Employes' Union of Public Service Co. Replies to Vice President's Remarks.

The surest way to improve the dress and personal apeparance of street car conductors and motormen is to raise their wages so they can afford to dress better.

This is the reply of the men to Stanley Clarke, executive vice president of the St. Louis Public Service Co., who in the course of a talk before the Engineers' Club Wednesday compared the appearance of the men to that of himself when he was working on a farm. He said mirrors would be set up in the various car sheds.

The rejoinder of the union president, M. J. Douglas, was:

"May we not, in the most respectful manner, suggest that perhaps when you worked on a farm your income and work may both have been of a nature which did not permit you to dress like a well-to-do city gentleman. We street car men find ourselves in the same position you found yourself on the farm.

"The two uniforms a year we are now required to buy is already too much of a drain on our wages to enable us to also provide reasonable support for our families. We do not believe that full-length mirrors will remedy that rather distressing situation as well as would the slight increase in wages we are now asking of the Public Service Co."

URGES COMPULSORY PAY FOR VICTIMS OF AUTOMOBILES

Robert S. Marx of Cincinnati to Speak on His Proposal at City Club Tomorrow.

"Licensed Murder Versus Compulsory Compensation" will be the subject of an adress by Robert S. Marx of Cincinnati, former Judge on the Superior Court bench, before the City Club at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow. Marx is the proponent of a compulsory compensation plan for automobile drivers which recently was indorsed by the Judges of New York City, and which has just been recommended by Gov. Alfred E. Smith for enactment by the Legislature of New York.

At 8 o'clock tonight, Marx, who is a Major in the United States Army Reserve Corps, will speak on "The American Jew as a Patriot and Soldier" at a meeting of the Missouri Lodge of the Independent Order of B'nai Brith at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

HAWES AND COCHRAN REPLY TO WOMEN ON NAVY MEASURE

Senator to Consider Request He Oppose Bill; Congressman Pledged to "Par" Force.

Senator Harry B. Hawes and Representative Cochran of St. Louis have replied to telegrams sent by the St. Louis League of Women Voters urging them to oppose the Navy Bill providing for an appropriation of $740,000,000 for immediate construction of 71 ships.

Senator Hawes said he would give every consideration to the League's request when the bill reached the Senate.

Representative Cochran pointed out that he had made a campaign pledge to favor a navy which would put the United States on a par with any other nation. If need for more ships is shown in scheduled hearings on the condition of the American Navy, then he will be required to vote for the bill or for such increases as he regards as necessary, he declared.

ARCHERY CLUBS TO ORGANIZE

Meeting to Be Held at Y. M. C. A. Tuesday Evening.

A meeting of archery clubs of the St. Louis district will be held in the auditorium of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., Sixteenth and Locust streets, Tuesday evening, to organize a St. Louis district archery association.

RECORD CROWDS ATTENDED AUTO SHOW LAST WEEK

Annual Exposition, Most Successful in St. Louis' History, Cost $42,000 to Stage.

Approximately $42,000 was expended by the St. Louis Automobile Dealers Association in holding the twenty-first annual St. Louis Automobile Show which closed the most successful exhibit in its history last night. Despite the increase in paid attendance for the week, which ran above 125,000—or about 20,000 more than last year—the association will scarcely break even.

At that, however, the show committee is saistfied. The show is annually put on, not with the object of making money, but to provide at one time a complete showing of all cars sold and serviced in St. Louis.

Interesting expenditures incident to the show were released yesterday by Frank R. Tate, president of the Tate Motor Car Co., for the Show Committee. Tate is a member of this year's committee.

Tate's figures show that the auto dealers paid $7500 for the week's use of the Union Market building, approximately $10,000 for decorations, special electrical illumination, and 400 rugs were purchased on which to display cars. In addition salaries of a great army of janitors and service men had to be provided for.

Dealers were put to quite an expense in shipping special chassis and special models from the Chicago Show which ended on Saturday night, Feb. 4, two days preceding the show here. One firm, according to Tate, expended over $1200 in this manner.

An army of men is at work today dissembling the display booths on the three floors of the Union Market building. Every car, truck and chassis, all special decorations and wiring systems must be removed today since at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning the building must be ready to garage cars.

"The successful staging of the show here this year, earlier predicted on the basis of the successes scored by the Chicago and New York shows, is a reflection of the interest the country is taking this year in motor cars," Tate stated.

FEMININE APPEAL SEEN IN CARS AT THE AUTO SHOW

Plenty of "Race" but No Creed or Religion in Fetching Color Schemes.

By EVELYN COX.

A designer often refers to a new dress as a "fetching" frock. The same term might easily be applied to the Auto Show inasmuch as it drew more women than any former St. Louis show. Ladies, single, in pairs and with escorts, came to see what they should buy to equal or surpass Mrs. So and So's car. What they did see was enough to lean over the back fence on a rainy day and talk about.

There was plenty of "race," but no creed or religion so far as color was concerned. Anyone could see that the manufacturers were vieing with each other to produce the most pleasing shades and tones. Every woman prefers certain color combinations which she can harmonize into a perfect ensemble, but what man would buy a car to match his necktie? Not a color was overlooked, beginning with ebony and the darker shades of blue, maroon, green and brown and ending with canary, orchid and cream.

Enticing Jobs.

A particularly enticing job in orchid, introduced by Cadillac in a town sedan, is an illustration of a definite desire on the part of the manufacturer to cater to the color whims and fancies of the gentle sex, even though it should cause a revolution in the motor industry.

And speaking of whims, it remained for an enterprising "golddigger" to bring about the production of the Cinderella coach, which boasts some of the most elaborate and artistic, though scarcely practical colorings exhibited. Whether the feminine touch in this instance was applied by inspiration, solely, or by actual handiwork has not been disclosed.

Inwardly the cars are as attractive as the exteriors promise. Beige, being almost universally becoming and quite smart in women's fashions, this season, is generally favored in closed car upholstering. Exquisite, needlepoint

STATE ELIMINATES 52 GRADE CROSSINGS

Railways and Roads Now Separated on U. S. 40 Across Entire State.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 11.—Carrying on with its program of eliminating railroad grade-crossings to reduce accidents, the State Highway Department announces satisfactory progress was made last year, 16 grade separations having been agreed upon.

In addition to the elimination of grade crossings by construction of overhead and underpass structures, 52 grade crossings were removed during last year from the State highway system by re-location of highway routes, a report by the department shows.

"Separations now exist and are in use at every point on Route U. S. 40, the cross-state highway between St. Louis and Kansas City, except in and near Boonville, and two separations are on our program for next season at these points," the report said.

PLAN RACE BETWEEN AUTO AND AIRPLANE

Detroit Project Awaits Official Sanction of Washington Authorities.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—Just as the public had decided that the automobile industry intended to stand pat on its 1928 hand, two well known manufacturers have let it be known that they will introduce new models shortly.

Secrecy has been pledged in withholding the names of the factories interested in the move, but it can be stated that one of the new creations will be a high-powered eight-cylinder car and the other will be a sport six-cylinder engine.

The new models are about to be introduced after long and careful research and experimental work, it is said. They will represent exceptional good "buys" in their respective classes, it is claimed.

Airplane-Auto Race.

A sort of reliability tour between a passenger-carrying airplane and one of the high-priced cars is being planned here. The race is scheduled to start from Detroit and end here. The machines will be heavily loaded either with passengers or freight. Formal announcement of the project awaits only official recognition from Washington.

Sales Outstrip Production.

Manufacturers are still striving desperately to catch up with the demand for their respective products. Previous years' production schedules have failed to match the pace set by the selling organization, and the dealers are howling for cars. Manufacturers are handicapped by their inability to rearrange and replace machinery as rapidly as expected. An expansion program calling for an expenditure of $750,000 is being put into effect at Toledo by Willys-Overland. This company was forced to increase its facilities by the flood of orders following the reduction in prices.

After fulfilling only parts of its business in January, Chevrolet is stepping production up to 100,000 cars this month for American dealers. And even at this figure the demand will exceed the supply. Ford is gradually increasing production and, of course, employment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 11.—Entry blanks for the sixteenth international 500-mile automobile sweepstakes to be held, as usual, at the Indianapolis motor speedway, May 30, are now in the mail on their way to drivers in Europe and in America.

LOCKHART TO USE ICE COOLED RACE CAR AT DAYTONA

Will Try to Wrest Speed Title From Maj. Segrave With Unconventionally Built Auto.

By ROBERT HENRY HALL, Automobile Editor.

Frank Lockhart's new super-speed car with which he will try to wrest the world's speed record now standing at 203.79 m. p. h., from Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, the British ace, will employ for the first time actual ice instead of the conventional radiator to cool the engine.

As revealed in these columns Sunday, Jan. 15, Lockhart's car months ago was the subject of tremendous comment in the automotive world. That he elected to enter into a world's speed race a car only 16 feet long and powered by a 400 h. p. engine, in competition with cars of 1000 to 3000 h. p. and built like steam locomotives, baffled engineers. And the latest announcement of his decision to use "ice cooling" is as startling.

Shaped Like a Bullet.

Lockhart's car is shaped similar to a bullet. In the nose is a tank of cube ice. As the water comes from the water jackets of the engine it goes through the ice pack, is cooled and again circulates around the motor to take off more

New Falcon-Knight models form a beautiful display

Beautiful body designs, with ample room for comfort, feature the new Falcon-Knight Six models. The lines are arresting — the interiors are smart.

There is a remarkable feeling of restfulness and ease in driving this new Falcon-Knight car. Advanced body engineering and the famous Falcon-Knight sleeve-valve engine, combine to give an amazing satisfaction in motoring.

Since its introduction a year ago Falcon-Knight Six has added thousands to the list of men and women who now fully realize the great difference between sleeve-valve and poppet-valve performance.

The remarkable smoothness and activity of the Falcon-Knight double-sleeve-valve engine, is the outstanding advancement in motor design in the entire automotive industry.

Be sure to drive the new Falcon-Knight Six before selecting a car.

WHIPPET OUTPUT AT 1000 UNITS PER DAY

Production of 1500 Cars Daily Expected Within Thirty Days.

Production of the Whippet by Willys-Overland, Inc., is now at the 1000-a-day mark as manufacturing plans are being completed for a greatly enlarged output of this low-priced model.

Present production schedules are behind orders by a large percentage, but with the new body building plant just opened by Willys-Overland and with an additional body panel plant being rushed to completion the daily manufacturing volume can be materially increased before the spring selling season is in full swing, according to W. C. Eliot, manager for Willys-Overland, Inc., of St. Louis.

It is expected that a production of 1500 cars a day will be reached within the next 30 days.

"An exceptionally heavy demand for the two sedan models, the two-door and the four-door, has made it necessary for the factory to concentrate largely on these two body types," said Eliot.

"The four-door sedan is priced only $15 higher than the lowest priced sedan of this type on the market today. Standard equipment includes semielliptic springs, gasoline tank at the rear with vacuum feed, four-wheel brakes with the service brake operating independently of the emergency brake, this type of construction being legal in all states and being the same braking construction that is used on the higher-priced cars.

"Present production of the Whippet is greater than that of any other light four-cylinder car on the market in the same price class in which three makers are now making a bid for the rapidly increasing number of sales which are evident, according to the most recent figures available.

43 Makes of U. S. Cars.

Forty-three manufacturers of automobiles in the United States are now producing 620 models at prices ranging from $360 to $9000.

AGE LIMITS FOR AUTO DRIVERS SET AT 14 YEARS

FOURTEEN years of age is the lowest age limit for a license to drive an automobile in the 18 states and the District of Columbia requiring such licenses, according to the American Automobile Association. These are issued in California, Michigan and West Virginia.

Two states, namely, Connecticut and New York, says the A. A. A., require the operator of an automobile to be 18 years of age, which is the highest in any of the states requiring drivers' licenses. New York, however, issues junior operators' licenses to persons between 16 and 18 years of age.

H. C. MERRY CO. DISTRIBUTER OF WESTINGHOUSE BRAKES

H. C. MERRY.

H. C. Merry, Inc., 3920 Lindell boulevard, has been appointed St. Louis distributer of the new Westinghouse automotive brake, which supplies its power to supplement muscular strength in motor-car braking.

This new brake, according to Merry, is a compact, self-contained device which is rigidly attached to the chassis between the brake pedal and the standard brake mechanism. It is installed without disturbing the original brake rigging or any other devices on the car.

Although it is controlled by the manipulation of the foot pedal in the usual manner, it is said to require but one-third the effort ordinarily used, as the foot pressure is suplemented by the power unit acting in unison on the same brake mechanism.

The slightest pressure on the pedal opens a valve in the Westinghouse unit, admitting vacuum to the operating piston, which exerts a powerful pull on the brake rods. This pull is directly proportional to the pressure applied by the driver under all conditions, but is declared to be three times as great as that obtained without the aid of this vacuum brake unit.

Because the variable element of human strength is replaced by unfailing power, those who have seen demonstrations of this new brake say it reduces driving fatigue, gives the car a surprising ease and certainty of control, and inspires the driver with a greater confidence in his ability to stop the car under any and all conditions.

H. C. Merry, Inc., are also distributers for the Gabriel snubbers.

BAD ROAD WARNING SOUNDED

Missouri highway engineers in the Macon, Hannibal and Jefferson City divisions have sent out warnings that dirt and gravel roads in the Central Northwest and Northwest sections of the State are in poor to untravelable condition and trips other than for business purposes should not be attempted.

Output Increase Planned.

It is reported that 5,000,000 automobiles will be produced next year in the United States and Canada.

Stars View the New Chevrolet

Principals of the play "Broadway" now at a local theater, including Wallace Ford, the leading man, view the Chevrolet exhibit at the Auto Show. In the photo, Ford is seen signing an order for a new Chevrolet sedan. C. G. Jackson, factory city sales manager, is taking the order.

FEMININE APPEAL SEEN IN CARS AT AUTOMOBILE SHOW

designs on lazy cushions and small side panels, are guaranteed to take any woman's mind off "back seat driving."

More Technicalities.

Women are also deeply concerned in technicalities; such as clocks, vanity-compact cases, and smoking equipment. The car-housekeeper is interested in knowing that broadcloth is replacing mohair interiors. One can't drag the vacuum cleaner down to the garage every Tuesday and Saturday, and the broadcloth responds nicely to a quick brushing.

Fabric upholstering is confined almost entirely to closed models, and the modish woman will fix her attention on the leather accoutrements of the swank new roadsters.

An interesting novelty in leather upholstering is displayed by the Auburn in the use of snake skin, conforming to the present mode of reptile shoes, purses, belts and other accessories.

Contrasting leather welting, such as the Pompeian red on black adopted in the Gardner roadster, provides a neatly tailored finish. Leather upholstering also belongs to the "get-clean-quick" family, requiring only a soft damp cloth to erase signs of the youngster's muddy shoes.

Mechanical inducements for women drivers are worthy of note. The new Dodge Victory six metal floor board is an interesting feature, and attention is called to the use of six inch doors in some of the newer models, to prevent shattered nerves of women passengers, by eliminating rattling and jarring. This, we believe is not guaranteed.

Here's a Way to Save.

Glove and hosiery bills may be reduced since the Gardner and Peerless have arranged for the operation of the rumble seat from inside the car, and the Essex has located the starting button on the dashboard. The Hudson has improved the steering wheel to accommodate women drivers by decreasing the size of the grip in a wheel composed of a special steel core covered with hard rubber.

Prices appeal, as always to the bargain instinct and in this line as well as any other, there is a wide variety, meeting all purses, from that of P. W. G. to that of Mr. Millionaire.

BRILLIANTLY Different

Dodge Brothers Victory Six is not only a new car but an entirely new and better kind of a car.

For the first time in history, body and chassis are a single, integral unit.

The wide, deep Victory chassis frame, flush with the body lines, eliminates the body sill and the customary body OVERHANG.

Major body parts are reduced from 367 to 8!

175 pounds of useless weight are cast off!

The gravity center is radically lowered—with head-room and road clearance unaffected.

And battleship construction (i. e., double steel walls) is applied for the first time to the construction of a motor car body.

The results can not be expressed—they must be experienced.

No unpleasant skidding or sidesway at the corners. No back-wheel "chatter" when the Lockheed Hydraulic brakes are quickly applied.

A smoothness over cobble roads that you have never imagined possible.

A swift car that is safe—a moderate-priced car that is unsurpassed in smartness and individuality.

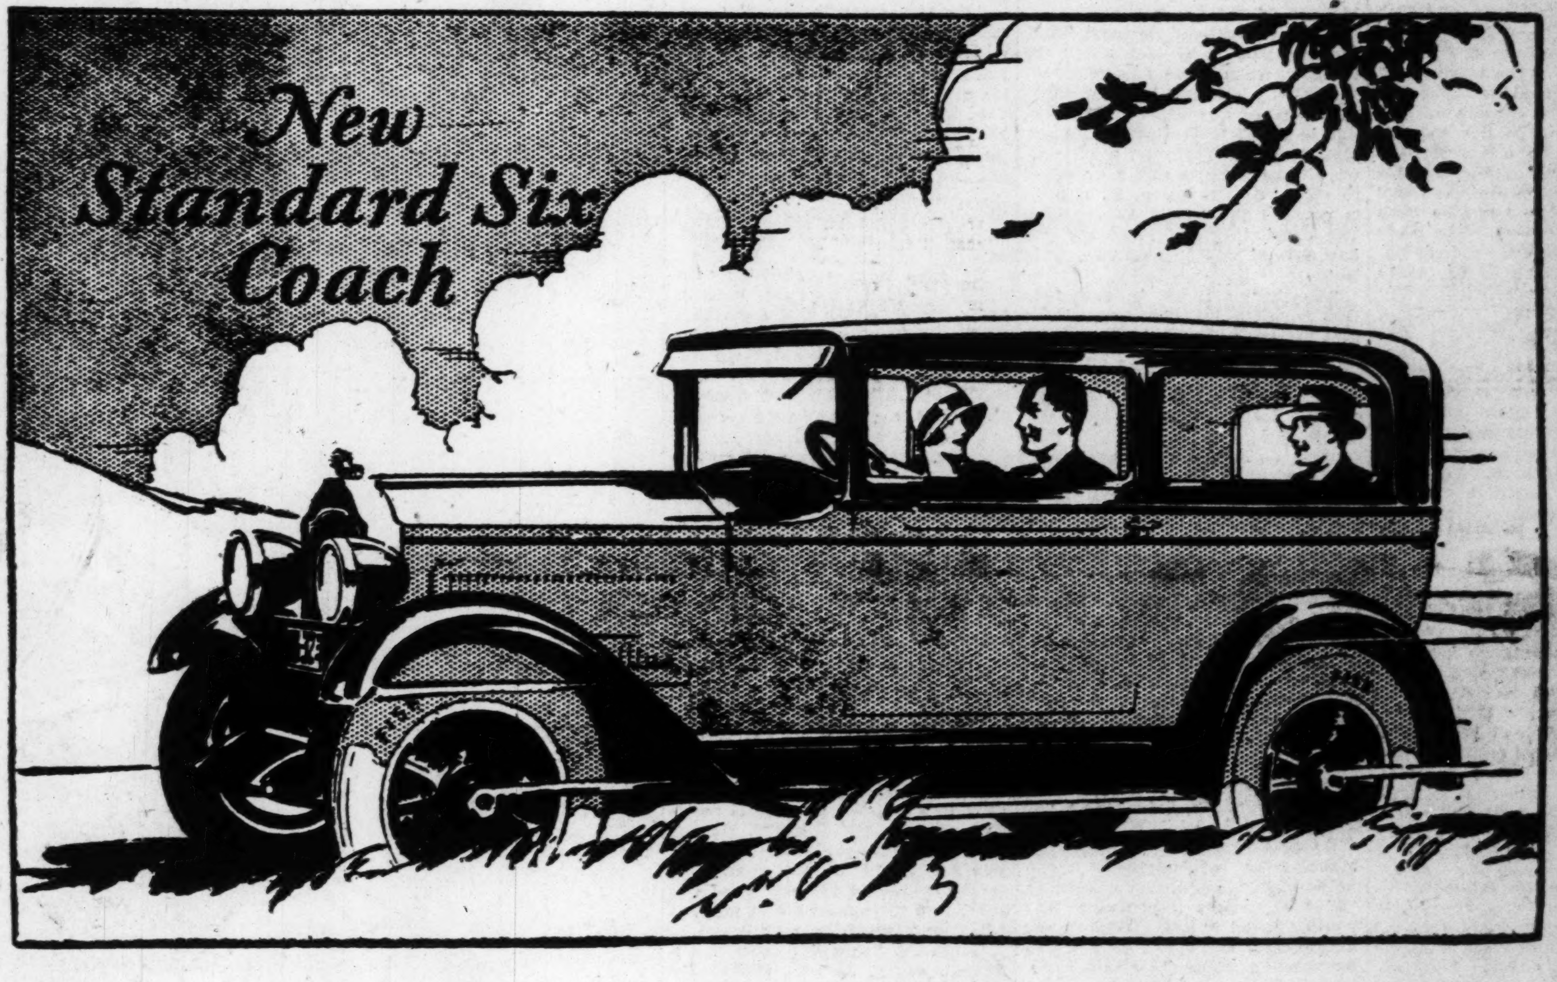
WILLYS-KNIGHT SIX

for only $1145

F. O. B. FACTORY



Important Advantages of the New Willys-Knight Standard Six

Patented high compression sleeve-valve engine; 45 horsepower
Positive, mechanical-type 4-wheel brakes
Narrow body posts at windshield for clear vision
8 Timken bearings in front axle for easiest steering.
Roomy, comfortable interiors
Wide, deeply cushioned form-fitting seats
Light control for dimming, on toe board at left
Adjustable steering wheel on all models
Adjustable front seat on Sedan
Better ventilation—extra large cowl ventilator, and a windshield that opens exceptionally wide Remote controls on doors, convenient to the hand
Thermostat—air cleaner—oil rectifier

High Compression with any gas!

The simplicity of the patented Willys-Knight engine is responsible for its remarkable efficiency. Two metal sleeves in each cylinder move smoothly, silently, up and down, one within the other, in a protective film of oil. They admit and expel gas through openings in their sides. There is no complicated valve mechanism with springs, tappets and cams. These sleeves combine with the spherical cylinder head to form a completely sealed combustion chamber. This head directs the full force of the explosion straight downward against the piston, making the most efficient use of the highly compressed gas. Such carbon as forms serves only to seal the chamber even more perfectly. As a result, the Willys-Knight engine gives high uniform compression at all times, at all speeds—and with any gas.

THE acclaim which is greeting the new Willys-Knight Standard Six definitely proves how wide-spread has been the demand for a low-priced Six powered by the patented Willys-Knight engine.

It has long been our aim to produce just such a car. But due to the greater cost of building the superior sleeve-valve motor, it is only today—after fourteen years of experiment and progress—that we have reached our goal.

Thousands more may now drive the Willys-Knight, the car which is praised so enthusiastically by its present owners. Thousands more may now enjoy its silent power, velvet smoothness, simple design, quick starting, rigid economy. The new Standard Six is notable for the same flashing activity, sustained brilliance, ease of control, freedom from carbon troubles and repairs.

With features of costly cars

Many features of the Standard Six you would expect only at higher cost. The engine is 45-horsepower, with thermostat, air cleaner and oil rectifier. Eight Timken bearings in the front axle insure easiest steering. Interiors are spacious and tastefully appointed, with deeply cushioned form-fitting seats and remote controls on doors, readily convenient to the hand. The steering wheel is adjustable to the driver's individual comfort. Positive, mechanical-type four-wheel brakes are provided — considered by leading engineers the most dependable kind. Perfect ventilation obtains from a windshield that opens exceptionally wide and an extra large cowl ventilator.

Two other favorite Sixes

Willys-Knight Special Six—improved, finer; now still further distinguished by such advance features as crown fenders, window reveals, steel-rimmed roof and beautiful new color options.

Willys-Knight Great Six—taking front rank with America's most luxurious cars. Now a larger, more powerful engine insures even higher and smoother speed and even flashier acceleration.

Willys-Knight Sixes range in price from $1145 to $2695, in the Standard Six, Special Six and Great Six divisions. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

ST. LOUISAN INVENTS NEW ROTARY MOTOR

Valve for Combustion Engines Is Economical in Cost and Operation.

A new rotary valve for combustion engines has as successfully demonstrated features a lower construction cost, lower operating cost and its longevity is said to be greater than the conventienel motor-car power plant. In recent tests this motor, installed in a small coach, made a 14-hour run with an average speed of 41 m. p. h., and covered 28 miles on a gallon of gasoline. The engine develops 4000 r. p. m. and can readily be installed in any four, six or eight cylinder car.

The principal features of the new rotary-valve motor are an axially rotatable tubular valve for controlling the intake and exhaust of a companion-pair of cylinders, and a head, common to each pair of cylinders. The head has a passage leading into the respective cylinders and each passage serves as a common or combined inlet and outlet to and from its respective cylinder.

Passages are so arranged that they also serve as common or combined inlet and exhaust ports for the valve ports. The head ports are so located that when the valve member is rotated, the ports are adapted for registration in turn with the head ports, in proper sequence for the operation of the engine. Within each valve member is a fixed wall, the ends of which are radially disposed in opposite directions and engage the inner face of the wall of the valve. Each valve is thereby provided with discharge and intake chambers, one chamber having a portion diametrically opposed to a corresponding portion of the other. The interval of time between cylinder exhaust and intake has also been reduced to a minimum. The ports are in such relative dimensions that on the rotation of the valve one cylinder is exhausting through one port, while the companion cylinder is intaking through the other.

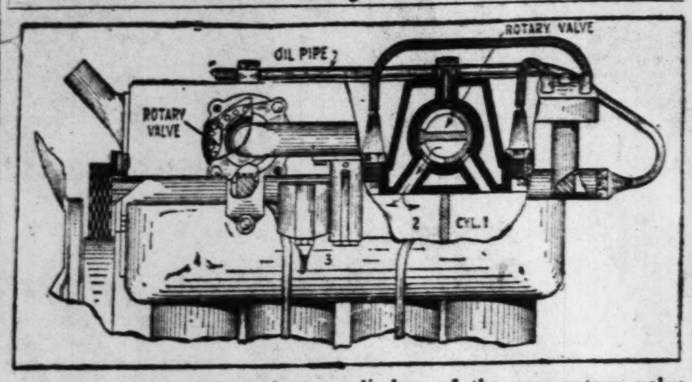
The engine as a whole is of comparatively simple construction and of relatively few parts. Besides this, it is exceedingly durable and efficient, and maintenance costs are reduced to a minimum. The heat imparted to the partition wall by the exhausting gases is used to warm the incoming combustible fluid, thus facilitating its combustion. Roller bearings are suitably imposed in the head for the valves and another bearing is used at the intake end of the valve to take up end thrust. The leakage between the valves and the bearings is prevented by suitable packing.

A means is also provided whereby the engagement of the valve seats with the valves is done automatically, suitable to the pressure incident to the engine. A rectangular oblong valve seat and aperture are used. A chain drives the valve shaft.

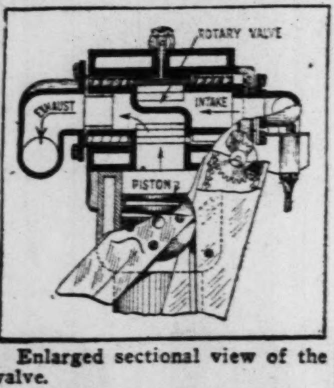
Corrects Traffic Maladies.

A physician in Paris, France, is now specializing in the treatment of traffic maladies. He claims women, especially, have been affected. Strabismus caused by constant strain upon and shifting of the eyes, and nervous troubles due to fear are particularly prevalent among them. Hard-working clutches and brakes have caused many cases of varicose veins.

Newest in Rotary Valve Engines



Here is a view through two-cylinders of the new rotary valve engine invented by Joseph Mayer of St. Louis.



Enlarged sectional view of the valve.

LOCKHART TO USE ICE COOLED RACE CAR AT DAYTONA

heat to be directed through the ice again.

The American ace thus describes his use of the ice pack:

"It is estimated," he says, "that the ice pack will last about 10 minutes, when it must be renewed, so that it would not be practicable in a race of any length, but feasible in a test where four miles are used to get under way, a mile at wide open throttle and four miles to stop. At 225 m. p. h., a mile is covered in exactly 16 seconds. The circulating system of my car has a total capacity of 13½ gallons.

"Another feature is the fact that from the bullet nose on down past the cockpit and ending at the perfectly streamlined tail the only parts outside the enclosed body are the arms of the dual steering and the draglinks, the dual designing making necessary a link and an arm on each side of the body. These with perhaps a foot of the axles on each side of the body are the only parts which stick out into the wind-stream.

"The axles have been streamlined by placing planes on them much like tiny airplane wings, which permit the air stream to impact gently and swirl smoothly by with the minimum of resistance."

So much for Lockhart and his reasoning. There are other cars entered in the race at Orlando Daytona Feb. 15 which must be taken into consideration.

Four-Ton White.

There is another American entry, that of J. M. White, which will employ exactly three times the horse-power of Segrave's 1000 horse-power Sunbeam Mystery "S" which last year won the world's speed record. White's car weighs four tons, and is powered by three gigantic 12-cylinder engines. It is to be the largest and most powerful car ever entered in any kind of race.

The British entry, to be piloted by Capt. Malcolm Campbell, is still more or less a mystery and may spring a real surprise. Campbell has gone to extremes in an effort to assure success. His car will be powered by a 900 horse-power Napier engine, secretly built last year by the British Air Ministry to power British planes entered in the Schneider cup air races. It is used by Campbell on special sanction of the Air Ministry. What this car is capable of and the possible speed of its engine, is safely locked in the minds of the racer and his backers, and will remain there until the race is run.

There undoubtedly will be a French entry, in all probability driven by M. Dependin, winner of the 1927 Grand Prix of Spain. Dependin has cabled the trials committee that he will bring a car over here, but he neglected to describe his car, for obvious reasons.

CADILLAC-LA SALLE OUTPUT TO BE HEAVY

President Fisher, in Detroit Talk, Says 50,000 Cars Will Be Built in 1928.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 11.—How a modest investment of $300 per year by a Cadillac employe in the General Motors Savings and Investment Fund during the four years from 1919 to 1922 had netted the snug fortune of more than $18,000 and how those on the payroll have invested nearly $3,500,000 in this fund were outstanding features of a talk by Lawrence P. Fisher, president of the Cadilac Motor Car Co., given before 1000 of his employes in the General Motors Building Detroit, recently on the occasion of the annual banquet given to those who had completed either five or 10 years of continuous service with the company.

In his talk Fisher reviewed past accomplishments, gave a glowing picture of the future, and pointed out the advantages both to the company and to the employes in their individual welfare of memship in the General Motors organization.

He gave figures showing the corporation's interest in individual welfare, citing the facts that 5552 Cadillac employes had invester $3,420,000 in the General Motors Savings and Investment fund and that those who had invested $300 in 1919 and continued through the class of 1922 had already received in cash and securities $18,483.

Fisher stated that 1927 had been by far the biggest production year in the company's history and that the 1928 schedule called for 50,000 LaSalle and Cadillac cars, a gain of more than a third over last year.

REPUBLIC EXTENDS LINE OF TRUCKS

Four-Wheel Brakes Made Standard Equipment of Three-Ton Models.

The Republic Truck Sales Corporation, 1600 Chestnut street, has announced a more complete line of motor trucks for 1928, including fours and sixes in the lighter tonnage as well as in the heavier models. One model includes four-wheel brakes as standard equipment, and on several others they are optional at an extra charge.

"This new and greater line of improved Republic trucks places Republic in a very enviable position in the truck industry in 1928," states F. C. Meyer, general manager, "because not only is our line complete to meet the requirements of all fields of transportation, but also we are able to offer the very latest improvements in design, construction and basic engineering advancements which present truck transportation conditions require.

"These new Republics have more engine power, speed, more flexibility and greater acceleration for crowded traffic conditions. New carburetion and combustion features assure increased power with greater fuel economy. The frames are heavier, with new cross-bracing. Shackles and spring hangers are larger for greater strength and longer life.

"On the new, fast and powerful three-ton models 65 and 66, four-wheel brakes are standard equipment, as a greater safety precaution, for so much speed and weight.

"In the new models 85 and 86, two tons capacity, we have paralleled our six-cylinder model 50 with a powerful four-cylinder truck for those who desire this type of engine.

"Another new and outstanding model is the giant-powered model S-25W, of 3½ tons capacity. This new truck is equipped with the famous Herringbone gear double reduction axle, of tremendous strength and amazingly efficient in the transmission of power to the rear wheels.

"On model 50, two tons capacity, 30x5-inch heavy duty pneumatic tires are standard equipment all around, with dual rears. The rear springs have been over-slung, affording more road clearance without sacrificing low frame height. Similar improvements have made in the model 60 series, now has, as standard 32x6 inch heavy duty tires all around, with dual Standard equipment also a heavy channel steel front er and black enamel guard."

OAKLAND OUTPUT TO BE INCREASED

President Glancy, in Address Here Reveals Production Plans for 1928.

A further increase in the record February production schedule of the Oakland Motor Car Co., was predicted Thursday night by A. R. Glancy, president and general manager of the Oakland Motor Car Co., in an address before 400 Oakland-Pontiac dealers at the Coronado Hotel here. Glancy led the list of Oakland-Pontiac officials who addressed the dealers.

Others who spoke at the meeting were: E. M. Lubeck, Western sales manager; William Chamberlin, sales development manager; W. L. Shaffner, fleet sales manager and Edson H. Smith, Kansas City regional manager.

"Oakland planned to produce 22,268 cars this month," Glancy told the dealers, "but it will be necessary to build 25,000 cars to meet the signed February orders received from our 4400 dealers. This production will be more than two and a half times the volume of Oakland-Pontiac output in February, 1927. Nearly the same ratio of increase was recorded last month when we built 19,774 cars against 8038 in January, 1927.

"The company will be enabled to step up its February output through the aid of a third production line now being completed in the Pontiac Six factory. A new assembly building is being constructed for the Oakland All-America Six. It will be finished in a few months.

"With business retaining its present level of prosperity, indications are that the automotive industry in general should enjoy its best year during 1928 and that the Oakland Motor Car Company in particular should fulfill its intention of duplicating this year the 40 per cent increase of 1927 which brought it from ninth to fifth place in total volume of sales among all automobile companies."

C. L. Voss, St. Louis district manager and E. A. Hatfield, president of the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., Oakland-Pontiac distributers here, were host to the visiting factory officials.

The St. Louis convention was one of a series of 32 such dealer meetings the Oakland Motor Car Co. is conducting in all principal cities of the country

PAID PARKING ECONOMICAL

"Reduction in parking rates by the larger downtown garage companies will serve to solve in part the problem of congested street parking," in the opinion of Jerome J. Stedelin, president of the Ninth Street Garage.

"Rates at the large garages now are so low that it is good policy both from the standpoint of insurance against damage to one's car while 'open' parking, and against theft, to make use of such garaging facilities," Stedelin observes.

MAKES OWN TOOLS TO RELINE CAR BRAKES

William Chaudet Invents Labor-Saving Devices as His Business Grows.

Specialized service for automobiles was hardly known in St. Louis up to several years ago and only recently has become a general term associated with the automotive industry. Possibly the first automobile servicing company in St. Louis to do such work was the General Brake Service Corporation, of which William Chaudet is president.

Six years ago Chaudet conceived the idea of a specialized brake service shop. He set up in business in a little shop in the rear of 1421 Locust street and specialized on Ford cars only. In two years this shop was too small and a shop at 2739 Locust street was taken. This time brake service for other cars was added.

It soon became apparent that equipment and machinery for this business was very limited. Chaudet then proceeded to change and improve the machines he had bought for this work and where no machines were available, made his own.

In those days when brakes were relined, the mechanic applied the lining to the bands, replaced the wheels and then drove the car for blocks applying the brakes to sliding the wheels and getting out from time to time and making adjustments. This method was not satisfactory, as it required a lot of time and there was too much chance for an accident. This sliding the wheels wore out the tires also and Bill objected to such treatment of customer's car.

Chaudet worked on the idea for a time and soon mechanical testing was devised. His company was first to inaugurate brake testing by machine, and the business grew rapidly. It was not long before more space was needed and a parking lot and an addition to the building was made to take care of the ever increasing business. This, however, did not suffice and Chaudet decided to build his own place, an ideal shop, where all the ideas he had worked out and planned could be incorporated. The building was designed and built and the largest specialized service station in St. Louis went into operation. In less than two years, additions were added to the large plant, but still the business grew.

CHANDLER RETAINS 'ONE-SHOT'

So popular and efficient has the Chandler one-shot system of chassis lubrication proven to be Chandler will continue to include this feature on all 1928 models.

This advantage now being used on the most expensive motor cars, was first sponsored by Chandler. To lubricate the entire car one has only to press a small plunger.

INDIANAPOLIS SPEED RACE PILOTS CALLED TO ENTER LISTS

tion which will prove attractive to foreign racing car creators and an indication that the speedway is expecting an unusually large group of foreigners to enter the coming event.

"The Indianapolis Motor Speedway Corporation reserves the right to require, if necessary," it reads, "additional head or wind resistance to be added to cars to equalize European body specifications. The size, position and method of installing head resisting parts to be specified not later than May 10."

The problem centering around this requirement has been too complex for the foreigners to solve in past events, but this year the way has been paved to an easy solution.

When the Indianapolis truck reduced the size of motors to the present "vest pocket" record-breaking type, the American cars came out of the workshops looking like skyrockets on wheels. The foreigners, following suit in decreasing the motor size, ran their races in cars of two-seater body style, rather than the tailor-made projectiles the Yankees were jockeying. The foreigners built bodies that two midgets could ride in—to meet the rules—but only one normal sized man rode them. It developed an endless controversy in international events.

Now Indianapolis has again paved the way for smooth racing relationship of the international variety. The Speedway reserves the right to compel American competitors to carry the same wind resisting area in body design as is required by the Europeans. This is calculated to pacify the foreigners and avoid complaint from the American competitors.

The purse for the Indianapolis event is announced at $50,000 for the first 10 places and an additional consolation prize. Other cash prizes and added purses bring the total to approximately $100,000.

Only 33 cars may start the race. There is required a qualifying speed of 90 miles an hour for four consecutive laps, a total of 10 miles. In case more than 33 cars qualify the 33 fastest mounts start. Competing cars must weigh not less than 1400 pounds—a net weight without oil in crankcase or tanks or gasoline.

The race is run under the sanction of the contest board of the American Automobile Association.

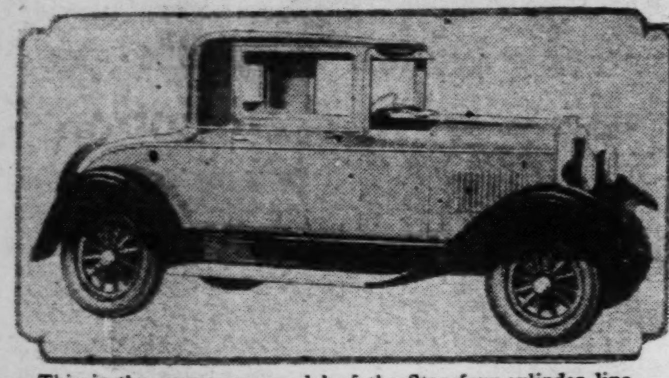
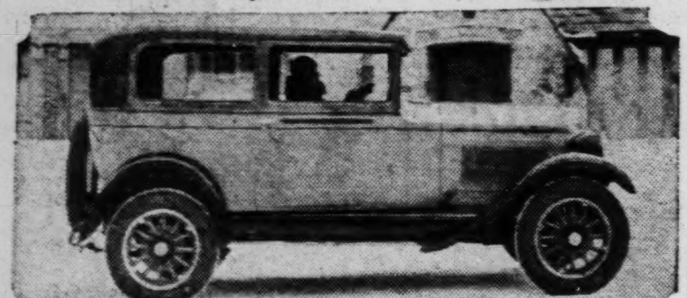
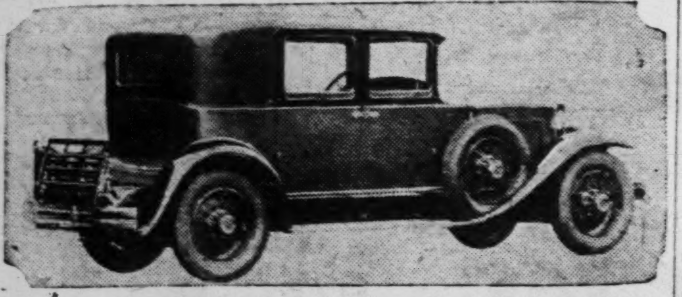
What's New in Motor Cars



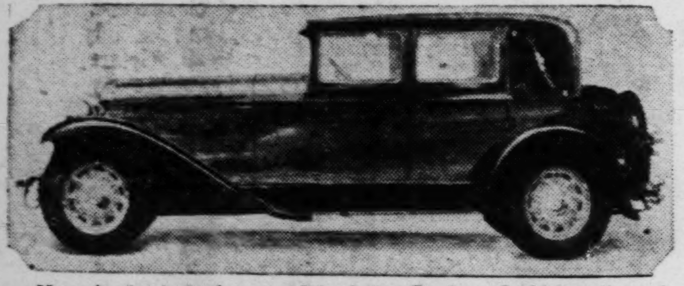
This is the new coupe model of the Star four-cylinder line.



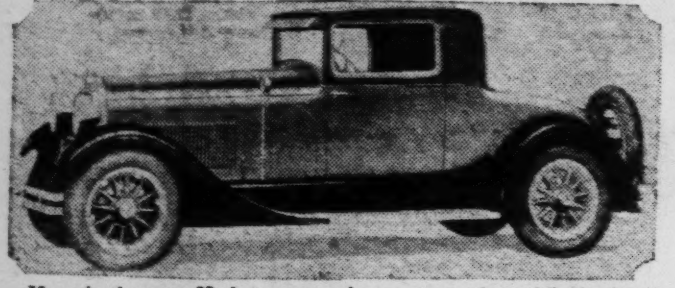
Here is the coach model of the new Willys-Knight Standard Six line, which is priced to compete in the $1100 class. This is the lowest priced Knight engined car ever offered by Willys-Overland, Inc.



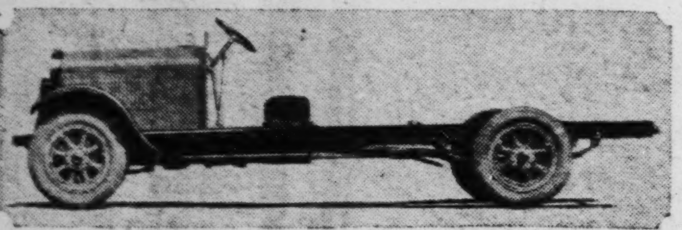
Here is the five-pasenger town sedan model of the new Graham-Paige line.



Here is the brougham model of the Gardner Series 95 line, the most powerful type of cars put out by the local manufacturer.



Here is the new Hudson super-six coupe on the 118-inch chassis, which attracted considerable attention at the Automobile Show.



This is the 143-inch Reo Speedwagon chassis, which is the most recent addition to the well-known truck line.

KNIGHT ENGINE IN MODERATE PRICE CAR

Offered for First Time in $1100 Class by Willys-Overland.

For the first time Willys-Overland has reached the $1100 price class with a Knight motored product with its introduction of the new line of Willys-Knight sixes. This new line, known as the Willys-Knight Standard Six, retains the characteristics of design, performance and appearance as featured by its two larger and older models—now designated as the Willys-Knight Special and the Willys-Knight Great Six. The Willys-Knight Special Six was formerly Known as the "70" Willys-Knight.

A fine range of colorful body models is presented on the new chassis—a two-door coach, four-door sedan, coupe, roadster and touring car—these forming the Standard Six line. A complete line of equipment, numerous innovations in interior appointments, together with striking new lines in body design insure this model as being among the most popular in the history of Willys-Overland.

The Standard Six is powered by a Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine with a 2 15-16 by 3⅞-inch bore and stroke, developing 46 horsepower. This power plant employs a seven-bearing balanced crankshaft, an oil rectifier, Bonnalite aluminum pistons and a gasoline fumer. Conventional clutch, transmission and axle units are of special design while the chassis of 109½-inch wheel base carrying 29x5.50 balloon tires is equipped with mechanical four-wheel brakes.

"Full pressure lubrication in which oil is forced to the main bearings, connecting rods, camshaft bearings and timing chain is employed in conjunction with a Skinner rectifier. The latter clarifies the oil, sending the gasoline contest in the oil back to the intake manifold and the refined oil back to the crankcase.

The cooling system, employing the pump type of circulation, is fitted with a thermostat in the cylinder head water outlet to control the engine temperature so that the most satisfactory operating range is obtained under all conditions.

Semi-elliptic springs, both front and rear, controlled by Gabriel snubbers give a spring length of 85¾ inches on each side. Spring shackles are of the Tryon type.

Adistinct innovation in light controls is found in the Standard Six. A foot-operated switch to the left of the toeboard makes it possible to raise or lower the light beams without removing the hands from the wheel. The spark and throttle controls and the horn are carried in a large circular mounting in the center of the steering wheel.

REO OFFERS SPEED WAGON FOR EVERY BUSINESS

New Models Provide a Complete Line of Commercial Vehicles Under One Name.

That 1928 will set a new record in truck production is the prediction of C. A. Triphagen, salesmanager of the Reo Motor Car Co. According to Triphagen, the motor truck business has been increasing rapidly for the past few years and at present is growing faster than ever before.

"The new Reo Speed Wagons, covering more than 93 per cent of today's trucking requirements, are largely the result of a thorough study of merchandising conditions," says Triphagen. "This study included modern traffic problems and the employment situation as related to drivers. The new Speed Wagons have capacities and bodies to meet practically every requirement of modern business, from light delivery to heavy hauling and provide a complete line of commercial vehicles manufactured under one name.

"Just as the Speed Wagon originally set the pace with pneumatic tires, electric lights, electric starter and passenger car speed, so has Reo again recognized present day truck requirements and anticipated to a large extent, future needs in the present line of Speed Wagons."

FLEET OF 20 TRUCKS SOLD AT AUTO SHOW BY HUG CO.

One of the largest single orders for trucks was registered at the Automobile Show the past week by the Hug Truck Co. of Highland, Ill. The firm last Tuesday sold 20 of its heavy-duty trucks to the General Material Co. of St. Louis, who last year purchased 60 of the same type trucks from the Hug company.

The General Material Co. was organized in St. Louis a little over a year ago for the purpose of establishing delivery service on mixed concrete that would eliminate the necessity of installing mixing plants at the site of construction work in which concrete was being used. The company operates a large central mixing plant at 4101 Park avenue. Cement, sand and gravel are taken direct from the cars at this plant and thoroughly mixed in huge mixers which in turn automatically load the Hug trucks in the General Material Co. fleet with the ready-mixed concrete they in turn deliver to the actual site of the building operations ready for use without further handling.

French Sales Increase.

The automobile craze has finally hit France, where nearly 1,000,000 cars were sold this year. Paris has almost as many automobiles in proportion to the population as there are in any American city.

New Sedan In Erskine Line

A new American edition of the Erskine Six, with a club sedan embodying increased power, greater roominess and more comfort, and offered at a new low price, is now on display by the Lurie Motor Car Co., Studebaker-Erskine distributer here.

The body of the new club sedan has graceful lines and a low hung appearance which gives the car a distinctive air. Dietrich, the custom body designer responsible for its outstanding beauty, has succeeded in retaining the smart lines characteristic of the Erskine while actually increasing many interior body dimensions. The seats are wider and deeper, and there is an increased amount of head room and leg room for driver and passengers.

Wide sweeping crown fenders of new design, the embossed hood panel widening at the cowl to join the broad body belt, and the graceful curve of the roof line combine to emphasize the car's long, low lines. Windows are long and narrow, and with the narrow steel windshield pillars afford perfect vision.

The exterior is finished in fawn and sable lacquers, with gold and tomah red striping and maroon wheels. Larger size balloon tires add to the general robust appearance of the car.

Hudson Coupe Attracts Attention

Among the cars exhibited by the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. was the new Hudson super-six coupe on the 118-inch wheelbase chassis. This type of car, new to the Hudson line, attracted considerable attention, and topped the list of cars sold by the local distributer.

The car has a low, long body, high, narrow radiator shell and wide crown fenders. The interior is especially roomy for a two-passenger coupe type of car. Artillery wheels are standard, as are the nickeled cowl lights on the wide cowl band, as illustrated above.

Rumble Seat Feature of Peerless

One of the outstanding features of the new Peerless Victoria is the concealed rumble seat release in the parcel compartment at the rear of the interior seat. To open the rumble seat from within the car, the driver releases a small knob and the rear deck lifts automatically.

New Flivver Tour.

Mrs. Norris S. Barratt, society matron of Philadelphia, Pa., and her 19-year-old daughter, Miss Edith L. Barratt, have started on a world tour in a "flivver." Their "tin steed" will carry them over the most deserted regions of Spain, Portugal, France, Algiers and Egypt.

NASH REDUCES PRICES ON THREE OF ITS LINES

Announcement was made the past week by C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors Co., of reduced prices, effective now, ranging through Standard Six, Special Six, and Advanced Six series.

The new Standard Six factory prices follow: 4-door sedan, $925; touring, $865; cabriolet, $925; 2-door sedan, $845; coupe, $845; de luxe sedan, $995. The new price on the Advanced Six 5-passenger 4-door sedan is $1495, and the price on the 5-passenger 4-door Special Six sedan is $1295.

Nash officials point to this move as the aggressive forerunner of big Nash expansion in sales throughout the country, with Nash in 1928 assuming even more pronounced leadership in its field than ever before.

The Southwest Nash Co., is distributer here for the line.

Chandler Leads the Way with Westinghouse Vacuum Brakes

CHANDLER supplies now the big answer to the modern need of greater control and safety by being the first American car to adopt Westinghouse Brakes, designed by the Westinghouse Air Brake Company.

Sure, Positive Control

At any speed, on any surface, in any emergency—Westinghouse Brakes stop the new Chandler much quicker, more smoothly, and with three times the ease and safety of a car with ordinary 4-wheel brakes alone!

Over in Europe, a large number of distinguished cars have adopted brakes of this type—such as Daimler, Mercedes, Minerva, Sunbeam, Isotta-Fraschini!

Quicker, surer, safer stops with one-third the effort!

When you look at the new Chandler Royal Eights and Sixes, note their fashionable lowness—their extreme smartness.

And Here's Power!

Try out the marvelous new power range of Chandler's famous high-compression Pikes Peak motor principle—just feel the bullet-like way these cars step out the instant you step on the gas!

And learn how simply the Chandler "One Shot" System lubricates the chassis from end to end the moment you press a plunger.

The new prices range from $995 to $2195, f. o. b. factory. Car for car, feature for feature, detail for detail, we challenge anything on wheels to equal Chandler value.

NEW GRAHAM-PAIGE DISTRIBUTER HERE

Weber Motor Co. Gets Franchise for St. Louis Territory.

Appointment of the Weber Motor Car Co., 1817 Locust street, as Graham-Paige distributer for the St. Louis territory was announced here this week. The firm is one of the oldest on Automobile Row.

The new line of cars will also be displayed at branch salesrooms maintained by the firm at 2729 North Grand boulevard, 5600 Gravois avenue and at 5877 Delmar boulevard.

Officers of the firm are: Edward Weber, president; Henry Weber, vice president; Rud Klint, secretary, and R. A. Weber, treasurer. J. M. Faulkner, who has been with the firm for a number of years as sales manager will continue in that capacity.

The Graham-Paige line is the improved automobile being built by the three Graham brothers, of commercial truck fame, who recently took over the Paige-Detroit factory with intentions of expanding it into one of the largest automobile factories in the country.

The Graham-Paige models include a variety of body types and chassis, ranging in size from a 110¾ inch wheel base six, to an eight cylinder chassis with wheel base of 135 inches.

The motor sizes begin at 175 cubic inches, the piston displacement of the small six, and reach 299 cubic inches displacement in the eight. Two of the models, the 119 inch and the 129 inch wheel base chassis, have the same motor, a 288 cubic inch displacement engine, developing 97 brake horsepower at 3200 revolutions per minute.

4-Speed Transmission.

The cylinders of all the engines are water-jacketed throughout the full stroke of the piston, insuring adequate and even cooling. All motors have four-point suspension, the motors of the larger models being mounted on live rubber.

The clutches are of the light driven member type that result in easy gear shifting. The two-plate type clutches of the three larger models have spring cushion drives and vibration dampeners built into the driven members. The clutch and brake pedals are adjustable.

With these new models, the four-speed transmission, with which the Graham-Paige organization has had extensive experience and excellent results, is made available in cars of smaller size. All models of the Graham-Paige

The Graham-Paige models include a variety of body types and chassis, ranging in size from a 110½ inch wheel base six, to an eight cylinder chassis with wheel base of 135 inches.

Two of the models, the 119 inch and the 129 inch wheel base chassis, have the same motor, a 288 cubic inch displacement engine, developing 97 brake horsepower at 3200 revolutions per minute.

4-Speed Transmission.

The cylinders of all the engines are water-jacketed throughout the full stroke of the piston, insuring adequate and even cooling. All motors have four-point suspension, the motors of the larger models being mounted on live rubber.

The clutches are of the light driven member type that result in easy gear shifting. The two-plate type clutches of the three larger models have spring cushion drives and vibration dampeners built into the driven members. The clutch and brake pedals are adjustable.

With these new models, the four-speed transmission, with which the Graham-Paige organization has had extensive experience and excellent results, is made available in cars of smaller size. All models of the Graham-Paige line with the exception of the 110½-inch six are equipped with this transmission.

The speed changes are so arranged that shifting is done as in the conventional three-speed transmission, the low gear being latched out for use only in emergency.

Uses of the four different speeds are explained as follows: First speed is intended for use in making a start on hillsides, a climb out of tough places, or a start in deep sand or mud. A start on pavements may always be made in second speed. This gear is also used for climbing steep grades, or for driving in rough roads. This is intended for a quick getaway, top speed on hills or going down mountains, and fourth for normal driving and high speeds in silence.

Although adaptable for a greater number of varied driving conditions, 95 per cent of all driving is still done in high speed with the new transmission. When changes to third gear are made, for fast acceleration or for hill climbing at top speed, they are accomplished with ease at speeds as high as 50 miles an hour. This gives exceptional power on hills and is just as useful in descending steep grades as in ascending.

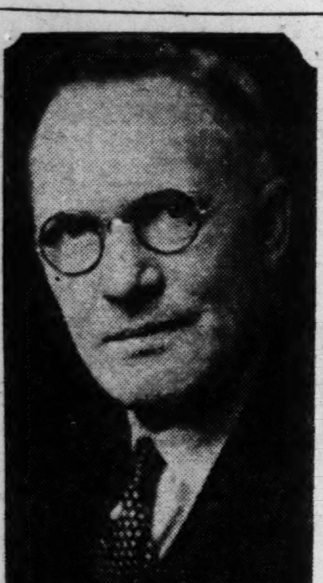
Because in fourth speed the crankshaft of the motor revolves less often for each wheel revolution, higher road speeds may be maintained in comfort, higher fuel and oil mileage result, and cooling is made easier with the aid of this transmission.

The hydraulic brakes of the two smaller models contract over 12-inch drums on all four wheels. The brakes of the larger models are of the four-wheel internal hydraulic type.

The braking systems of the four larger cars are equipped with automatic compensating master cylinders which automatically replace in the braking system liquid lost through leakage, and compensate for variations in the volume of the liquid due to variations in temperature.

Frames are deep, gussoted and reinforced with sturdy cross members.

LOCAL OLDS CHIEF



R. L. SAMUEL

INTEREST IN OLDS LINE INCREASING

Due to Radical Change in Engine and Body Design, Says Local Chief.

"Greater interest in the Oldsmobile line of cars was displayed at the Automobile Show this year than at any other show since the car has been distributed here, according to R. L. Samuel, manager of the Olds Motor Works branch.

"This," according to Samuel, "is due to the new Oldsmobile for 1928 which is radically different in engine design and principle and body lines from Oldsmobile cars of the past few years

"The appearance of the New Oldsmobile is a revelation not only in its beautiful lines and appointments, but in performance as well," Samuel continues.

"The new Oldsmobile 'Six'—'The fine car of low price,' is two years ahead of the industry and is separate and apart from even the best of cars that are anywhere near its price class. Its every feature gives evidence that this car makes available to all, sources of thorough satisfaction and a further conclusive recognition of what Oldsmobile has achieved by its—'Policy pledged to progress.'

"The spirit of Oldsmobile has proven contagious throughout the nation. Automotive critics are particularly favorable and generous in their praises."

PUNCTURE VINE PLAGUES AUSTRALIAN MOTORISTS

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Feb. 4.—The sharp-pointed burrs of the puncture vine cause endless trouble to motorists in Australia. The Australian authorities are endeavoring to stamp it out by piling refuse on it and burning both vine and seeds. Botanists have given the vine the appropriate name Tribulus Terrestris, which means "trouble of the earth." It is stated that its original home was in the Mediterranean region, but like many bad weeds has become a great traveler.

-:- At Lambert Field -:-

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, which last week formally became the St. Louis Municipal Airdrome, is to be the headquarters of James L. Kinney and J. N. Kelly, Department of Commerce inspectors. From the field they are to cover Iowa, Missouri and Southern Illinois, inspecting planes, pilots and mechanics and otherwise co-operating in the enforcement of the Air Commerce act.

Kinney and Kelly arrived at the field Thursday from Chicago in the Fairchild monoplane in which they will make all their trips over their territory. The plane, incidentally, is the ship flown by Philip R. Love over the route traversed by Lindbergh in his tour of the nation.

Richard Lees, another Department of Commerce inspector who has made frequent visits to Lambert-St. Louis Field, is now to work out of Kansas City. He flies a Buhl biplane equipped with a Whirlwind engine.

Travels 148 Miles an Hour.

"Boots" Dempsey, flying a new Whirlwind Travel-Air biplane, made the trip from Kansas City to St. Louis in an hour and 45 minutes last Thursday, averaging about 148 miles an hour for the 260-mile trip. He was accompanied by Al Mungerson, with whom he left the Travel-Air factory Thursday morning. The trip from Wichita to Kansas City was accomplished in two hours, making a total of 3 hours and 45 minutes, from Wichita to St. Louis. The train time for the same journey is 14 hours. Dempsey's cruising speed of 110 miles an hour was materially helped by a brisk tail wind, however.

The Travel-Air, in which he made the trip was purchased recently by Oscar Johnson of 38 Portland place, through Clyde Brayton of the Parks Air Lines, the local Travel-Air agency. It is equipped with wheel brakes, bank and turn indicator and all the latest improvements and sold for about $9700.

Johnson, who traded in a new OXX Waco as part payment for the new plane, has only recently taken to flying. He plans to leave St. Louis shortly for an aerial tour to the Pacific Coast, accompanied by Dempsey.

Ducks Halt at Airport.

Park Department workmen began last week to demolish a house and several sheds in the 76-acre tract north of the field which is to be consolidated with the present field. Within a few weeks grading and draining operations will begin—and none too soon, for the field is extremely muddy and offers a landing hazard to visiting pilots, who are unable to pick the hard spots from the air.

During the last week a flock of ducks, estimated at 200, settled on the eastern edge of the field for the night, apparently well satisfied that they had found a pond.

St. Louis, however, is not alone in having a poor wet-weather field. Dempsey reported that his ship sank in over its wheel tops in the ground of the new Kansas City municipal air field. He managed to get off again from Richards Field after it had been rolled to harder ground, however, and landed at Sweeney Field for service.

Travel-Air Agent Chosen.

Parks Air Lines has been named Travel-Air agent for Indiana, Kentucky and more than half of Illinois, as well as for Missouri, Brayton announced yesterday. Besides the Johnson plane, the company is also credited with the sale of a Whirlwind Travel-Air biplane to the Robertson Aircraft Corporation for use in air mail service.

The mail contracting firm ordered the plane last Saturday after Frank H. Robertson, president, and Harlan Gurney, chief pilot, had visited Wichita to look for suitable planes to replace the present DH's. Gurney hopped Johnson's ship, which was being flight tested at the time, discovered that it would fly hands off, yet was highly maneuverable and very fast, and on landing recommended that Robertson order a similar plane. Walter Beech, president of the Travel-Air company, promised to make an effort to have the plane ready by Feb. 20. It will have a mail compartment and seats for passengers in the forward cockpit.

For the past week Brayton also announced the sale of an OX-5 Travel-Air to H. L. Parks, brother of Oliver Parks, the head of the Parks Air Line. H. L. Parks lives in Bloomington, Ill.

Lindbergh Due Home Tomorrow.

Col. Lindbergh is expected back at his home field tomorrow night, after a nonstop flight from Havana. The Crouse-Hinds Co. will install lights at the field without charge so that the flyer can set his ship down after dark without danger. Lingbergh's monoplane will be housed in the National Guard hangar.

For his return to the mail route Feb. 20, when he will fly to Chicago with a cargo of mail, the Robertson Aircraft Corporation is making special arrangements. The regular mail pilots—Gurney, Leslie Smith and E. L. Sloniger—will be on hand with extra planes in the event the mail proves too much for Lindbergh to carry alone.

Recently Lindbergh asked what he wanted to fly on the mail route, a DH, a Douglas or a Ryan. He replied: "It makes no difference to me." It is probable, however, that a Douglas will be tuned up and set out for him.

Feb. 21 Lindbergh will return with another load of mail from Chicago. Every letter carried on his flights will be marked with a special cancellation stamp, a horseshoe with the caption "Lindbergh Flies the Mail Again." Philatelists anxious to get a stock of the postmarks, have arranged to have hundreds of letters to be carried by the trans-Atlantic flyer.

Mail Flyers Fog-Bound.

Extraordinarily thick weather on the mail route last week kept many of the postal pilots at Chicago. On two mornings the only planes to leave were St. Louis-bound ships, piloted by Smith and Sloniger.

Similarly, on Monday afternoon the northward trip was omitted. The fog on the field was so thick that Louie's sandwich shack could not be seen from the mail hangar. It is significant however, that it was only the second northbound trip to be abandoned since the route began operation almost two years ago.

An Air-y Story.

Phil Love, flying his Fairchild monoplane, stopped at the field for an hour Wednesday afternoon on his way from Kansas City to Louisville, a jump which he had no trouble making during the daylight hours of one day. Love reported the weather so thick between St. Louis and Kansas City that "even the crows were walking."

Kansas City-St. Louis Hop.

Another Kansas City-St. Louis hop was made by "Bud" Gurney, who flew a Waco-Ten to Kansas City Tuesday and returned Wednesday. His passenger on the return trip was T. K. Kelly, a Minneapolis banker and sales executive who spoke Wednesday night before the American Retailers' Association at Hotel Statler. Kelly was forced by the exigencies of his schedule to resort to airplane travel. The flight was his first venture in the air but he was enthusiastic with the speed of the trip, two hours and 30 minutes. Gurney bundled him up in his own flying suit for the trip to St. Louis and the banker said he suffered no discomfort from the cold although he rode in an open cockpit.

Guard Plane Arrives.

The first of the long promised Curtiss Falcons, with which the National Guard flyers are to be equipped, arrived at the field Thursday. It was piloted by Capt. H. H. Young, instructor of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Corps, who had called for it at Buffalo, N. Y., Monday. The ship is the latest model army observation plane, equipped with Liberty engine and capable of a high speed of 135 miles an hour. It is fully equipped even to bomb racks and carries an instrument board that is a thing of delight to the pilot by virtue of its full equipment.

Rides in Mail Plane.

C. G. Schelly of the Reliance Printing Co. was a passenger on the southbound mail plane Thursday, making an uneventful but speedy trip with Mail Pilot Sloniger.

Planes at Auto Show.

A Ryan brougham and a combination wing Eaglerock, exhibited by the Von Hoffman Aircraft Co., attracted wide attention at the automobile show last week. Milt Girton, Johnny Campion, H. C. Draper and other members of the organization were on hand to explain the exhibits. Lindbergh's automobiles, a Franklin brougham and a La Salle roadster, were also included in the display. In another aeronautic booth, taken by the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, the parachute in which Lindbergh twice jumped from disabled airplanes was exhibited. Later it is to be presented to the Missouri Historical Society.

45,000 MARMON EIGHTS TO BE PRODUCED IN 1928

The board of directors of the Marmon Motor Car Co., the past week declared the regular dividend of $1 per share on the common stock of the company to stockholders of record Feb. 15, payable March 1. The board simultaneously approved the production of 45,000 Straight Eight cars for 1928.

The action, it was stated, is the result of a rapid increase in unfilled orders following the successful introduction of the new Marmon Series 60 Eight and Series 70 Eight at the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Automobile Shows.

The More Automobile Co., is distributor for the Marmon in the St. Louis territory.

TATE MOTOR CO. OFFERS 1928 LICENSE SERVICE

License plates for 1928, both city and State, will be obtained by the Tate Motor Car Co. for Dodge owners in St. Louis, as a special service to its customers, it was announced yesterday by the firm. The Tate Motor Car Co. is Dodge distributer here.

Dodge owners wishing the firm to obtain licenses for them are requested to mail or forward otherwise to the company a check for $21.50, which covers both city and State tags, together with title of application, and plates will be immediately obtained.

Church to Observe Anniversary.

The second anniversary of the dedication of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 2137 East John avenue, will be observed tomorrow at three special services, at 8:30 a. m., 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. The early morning service will be in German, during which the Rev. Dr. T. Engfelder will preach. Dean Fritz of Concordia Seminary will preach at the second morning service and Prof. P. E. Kretzmann at the evening service.

WHO'S WHO BOOK COMMITTEE EXPLAINS $25 CONTRIBUTIONS

Statements Adds That None of Those Selected Has Paid for Privilege of Being Included.

None of the persons selected for the forthcoming "Who's Who in St. Louis," to be published under auspices of the Civic Union, has paid for the privilege, it was stated by the Who's Who Committee yesterday through the chairman, Isaac Lippincott, professor of economics at Washington University, and S. T. Larkin, in charge of preparation of the volume.

The $25 donations asked of those admitted are contributions toward the publication expense and foundation out of which awards for civic service are to be paid, the committee stated.

"Under no circumstances," it was added, "would an individual be passed except on the basis of merit. Every great civic movement must be financed in someway and usually they are financed by contributions of generous citizens who believe in civic progress. This undertaking is a distinct contribution to the civic life of our city."

As has been told, Larkin receives $10 of each $25 contribution for his services and publication expenses, and $15 goes to the Civic Union for the award foundation.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

AFTER SEVENTEEN YEARS

THIS announcement closes an association which has continued ever since the establishment of our business in 1911.

For the past ten years we have occupied the same spacious and well-equipped building at 1817 Locust Street.

After a very thorough personal investigation we decided to join forces with the three Graham brothers.

We were deeply impressed with their manufacturing plans, their production facilities at Detroit and Wayne, Michigan, and their fair dealer and consumer policies.

With the three Graham brothers, we believe that "TO SELL WELL IS TO SERVE WELL."

Such a policy, as evidenced by the outstanding success of the three Graham brothers in both commercial and passenger car fields, makes us proud and glad to join the Graham-Paige organization.

We now offer the new Graham-Paige line as outstanding in quality, performance, appearance and value.

A wide variety of models is on display at all four of our St. Louis retail establishments which represent a combined floor space of one hundred thousand square feet.

You are cordially invited to inspect the new Graham-Paige motor cars at any one of these showrooms.

To the many customers and friends who have made our success possible, we express the hope that they will continue to use our service stations, parts departments and other facilities.

To them, and to the new friends we expect to make, we pledge a continuance of fair dealing and honest methods which have governed our business since the beginning.

Mantell to Do Shakspeare at Popular Prices

Star to Come Here Next Week With Six Plays In as Many Nights — "Broadway" and "Wings" Hold Over.

BOTH the Shubert and American theaters hold over last week's shows for this week, that most excellent of melodramas "Broadway" continuing at the former house and the motion picture "Wings" remaining at the latter. Next week will see a change in both theaters with Robert B. Mantell coming into the American with six Shakspearean plays in as many days and "The Squall," described as an emotional drama of Spain, with Blanche Yurka, as the star, holding forth at the Shubert.

Mantell, by the way, is the latest recruit to the idea of lower prices in the legitimate theaters. While in several instances this season, notably the Civic Repertory Theater presentation of "The Cradle Song" and George Tyler's delightful comedy "Tommy," local theatergoers were favored with a reduction in the price of tickets enabling them to see these offerings for $2.00 or less, Mantell has made a more marked slash and the announcement is made that during his visit to the American next week the best seats at the night performances and the Saturday matinee will be sold for $1.50, plus tax, with the Wednesday matinee scaled from $1.00 down.

BOTH "The Cradle Song" and "Tommy" were played at the American and the management of the Market street playhouse reports that business for the two shows was better than that of the average attraction offered at higher prices. It was stated that if the experiment proved successful similar scales would be invoked whenever possible, and the Mantell week is another opportunity.

There is — or was until five years ago—a large contingent of students of Shakspeare who could be counted as reliable patrons of "Hamlet" and other famous plays in Mantell's repertory. Usually they took to the seats in the upper floors of the theater because orchestra chairs were out of their reach on account of high prices. Now, as Mantell's annual tours are drawing to a close, he is giving these Shakspearean fans an opportunity to see his productions from the lower parts of the house.

There is an unusually heavy expense attached to the presentation of Shakspeare's plays. A large company is necessary and because of the nightly change of play, a heavy scenic, costume and property equipment must be carried. To break even here next week, Mantell must do an almost capacity business, but he believes the experiment is well worth while.

IT may have been the higher scale of prices which was responsible for the fact that "Broadway," one of the best mellers the stage has ever had, did not pack 'em in by any means during the first week of its stay here. Perhaps the other plays of the underworld, which beat it in here, fed up the customers with crime dramas. Then, too, the lack of well-known names in the cast may have hurt business despite the fact that a more competent company of players could hardly have been assembled.

The second act curtain of "Broadway" is the most smashing of the play, but few people who see it realize that this most natural climax was arrived at only after a good many others had been tried out, before the piece went into New York, and found wanting. George Abbott, one of the authors of "Broadway," says that the present ending of the act is the fifth of a series which was played. "The situation in the original manuscript," says Mr. Abbott, "was the same as it is now; the hoofer, Roy Lane, in a scuffle with the smooth bootlegger, Steve Crandall, has found himself involuntarily in possession of

ARCHITECTURE IN MOTION PICTURES

By Ernst Lubitsch

Ernst Lubitsch, Hailed by Many as the Master Director of the Screen, Is Now Engaged in Directing Emil Jannings in His Latest Starring Picture, "The Patriot," With Florence Vidor and Lewis Stone in Featured Roles. "The Patriot" Is Laid in the Days of Paul the First of Russia.

THEY used to say that the camera never lies but, as a matter of truth, the camera is one of the greatest liars in the world and this is a fact we should all be extremely thankful for. Without this charming inexactitude in motion picture, we would be denied much that is now beautiful, thrilling and impressive.

The business of the motion picture is to entertain. The really intelligent portion of an audience does not concern itself with questions as to how an effect is obtained. They are interested only in being amused. Everybody knows, and the motion picture producer admits readily that some of the finest effects in films are obtained through the ingenuity of clever technicians. What does it matter? The effect is real. If it isn't, the man responsible is a bungler.

People who allow their curiosity concerning the secrets of motion picture making to spoil their enjoyment of a film are like the man who never hears the music from a gramophone because he is listening to the squeaking of the needle. Practically everything remarkable seen on the screen is possible in real life. When it is done for the screen, technicians bring their knowledge to bear to make things easy for the actor. Two reasons are given for this. One, so that the camera can photograph it. The second is to provide the necessary safety factor. Audiences today are not altogether Roman. They have no desire to see men butchered to make a holiday.

IN real life, the leaps of Douglas Fairbanks are entirely possible. So is the opening of the Red Sea waters as was shown in "The Ten Commandments." So is the train-wreck shown in "The Last Command." People are carried away in avalanches as shown in "Wife Savers" and people do fight for their lives in blazing houses as pictured in "Underworld."

But to do these things in motion pictures, to protect the players and to make the whole pictureable for the camera, the best technical brains in the industry are called in. If their work was so poorly done that an audience could see how it was accomplished, the theaters would be empty in a month—and remain empty. We are no longer in the Elizabethan age when the audience sat about on the stage with the players and watched them put on their costumes and rehearse their lines.

One of the most interesting branches of motion picture production is the building of structures, particularly historical structures, for sets. A set built for pictures is 50 to 100 per cent superior to the real thing in nine cases out of ten. Why? Because the man who built the real thing knew nothing about camera angles and the set-builder has the camera perpetually in his mind.

This is the reason that the beautiful old world structures of European countries are almost a total loss when it comes to picture making. From the outside, they are splendid. But take your company and your camera inside and you are likely to meet your Waterloo. You can't light them satisfactorily.

ONCE in a while we run into a period where the entire national architecture or the particular part of it we wish to photograph is a total loss. Such was the case when we began production plans for "The Patriot," which I am directing as an Emil Jannings starring vehicle.

The story takes place in the reign of the Czar Paul I of Russia. The Czar lived in the Palace of St. Michael which was built for him in St. Petersburg. Because of the Czar's suspicion that everyone who approached him wished to murder him, the palace was made as nearly surprise and murder proof as a terrified man could make it. The Czar had good reason to fear. He tortured and murdered with fearful cruelties thousands of his unfortunate subjects.

The character of this palace was so conventional and pictorially uninteresting that we decided to invent a style which would be based upon the St. Petersburg tradition of the time, but sufficiently modified in its characteristics to create the atmosphere of grandeur and gloom, danger and intrigue indispensable as a background for this story.

THE style of Moscow, medieval in character and thoroughly Russian, had to be carefully avoided because St. Petersburg was founded by Peter the Great in the swamps of the Neva in the first years of the eighteenth century. There could be no buildings in St. Petersburg, therefore, which bore the stamp of the middle ages, the work of Italians, Germans and French, for Russia only developed its native artists much later. St. Petersburg shows a distinctly continental atmosphere, but the wideness of its squares and streets and the powerful proportions of ornamental and structural features in its buildings give it a character found nowhere else in the world.

The orthodox religion of Russia was the state religion with the Czar at the head of the church. Every Russian was required to have an ikon, the picture of his personal saint, in his rooms, whether he believed in religion or not. We feature this picturesque custom in our sets with the result that they greatly increase their pictorial value.

The long-lasting winters of Russia made the use of fireplaces in Russian homes almost impossible. Their picturesque qualities do not make up for the fact that they do not adequately heat a freezing room. As a result, Russia developed those huge tiled stoves which are unique. They reach to the ceiling, burn continuously from October to May and have two openings, one facing the room they are intended to heat and the other the hallway. Servants replenish the fuel from the hallway without disturbing their masters in the rooms. These tiled stoves are very handsome and being rarely seen outside of Russia, we made use of them for our sets to create the Russian atmosphere.

ANOTHER feature of Russian rooms of the period is the scantiness of the furniture and furnishings. The English idea of filling a house with cozy furniture and having many cozy, comfortable corners was unknown in Russia. As a result, the rooms appear empty to our way of thinking. A chair or two, a table, the ikon, the tiled stove—there you have the furniture of palace room or cottage room—in Russia.

So everything characteristic of Russia in the time of Czar Paul I is featured in our architecture and decorations in "The Patriot." The streets are wide and desolate, deep buried in snow. The exterior of the Czar's palace is crude and barbaric in its richness. The interior has rooms of great height, dark, gloomy and heavily ornamented in gold. Even our backgrounds, odd-shaped golden cupolas of the orthodox churches, snow-laden against a winter sky, are carefully prepared so that the camera may make the most of them.

As a director who aims to achieve realism, I prefer the studio constructed set to the real building every time. The former is built for me, for my cameraman with his lights and for my players. The latter is difficult to light and hard to make part of your story. Where you want to put a light you find a stone wall and where you desire to set up your camera for an interesting angle, you discover more granite or a stairway or some other obstacle. On the set, the "stone wall" can be moved, the stairway shifted. You can take the roof off and set your lights.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.

HARPERS recently brought out "A President Is Born," a novel showing Fannie Hurst's versatility in a striking new vein. I am late reading it, but hereby warn dyspeptics to lay off. Finishing it during the early morning hours resulted in my dressing and going to the lunch counter in the Grand Central to stow away an order of fried oysters and a slab of mince pie. I know of no book so capable of exciting gustatory desires. It makes one positively ravenous.

Skimming through its pages, I quote: "Candied yams—candied apples on a stick—sweetbreads in individual ramekins—turkey dressing of citron, chestnuts and walnut meats—cranberry sauce jellied in star-shape molds—cider that stung like the air of an autumn outdoors—a pitcher of eggnog with a fine peppering of cinnamon—hot biscuits the size of a silver dollar and steaming kale boiled with bacon rind—a gallon pail of apple butter—a batch of zimmtkuchen the shape of soldiers, camels and stars—winesap apples—sugar cookies with jam hearts—hominy with sorghum—sliced cucumbers boiled in vinegar, cloves and sugar—

"Pickled beets—grape jelly—pear and quince preserves—piccalilli and chow chow in pressed glass dishes—hashed brown potatoes with a crust on—oxtail stew with circles of green pepper swimming in rich brown gravy—milk with a half inch cream on top—fruit pie with the fork prints on the cover—bacon cracklings"——

I simply can't go on!

New York had a curious press agent stunt fizzle recently. A man defied the "electric chair." The chair was placed on the stage at the Hippodrome and the victim took 2500 volts with 350 amperes without a shudder. It is his claim that anyone can cheat the chair if they know how. (Line forms to the right.) He holds a frying pan containing eggs during the experiment and the eggs are fried to a crisp.

The fellow challenged the electric chair operators at Sing Sing to kill him, but they refused to notice his challenge. It is his claim that victims of the electric chair die from the autopsy and not the electrocution. More than 75 newspaper men saw the demonstration. Only a few lines got in print.

Everybody, of course, thinks it is a trick, but they do remember those eggs frying in the outstretched hand just the same. Somehow you cannot laugh that off.

Speaking for quite a number of New Yorkers, I am safe in saying they are a little fed up on Babbitt literature. It has become the custom these days to make every man from west of Jersey City appear as perfect bores in Pullman and ship smoking rooms and other places where men are thrown together.

The Babbitt is made to talk something like this: "I certainly do enjoy meeting a lot of he-Americans like you folks. You are like myself, you notice things and you think for yourself. Just the other day at the Rotarian Club—that's one of the greatest get together and pep 'em up organizations in the world—we had John J. Doakes, you know, the great chain drug store king, and he said men in my town like myself reminded him of 'perpetual motion machines'"—and so on ad nauseam.

Those of us who travel only slightly know this isn't true. In fact the most of us know the pests of the smoking room are the fresh type of drummers from New York.

Here is one Walter Winchell dug up on Broadway. An actor ran across a vaudeville player he had not seen since he attended the vaudevillian's wife's funeral in an undertaking parlor.

"You certainly did carry on at your wife's funeral," he observed. "I never saw a man weep and rave so. I thought you would have to be taken out."

"Did you see me?" he inquired. "Well, you should have caught me at the cemetery."

Gene Markey tells of Gene Tunney being asked by a friend if it were true he was about to write a book.

"Heavens, no!" was the reply. "It is bad enough to have a champion who can read. To have one who can write would be terrible."

Tunney has stood the sarcastic gaff. Almost every writer has hurled a javelin or so, but he has not flinched. Dempsey, I believe, is still more popular, and he has been a grand and noble ring figure. Perhaps he may be again, but to me there is something a little admirable about the way Tunney has gone his own way without talking back. He, by replying to his detractors, might easily have made himself ridiculous. As it is, he has merely confounded them.

Opposition to Jolson's Entry In New Field

Shuberts and Warner Brothers Both Objected To Black-Face Star Playing This Week at Loews.

AL JOLSON'S appearance as an entertainer on the stage at Loew's this week, which is said to be the start of a brief tour of movie houses which will net the blackface comedian some $200,000, met with tremendous opposition from two quarters. Warner Brothers, owners of the film, "The Jazz Singer," which is playing at the Grand Central with Jolson as the star, almost prevented his appearing here. Jolson did not know that the film was running in St. Louis when he signed the Loew contract but once his name was on the dotted line there was no way out. As a matter of fact the personal appearance of the star here should stimulate business for the picture which is now in the ninth week of its amazing run on Grand avenue.

After the Warners had tried to keep Jolson out of St. Louis the Shuberts came along with a claim that if he played here it would have to be in the show, "Big Boy," which was scheduled for the Shubert Theater some weeks ago and called off when the star wanted to go to Florida for the winter. Nothing came of either effort however, except that the telegraph companies were enriched considerably while the controversy was going on.

CONSIDERABLE of Jolson's enormous popularity is due to the fact that he has the knack of becoming one with the audience and it was the San Francisco earthquake—or fire, as they prefer to call it out there—that gave him that.

Back in April 1906—almost 22 years ago—Jolson's $30-a-week job singing in San Francisco's first vaudeville theater was badly scrambled by the 'Frisco quake. Without a theater in which to sing, Jolson was out of luck. But Sid Grauman, now one of the nation's foremost movie showmen, owned that theater. Then, as now, Sid Grauman was resourceful.

A huge tent, pitched in a hurry, was the show to which Jolson was dragged. But some nice wet Northern California rain decided Grauman that he needed a tin roof erected over his tent. While the roof was being erected, the show went on. Jolson, later the author of that famous "crack," "Nobody ever gets temperamental with a policeman," got temperamental for Grauman's benefit.

"They can't hear me," he yelled. "Are they paying to hear me or to hear some guys beat hammers on your tin roof?"

"Why not get out on top of the piano in the orchestra pit and do your songs?" was Grauman's counter-suggestion.

Jolson tried it. The piano-top was the genesis of the runway, the thing which gives audiences a sense of informality, that Jolson is one of them and not one of the High-Hat group.

Jolson's jokes always have an O. Henry quality. He keeps his "kick" concealed until the last. And then, with a whip-cracking flash, he snaps it at his audience.

Fairly frequently, Jolson's stories are suggestive. It's been said of him that he's the only man on the stage who can tell an off-colored story, and make his audience go into hysterics. That is because Jolson follows the formula of making a jest of sex. He won't let his audience take one of these stories seriously. And so his "stuff goes over."

NOW Jolson, with all his ability as a fun maker did not succeed in being very funny when he tried to become a movie comedian. In "The Jazz Singer" on the screen he is at his best in the pathetic parts of the film. One of the funniest things about the funny-men of filmdom is that practically none of them skyrocketed out of school into film fame.

In their pictures these comedians laugh at the rules of success, winning the girl and saving her father's millions by sheer boneheaded blundering, all of which helps to make the audience laugh. But in real life none of them seems to have had the luck to stumble into screen success without a rigorous preliminary training in the art of being funny. Brief consideration of the early lives of most screen comedians, in fact, would lead one to believe they began their studies in slapstick while still in the cradle.

Compare the careers of these professional fun-makers with the Cinderella experiences of some of the romantic heroes of the screen who have leaped in a few months from high school to high-salaried roles in big pictures.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN was a child when he won his first burst of applause in an English music hall, but he was a veteran actor by the time he reached celluloid. Raymond Griffith was carried onto the stage at 15 months and played Little Lord Fauntleroy at 7 years. Harry Langdon started as an errand boy in a theater and became in turn usher, stage hand and actor. Karl Dane was on the stage as a child. Buster Keaton was acting before he was old enough to go to kindergarten.

Jimmie Adams was a child soprano on the stage. Harold Lloyd was a page boy in "Hamlet" before he was 10 and played in stock as a youth years before the camera got him.

"W. C. FIELDS ran away from home at the age of 11 to become a juggler, and at 15 a beer garden in Atlantic City was paying him $5 a week for his act. For 25 years he amused vaudeville and musical comedy audiences before entering the movies. At the ripe age of 10 Charlie Murry was wearing grease paint on the stage. Bobby Vernon began acting in musical comedy before he was out of short pants, and Ford Sterling got such an early start he learned all about circus clowning, musical comedy and vaudeville, not to mention Mississippi boat shows and ordinary traveling repertoire companies, before he was ready for the movies.

At the age of eight Neal Burns was playing in stock in Philadelphia, and when Billy Dooley was that old he was making summer tours with circuses as a trick cyclist. Larry Semon kept off the stage until he was four years old, at least he was not billed as one of the players in his father's show until then. Raymond McKee began his acting career at age three.

Some comedians were not so hasty about beginning the long grind that made screen comics of them. Wallace Beery, for instance, was all of 16 when he ran away from home to join a circus, and he was old enough to shave by the time he went into musical comedy. Chester Conklin even studied a little law before becoming an actor and later a circus clown.

But practically without exception all the comedians in pictures seem to have fought their way up through an off-screen period of training before they even found minor comic roles on the screen. In other words, one has some chance of becoming a romantic screen hero overnight, but to be funny in films one must really know how.

Schuricht, Guest Conductor To Arrive Here Tomorrow

German Orchestra Leader to Appear With Symphony at the Odeon Friday and Saturday.

ST. LOUIS musicians will welcome Carl Schuricht, next guest-conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, tomorrow, when he arrives from Germany to begin rehearsals for his American debut in the orchestra's concerts at the Odeon on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Schuricht is known for his successes in modern works as well as with the classic masters, though St. Louis will hear but little that is novel in the presentations under his baton this season.

Characteristic of the four regular programs he conducts here—the last of which is an all-Wagner offering—is the first. It has for composers Mozart, Weber, Strauss and Beethoven.

Strauss' "Tod und Verklarung," which has stood as a major work on many a program in that hall, brings the first half of his first program to a climax to be followed by Beethoven's C minor Symphony. Building up to this succession, Schuricht opens his program with the fairy mood of Weber's "Oberon" overture, which is followed by Mozart's "Eine kleine Nachtmusik" for strings.

The program in detail will be:

Overture to "Oberon"	Weber
Eine kleine Nachtmusik	Mozart
"Tod und Verklarung"	Strauss
Symphony No. 5 in C minor	Beethoven
1. Allegro con brio.
II. Andante con moto.
III. Scherzo.
IV. Allegro.

MacGregor Soloist With Apollo Club

Pianist, Former St. Louisan, to Be Heard at Second Concert of the Season Given by Organization.

WILLARD MacGREGOR, pianist, now of Indianapolis, will be the assisting artist for the Apollo Club's second concert for the season at the Odeon, Tuesday night. MacGregor, really a product of St. Louis, recently returned from a two years' sojourn in Europe, spent in extensive concertizing and in study under Isidor Philipp and Nadiz Boulanger. Numerous successful appearances in Paris have given him an enviable reputation.

As soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra under Rudolph Ganz, in whose Chicago master class several years ago Mr. MacGregor won the first prize scholarship, and in numerous recitals in many parts of the United States, he has been recognized as one of the most promising of the younger American pianists.

Mr. MacGregor will play three groups of songs as his part of the program as follows:

I.
Rhapsody in E Flat, Op. 119	Brahms
Ballade in F Minor	Chopin
Nocturne in F Sharp	Chopin
Etude, Opus 10, No. 12	Chopin
II.
Liebestod, from Tristan	Wagner-Liszt
Reflections in the Water	Debussy
Fireworks	Debussy
III.
The Lark	Glinka-Balakiren
Will o' the Wisp	Philipp
Chinatown	Niemann
Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12	List

The Apollo Club, now having 80 male voices, under the direction of Charles Galloway, will sing four numbers, as follows:

Bacchanalian Chorus	J. W. Elliott
(a) Vineta	Franz Abt
(b) Dawn	Pearl G. Curran
Bugle Song	Arthur Foote
To American	Cecil Forsyth

Paul Friess, well-known local pianist, will accompany the club in the first, third and fourth numbers.

Soviet Cantor in Recital at Odeon

Cantor Pintchik, the chief cantor of the Petrograd Synagogue in Soviet Russia, who is now touring this country at the invitation of a number of Jewish music lovers, will appear in his first recital in this city Sunday evening, Feb. 19, at the Odeon.

Pintchik is said to be the only Jewish cantor in Soviet Russia who has received the permission of his government to leave the country for an extended tour of Europe and America. Despite the fact that a cantor is a purely religious function, Pintchik has been classed by the soviets in the category of artists, and has been granted privileges extended to the selected few. He is best known for his interpretation of Jewish folk songs and melodies, to which he is said to lend an air of peculiar racial melancholy so characteristic of Jewish and Slav music.

Cantor Pintchik's program at the Odeon will be composed of classical as well as Jewish numbers.

Yiddish Comedy at Odeon.

On Thursday the Logan Square Yiddish Theatrical Company from Chicago will present a new comedy, "Reisele From Slobadke," at the Odeon. The company is headed by Mischa and Lucy German, who are said to be well known on the Jewish Rialto as accomplished artists. The local appearance of the company is sponsored by Sol Goldman.

Woman Leader Conducts Symphony "Pop" Today

Ethel Leginska, Pianist, Will Be Soloist on Program and in Charge of Orchestra.

ETHEL LEGINSKA, conductor, composer, pianist, and one of the unique and arresting figures in the modern musical world will conduct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in its Sunday popular concert at the Odeon at 3:15 p. m. today, and will be the soloist, directing the orchestra in her own accompaniment as she plays the Weber Concerto in C major No. 2.

Since St. Louis has already seen Rudolph Ganz and Emil Oberhoffer conduct from a solo instrument in presenting works respectively by Handel and Bach in accordance with a convenient, efficient, and time-honored custom, it will not gasp, as New York and Chicago have done, at what reviewers in those cities thought was a "stunt." As a matter of fact such famous conductors as Muck, Furtwaengler and Mengelberg have not hesitated to avail themselves of that time-honored and traditional custom to assure themselves of the accompaniment they desired.

Born in Hull, England, Leginska early evinced musical genius. Her studies were first in Germany, and then Leschitizky became her master in piano. After achieving high success in pianism she appeared in St. Louis four years ago with the orchestra in its regular symphony concert series. That same fall she saw her debut as a conductor in London, Paris, Munich and Berlin. She returned to this country to serve as guest-conductor with the New York Symphony Orchestra, the Boston People's Orchestra and with the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra where her concert drew an audience of 30,000 people into Hollywood Bowl. Later she became conductor of the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, and following that the Boston Women's Orchestra. In that post she still continues, but also she has been chosen conductor of the Chicago Women's Symphony Orchestra.

Her program offers as its major work Rimsky-Korsakoff's musical narrative of Arabian Nights' Adventures, "Scheherazade." As her solo Mme. Leginska has fixed upon the C major of Carl Maria von Weber.

Behind the Screens Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.

REX INGRAM, the American film director, has signed a contract in London to make one British production in which his wife, Alice Terry, will be starred and which United Artists Corporation will distribute throughout the world. Ingram directed "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Scaramouche," "Mare Nostrum," "The Garden of Allah" and other films.

He will direct personally the new production, which is to be photographed in an English studio, camera work to be begun in six weeks. An all-English cast of players will surround Miss Terry. More money has been appropriated for production of the new Ingram picture than has ever been spent on an English-made cinema, according to all reports.

For three years Ingram has made his films in Southern France, preferring not to work in Hollywood.

Spoken lines in a feature film will become an actuality with the release of Warner Bros.' "Tenderloin," starring Dolores Costello, in which the star as well as other principals in the cast will be heard talking.

It is true that in "The Jazz Singer" a few words of dialogue were spoken between Al Jolson and Eugenie Besserer, who played the mother role. These lines, however, were only of a few minutes' duration but in "Tenderloin" they have been carried much further by using them to supplement the climatic scenes. The cast, in addition to Dolores Costello, includes Conrad Nagel, Dan Wolheim, Mitchell Lewis, Georgie Stone and John Miljan.

Tom Meighan, who has not acted since the completion of "The City Gone Wild," four months ago, is due to plunge again into production immediately. While Meighan was in New York in search of a suitable vehicle, his director called him by long distance telephone to give him an enthusiastic account of a new story he had just found. The star promptly started for Hollywood to begin work.

After having spent a month on location at El Toro, Cal., making thrills for "Lilac Time," Colleen Moore and 300 supporting players and technicians have returned to the studios here for French village and interior sequences.

The entire company lived in a tent city half a mile from the flying field representing a war time airdrome on a French farm. Gary Cooper, late hero of "Beau Sabreur," has the lead opposite the star, and the cast includes Eugenie Besserer, Burr McIntosh, Kathryn Landy, Cleve Moore, Jack Stone, Dan Mason and Edward Dillon.

It will be in entirely different roles from his portrayal in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," his current picture, that Richard Barthelmess will next appear before the cameras. The two forthcoming films in which he will be seen are "Roulette" and "Out of the Ruins." The first is by Fanny Hurst, the second by Philip Gibbs.

Paul Lukas, famous Hungarian player and one of the best known character actors of Europe, who, for many years appeared as guest artist at the theaters of Berlin and Vienna under the direction of Max Reinhardt, has signed a long-term contract with Paramount. Lukas made his screen debut in the German UFA production, "Samson and Delilah," in which he played the role of Samson. It is said of Lukas that he has played roles of every conceivable character in the works of Shakspeare, George Bernard Shaw, Oscar Wilde, Moliere and Galsworthy. He is 6 feet 1½ inches tall and weighs 186 pounds. Lukas' first role under his new contract will be in Pola Negri's next picture, "Three Sinners."

The last Follies girl has packed her costume in her coin purse and departed from the First National Studios environs.

In other words, "The Heart of a Follies' Girl," Billie Dove's latest stellar vehicle, has been completed, and the members of the chorus, 50 of Hollywood's prettiest girls, have gone back to their various stage engagements.

Larry Kent played opposite Miss Dove in "The Heart of a Follies Girl." Lowell Sherman, Mildred Harris, Josephine Dunn and Clarissa Selwynne figure prominently in the supporting cast.

"She Wouldn't Say Yes," will be the title of the next Bebe Daniels picture. Work is to begin immediately upon completion of the star's present film, "Feel My Pulse," upon which she is at work under the direction of Gregory La Caca, with Richard Arlen as leading man.

In "She Wouldn't Say Yes," James Hall will be leading man and Roscoe Karns will have an important part.

Victor McLaglen, the adventurous hero of "What Price Glory," "Loves of Carmen," and other film successes is to take the place of William Farnum in "Hangman's House." The reason is that Farnum, after his sudden come-back to pictures at the Fox studios was overtaken with rheumatism.

Farnum, nevertheless, is not hard hit and his come-back is merely delayed. McLaglen recently finished "A Girl in Every Port," his first starring vehicle.

In the principal feminine role of "Hangmen's House" is June Collyer, new Wampas baby star who made her screen debut in an important role in "East Side, West Side." Others in the supporting cast are Larry Kent, Earle Foxe and Hobart Bosworth.

In the midst of his work on his present picture, "The Code of Honor," Adolphe Menjou has just announced his intention to make an extended tour of Europe beginning in May.

His present picture is an adaptation of the Sardou stage play, "Captain Ferreol." His supporting company includes Evelyn Brent, Nora Lane, and William Collier Jr.

Following that picture, Menjou is to begin work on "Super of the Gaiety," from the story of Alfred Savoir. The same author wrote "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," in which Menjou appeared on the screen.

Facing the Music

THE Musicians' Guild will meet in the Tower Room of the Congress Hotel at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Miss Mary Powell, supervisor of education at the City Art Museum, will speak on "Rhythms" tracing the analogies between rhythmical movement in art and music. The Grieg Concerto in A minor will be played by Miss Deborah Carnovsky, with Mrs. Lucille Cook Gewinner at the second piano. The meeting will be open to the public.

In the free popular organ recital in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, this afternoon, O. Wade Fallert will be assisted by Hugo Didrickson, baritone. The program follows:

Marche Nuptiale	Ganne
Operatic Suite, "Prince of Pilsen"—	Luders
(a) Heidelberg.
(b) The Season at the Shore.
(c) The Message of the Violet.

Lindenwood College vesper choir will give a program entirely devoted to Mendelssohn tonight in Roemer Auditorium at 6:30 o'clock. John Thomas, director of Lindenwood's music department, will speak on "Mendelssohn, the Composer." A students' sextette will sing selections from "Elijah," and Miss Grace Terhune, "Hear Ye Israel." There will also be violin and vocal solos, and anthems by the choir, directed by Miss Cora N. Edwards, with Miss Mildred Gravley as accompanist.

The Musical Research Club will present as a Valentine day celebration, following dinner at the Town Club at 7 p. m., Tuesday, a sketch, "The Wreck of Ages," written and directed by Mrs. Carl Hoffman. Dancing will follow. Those taking part are: Mesdames Elvira Diamond, M. Y. Bledsoe, Richard Miles, W. A. Lockwood, Carl Hoffman, Kenneth Buchanan, W. N. Wallace, J. E. Mangan, F. Shanzle, W. R. Schafer, Ferne Whiteman Smith, J. C. Collins, A. Eckert, Charles Hoyt; Misses Gladys Sellers, Beatrice Hollerbach, Bernice Eckert, Jewel Marrodick, Adel Scharzenbach, Helene and Margaret Heid.

There will be a Russian concert next Thursday evening in the parish house of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Communion, when singers from the Russian Church of St. Michael the Archangel will give a program of native songs under the direction of the Rev. Joseph A. Hunchak. The proceeds will go to the new church which is to be built by this congregation.

Folk songs of centuries ago, modern Russian music, hymns, and Cossack martial airs will be given, the entire program being in the Russian language.

Daniel Philippi will give an all MacDowell program Friday for his usual noonday organ recital in Christ Church Cathedral, playing "The Sea Pieces" with eight descriptive numbers. Wednesday noon his program includes the Peer Gynt Suite by Grieg. The recitals are given in the cathedral every Wednesday and Friday from 12:25 to 12:55 and are free to the public.

The Salem Choral Society of Salem Evangelical Church, Shreve and Margaretta avenues, will present their annual minstrel on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Arthur Schneider, Arthur Becker, John Schrage and George Buechler will be the feature of this year's presentation as "The Four Black Crowe in Dutch." Armin Rumpf will act as master of ceremonies. The show is being staged under the direction of Mildred Dutze.

Paderewski In a Concert Here Friday

PADEREWSKI, still one of the dominating figures of the piano world, will play his one recital of the season in St. Louis at the Odeon on Friday evening. Many of those who went to hear Paderewski on his return to the concert platform in the fall of 1922 after an absence of five years devoted to diplomatic service in behalf of Poland, went convinced that it was their last chance to hear him, but the display of physical and mental endurance which they witnessed, convinced them of their error and he is still making country-wide tours.

Paderewski will provide the following program for his appearance Friday evening:

Symphonic Etudes	Schumann
Sonata, A Flat, Opus 110	Beethoven
Moderator contabile molto expressive
Allegro molto
Adagio ma non troppo
Fuga
Barcarolle (Auf dem Wasser zu singen)	Schubert-Liszt
Soiree de Vienne	Schubert-Liszt
Serenade, "Hark, Hark"	Schubert-Liszt
Erlking	Schubert-Liszt
Ballade, G Minor	Chopin
Etudes, No. 4 and 5, Opus 10	Chopin
Barcarolle	Chopin
Mazurka, A Minor, Opus 17	Chopin
Grande Valse Brilliante, E Flat, Opus 18	Chopin
Melodie, B Major No. 3, Opus 8	Paderewski
Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 6	Liszt

"Captain Applejack" by W. U. Players.

The Little Theater of Washington University will present late in March, as its spring semi-annual, Walter Hackett's "Captain Applejack" under the direction of Harry R. McClain and Miss Marian Epstein. The cast will be composed of the following players: Alice Weber, Alice Brokaw, Ruth Waugh, Jeanne Blythe, Harriet Pinnell, Paul Chamberlain, Jerry Gruner, William Ogden, Ewing Wachter, David Hallmann and Lloyd Miller.

Will Rogers Here Feb. 23.

Will Rogers is to come to the Odeon for a single appearance on Feb. 23 when he will talk about "All I know is what I read in the papers" and "Great men I have met at the stage door."

ROBERT MANTELL TO GIVE SHAKSPEARE AT POPULAR PRICES

Steve's gun. Subsequently, Dan McCorn, the detective, took the trusting hoofer to jail after he had been let down by his sweetheart, 'Billie' More. From here, the original script carried on for five minutes of dialogue and orgy. There were various carryings-on. Steve clinched his date with 'Billie' for the following night and was standing in complacent anticipation of an impending conquest when Dolph, his right-hand man, accosted him. The tag was:

Steve: Well, everything broke right for us, didn't it?

Dolph: Like hell it did. The cop has got your gun.

(Curtain.)

"We changed the ending to the following, which was the first ending used when the play was tried out in Atlantic City:

Dan: That's all for now. Come on, Lane (with a glance at Billie. Roy exits with Dan).

Dolph: Six months for him. (Laughs. Goodnight from crowd. Steve goes to Billie, pats her. She tries to smile and joins in with the others.)

Benny (to Billie): Come on, Blue Eyes, jazz it up. (Billie turns and runs upstairs crying. He starts to follow. Steve stops him.)

Steve: Let her go. She's just a kid.

Ann (to Benny): Take me, take me. (They dance off. Crowd goes to party room, singing and dancing, excepting Dolph and Steve.)

Steve: That's getting out of a tough one.

Dolph: Wait a minute. It ain't so good. McCorn's got your gun.

Steve: That's all right. I'm leaving town tomorrow night, Dolph, and I won't be back until this has all blown over.

(Doors of party room fly open as Larry chases Ruby and kisses her. Others are dancing wildly. Fox throws a brassiere at Larry. Mazie yanks off Porky's toupee. All are singing and drinking. The cigarette girl goes through and upstairs, taking off her uniform yawning.)

"THE trouble with that ending was that it did not sufficiently focus the love story of 'Billie' and Roy, and it did not make sufficiently menacing the danger impending over 'Billie' from Steve. Accordingly, another ending was written which was tried out the last night in Atlantic City. It ran like this:

Benny (seizing "Billie"): Come on, Blue Eyes, jazz it up.

Billie (running to Steve for protection): Steve—

Steve (putting arms protectingly around her): Get to hell in there.

Ann (to Benny): Take me. (Benny carries Ann into party room, closes door.)

Steve: It's all right, Billie; don't be scared. Everything's all right.

Billie: Oh, Steve, what will I do?

Steve: I won't let anyone hurt you. (Looks at her tenderly—is suddenly overcome by his passion.) God, I love you, kid. I love you. I'd do murder for you. (He kisses her. She fights her way free from him and runs upstairs, while he stands dazed. Dolph enters.)

Dolph: Come on, Steve, I've gotta cab.

Steve: To hell with it. I'm staying here. (Dolph makes gesture of despair. Benny opens door and crowd is revealed dancing and drinking. Steve remains dazed, looking after Billie.)

(Curtain.)

"For some reason this didn't play well. It was better but it wasn't right. It didn't click. Then we tried another ending in which the curtain descended on Steve's kissing Billie passionately, but that wasn't right either. Finally, the simple solution hit us—to build up Roy's exit tremendously, to make him aware of the danger his sweetheart was in and to bring the curtain down on that. We tried variants of this ending also, but we knew from the first time we saw it that this was the right curtain for the act. We kept Steve's kissing and that element, but we put it before the exit of Roy Lane in the hands of the detective, which brings the act to a close now this way:

Mazie (to Dan): Say, copper, will you do me a favor and take Personality with you before he tries to make any more trouble?

Steve: Is that all you want, Dan?

Dan (pulls Roy upstage): That's all for now. Come on, Lane, and I'll tell you some more about the Sullivan act.

Roy: You can't take me like this, officer. Who's going to look after Billie. She don't know what kind of a—

Dan: Come on.

Roy: No, wait a minute. For God's sake, give me a chance. She's only a kid. She don't know what she's up against. Mazie, you tell him. This Crandall guy is out to grab her—

Steve: Take him along.

Roy: I'll show you (breaks away from Dan): I'll kill you if you touch her—I will, damn you (slow curtain) Li—somebody—why don't you say something? I don't care what you do to me. Oh, God, Billie.

"This end was originally with the curtain descending on the 'I'll kill you' speech. This was found to shock audiences and now Roy practically 'ad libs' as he is being dragged off the stage by his captor. It softened the impact of the profane speech and left the emotional idea intact."

Try-Outs for Next Guild Productions

Try-outs for the fourth production by the Players Guild, a group of three one-act plays, will be conducted at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Artists Guild Theater, Union and Enright.

The plays include "Love of One's Neighbor," a satirical comedy by Leonid Andreyev; "Ile" a tragedy of the Arctic seas by Eugene O'Neill; and "The Man in the Bowler Hat," by A. A. Milne, and have unusually large cast requirements.

The tryouts for parts in the production will be open to the public.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Mazie (to Dan): Say, copper, will you do me a favor and take Personality with you before he tries to make any more trouble?

Steve: Is that all you want, Dan?

Dan (pulls Roy upstage): That's all for now. Come on, Lane, and I'll tell you some more about the Sullivan act.

Roy: You can't take me like this, officer. Who's going to look after Billie. She don't know what kind of a—

Dan: Come on.

Roy: No, wait a minute. For God's sake, give me a chance. She's only a kid. She don't know what she's up against. Mazie, you tell him. This Crandall guy is out to grab her—

Steve: Take him along.

Roy: I'll show you (breaks away from Dan); I'll kill you if you touch her—I will, damn you (slow curtain) Lil—somebody—why don't you say something? I don't care what you do to me. Oh, God, Billie.

"This end was originally with the curtain descending on the 'I'll kill you' speech. This was found to shock audiences and now Roy practically 'ad libs' as he is being dragged off the stage by his captor. It softened the impact of the profane speech and left the emotional idea intact."

Try-Outs for Next Guild Productions

Try-outs for the fourth production by the Players Guild, a group of three one-act plays, will be conducted at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Artists Guild Theater, Union and Enright.

The plays include "Love of One's Neighbor," a satirical comedy by Leonid Andreyev; "Ile" a tragedy of the Arctic seas by Eugene O'Neill; and "The Man in the Bowler Hat," by A. A. Milne, and have unusually large cast requirements.

The tryouts for parts in the production will be open to the public.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

END SICKNESS THIS NEW WAY

If you are sick and want to Get Well and Keep Well, write for literature that tells How and Why Radium, this almost unknown and wonderful new element, brings relief to so many sufferers from Constipation, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Nervous Prostration, High Blood Pressure and diseases of the Stomach, Heart, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys and other ailments. You wear Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad day and night, receiving the Radio-Active Rays continuously into your system, causing a healthy circulation, overcoming sluggishness, throwing off impurities and restoring the tissues and nerves to a normal condition—and the next thing you know you are getting well.

Sold on a test proposition. You are thoroughly satisfied it is helping you before the appliance is yours. Nothing to do but wear it. No trouble or expense, and the most wonderful fact about the appliance is that it is sold so reasonable that it is within the reach of all, both rich and poor.

No matter how bad your ailment, or how long standing, we will be pleased to have you try it at our risk. For full information write today—not tomorrow. Radium Appliance Co., 1848 Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

Once a School Teacher—Later a Famous Physician

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save enough money to put him thru medical college. He began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pennsylvania, and often rode horseback through the woods to reach and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, knew and easily recognized most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Finally, he moved to Buffalo, N.Y., where he launched his favorite remedies, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, the late Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known general tonic for building up strength, restoring impaired tissues and enriching the blood. More than fifty million bottles have been sold in the U. S. If your druggist does not sell it, in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to the Dr. Pierce Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.

Forestry Association Head

GEORGE D. PRATT.

NATIONAL FIGURES TO ATTEND ANNUAL FORESTRY MEETING

American and Missouri Associations to Assemble Here Next Friday and Saturday.

The American Forestry Association will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Statler next Friday and Saturday, meeting for the first time in St. Louis. The annual meeting of the Missouri Forestry Association will be held at the same time.

Among the speakers will be Miss Martha Berry, founder of the agricultural and industrial schools for boys and girls of Georgia; Col. William B. Greeley of Washington, Chief of the United States Forest Service; John M. Parker, former Governor of Louisiana; W. I. Nolan, Lieutenant-Governor of Minnesota; Dr. S. T. Dana, dean of the Michigan Forest School, and George D. Pratt of New York City, president of the American Forestry Association.

Senator Harry B. Hawes will preside at the banquet at the Statler Hotel next Friday evening, and other St. Louisans who will speak at the convention are Dr. Hermann von Schrenk, president of the Missouri Forestry Association; Charles Nagel, chairman of the Business Men's Commission on Agriculture of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific Railway, and E. E. Pershall, vice president of the T. J. Moss Tie Co.

All sessions of the convention are open to the public as well as the banquet, for which reservations may be made with W. P. Gruner, 4006 North Broadway.

The American Forestry Association, which includes leaders in conservation movements from many parts of the United States on its board of directors, works for adequate protection against forest fires, the reforestation, the establishment of national and state forests, the protection of fish, game and other forms of wild life for state and national parks, for the education of the public, particularly school children in regard to forest needs, and for a more aggressive policy of research and educational extension in the science of forest production, management and utilization, and for reforms in present methods of forest taxation to the end that the growing of timber crops may be increased.

Fischer to Lead Student Concert

With Frederick Fischer conducting the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will present the fourth program of its Series B of Students' Concerts at the Odeon at 2:30 p. m., Thursday. The program, devoted largely to Wagner's "Gotterdammerung" is as follows:

Prelude to "Hansel and Gretel"	Humperdinck
Fourth Movement of G minor Symphony	Mozart
Gotterdammerung from the "Ring of the Nibelungs"	Wagner
Siegfried's Rhine Journey from Gotterdammerung	Wagner
Molly on the Shore	Grainger
Shepherd's Hey	Grainger

Many Groups in Choral Contest

Many choral groups are entering the Choral Contest sponsored by the Eighth District Missouri Federation of Music Clubs which will be held at the Woman's National Exposition, March 12 to 17. Choruses from nearby towns of Missouri and Illinois have registered.

The contest entries are divided into classes; women's, men's, mixed and junior voices; class A being for choruses of not less than 36 members and class B not less than 16 nor more than 32 members. Class B includes all church choirs, several of which have entered, and class D is open to glee clubs. Four glee clubs have signified their intention of competing.

Each group is permitted to sing without accompaniment one number of its own choice and the Contest Committee designates for the women's choruses Cadman's "Indian Mountain Song." For the men's groups, "The Sylvia" by Jules Jordan. Mixed choruses will sing, "On Song's Bright Pinions," by Mendelssohn and the junior voices the "Pilgrim's Chorus" from Tannhauser. "Shout Aloud in Triumph" by Charles Fonteyn Manney is the test number for the church choirs and "Roadways" by John H. Densmore will be sung by the glee clubs.

Contests will be held in the afternoon and evenings one class for each audition. Applications should be sent to 224 Frisco Bldg.

TELL-TALE ARTERIES

Are your arteries showing a tendency towards becoming hard? Do you have any difficulty in breathing, heart palpitation or dizzy spells? Look out for high blood pressure! It's a dangerous condition that may cut life short.

Living at the pace we do today we put too great a strain upon our vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming "limp" or sluggish, fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then a toxic condition of the whole system, with heart and blood vessels affected.

The liver occasionally needs a little help and there's nothing better for this, as doctors agree, than ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning so essential to real health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few make a wonderful difference.

Careless Washing Spoils the Hair

If you want beautiful hair, ordinary old-time methods of washing will not do. To bring out the real beauty, the hair must be shampooed properly.

Proper shampooing is what makes it soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Drunkenness Is a Disease!

The Liquor or Drug User Should be Pitied Rather Than Blamed

Most persons misunderstand the real reason for alcoholic addiction. They say it is due to lack of will power on the part of the drink victim. Or to downright depravity. But they are wrong.

Alcoholism is as much a disease as any other human illness. It has to be treated as such. Today with the aid of trained medical experts and the World Famous Keeley Treatment total freedom from liquor and drug cravings are obtained.

Nowhere could a user of liquor or drugs obtain surer freedom from his craving than at The Keeley Institute. Here he is able in a few short and pleasant weeks not only to shake off all desire or necessity for liquor or drugs, but to regain his health and strength of will. The Keeley Treatment has enabled thousands of men and women in all walks of life to do this. Its record of success dates back over a period of more than fifty years.

If you have a friend or relative afflicted with either curse—the use of drink or drugs—write The Keeley Institute today for full particulars. All correspondence strictly confidential.

MOTHER

A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated!

Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half sick, isn't resting eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Waits 15 Years to Eat Fried Onions

"After 15 years I eat anything I want—even fried onions. Adlerika ended sour stomach and gas, and I enjoy life again."—Mrs. L. Branton.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only), and removes foul matter that often poisoned the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, writes: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and bacilli."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you the great amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you would never believe was in your system. In chronic constipation, gas bloating, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores and other druggists.

MUNICIPAL OPERA TICKET SALE MUST INCREASE $20,000

Greater Income Needed for 1928 Season Because of Heavy Royalties and Cost of Casts.

TENTH BIRTHDAY YEAR CELEBRATION

Campaign for Visitors to Be Made to Keep Forest Park Enterprise Self-Sustaining.

At a meeting of the executive productions committee of the Municipal Theater Association last week, it was decided there would be no increase in admission prices for the 12 productions planned by the association to celebrate the tenth birthday of Municipal Opera, notwithstanding that the anniversary repertory is the most elaborate ever undertaking since the al fresco enterprise was launced in 1919.

The present scale of ticket prices was put into effect in 1921, the third year of Municipal Opera. That season the average cost of the weekly productions was $18,443. Each succeeding year there has been a steadily mounting weekly operating cost, a new high mark being reached last summer, when an average of more than $31,000 was expended weekly. Constant increases have been met by an annual increase in ticket sales and not one season has shown a deficit.

The fact that the St. Louis organization can produce opera on such an expensive scale and charge only 25 cents, 50 cents, $1, $1.50 and $2 for seats has won the admiration of the theatrical and operatic world.

Heavy Royalties Paid.

Due to the heavy royalty paid for the production rights to "The Vagabond King," "The Student Prince," "Blossom Time," "Rose Marie," Song of the Flame," "Princess Flavia," "The Love Song," "The Lady in Ermine" and other highly successful operas in the 1928 repertory, and the increased cost of obtaining a cast of principals who can show to advantage in these productions, the coming summer's season will have to show an increase of nearly $20,000 in ticket sales if the opera is to remain self-sustaining.

To obtain greater ticket sales, the association has determined to capitalize the fact that the opera is 10 years old and to take advantage of publicity that can be obtained on this score. It is planned to have celebration festivities throughout the season to stimulate local interest.

Plans to Attract Visitors.

In co-operation with the railroads and bus lines, a more active campaign will be carried on to attract visitors to St. Louis because of the opera performances. Excursions, special trains, organized parties from distant points and noted guests are some of the features planned.

In handling the great amount of work that the tenth anniversary season will entail, the membership of the association has been divided into committees, each with a definite task. As in the past, all details of the opera season will be passed on by the Executive Committee, which this year, is composed of Harry L. Salisbury, chairman; M. E. Holderness, vice chairman; Mona B. Crutcher, secretary; Nelson Cunliff, Thomas H. Lovelace, Joseph G. Miller, Fred W. Pape, Otto E. Rugg, Arthur Siegel and Charles Talbert. Henry W. Kiel, Walter B. Weisenburger and David E. Russell, president, treasurer and manager, respectively, of the association, are ex-officio members of this committee.

Personnel of Committees.

The personnel of other committees follows:

Administration and budget—Walter B. Weisenburger, chairman; John B. Strauch and Paul J. Wielandy.

Costumes—Charles M. Talbert, chairman; Sigmund Baer, Thomas H. Lovelace, Max Koenigsberg and F. W. Sudholt.

Finance, membership and guarantee—M. E. Holderness, chairman; G. A. Buder, Martin Collins, H. W. Eddy, F. M. Mayfield, Paul J. Wielandy, C. M. Lawson and Sigmund Baer.

Publicity—Arthur Siegel, chairman; G. A. Buder, E. Lansing Ray, Elzey Roberts and Joseph Pulitzer.

Stage—Nelson Cunliff.

Auditorium — Fred W. Pape, chairman; Charles E. Talbert and David E. Russell.

Concessions—Otto E. Rugg.

Charities—Thomas H. Lovelace, chairman; Robert D. Corlett, W. S. Donaldson, Dr. Louis H. Behrens, W. C. Hilmer, Charles Welsch and William Whitton.

Entertainment—Joseph G. Miller, chairman; Eugene Angert, E. Lansing Ray, Elzey Roberts, Capt. Robert Brooks and Herman Spoehrer.

The 1928 season will open Monday night, June 4, and close Sunday, Aug. 26.

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair

By DOROTHY LANG

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray haired, unattractive folks aren't want 1 around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

CHARLES HACKETT IN ATWATER KENT HOUR

Noted Operatic Tenor and Soprano Will Sing Over KSD This Evening.

Charles Hackett, tenor of the Chicago Opera Company, will be soloist in the Atwater Kent Hour on KSD tonight with Nanette Guilford of the Metropolitan Opera, and the Atwater Kent orchestra under Robert Hood Bowers.

Miss Guilford, having made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House on Feb. 22, 1926, is considered the baby of the "Met." She is the only native-born New Yorker at the Metropolitan.

She made her stage debut with "The Midnight Rounders," then playing the Century Roof, but after three weeks decided in favor of opera as against musical comedy.

Hackett is a native of Worcester, Mass., where he sang with the high school glee club, later becoming soloist in a Boston church. In 1911, he was singing in St. Thomas' Church, New York City, when he decided to go to Italy for study There he made his operatic debut.

Hackett has the distinction of being the first American tenor to sing at La Scala, Milan; the Constanzi, in Rome; the Grand Opera in Paris; the Liceo, in Barcelona, the Reale, in Madrid; the Colon, in Buenos Aires; the Municipal, in Rio de Janeiro, and the Monte Carlo Opera.

The tentative program follows:

CHARACTERS OF TODAY IN TONIGHT'S BIBLICAL DRAMA

William Ford Manley has written a different form of Biblical drama for broadcasting tonight in "Thou Faithful Servant" in which, for the first time in this series, the characters will not be Biblical, but people of the present day.

Manley has written a dramalogue from the parable of the talents. All of the preceding 30 or more Biblical dramas have had their characters taken from the Bible.

This feature may be tuned in at 9:15 tonight on WOC, WHO, WSAI, WGY, KVOO, WFAA or WEAF.

William Norris on Air Today.

William Norris of "King Dodo" fame a quarter of a century ago is to be featured in the Acousticon hour at 4:30 this afternoon. This program may be tuned in on WEBH, WOC, WHO, WOW, WDAF, KVOO, WMC or WSB. The program also includes music by an orchestra, which will play Sousa's "El Capitan," "La Paloma," Brahms' "Hungarian Dance No. 5" and selections from the "Three Twins" and "Babes in Toyland, as their contributions to the half hour, and two medleys of popular songs of 1903 by the Acousticon quartet.

HISTORY BROADCAST RESUMED OVER KSD

Gen. Grant Center of Episode to Be Dramatized—Other Program Changes.

SReveral changes affect features on KSD, radio station of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, this week.

Possibly the most important is the scheduling of Great Moments in History for the 7 to 7:30 period Monday evenings. This formerly was broadcast over KSD from New York, and is regarded as one of the finest of radio features.

This change, with ther Neo-Russian string quartet, the Ipana troubadours, the Goodrich zippers and the tabloid grand opera, makes Wednesday night one of the best of the week.

Grant's Idea Materializes.

Gen. Grant's capture of Fort Donaldson, at which he immortalized the phrase, "unconditional surrender," will be the basis of next Wednesday night's historical broadcast. Grant, in command of a supply depot in September, 1861, conceived the idea that the Confederate lines could be broken at Fort Henry and Fort Donaldson, 12 miles apart. He laid his plan before Gen. Halleck. Halleck curtly dismissed the suggestion. Later Grant related his plan to Commodore Foote, who wrote to Halleck, expressing confidence in Grant's plan. President Lincoln issued a peremptory order for an early movement and Grant was given permissio nto attack Fort Henry. With Foote's co-operation, this was captured Feb. 8, 1862. Grant then started for Fort Donaldson, but that had been reinforced and was repulsed.

Gen. Sherman sent reinforcements to Grant, who noticed that the Confederate forces came out of the fort with haversacks and rations. This convinced Grant that they were endeavoring to cut their way through and escape. After a fierce battle, the Confederate forces were driven back into the fort.

Curious Scenes.

The Confederate Army was in command of Gen. Floyd, Gen. Pillow and Gen. Buckner. Floyd, having been Secretary of War under President Buchanan, feared that if captured by the Union Army he would be put to death, so turned the command over to Pillow and escaped.

Pillow, likewise, feared death if captured and fled. So the command fell to Buckner, who had been a close friend of Grant. Buckner requested terms of Grant, who replied: "My terms are immediate and unconditional surrender."

Other Changes on KSD.

As is told elsewhere, there will be a chain concert on KSD today. from 5 to 6:20 o'clock.

From 1:30 to 2:30 Wednesday, KSD will broadcast from the Maine memorial celebration with addresses by Government officials and music by the Marine Band at Washington.

Next Saturday night, from 9 to 10 o'clock, immediately following the Philco Hour, KSD, will broadcast a program by the New York Chamber Music Society.

CONCERT FROM 5:00 TO 6:20 THIS EVENING THROUGH KSD

From 5 to 6:20 o'clock this evening KSD will broadcast a concert from the New York studios. The hour from 5 to 6 o'clock is to be occupied by a program played by an orchestra led by Cesare Sodero.

Ivan Ivantzoff, the Russian baritone, who has been singing the principal baritone roles in the Wednesday night tabloid grand operas, is to broadcast a recital from 6 to 6:20 o'clock, at which time the Capitol Family is scheduled for its weekly appearance on KSD.

All kinds of interference can be created by the neighbor who operates a single circuit regenerative receiver from an antenna strung parallel to the one next door.

Examine the ground connection if the set is inclined to oscillate or whistle.

ROSA RAISA SINGS ON KSD TOMORROW NIGHT

Chicago Opera Star to Be Soloist in General Motors Family Party.

Rosa Raisa, prima donna of the Chicago Opera Company, who will be the soloist on KSD in the Cadillac hour of the General Motors Family Party tomorrow evening, has a really glorious dramatic soprano voice. Born of wealthy parents in Ballystock, Poland, in 1893, Rosa Raisa passed through the tortures of persecution as her father's fortune became depleted and finally escaped, after bitter hardships, to Naples, where she arrived as a young girl with nothing but a loaf of stale bread, a bundle of ragged clothing and a voice.

Today she is one of the foremost sopranos of the concert and opera stage and occupies a distinctive position.

In Naples she abandoned the study of dentistry, which she had started with a cousin in Poland as her father's fortune waned, and fought her way to recognition as a singer. After singing in Milan, Rome and other Italian cities, she appeared at Covent Garden, London, and was instantly successful. Her voice attracted the attention of Campanini and he brought her to the United States.

The General Motors hour will have only two parts instead of three, as heretofore. The first part will bring a symphony orchestra with Roderic Graham as conductor and Mme. Raisa as soloist. The second part will feature a concert band under the leadership of Patrick Conway, with Raisa in a group of two numbers.

The entire program will be devoted to popular classics, ballads and light opera numbers.

Radio Service on KYW.

"Blessed Are the Meek" will be the topic of the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick in the National Religious Service broadcast at 4:30 this afternoon. This may be picked up on KYW.

To Keep Test Clips on Wire.

The wire soldered to test clips usually breaks off. This may be prevented by soldering a short piece of bus wire to the under side of the clip. The wire is then tightly wrapped with friction tape, which helps to keep the insulation from fraying and also provides a better grip.

Trade Notes

The Stone Electric Co. is moving across the street to new quarters at 713 Pine street, where it has 1000 more square feet of floor space for display of radio and electrical goods. A feature of the new store is to be a sound-proof demonstrating room where receivers and speakers may be compared for reception and tone quality. Another feature is a special repair and service department.

More varied radio lines, especially console models, will be carried, according to Joseph Shapiro and J. J. Stone, who are to give the store personal supervision.

The new quarters are to be open for business tomorrow.

The Shocker Radio and Electric Co., of which Urban J. Shocker, the noted pitcher, is president, held a formal business opening yesterday at its quarters in the building at 510 Washington avenue. The firm has been appointed St. Louis representative for Arborphone radio receivers. This set uses the Loftin-White circuit, which is highly praised by engineers. E. H. Hoshour is vice president of the firm and Roger C. Gerhart, secretary and treasurer.

Fifty dealers attended a meeting of the St. Louis Kolster Club Wednesday night at the Coronado Hotel. Eugene Strauss, head of the Strauss Co., told them what they might expect from Kolster his year. E. C. Lowden, district sales manager for the Burgess Battery Co., talked on battery uses, possibilities and sales methods. Ways to increase Kolster set sales were discussed by E. E. Bruns, Walter Rhein, C. Lurtz, V. Lutz and L. J. Portell.

Joseph Gallagher, D. D. Kneahan and John Hartman entertained with songs and music.

A new receiver — the Crosley Bandbox Junior — operates with small dry cells, so can be used anywhere under any conditions, even using the cells for making a door bell ring. It is said that with ordinary use a set of dry cells will last several months in this new set, which is a neutrodyne, with single tuning control, an intensifier to strengthen weak signals, and a power tube.

Being so small and light, the set will make a very practical portable for vacation or summer cottage use.

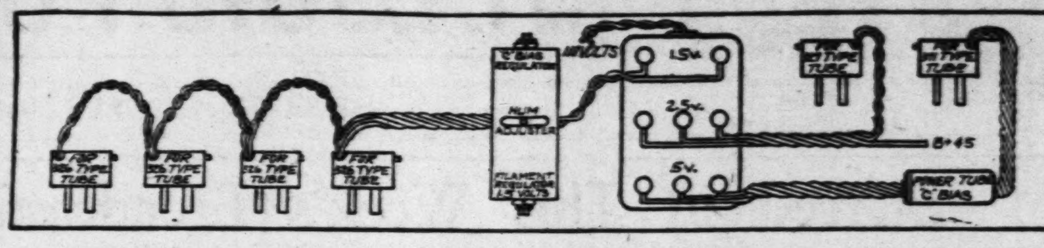
The G. W. Underhill Co. has been appointed factory representative for the new line of Wilcox receivers. These sets are in various types—for AC tubes, for AC operation or for batteries. Features are single dial control, coils covering a range from 175 to 550 meters, individual stage shielding with aluminum, new type audio transformers and built-in speakers in console models. Some of the types have speakers with eight-foot air columns. Selectivity is said to be pronounced.

A new power unit—the Sterling "Tri-Power"—supplies A, B and C voltages to six-volt battery sets, and converts them to use A C tubes. It is quickly connected to the set in place of the old batteries or battery eliminators; new A C tubes are inserted; and the receiver at once becomes an A C set, obtaining its power direct from a light socket.

The Tri-Power, with its general utility cable and adapters, is applicable to practically all popular makes of five, six and seven tube sets. "A" voltages supplied are for 171 or 112 power tubes, for 227 detector tubes, and 226 type tubes. The adapters contain removable grid resistors to prevent excessive oscillation.

B voltages supplied are universal for popular sets. Those for detector and medium stages are regulated by clarostats, and a primary voltage control adjusts all "B" voltages proportionately. No "C" voltage wires are used, as grid bias is taken care of inside the Tri-Power.

Makes Battery Set Into AC Tube Receiver



Adapter harness with which a battery operated receiver designed to use 201A tubes may be converted into one using AC tubes and taking its current from a lamp socket.

The device supplies the filament voltages and grid biases, without using the filament wiring of the set itself, and allows insertion of the AC tubes directly into the sockets by means of adapters to complete the grid and plate circuits.

The harness consists of a series of adapters that are inserted in the tube sockets of the radio set and into which, in turn, are inserted the AC tubes. They are attached to one another by the filament leads which are an integral part of the harness, and through which the alternating current is conducted, supplying the filament voltages of the AC tubes.

The harness also has the necessary resistances to create the required grid voltages or biases for the AC tubes as well as for whatever power tube or tubes are used, of the 112 or 171 type, either of which can be illuminated with alternating current.

An "AC-Former" supplies the necessary voltages for AC tubes in conjunction with the harness, direct from the light socket. It will operate eight 226 or 227 type AC tubes and two power tubes of the 112 or 171 types. No extra connections or center taps are required and it is said to be without hum.

These two units and a set of AC tubes are all that is necessary to convert any tuned radio frequency set into an AC receiver. The process of conversion is simply to remove the 201-A tubes, disconnect and discard the "A" supply, insert the adapters, into which in turn are inserted the AC tubes, connect all former C negative leads to A negative or C positive terminal, attach the harness to the "AC former" and plug into the light socket.

Minor adjustments are simple and need only be taken care of once.

The "B" eliminator or "B" power pack is left connected exactly as before.

The tuning of the set may be slightly altered, although the dials will log as accurately as before.

Volume should be greater because of the low impedance of the AC tube.

The adapter harness pictured is the Carter. It is designed to be used with a Karas AC former.

PUPILS 'LISTEN IN ON' DAMROSCH CONCERT

Receivers Placed in Most of St. Louis Public Schools for the Occasion.

The most elaborate demonstration of radio as an educational force ever made in St. Louis was that of Friday morning, when most of the pupils in the public schools "listened in on" Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra broadcasting a concert over KSD. It was regarded as an impressive object lesson in the possibilities when every school in the city shall have its permanent radio installation.

Friday's concert was one of the series that Damrosch and the orchestra are giving to show what can be done through broadcasting to supplement the work of the educator in awakening the children of the country to appreciation and liking for the finer music. The first was given in a recent Saturday night RCA hour on KSD and allied stations, and was primarily for educators. Friday's program was the second, and was designed for children in the grades. The third concert, to be given over the same stations next Friday morning, will be for high school pupils and college students.

How They "Listened In."

To enable the pupils to hear Friday morning's concert, the Radiola distributers in the city and representatives of the Radio Corporation of America placed receivers and power speakers in most of the public schools. It was stated that between 45 and 50 installations were made. Principals and teachers of the schools showed great interest, and requests for receivers kept the committee of distributers busy Thursday.

Listening in to the concert at the Franklin School, Nineteenth and Morgan streets, was typical of that at other schools. The children assembled in the auditorium to see a receiver and a speaker on the stage and hear Walter Damrosch's voice explaining, in the way that has become so familiar, the piece to be played and the reason why children, in particular, should find it not only beautiful, but also interesting because of its content and the ways in which the composer developed and embroidered his musical ideas.

Sometimes he played the themes on the piano, again he would have a violinist or a 'cellist or a group of woodwinds play a theme or a series of eloquent phrases. Then he would lead the orchestra in a stirring rendition of the music.

In this way he explained and the orchestra played, the overture to Rossini's opera, "Semiramide;" the Romanza from Schubert's Symphony No. 4 in D minor; Pierne's "Entrance of the Little Fauns;" the music descriptive of the flight of a bumble bee from Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera, "Tsar Saltan."

The third concert, to be given over the same stations next Friday morning, will be for high school pupils and college students.

How They "Listened In."

To enable the pupils to hear Friday morning's concert, the Radiola distributers in the city and representatives of the Radio Corporation of America placed receivers and power speakers in most of the public schools. It was stated that between 45 and 50 installations were made. Principals and teachers of the schools showed great interest, and requests for receivers kept the committee of distributers busy Thursday.

Listening in to the concert at the Franklin School, Nineteenth and Morgan streets, was typical of that at other schools. Sometimes he played the themes on the piano, again he would have a violinist or a 'cellist or a group of woodwinds play a theme or a series of eloquent phrases. Then he would lead the orchestra in a stirring rendition of the music.

In this way he explained and the orchestra played, the overture to Rossini's opera, "Semiramide;" the Romanza from Schubert's Symphony No. 4 in D minor; Pierne's "Entrance of the Little Fauns;" the music descriptive of the flight of a bumble bee from Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera, "Tsar Saltan," and Schubert's Military March.

Ambitious Project.

Eugene M. Hahnell, supervisor of music in the schools, who was at the Franklin School, spoke to the pupils briefly, telling them that the character of the music to be heard deserved as reverent attention, almost, as if one were in a church listening to religious music. He suggested that they listen in that spirit, let the music carry their thoughts where it would, then write what they saw and felt under its influence.

After the concert Hahnell said he thought Damrosch's idea had marvelous possibilities which should be developed.

During the concert the pupils took notes as a basis for essays and discussion in their classes in English and music.

Damrosch is giving this series of educational concerts through the co-operation of the National Broadcasting Co. and KSD and many of the other stations which take programs from its chains. He hopes through them to awaken a country-wide interest that will take practical shape in a means by which he can make radio a tremendous musical cultural force. The financing of so ambitious a project will depend, largely, on the reaction of educators to these three experimental broadcasts.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER JR. ON STATION KWK THIS EVENING

John D. Rockefeller Jr. is to speak during Collier's Hour on KWK this evening. He will discuss "Character in Business."

Another chain feature on KWK today is the Lenox String Quartet, which is to play Maurice Ravel's Allegro Moderato in F-flat, at 6:45 o'clock. Ravel is the composer of a spectacular ballet, "Daphnis and Chloe," and a charming little opera, "L'Heure Espagnole." His writing has at once a delicate charm, a subtle irony and often a little refined humor.

DALHART AND ROBISON SING IN EVEREADY HOUR

A program of "story songs," with Vernon Dalhart and Carson Robison as singers, composers and performers on the guitar, harmonica and jew's harp, will be broadcast in the Eveready Hour on KSD Tuesday evening.

Dalhart, when he joined forces with Robison, was already noted for his singing of American folk-songs. Robison brought writing talen. Together they have become widely known for their singing of the melodies by Robison and the "story songs" handed down by the pioneers of the mountains and valleys of the South and West.

A dash of the dolorous, a smattering of gayety, a hero, a heroine, and an engine wreck, and there is a typical Dalhart-Robison railroad roundelay.

Better known as the Kansas Jay Bird, Robison, besides being a composer, singer and musical artist, is a remarkable whistler.

Among the songs which Dalhart and Robison will sing will be "Nellie Dare and Charles Brooks," "The Jealous Lover of Lone Green Valley," "Billy Richardson's Last Ride," "Lay Down, Doggies," "The Chain Gang Song" and "The Governor's Pardon."

An unusual group of dialogues is to serve as an introduction to Dalhart and Robison at the beginning of each number.

Adeline Hood, violinist, will "fiddle" for the "story song" duo.

The Eveready Orchestra, with Nathaniel Shilkret as conductor, will play.

Radiograms.

A thief stole a fine radio set recently from H. C. Hanson of Evanston, Ill. Before leaving his home for the evening, Hanson turned on the receiver full blast to make burglars think people were in the house, but the stunt did not work.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

the NEW A·C·set

Model 37 The astonishing price of the new, six-tube, FULL-VISION Dial, self-contained A. C. set includes everything except tubes and a speaker. No power accessories required—no batteries, no charger. For use only with 110-115 volt, 60-cycle, Alternating Current. Uses six A. C. tubes, and one rectifying tube.

$88 without tubes

Model E
Radio Speaker, $24
Radio's truest voice. All parts protected against moisture. Comes in a variety of beautiful color combinations.

The best set
Atwater Kent ever made

FORGET that it costs only $88. Think only of what you've always wanted in a radio—power, selectivity, all-electric operation and Tone.

This new Model 37 has them all, and the tone is real—just the music as the artist plays it, just the natural sound of the human voice. Hundreds of experiments were made in the Atwater Kent laboratory before the tone problem was solved—but you'll say the result was worth the trouble.

The same intelligent engineering, developing many features which cannot be copied without infringing Atwater Kent patents, has also made this a selective set and given it true ONE Dial control. Note that it's a FULL-VISION Dial which permits glance reading and instant tuning.

When you come in, lift the lid of the astonishingly small cabinet in which all the essentials of a fine, high-powered set are tucked into little space. It's a revelation of exquisite workmanship—and of satisfaction that will last. The shielded cabinet excludes outside electrical interference. The built-in power supply is doubly shielded.

Model 37 has a satin, two-color finish in deep, rich brown and old gold or golden bronze and gold.

The price? Low because so many are sold. So low you can actually have two sets and place one in another part of the house, for the price you may have expected to pay for one! Come in and let the new Atwater Kent 37 tell its own story.

Effect of the Wave Trap.

The wave trap affects principally the reception of station on or near the wave length of the offending station to which it is tuned. It has little effect on stations differing by, say, 50 meters from the one to which it is tuned. There will be a slight difference in the setting of the antenna stage tuning condenser.

600 Mile Radio only

Works without any batteries 300,000 people already use them

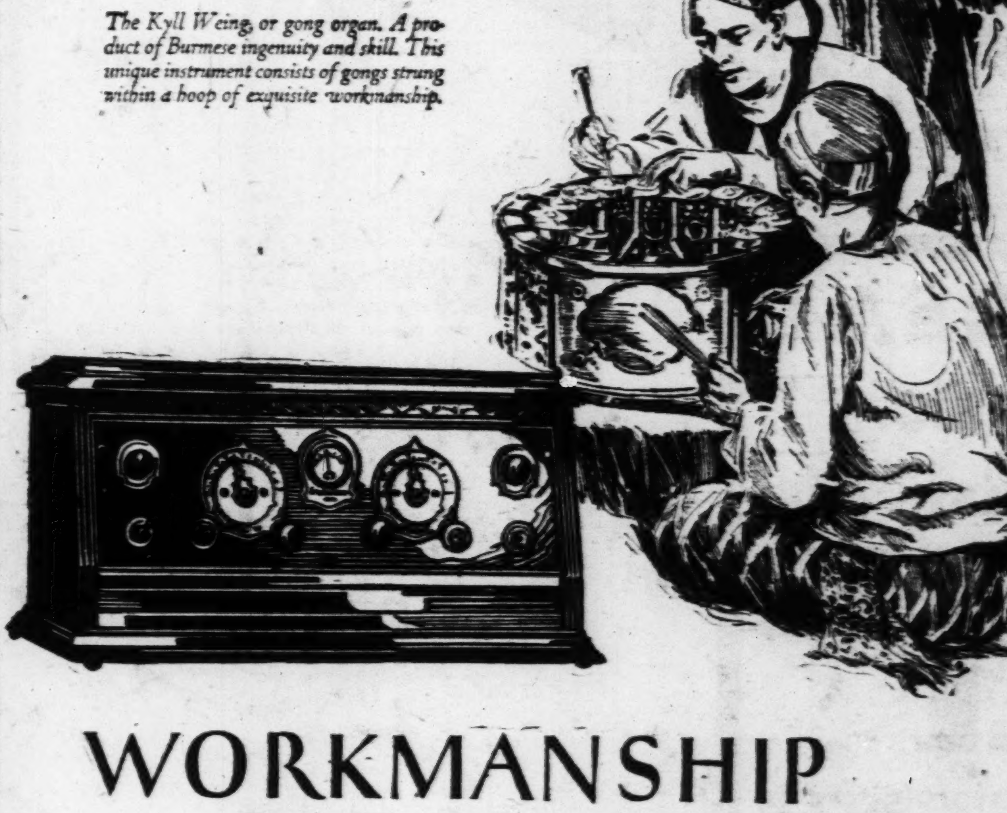
WOAI TAKES CHAIN FEATURE

WOAI, San Antonio, Tex., one of the oldest radio stations in the Southwest, joined the NBC chains on Monday, Feb. 6, with the first Fisk Hour program. WOAI, which is owned by the Southern Electrical Equipment Co., was licensed in October, 1922.

It is a 5000-watt transmitter, operating on 600 kilocycles (499.7 meters), and divides time with WBAP, Fort Worth, Tex.



The Kyll Weing, or gong organ. A product of Burmese ingenuity and skill. This unique instrument consists of gongs strung within a hoop of exquisite workmanship.

WORKMANSHIP Tells in TONE QUALITY

ONE touch of the control and you realize the exquisite workmanship of a Stromberg-Carlson. You sense such fineness of adjustment that you are not surprised at the glorious tone and the keen selectivity.

Workmanship does tell in a Receiver's performance. The even spacing and winding of the coils; the hairbreadth alignment of condensers; perfect shielding even of the wires between the shielded stages—illustrate what has been done to give Stromberg-Carlson its reputation for tonal excellence.

And, if you own a Stromberg-Carlson you will take pride in its external workmanship—the magnificent cabinetry—the panelling of inverse French marquetry—the fittings of enchased bronze, as well as the marvelous tone.

Your nearest Stromberg-Carlson dealer's address may be learned from his advertisements in your newspapers or in your telephone directory

No. 523 Stromberg-Carlson, illustrated above. Price with Audio-Power Unit and 8 R. C. A. Tubes—but not Cone Speaker . . . $295.00.

Every new Stromberg-Carlson has handy jack to facilitate playing phonograph records.

The Stromberg-Carlson hour, Tuesday Evenings at 8 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, through the NBC and associated stations: WJZ, WBZ-WBZA, KDKA, KYW, WJR, WBAL, KWK, WREN and WHAM.

NOTED NEGRO SINGERS IN ROXY'S SUNDAY STROLL

The Kentucky Jubilee Choir is to be featured in Roxy's Stroll at noon today. The choir is the most widely known group of Negro voices in the country. They were organized by Forbes Randolph, at one time a concert singer, who conceived the idea of a group of eight male voices, perfectly blended. Accordingly he had an audition in New York, offering to pay all expenses of entrants.

Altogether, he listened to over 500 voices, the cost of the auditions running to more than $10,000. He finally selected the eight voices whose quality would best blend into a combination. Each of the men is a trained soloist and several have appeared in concert and grand opera in this country and Europe.

INTERESTING MUSIC ON KYW AND WJZ AT 9:15 TONIGHT

Sousa's "El Capitan" march, with its stirring rhythm, will open the Don Amaizo program on WJZ and KYW at 9:15 tonight.

The prelude to act III of Wagner's opera "Lohengrin" will be played by the orchestra as the second number. This will be followed by music equally interesting, but of a different mood—the ghostly "Danse Macabre" by Saint-Saens.

Don Amaizo's solos will be Leybach's "Nocturne No. 5," and "Tejura" by Tejada.

An excerpt from Mendelssohn's "Italian Symphony" will be heard, also "Entry of the Gladiators" by Fucik; "Estrellita," Chinese music from "Flame of Love," by La Prade).

Corns Now Needless
Prove It Overnight!

Why keep "treating" corns, when the first drop of Freezone stops all sensation of pain, and a few drops soon end the corn!

The most painful corn, even one so sensitive to touch of stocking, can't throb ten seconds after Freezone comes in contact. All that's left to do, is lift the corn right off and it's gone. Isn't that better than surgery?

Feet that are "sights" from corns can grow back to normal, unblemished condition through the use of Freezone. Meantime, no pain—none at all—and no awkward pads or plasters to cause shoes to pinch and cultivate corns in other places.

The Freezone process is scientific and certain. The hardest corn that ever formed can't resist it—nor the soft corns between the toes where nothing has ever helped. A tiny bottle of Freezone copes with the worst condition of corns. Freezone has made it folly to have any corns at all, for any length of time.

For your own comfort, investigate Freezone. Every druggist has it, and the cost is a few cents!

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

SCHEDULE FOR SCOUT COURTS OF HONOR

Boys Seeking Advancement Must Appear Before Boards This Week.

St. Louis Boy Scouts who wish to advance to the first class rank, or who desire to be awarded merit badges in public health, personal health, first aid, camping and firemanship, at the Boy Scout Courts of Honor that will be held next month, must appear before a board of review in their district this week, to be examined as to their qualifications, according to local scout headquarters.

The boards of review are new organizations here, having been formed under a national Boy Scout ruling which went into effect Jan. 1.

Although one meeting of the boards of each of the four districts of the local council has been held last month these were more or less in the line of trials, as the bodies were not fully organized nor functioning to their full capacity. The meetings this week, therefore, will be the first at which the boards will operate at full efficiency.

Meetings will be held on different nights, starting with the South District tomorrow evening at the Rose Fanning School. The North District will assemble Tuesday evening at the Farragut School, the Suburban District Wednesday evening at the Webster Groves High School, and the West District Thursday at the Clark School. All meetings will begin at 7:30 o'clock. While scouts from a certain district are supposed to be examined by their own district board, if they are unable to attend their own meeting it is possible to receive permission to be reviewed in another district. Their applications, for examination, however, must be turned in beforehand at local headquarters, that they may be transferred to the desired district files.

The boards of review are not for the passing of the tests themselves, but for certification that the necessary tests have already been passed. Each scout appearing must present satisfactory evidence that he has done all the required work. In all cases, however, the scout is liable to be required to pass again any phase or point of a test or tests the reviewers may consider him weak in, or on the passing of which he has not furnished sufficient evidence. In most cases, however, and in merit badge work especially, where the candidate has been passed by an official examiner, the test will probably be certified without being repassed.

The certified applications will be turned in to the proper courts of honor, who will then award the badge.

The courts will be held the third week in March, beginning with the south district on March 19, and following in order on the twentieth, twenty-first and twenty-second.

SCOUTS ORDERED TO OBSERVE SWIMMING REGULATIONS

Too Many Attempt to Disregard Class Rules at Two School Pools.

Boy Scouts who attend the swimming classes at the Beaumont and Roosevelt pools must comply with all regulations hereafter, or permission for all scouts to use the pools may be revoked, local scout headquarters gave warning Friday. Too many scouts have been attempting to disregard the rules, it was said.

Hereafter all beginners, or scouts just learning to swim, must obtain a permit from Boy Scout headquarters, 505 Chemical Building, entitling them to swimming instructions. This permit must be presented at the pool in order to gain admission.

Scouts desiring to pass the first-class swimming requirement must present their registration cards, showing them to be second-class scouts in good standing, at the door when they enter the pool. The cards will be collected and returned when the scout leaves.

Scouts wishing to receive instruction toward their swimming or life-saving merit badges must also present their registration cards, showing them to be first-class scouts in good standing, and in addition must present a merit badge application properly filled in.

SCOUT MERIT BADGE PROGRAM TO BE EXPLAINED BY RADIO

Series of Talks, One Each Monday Evening, to Be Made Over KMOX.

A new feature in Boy Scout activities will be in troduced at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow evening with the radio broadcasting over KMOX of the first of a series of talks on the merit badge program of scoutings. The talks, on each Monday evening for an indefinite period, will explain the merit badge purpose, requirements necessary to win badges and how to get necessary information before contesting for an award.

The talk tomorrow will be introduction, Frank V. Hammer, chairman of the St. Louis Boy Scout City Court of Honor, discussing the merit badge program as a whole. Individual badges will be then taken up, beginning next week, when Arthur W. Lambert, midwest archery champion, will discuss the archery merit badge. Lambert is official archery merit badge examiner in St. Louis.

The other badges will be discussed by official examiners or men engaged in hte profession or trade represented by each badge.

Troop Notes

South District.

Troop 105, newly organized at the Church of the Assumption, 905 Sidney, has a membership of 23 boys who have all completed their tenderfoot tests. The scoutmaster is John A. Reinhart and the Troop Committee is composed of the following men: Joseph A. Schweikert, the Rev. W. L. Shea, William J. Leysna Jr., L. J. Boyer and Linzy Boyer. The troop meets on Wednesday night at the Assumption Hall.

Troop 244, meeting at the Kennard School, re-registered last week with an enrollment of 18 scouts. Dr. Carl F. Vohs, scoutmaster, signed again for the coming year. The following are serving on the Troop Committee: M. O. Krieger, A. F. Simon, B. H. Lueker, Edward J. Swarthert and David Goldberg.

Troop 77 of the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church took charge of the church services Sunday evening. The scouts from the troop acted as ushers and also took up the collection. Members of Troop 74 from the Sherman School and Troop 109 from the Missouri School for the Blind were present as guests. Field Executive Shippey and Scoutmaster Hoke spoke, and the Rev. Mr. Bushman, pastor, gave a scout sermon.

Troop 8 of the Buder School has a new sponsor, the Southampton Development and Improvement Association voting to support the troop. A new troop committee will be appointed.

Private C. W. Schulz of the Twelfth Airship Squadron, Scott Field, visited Troop 160 Monday. He told the scouts of life at Scott Field and answered questions concerning lighter-than-air craft. The entire troop will attend a special Scout service at the Immanuel Methodist Episcopal Church this morning at 1 o'clock. The troop is endeavoring to organize a drum and bugle corps and has secured the help of an instructor. L. Hill has been appointed assistant scoutmaster.

Troop 143, meeting at the Hancock School, held an officers' meeting at the home of Assistant Scoutmaster Jones, Wednesday evening. Scoutmaster Doerr explained the duties of the new officers and also the systems of patrols they are to use. The patrol leaders selected their new patrols. The troop will hold its first annual feed tomorrow night with the troop committeemen as their guests.

The Fox Patrol of Troop 214, Fremont school, took charge of the meeting last week. One of the members of the troop committee was present and spoke Boy Scout Week. Three games were played, the Fox Patrol winning two of them. The closing ceremony was held by the Rattlesnake patrol.

Troop 57, sponsored by the Joseph Fournier Post, No. 3, American Legion, put on a Scout demonstration for the American Legion Post last week. An investiture ceremony was held for three new tenderfoot scouts, Leo Schneider, John Darr and Woodrow Gilman, and for three second-class scouts, Russell Bishop, Ambrose Werz and Charles Duncan. The boys are planning to enter the "Circus" and are going to have a large number of 12-year-old recruits to be invested.

Troop 107, meeting at the Ebenezer Evangelical Church, 2921 McNair, is to hold a Scout service this morning at 10:45 o'clock. A special section of the church has been reserved for the troop, the scouts marching into the church in a body. An American flag will be presented to the troop, and the Rev. Mr. Haas will preach a scout sermon. Assistant Field Executive Laemmli will also attend the services. At the last meeting William Ruedlinger was invested as a tenderfoot scout, and Delmont Ziegler of the Hound Patrol was made a second class scout. The Wolf Patrol won the inter-patrol contest for January. Troop 107 was invited last week by Troop 157 of the Advent United Lutheran Church to hear Hermann Schwar speak on "Nature Study" while pictures pertaining to his lecture were shown. The Wolf Patrol met last week and selected their patrol project. They also selected a game to be played at the next troop meeting.

West District.

The St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, corner of Kingshighway and Washington boulevards, is holding a special scout service tonight for all Protestant scouts. Troops will assemble at some convenient place, preferably their troop headquarters, and go to Kingshighway and Washington in a body. Space has been reserved for each troop in the west district. The Rev. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of the church, will deliver the address for the occasion.

The West District board of review will hold a session at the Clark School, Union boulevard and Cates avenue Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. Boys making application for badges in first aid, personal health, public health, firemanship and camping will be reviewed. All scouts who expect to be awarded first-class rank at the next Court of Honor will appear before this board of review.

The following West District troops are due to reregister in February: Troop 9 of the Sutter Avenue Presbyterian Church; Troop 14 of the Church of Ascension; Troop 26 of the Delmar Baptist Church; Troop 35 of the Cabanne Methodist Church; Troop 45 of the Pilgrim A. M. E. Church; Troop 60 of the Union Avenue Christian Church; Troop 110 of the All Saints Catholic Church; Troop 113 of the Church of the Messiah; Troop 134 of the Central Presbyterian Church; Troop 246 of the B'Nai Ammona Congregation, Kingsland 1 of the Kingsland Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The Principia School at Page and Etzel has made application for a charter for a troop of Boy Scouts. This application contains a list of 30 boys, 12 of wrom have had scouting in other troops in and out of St. Louis. The Troop Committee is to consist of Maj. G. E. Hubbell, chairman and Committeemen Blackwell, Oakes, Morgan and Morey. Lieut. G. B. Happ has been selected scoutmaster of the troop and Joseph W. Towle Jr., assistant scoutmaster. Plans are under way for a troop installation service Friday night.

Troop 96 of the Liberty Congregational Church, 3812 Finney avenue, is holding a special Scout service this morning at 11:30 o'clock, when the newly organized troop in that church is to be installed. The members of the troop are to put on demonstrations of tenderfoot and second-class work. Field Executive Reaves will make a talk commemorating the eighteenth anniversary of scouting.

Members of Troop 14, of the Church of Ascension, were surprised at their meeting last Thursday night by the members of their Troop Committee giving them a feed. At the close of the meeting Committeemen Mead and Steiff entered the troop headquarters with sandwiches, cocoa and cookies.

Troop 94 of the St. Barbara's Church received holy communion in a body at the 8:15 o'clock mass on the fifth Sunday of January. This is the rule of the troop for the fifth Sunday each month. Troop 94 now has 41 scouts, two new members having been admitted at the last meeting.

Troop 101, meeting at the West Park Baptist Church, initiated the 1928 hiking season last Sunday by going on a 20-mile hike. Although the weather was threatening, the spirits of the 21 scouts attending were at high tide throughout the day. Field Executive S. C. Reaves met with the Troop Committee Monday night and plans were discussed. The organization was perfected with Committeeman Stephens, chairman; Gatheman, thrift member; Miller, educational member; Baxter, outdoor member, and McBride, advisor.

Troop 59, meeting at the Eden Immanuel Evangelical Brotherhood, did a good turn by ushering at a play given by the church last week. Scouts Eugene Rueweler, Elmer Hagemeyer, Jack Casey and Bert Ochterbeck delivered circulars to several West district troops, advertising a scout band concert, last Friday. Feb. 17 the West District scout band, directed by H. E. Olson of Soldan High School, will give a concert at the Eden Immanuel Church. The drum and bugle corps of Troop 71 also will take part. All scouts, parents and friends are invited. The drum and bugle corps of Troop 59 is going to take part in the coming circus.

Troop 75, meeting at the Washington School, accompanied Scoutmaster White and Assistant Scoutmaster Jones on an all-day hike last Sunday. The troop put on a tenderfoot investiture ceremony before an audience of parents at the last meeting. Scouts Tom Osborne, Jack Ward and Floyd Huntsman were awarded prizes in a competitive drill in which the whole troop engaged.

Assistant Scoutmaster Jerry Steiner of Troop 54 returned from Illinois University for the troop meeting last week. He had charge of the meeting. The Flying Eagle patrol won in inspection. There was a short patrol meeting in which the patrols prepared for a stunt which they will give at the next meeting. Scoutmaster Goldman told the scouts a story and explained the plans for a play. The patrol that puts in the most details will win. A hike was held to Valley Park recently, about 20 miles being covered by the scouts.

The orchestra of Troop 3 of the Pilgrim Congregational Church broadcast over KWK last Wednesday evening and as a result received many words of commendation. Senior Patrol Leader Murray Cabell played the bugle for the scout entertainment over KMOX last Wednesday night, and Scout Winfield Homer played the piano.

Scout Robert Veitch of Troop 5 received the bookbinding merit badge, and Scout William Stephens received the woodcarving badge at the recent West District Court of Honor. In conjunction with the patrol contest already started, Assistant Scoutmaster Miller has started a birdhouse contest. Each patrol is to make two birdhouses to be completed by Feb. 24. First, second and third class prizes will be given and the houses will be put up in the park. The Hawk Patrol had a patrol meeting Wednesday evening at the church and passed several tests.

NORTH DISTRICT.

Troop 3, meeting at the Grace Holy Cross Church, listened to the Scout program broadcast from Station KMOX last Wednesday night and renewed their pledge with President Howard. They sent Holy Cross Church a bouquet today, which is Scout Sunday. The church plans a father and son banquet next Friday night, with the troop taking part in the program.

New officers were elected by Troop 148 last meeting as follows: Scout Maurice Fackerell, senior patrol leader; Scout Eugene Graubner, bugler; Scout Edward Renkel, scribe, and Scout John Jennings, reporter. Assistant Scoutmatesr Curti sis giving instructions on first aid to the boys for the circus. As today is Scout Sunday, the troop plans to attend the services at Hyde Park Church in a body. The minister will talk on scouting.

Troop 206 of the Ames School had two visitors, A. G. Wollmershauser and Albert Cherry at their Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrup, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the valuable properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real healing power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"She's a Septic!"

Many women want to be, deserve to be, and could be far more popular than is their lot. Doctors know why. So do nurses. They call such cases septics.

To remedy obnoxious body orders and bad breath, you must recognize their cause. The trouble is deep-seated. Frankly, in the colon. Semi-constipation makes millions of systems septic. There may be a daily movement, but all the waste is not eliminated. The matter that remains poisons the blood, and permeates the perspiration. It taints the breath. Nature is signaling her need of a little calcium.

Calcium works wonders in one's appearance, too. With the inner system sweet and clean, the complexion clears most marvelously. Eyes brighten. Teeth whiten. The tongue is no longer coated, even on arising. And you never need take another harsh cathartic.

Perhaps you are septic, and don't know it. Try a tiny bit of calcium, and see! It may make all the difference in the world. Leave harsh, habit-forming cathartics alone. You never need them if you take an occasional calcium tablet.

Free! A supply sufficient to make the famous five-day test, in handy pocket box, sent complimentary if you clip coupon below! Or, get the 10-cent pocket tin today of any druggist; or family size for 60 cents.

Rheumatism now treated a new way. Results amazing
Stops pain by removing the cause. No rubbing. No opiates. No distasteful drugs, or dieting.

Reports on the new treatment for Rheumatism fully confirm its great record abroad, where for many years it has been celebrated. The following letter is reproduced because it is typical of the results obtained in more than a thousand cases that have now been treated in this and neighboring localities.

"I had been a sufferer from Rheumatism for many years, and had tried every remedy I had heard of, but without obtaining relief. So, when a friend told me about your new treatment called Rugenal I was not interested, having just about decided to go to a sanitarium. But my friend would not take No. He bought a bottle of Rugenal and simply made me take the treatment I had very little faith even then for I took only a few drops., and in a very large glass of water. The results the following day were nothing short of amazing. The second day I was entirely free of pain and was up and around. For many months now I have not had the slightest trace of pain. You are free to publish this letter, as I shall be glad to tell anyone my experience.
(Signed) BEN J. SWARTZBERG,
4234 Prospect Av., Kansas City, Mo.

American rights to the new treatment have been secured under the name of RUGENAL. Rugenal is a 3 day treatment; not just a Rheumatism medicine. Many have exactly Mr. Swartzberg's experience with mere medicine. Rugenal is different. It is taken only a few drops at a time in a large glass of drinking water. Hence there is no disturbance of the natural health processes of the body. The Rugenal treatment works in full harmony with Nature's constant effort to restore health. A method today urged by the best medical thought.

Rugenal may now be obtained from your regular druggist, or any Wolff-Wilson or Walgreen drug store. And direct by mail from Rugenal Corporation, 871 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

last meeting. Eagle Patrol had charge of the opening and closing ceremonies. Wollmershauser presented second class pins to second class scouts Tyler and Morse. The troop will attend the Greely Church on St. Louis avenue at 10:15 o'clock this morning with Scoutmaster Herzog.

Troop 161, meeting at the Webster School, reregistered last week with 26 scouts. Arthur C. Kripplaben has signed as scoutmaster and Charles W. Collins as assistant scoutmaster. The following men are members of the troop committee: Chairman, A. B. Lawver; W. E. Wenrick, John Brandt, Charles W. Collins and Charles G. Norman. At the last meeting, Assistant Scoutmaster Collins questioned Scouts Phillip Hamm, Robert Hawthorne, Irvin Weisman, and Harold Seabourn on first class first aid.

Troop 42, meeting at Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church last Thursday night. The Wolves had a full patrol and Scout Norman Stockho was chosen officer of the day. Scouts Stockho, Mittendorf, Miller and Lawson made the highest scores in the hurdle contest. Several songs were sung and Scoutmaster Muldner gave a talk about the Scout Circus. The scouts decided to enter the firemanship event. Nine scouts enrolled for the scout harmonica band. Committeeman W. Obermeyer gave a short talk on recruiting. A new csout, Pete Rau, has joined the Wolf Patrol.

Troop 191, meeting at St. Stephen's Evangelical Church, is planning a surprise party for parents on the night of April 13. Scoutmaster Luer and Troop Committeeman Schwetye are in charge of plans. Flying Eagle Patron won highest honors at the last meeting for the best good turns and in inspection. A contest has been started by all patrols in signaling, knot tying, first aid and good turns. The contest will end Feb. 17. The troop plans to attend St Stephen's Evangelical Church this morning in a body, as a special service will be given for Scout Sunday. As a good turn, clothing and canned goods were gathered by the scouts and presented to the Caroline Mission. An all-day hike is being planned for Feb .13, when the main feature will be test passing.

Troop 205, meeting at the Bates School, held a reorganization session last week. Gene Dohrendorf, the new scoutmaster, formerly was deputy commissioner of a region in Walnut. The assistant scoutmaster is K. Menefee. Scout Berlen Usher is scribe and junior assistant scoutmaster. A former scoutmaster, Al Dubach, is chairman of the Troop Committee. Field Executive Hotchkiss was present at the last meeting, as were seven new scouts.

Are YOU Nervous, Run-Down, Weak, Tired Out?

How to Relieve Stomach Troubles That Are Common Cause of This Condition

TO HAVE plenty of "pep" and ambition, and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year-old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it.

If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac after meals.

This good old reliable medicine has a wonderful record. Thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope, have been restored to buoyant, youthful health and vigor by Tanlac. Gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, constipation, nausea, headaches and dizziness—all these conditions have been improved in thousands and thousands of cases by a faithful use of Tanlac.

Heal Yourself With Nature's Own Vegetable Medicines

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots—nature's own medicines for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Be sure to get T-A-N-L-A-C—your money back if it doesn't help you.

Tanlac Has Helped Thousands of Other Sufferers

Mrs. Grace Jackson of 135 East 20th St., Chattanooga, Tenn.: "My stomach was so bad my weight went down to 72 lbs. and we had spent all my husband made for special treatments. After several bottles of Tanlac I could eat heartily, and now enjoy work or play like other folks."

Mr. W. M. Ashby of 1147 S. 18th St., Louisville, Ky.: "I was so run down from stomach and liver trouble that I lost 25 lbs. in five months. Tanlac brought me so much relief that I digested every kind of food, gained more than I'd lost and felt strong and alert."

Mrs. Millie E. Roby of 2702 Guyan Av., Huntington, W. Va.: "My blood was in bad condition, my stomach weakened and nerves unstrung. Tanlac changed me into a different woman entirely. It banished every sign of rheumatism; and I've seldom had any indigestion or any trouble with constipation since taking it."

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 11. —Minneapolis, half the size of St. Louis, has worked out a solution of the problem which is the bane of all cities—the clogging of the court docket through the increase of motor traffic violations—by the establishment of a traffic violations bureau in the form of a cash register system.

The system—Minneapolis calls it her cash register traffic court, has been in operation since 1925, has reduced traffic violations, according to Traffic Judge Levi M. Hall, has kept the regular traffic court docket clear, and last year put $180,000 in the city treasury.

While only $21,331 of this sum was rung up on the cash register court, city officials assert that a big percentage of the $180,000 can be attributed to the traffic violations bureau, as second and third offenders, according to the severity of the traffic violation, must go into the regular traffic court.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 11.—Minneapolis, half the size of St. Louis, has worked out a solution of the problem which is the bane of all cities—the clogging of the court docket through the increase of motor traffic violations—by the establishment of a traffic violations bureau in the form of a cash register system.

The system—Minneapolis calls it her cash register traffic court, has been in operation since 1925, has reduced traffic violations, according to Traffic Judge Levi M. Hall, has kept the regular traffic court docket clear, and last year put $180,000 in the city treasury.

Fixed Schedule of Fines.

The cash register court has a fixed schedule of fines, according to the violation.

Traffic violations handled by the cash register court are divided in three groups. The first group consists of minor violations such as failing to keep the license plates clean, parking without lights and overstaying the parking limit. The fine for the first violation is $1. For a second offense the motorist must pay $3 and $5 for the third. For subsequent offenses he must go to the regular traffic court.

In group two is listed such offenses as violating rules of the road, signaling to other drivers, operation of motor trucks and the size and weight of motor vehicles. First offenders of this group must pay a $5 fine, which is doubled if he is arrested a second time. Further violations require his presence bfore the judge.

In the third group are listed such offenses as failing to obey traffic signals. The fine for the first offense is fixed at $10. For a second violation the motorist must go into the regular traffic court. Speeding and more serious charges go direct to the Judge.

Police Sergeant Presides.

The cash register court is presided over by a Sergeant of the police traffic squad, assisted by a woman clerk, who keeps a record of all tags issued by the police, and when the traffic violator appears a check is made to see whether it is his first offense.

Minneapolis motorists who have been tagged and summoned before the Cash Register Court apparently like the working of the new system. The percentage of cases taken from this bureau to the reg-

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation if you write to me. Eugene M. Pullen, carpenter, 771-A Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of the rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

F. C. HAHN DIES; WITH ONE BANK 47 YEARS

Funeral services for Frederick C. Hahn, vice president of the Tower Grove Bank, who died at his home, 3710 Utah place, Friday night, will be held from the family residence under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge, at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in the New St. Marcus Cemetery.

Mr. Hahn, who was 66 years old and whose banking career extended over a period of 48 years, had been confined to his home for about 10 days suffering from heart trouble, but his condition was not considered critical. His death followed two minutes after a sudden relapse. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Amelia Lepold Hahn; a son, Walter H., a daughter, Miss Emma D. Hahn, and a sister, Mrs. Alex Siegmund.

A native of St. Louis, Mr. Hahn began his business career with the Lafayette South Side Bank and remained with that depository for 47 years, rising through various positions from clerk to vice president. Last March he became vice president of the Tower Grove Bank.

HAT FIRMS OBSERVE MERGER

Salesmen of Chicago Company Entertained in St. Louis.

The merger of the Harris-Polk Hat Co., of 1221 Washington avenue and Keith Bros & Co., of Chicago, which became effective Jan. 1, was celebrated last week with a two-day convention of the salesmen of the two houses.

Harris-Polk salesmen entertained the salesmen of Keith Bros. & Co. at a luncheon at the City Club Friday. That evening a dinner meeting was held at the Missouri Athletic Association where advertising plans for 1928 were presented. J. W. Harris, president, and W. Julius Polk, vice president, of Harris-Polk Hat Co., and B. E. Chappelow, president, Daniel A. Ruebel and Norman Lewis, vice presidents, of the Chappelow Advertising Co., made the principal talks.

SPECIAL TRAFFIC BUREAU SUCCESS IN MINNEAPOLIS

ular Traffic Court is negligible—from 1 to 2 per cent.

The Court innovation is a time saver. The tagged motorist does not have to go to court and wait until his name is called from the court docket. It is not even necessary for him to appear in court. He takes or sends his tag to the Traffic Violations Bureau, it is checked by the woman clerk and he pays the fine. That is all there is to it, unless he is a continued violator.

Reduces "Fixing" Practice.

Minneapolis officials, in praising the cash register system, admit that it has not entirely eliminated the practice of "fixing," but has reduced it to the point where only the Mayor of Chief of Police can dispose of a tag.

"Tag fixing" had become such a nuisance that Traffic Judge Hall and city and police officials met in 1925 and decided to establish the cash register court. The innovation made so great an appeal to the City Council that no one even raised a question that the court should be established by a city ordinance.

Until the court became operative almost anyone could get his tag "fixed" if he knew a friendly policeman, city official or a politician who was friendly to the administration. All he had to do was to turn his tag over to the "fixer," who went to the traffic bureau and had the duplicate there torn up. Then there was no record of the tag.

New Tag System Soon.

Under a new tag system soon to go into effect tag fixing is expected to be entirely eliminated. Tags are to be issued by serial numbers and the City Comptroller is to keep an account of the disposition of every tag issued by the Police Department and all persons must pay the penalties prescribed unless the Judge of the Traffic Court rules otherwise.

Traffic Judge Hall, the "father" of the cash register system, says that since the plan has been in operation the number of traffic violations have decreased yearly and that the system is partly responsible for it.

"When motorists know that apprehension for a violation means a certain fine they are inclined to be more careful," said Judge Hall.

Mayor Leach thinks the cash register is a good one, "because it facilitates the handling of traffic violation cases and impresses the public that it has certain fines staring it in the face for traffic violations."

Indorsed by Police Chief.

Chief of Police Brunskill is of the opinion that the plan has prevented the regular Traffic Court calendar from getting clogged and speeds up the handling of cases involving minor infractions.

As all fines for traffic violations go into the city general fund and because of the large revenue from that source the Minneapolis City Council has been liberal in making appropriations for the installation of more automatic safety signs at dangerous intersections. Minneapolis is spending $40,000 alone for new signals this year.

The motorist in Minneapolis may be "paying the freight" through the traffic violation bureau for these improvements but he is making the streets safer for himself and pedestrians, and safety always pays.

SIX BIG PLANTS

ON SIX BIG HILLSIDES . .

Sixty years ago a single-story workshop; today Six Big Plants, all in active production. These Showers plants are fully equipped and manned. Designers, craftsmen and machinery are all keyed to one idea of a greater nation-wide furniture service—making furniture for the Great American Home—making beautiful furniture for the homes of modest means.

* *

To make furniture with no waste in the making—no plan or idea has been overlooked to achieve the acme of economical production. Even the Six Big Showers Plants have been built on gently sloping hillsides so that all raw material enters the top floor of each factory building, eliminating the power expense of hoisting thousands of feet of lumber.

* *

Each of the Six Big Plants is operated according to a specially devised "block" system. Units of furniture are retained in one "block" until all operations assigned to that particular department are completed—then these units travel to the next "block" by conveyers—really a track of ball-bearing rollers.

To make furniture with no waste in manufacturing—make it strong—make it beautiful—is the sum-up of the Showers policy. We choose to mark our Sixtieth Anniversary with the beginning of this new and greater plan—a nation-wide service of furnishing the Great American Home—putting within the reach of modest incomes furniture that is beautiful—that is well-constructed—that is sold at a fair price, each dollar of cost representing a dollar's worth of real value to the buyer.

Constant improvements in design assure you that Showers furniture is correct in style—beautiful to look upon—a credit to your home. The best materials and methods of production assure you that Showers furniture is worthy of long years of usage. And you will be surprised and greatly pleased with the soft, glowing finishes. Any piece of Showers furniture will enrichen your home—will add to the happiness of living.

* *

Now you can see these beautiful kitchen cabinets, bedroom and dining-room suites at your merchant's store, for this month marks the dawn of a new era. The Showers Company makes furniture that is sold at a fair price, each dollar of cost representing a dollar's worth of real value to the buyer.

* *

Thousands of dealers saw the Showers Brothers furniture last month at the American Furniture Mart in Chicago. Ask your dealer to show you the beautiful Showers bedroom and dining-room furniture and kitchen cabinets that he bought during this market, each piece bearing the above trade-mark. If your dealer has not been supplied, write us—the Showers Brothers Company, Bloomington, Indiana.

ELECTRICIANS' BOSS BARRED FROM BUILDING

E. A. Koeneman Ordered by Union to Keep Away From Missouri Pacific Job.

E. A. Koeneman is president of the E. A. Koeneman Electric Co., 1420 Pine street, holders of the $35,000 contract for electrical installation on the new $3,000,000 Missouri Pacific Building at Thirteenth and Olive streets, but he is not allowed in the building.

He received the order to stay out from officers of Electrical Workers Union No. 1 after some of his union employes reported they were receiving conflicting orders from Koeneman and his foreman.

Koeneman was called before the union's executive board and told that his presence on the Missouri Pacific job was not desired and that orders henceforth would have to come through subordinates. It is understood the suggestion was left with Koeneman that his appearance in the building would be followed by a disappearance of union electricians from the place.

So far Koeneman has seen fit to abide by the order exiling him from his big job. He declined to enter a public protest against the action, stating, however, that a "peculiar situation" existed between him and his employes on the Missouri Pacific Building and that to discuss the case would be "risky." Union leaders also declined to discuss it for publication, stating that no strike is contemplated and that every effort is being made to complete the job quickly and according to contract.

The position of "exiled boss" is unique in the construction history of St. Louis. Persons familiar with the industry declared that in their recollection Koeneman is the first to occupy such a position.

SPECIAL LUTHERAN SERVICES ALL WEEK AT HOPE CHURCH

Subjects Range From Companionate Marriage to Teachings on Revivals.

SONS OF THE REVOLUTION PLAN PATRIOTIC SERVICE

Members of St. Louis Chapter to Attend Kingshighway Presbyterian Church Next Sunday.

The annual patriotic service of the St. Louis Chapter, Sons of the Revolution, will be held next Sunday morning at Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, corner of Cabanne avenue. The members of the chapter, and of other patriotic societies, will march into the church in a body. The Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe, pastor, will preach the sermon.

On the following Wednesday night, Washington's birthday, the annual banquet will be held at the Congress Hotel. Arrangements for this dinner and for the church service are in the hands of former Judge Albert D. Nortoni, president of the St. Louis chapter, and other officers.

WOMAN'S DEATH UNEXPLAINED

Due to Internal Injuries Received in Unknown Manner.

A Coroner's jury decided yesterday that Miss Nellie Hart, 45 years old, 3152½ Easton avenue, who was found dead in a neighbor's room Thursday, died of an internal injury received in an unknown manner.

There was testimony that Miss Hart fell down a flight of stairs a week ago, and that a man friend had blackened one of her eyes in a quarrel.

HELD FOR KILLING HIS WIFE

H. C. Daugherty Denied Bond After Coroner's Inquest.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide was returned yesterday against Hugh Clifford Daugherty, a stationary engineer, who shot his wife, Lillian, in a quarrel over a male boarder at their home, 3425 Klocke street, Nov. 10. She died Thursday. He was held without bond.

On advice of counsel, he did not testify at the inquest, but previously he had said his revolver was accidentally discharged when his wife rushed at him.

Story Tellers to Meet.

Mrs. R. G. Ashford of Memphis, Tenn., organizer and president of the Story Tellers' League of that city, will be the guest of honor at a meeting of the St. Louis Chapter at the Cabanne Library at 8 p. m. Thursday. Stories will be told by Mrs. Ashford and by Miss Martha Bonner, Miss Elizabeth Hall, Miss Idaree Hopkins and Miss Flora Duncan.

8-STORY PYTHIAN BUILDING ABOUT TO BE ERECTED

Lodge Quarters Would Occupy Three Top Floors, Lower Five for Garage at Grand and Delmar.

OUTLOOK GOOD IN DOWNTOWN AREA

Prospects Include Conversion of Victoria Building to Hotel and Finding Site for Theater Group.

By BERRY MOORE.

Bids are being taken for an eight-story building with the first five stories devoted to garage space and the upper three stories lodge quarters, together with a two-story building, both to be erected on a lot 150 feet square at the northwest corner of Grand and Delmar boulevards, by the Knights of Pythias. Plans are being perfected by Trueblood & Graf, architects, for the project, which will take the place of a 15-story office building with lodge quarters in the upper stories, originally announced by the Pythians for this site.

The eight-story building for the garage and lodge room will occupy the north half of the lot with a frontage of 75 feet on Grand. The two-story building, which will contain stores and offices, will stand on the south half of the lot, with a frontage on Delmar of 150 feet and on Grand of 75 feet. Complete details of the project are not available. Foundations will be constructed for a 20-story monumental office and temple building, which ultimately is to grace the site.

Declined Profit of $100,000.

The site was purchased by the Knights of Pythias in 1925, when plans for the original building were disclosed. Immediately following acquisition of the site a fund campaign to finance the building was launched at a banquet at Hotel Statler. High construction cost, however, halted the project.

Noteworthy as showing their wisdom in deciding on this location, the Pythians, according to realty circles, have declined a profit of $100,000 for the lot, which is regarded as one of the choicest locations in the city for the proposed building.

Renewed speculative interest has been aroused in this part of Grand boulevard with the construction of the new Fox Theater, which is now well under way at Grand and Washington boulevard, and which will have a seating capacity of 5000. This building, which will be only seven stories in height for the present, is being constructed with provision for eventually extending its height to 20 stories or more.

Record Year Expected.

While announcement of only minor interest were forthcoming during the week from the downtown section of the real estate market, a significant number of operations of more than ordinary importance were in negotiation. These included a diversified array of building plans as well as large speculative ventures, which, in two instances, have been closed by earnest money contracts, it is understood.

The real estate fraternity, accordingly, is rather optimistic regarding the outlook in the downtown area, in which a year of record performances, both east and west of Twelfth boulevard, is expected.

Sites are being submitted galore for a theater for the merged Keith-Orpheum-Albee interests, which are said to be available as a lessee for a building in St. Louis, wit ha seating capacity of 4000 or 5000. Washington avenue, Locust and Pine streets are challenging attention alike in this connection.

The most ambitious idea advanced contemplates a building extending from Locust to Olive street in the block west of Eleventh street. The Town Club, a comparatively new structure, would be the chief obstacle, it was observed, in this instance. As yet negotiations in this connection have not been launched, the status of the project still being in the form of a suggestion.

Negotiations virtually have been concluded for the acquisition of the 99-year lease of the Victoria Building, which it is proposed to convert into a hotel. The agents in the acquisition of the lease which would give virtual control of the property, are Denby & Steinbaum, presumably representing Harry Sardini, who operates the Maryland Hotel at Ninth and Pine streets.

The fee to the Victoria Building and site is owned by the heirs of the late Moses Schoenberg, who contend that the building cannot

Negotiations virtually have been concluded for the acquisition of the 99-year lease of the Victoria Building, which it is proposed to convert into a hotel. The agents in the acquisition of the lease which would give virtual control of the property, are Denby & Steinbaum, presumably representing Harry Sardini, who operates the Maryland Hotel at Ninth and Pine streets.

The fee to the Victoria Building and site is owned by the heirs of the late Moses Schoenberg, who contend that the building cannot be altered or converted under the provisions of the 99-year lease without the consent of the lessor or lessors. A suit has been brought to construe the lease, pending which the hotel proposition will be in abeyance.

Blocks of Hotels.

As was recently told, the Nassau Investment Co., which holds the title to the Mayfair Hotel building and site at the southwest corner of Eighth and St. Charles streets, has purchased the adjoining plot on Eighth street in order to provide for the enlargement of the structure, which, it is understood, is contemplated in the early future. The recently acquired plot adjoins the Victoria Building on the south, which means that the entire Eighth street side of the block ultimately will be occupied for hotel purposes, provided the plans for the conversion of the Victoria are realized.

Denby & Steinbaum, together with Sardini, have been negotiating with Lou Hall, the owner of the property, for the purchase of the fee, with plans for adding four stories to the present structure.

Laclede Plans Deferred.

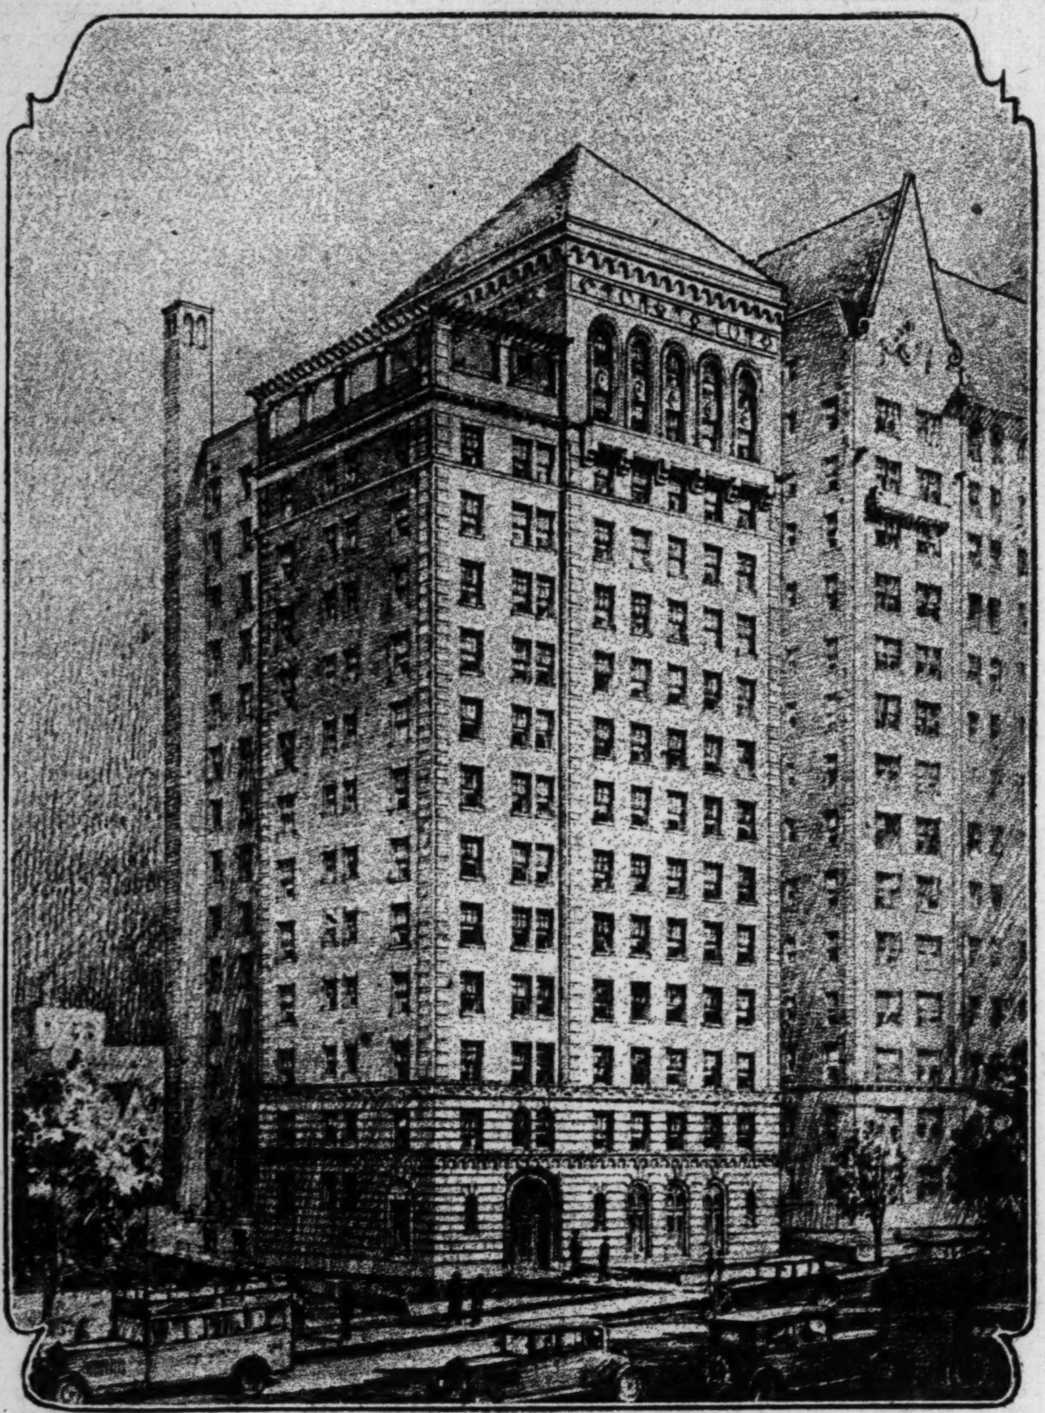
Plans for replacing the time honored Laclede Hotel Building, at the southeast corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets, held under a 99-year lease by the Laclede Realty Co., composed of clients of Stanley Epstein, Inc., have been deferred by its sublease for a 16-year term to H. A. Israel, recently announced.

Real estate owners in the vicinity had been looking forward to the execution of long heralded plans for a lofty hotel building for the site of the Laclede, control of which has been obtained by Israel, at least for the term of his sublease, arranged by Stanley Epstein, Inc. Under the terms of the 99-year lease the Laclede Realty Co. must erect a new hotel at the expiration of the sublease.

Plans for relocating Commission Row, now on Third street north of Washington avenue, continue to be discussed by city planners, and by interests dealing in downtown realty in that section. The new location suggested is Chouteau avenue, west of Eighteenth street, and the streets adjoining.

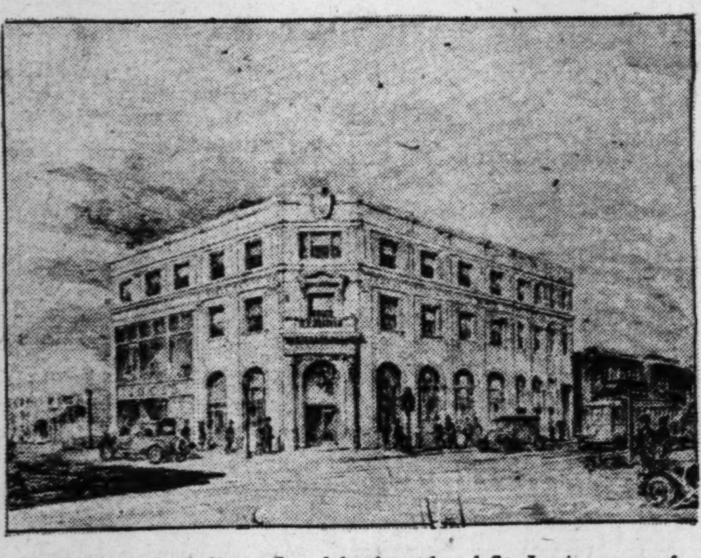
If the transformation of the river front considered by the City Plan Commission should become a reality, removal of the commission houses would be necessary. The Chouteau avenue location would be near railroad shipping facilities, and would be accessible from the countryside.

To Be Added to Lindell Skyline



Design for proposed 15-story apartment building for 3745 Lindell boulevard, west of and adjoining the new Daniel Boone Apartments. Architects, Pleitsch & Price.

Design for New Bank Building



Building to be built at Grand boulevard and St. Louis avenue for the Lindell Trust Co., architects Wedemeyer & Nelson.

RAZING OF LINDELL TRUST BUILDING STARTS TOMORROW

Work of razing the present building of the Lindell Trust Co., at the southwest corner of North Grand boulevard and St. Louis avenue, to make way for a new building for the bank is scheduled to begin Monday. Meantime the bank will be located at 2849-2851 North Grand, about one block north of its present location.

The bank's working space will be practically quadrupled in its new location, this being made necessary by its increasing business.

The officers are Charles H. Peters, president; F. A. Brickenkamp, vice-president; F. W. Peters, vice-president; A. W. Dehlendorf, secretary and treasurer; William T. Jones, counsel; Harry Graeff, assistant secretary; F. A. Kaiser, assistant treasurer.

BUILDING AND LOAN MEN'S ANNUAL DINNER

Borrowers are welcome at the offices of St. Louis building and loan associations, speakers said at the annual dinner of the St. Louis League of Incorporated Building & Loan Associations at the City Club Wednesday night. More than 100 guests were present. Hugh H. Stewart is president of the organization. John C. Hall was toastmaster.

Visiting speakers were K. V. Haymaker of Chicago, Dr. Horace F. Clark of Kansas City and F. P. Stephens of Kansas City. They and Hall, who is president of the St. Louis Building & Loan Association, discussed at a dinner, and at the afternoon meeting which preceded it, the financial problems of their business. One of these was the competition with insurance companies for loan business.

The question of the rate of interest to be paid for money also was discussed, and Stephens expressed the view that it should be possible to obtain money at 5 per cent.

INTERIOR DECORATING FIRM TO BUILD WEST END BRANCH

The Lucks-Orwig Co., interior decorators, have purchased a site at 4652 Maryland avenue for a building for a west end branch. Plans contemplate a structure for the exclusive use of the concern. It will adjoin the Hill building at the southeast corner of Maryland and Euclid avenues. The site is now occupied by a 12-room residence.

Restrictions have just been removed on Maryland avenue, and the erection of the proposed building will mark the transition of this section of the street from residential to business.

The decorating company has its main quarters at 1117 Locust street.

Cornet & Zeibig have handled the transaction, representing Charles Lucas, the former owner of the Maryland avenue property.

CHRISTIAN BRINKOP CO. ANNOUNCES SEVEN SALES

Charles R. Sackman, salesmanager of the Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co. reports the following sales: 4076 Loughborough avenue, bungalow, for George Metzger to Norbert J. Swehla; 3815 Alberta street, flat for a client to Mathew Nowatny; 5525 Devonshire avenue, bungalow, for Selma Matica to Godfrey Bender; lots 24 to 29 inclusive in Carondelet Parkview to Gladell D. Stein; lot 4 in block 5 of Carondelet Parkview to Ray Wolff; 4116 Pennsylvania avenue, flat, for Joseph B. Hollman to Emma Kolmer.

GENERAL INCREASE IN BUILDING DURING JANUARY

New Records of Construction Reached in New England, the Central West and Texas.

TOTAL IN 37 STATES OF $427,168,700

Residential Structures an Important Item With Aggregate of $193,189,200 or 45 Per Cent.

Total construction contracts awarded during January in the 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains amounted to $427,168,700, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. These states include about 91 per cent of the total construction volume of the country. This was next to the largest January total on record, and represented an increase of 11 per cent over January of last year. Compared with December, the past month showed a decline of 11 per cent.

Three districts made new high totals for the month of January, the new records being reached by New England, the Central West, and Texas. Three other districts, New York State and Northern New Jersey, the Southeastern states, and the Middle Atlantic states, reached totals which were next to the highest ever recorded for January.

The more important items in last month's building and engineering record were: $193,189,200, or 45 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $72,038,700, or 17 per cent, for public works and utilities; $68,851,400, or 16 per cent, for commercial buildings; $37,970,300, or 9 per cent, for industrial buildings; $23,369,400, or 5 per cent, for educational buildings; $11,182,400, or 3 per cent, for hospitals and institutions; $9,189,700, or 2 per cent, for social and recreational projects; $5,612,300, or 1 per cent, for public buildings; and $5,532,900, or 1 per cent, for religious and memorial buildings.

Contemplated construction projects were reported for these 37 states to the amount of $904,674,900 during January. This was a 20 per cent increase over the amount reported for January of last year, though it represented a decrease of 9 per cent from the December figure.

Record Total in Central West.

The Central West (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Southern Michigan, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska) had $114,317,000 in contracts for new construction work during January. This was the largest total yet recorded in this district for the month of January, and represented an increase of 35 per cent over January of last year, but showed a decrease from December of 30 per cent. Analysis of the month's construction record showed the following major items: $54,413,200, or 48 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $18,584,300, or 16 per cent, for commercial buildings; $17,954,100, or 16 per cent, for pubic works and utilities; $8,808,000, or 8 per cent, for educational buildings; $6,909,000, or 6 per cent for industrial buildings and $3,815,100, or 3 per cent, for social recreational projects.

Contemplated new work for this territory amounted to $222,997,800, being a gain of 5 per cent over the figure for January, 1927, and a loss of 43 per cent from December.

CARLOS REESE BUYS HOME SITE ON LINDELL DRIVE

Carlos Reese, of the International Shoe Co. has purchased 100x530 feet on Lindell drive in the Catlin tract, opposite Forest Park, with plans for a handsome residence. The site is between Union and DeBaliviere avenue, and adjoins the Sigel residence.

The Walter F. Sheehan Realty Co. represented the Geneva Investment Co., the grantor, and John Bull, the purchaser. No mention was made as to the price paid.

Leases Through Dubinsky Agency.

The Dubinsky Realty Co. reports the following leases: To Charles M. Burmeister and William Burmeister Jr., who were represented by Wanstrath Realty Co., 121 feet of ground on the west side of Grand boulevard, between Carter and Penrose street, upon which they will erect a garage and salesroom; a store on the first floor of 713 Pine street to the Stone Electric Co.; 2914-16 Washington boulevard, a garage to the E. J. Auto Painting Co.; 807 North Grand boulevard to Grant W. Danielson, who operates the Crispette Candy Co.; a plot of ground 75x75 on the southeast corner of Kingshighway and Florissant to Pierce Petroleum Co.; 1151 Delmar boulevard to the W. Mack Radiator Co.

PIGGLY-WIGGLY WAREHOUSE ON CHOUTEAU ENLARGED

Addition Contains 24,000 Square Feet of Floor Space, Making a Total of 139,200—Necessitated by Growth in Business.

Growth of the Piggly-Wiggly stores operated by the Missouri-Illinois Stores Co., of which George B. Wearen is president, has necessitated the erection of an addition to its warehouse at 3688 Chouteau avenue, which will give an added floor space of 24,000 square feet, or a total of 139,200 square feet.

Sales volume of this grocery chain has been unusual, including sales of coffee at the rate of a carload a week.

The present warehouse, comprising 115,200 square feet of floor space, was built only a year ago at a cost of approximately $400,000. It is a two-story fireproof building, equipped with refrigeration. One storage room will hold 18 carloads of boxed apples or about as many cases of eggs. This room is devoted to eggs in the summer and apples in the winter. In addition, there is one large cooled 40x40, divided into four rooms and a passage-way going all the way through, the rooms opening on to the passage. One room is 15 feet by 50, one is 15x20. There are two rooms for bacon and fresh meat.

The building also is equipped with a sunlight, sanitary baking plant with modern equipment. Oil is used as fuel for heating and baking.

There is storage place for trucks in the loading space, one end of which is a repair room.

On the second floor is a large dining room and modern kitchen. Lunch is furnished to warehouse and office employes and store superintendents from about eight stores each day. Once a month a general meeting is held for all employes.

At the rear of the building are two switch tracks, each holding four cars. Lift trucks with movable platforms are used, surplus stock being stored on these platforms on the second floor.

A room is devoted to card writing and printing, supplying all the stationery, price cards, etc., and everything of this kind.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR FIRM LEASES PROPERTY ON LINDELL

The Mercantile Trust Co. as agent has consummated a lease of the premises at 3323-25 Lindell boulevard to the Champion Ice Refrigeration Co. The property is owned by the Pickel Realty Co.

The Champion Ice Refrigeration Co. has just been chartered under the laws of Missouri to engage in the business of selling electric ice refrigerators and sundry accessories. The corporation is composed of A. E. Werner and S. M. Bahlkow. They will at once open a first-class show and salesroom at the above address to market the Champion ice refrigerators. Both parties were represented by the Mercantile Trust Co.

TWO ST. LOUIS FIRMS LEASE BUILDINGS ON WASHINGTON

The United Automobile Service Co. has leased the building at 2214-16 Washington avenue and after alterations are completed, will maintain a service station there. This firm is composed of George Theis and Jack Walker, who formerly owned and operated a garage and service station at 5082 Delmar boulevard.

The Lawrence Welding Co. has leased the building at 2212 Washington avenue and will move its shop from Leffingwell and Olive streets about March 1. D. M. Lawrence is associated with E. A. Randall in this firm.

Both leases were made for the account of the Gay estate and were represented by the Mercantile Trust Co.

SIX SALES HANDLED DURING WEEK BY MAY REALTY CO.

The May Realty Co., 3548 South Grand boulevard, reports the following sales: 240 feet vacant, in 6600 block on Arsenal street; flat at 3219 California avenue; cottage at 1807 Michigan avenue; business property at 6377 Arsenal; 70 feet vacant on Blow street.

Bungalows and Flats Sold by Bellis

Bellis Realty Co., through its president, Milton B. Bellis, reports the following sales: 5356 Lotus avenue, five-room bungalow, lot 25x130, for Mollie and Abbie McDonald; 2651 Big Bend road, seven-room bungalow, lot 50x135, for Emma Smith; 2852 Shenandoah avenue, 4-4 room double flat, lot 40x127½, for Earl J. and Mary E. Mullins, 3949 Fairview avenue, six-room bungalow, lot 35x125, for Campbell W. and Lovie R. McPherson, 2913 Wisconsin avenue, 3-3 room single flat, lot 37½x130, for Ernst and Helen Meixner.

Sales by Wenzlick Firm.

The Albert Wenzlick Real Estate Co. reports sales for the week of bungalow, 6817 Highland avenue, vacant lot at Marcus and Spalding avenues, single flat, 2138 Allen avenue; vacant lot on Forsythe place; double flat, 4120-22 Nebraska avenue; bungalow, 4650 Maffitt avenue, and a residence, 5868 Cates avenue.

DISCOUNTS OF $50 to $300 on a Brand-New 1928 Car

Come in and look at these cars; they are just as new as the day they came from the factory! Bring your mechanic along or any expert you want to pass judgment on them.

Our regular business is to supply new cars at reduced prices. We are constantly in touch with several thousand dealers in surrounding states. Our virtually unlimited buying power enables us to relieve them of new cars when circumstances force liquidation of their stocks. We receive new shipments nearly every week. So if the make or model you want isn't on our floor we can probably get it for you at a discount.

Rupture Sufferers Made Well and Sound

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without Pain; Delay or Danger. Masters Human Scourge Which Defied Science for Ages. Thousands Tell of Complete Recovery; Safety and Comfort Guaranteed

Try This New Way FREE

Now you can run, jump, dance, swim, bend—in fact, once more be absolutely well and sound. With the little clinging oval—the newly perfected feature of the Brooks Rupture Appliance—constantly working to heal you, all manner of heavy work and even the most strenuous sports may be pursued without the slightest pain or danger. Thousands who have tried it say they no longer need any form of support. Their ruptures have been healed through the use of this marvelous Appliance.

AGE is not measured in years. You are old beyond your time if you wear any sort of cruel, gouging contrivance, forcing itself into your rupture, preventing growth and making impossible the healing of that tear in your side.

Rupture sufferers for years—men, women and even little children—have been subjected to the torments of the inquisition by science; they have suffered in silence because modern inventiveness had never been able to perfect anything to really end their torture. The crude makeshifts now worn by many retain the rupture—YES—but at the same time they prevent healing.

Scientists have striven for something which would retain the rupture gently—at the same time draw the edges of the wound together. In this way, only in this way, can rupture ever be healed without a surgical operation.

New Method Heals Rupture

The new Brooks Appliance—rebuilt and recreated—allows the wound to heal; at the same time it retains the rupture with ease and with safety. Circulation is free—those chafing straps—those steel bands—all are unnecessary. You can run, swim, dance, jump, bend—do anything you wish—and know that all the time this wonderful invention is working to heal you.

Here is the secret of this new appliance, this light, gentle, velvet-like, clinging apparatus, which is doing so much to relieve sufferers.

It lays—not pushes—on the rupture. Its soft air cushion of hygienic rubber gently brings those torn edges together. Every time you move, every time you breathe, the action of this small oval is to gradually close that wound. Then Nature does its part—the edges knit and your rupture is sealed. You are well and sound.

Trusses Retard Healing

These are facts, so why not face them? You can not heal that rupture as long as the edges of the rupture are being kept apart by a hard, penetrating pad. Proper circulation is impossible, and the constant irritation by the bulging pad tends actually to lessen the chances of healing.

All this is avoided when you wear the new Brooks Appliance. That is what accounts for its tremendous popularity and for the thousands of glowing testimonials received by the inventor just like those reproduced below. The Brooks Appliance by external methods brings about a reunion of the torn sections in the abdominal wall—makes them whole once more. When this is accomplished, your rupture is well and gone forever.

Constantly Works to Heal

And it does the work—it fulfills its mission—whether you work or play, sleep or rest—constantly that air cushion, designed so that movement tends to close the wound rather than force it open, works to heal you. The appliance really heals—seals the rupture.

Thousands of people, people of prominence in their communities, write us of complete recovery—not only relief, but a complete healing of the rupture. They have done away with their appliance—they are whole once more.

The new appliance was 30 years in the making. Today, it is as perfect as human experience and inventiveness can make it. But only by experimenting with it yourself—by actually wearing it—can the logic of its construction be fully appreciated.

Test It Free

For that reason the makers of this appliance will allow you to wear one free—to test it, and watch its effect in your particular case. If it is found that this new departure in rupture treatment is suitable to your case, keep it, wear it conscientiously and forget you are ruptured. If it fails to satisfy you after the test period, return it to us and you have spent no money whatever. We make this liberal offer because we know what it has done for thousands of others and because we feel sure that an actual demonstration is the only way a real test can be made. We realize that rupture is a serious thing—that it is a dangerous condition. We also know that the most important thing in the world is the way you feel. We know that your happiness—your real success in life depends upon this.

Thousands of people are making this test and they are acclaiming this newly perfected appliance a Godsend.

Rupture Hastens Death

Rupture is no respecter of persons. Little children, young men and women, rich and poor, suffer from this dreaded affliction. Death is hastened by its terrible effects. Nervous disorders, and a general slowing up of that resistance needed to battle for life, results from rupture. You are handicapping yourself if you disregard this condition. Insurance organizations, army officials and corporations recognize the dangers of hernia or rupture. So you, too, must not disregard it. It can be sealed—those torn muscle fibres can be knitted together as strongly as before, but it must not be long neglected.

The practicability of the new Brooks Appliance will immediately convince you that it can effect the sealing of your rupture. It is light, clean, safe and modern. Its life is long; it can be washed as readily as your hand. There are no steel bands to dangerously press against your spinal column and nothing to stop the normal circulation of health-building blood where it is needed.

So heal that rupture—heal that hernia. Wear a Brooks Appliance. Try it for ten days without cost. If it suits you, if it's comfortable, keep it; if it fails to meet your requirements, the test has cost you nothing.

Never Sold at Stores

Unscrupulous advertisers are endeavoring to sell the public a cheap substitute for the Brooks Appliance, claiming that it is genuine. Do not be misled by imitations and substitutions. The genuine Brooks Appliance is never sold through agents nor at stores of any kind. Every appliance is made at Marshall, Michigan, to your individual requirements. Look for trademark bearing portrait of C. E. Brooks which appears on every appliance. None other genuine.

Write today for the free offer plan. Fill out the coupon. Remember, to delay may prevent permanent recovery from your rupture. You will realize when you examine it just how perfectly it accomplishes its purpose—how it heals—and the great simplicity of this marvel of science will really astonish you. Mail coupon below—now.

No Longer Needs Appliance

I read your ad. and sent for your appliance which arrived promptly. The results were amazing. I wore it continually night and day for 3 months then discarded it on going to bed and after about 8 months I felt so sure of myself I often left it off on Sundays.

Then, one day I went to work forgetting to put it on and I was frightened when I discovered I had left it off—but I took great care not to do any lifting that day. To my surprise I had no trouble. So I have not worn the appliance since and there is no sign of any rupture. I have been in the river swimming and doing other stunts and am O. K. I had a bad rupture and of years standing when I started using your appliance. Now I have no need of any support.

Frank L. Dumas, 95 E. 70th St., North,
Portland, Ore.

Healed Son's Rupture

About a year ago we bought one of your appliances for our seven year old son. He wore the appliance for almost a year, and we are happy to say now that he is entirely well. We cannot say enough to praise your rupture appliance and the good it has done for our son's health. He wore the appliance night and day.

When we first noticed the disappearance of the rupture, we left the appliance off, to test it, but after a few days, found the rupture to be entirely healed. We sincerely thank you for the good you have done us.

Chas. Ackermann, 1743 14th Street,
Milwaukee, Wis.

Ruptured Infant Now Sound

Our little boy (now 6 years old) became ruptured when one year of age. He wore the Brooks Appliance for two years and now seems to be completely cured. He hasn't worn the appliance for over a year, and romps and jumps as much as the other children. We are more than pleased with the results.

Mrs. Harry Bowman, Galion, Ohio.

Foundry Worker Delighted

Having worn one of your appliances about five months, I thought I would tell you that I have not been wearing it lately and I think I am well. I feel my same old self again, working hard every day at my trade in the foundry, constantly lifting heavy material and still feeling fine. There is no more pain and my rupture does not show any more, as it did before I started to wear your appliance.

Paul G. Fink, 621 Smith St., York, Pa.

Fine After 5 Months

Your Appliance did all you claimed for it and then some. I suffered so when I had been on my feet about three hours that I would have to lie down for a few minutes. I wore the appliance night and day for 4 or 5 months. I took it off one day and have never had to put it on again. It is a godsend to anyone having a rupture.

M. A. Fletcher, 228 N. W. 64th St., Miami, Fla.

Ruptured at 63—Sound at 65

About two years ago, I received one of your appliances and wore it constantly for nearly a year. My rupture stopped bothering me and in the course of a short time I laid it off. Am now 65 years old, and happy to say I am sound and well.

W. S. Dearmond, 915 6th St.,
San Bernardino, Cal.

Hardest Work Never Bothers Him

I am well of my rupture through the use of your appliance, and have not been wearing it for over five months. I could have gone without it, I believe, at least six months before I did. I might say that I can do any work that comes to hand, such as digging rock, shovelling grain or anything else and never feel the rupture. At one time I had almost despaired of ever being well. I will always advise the use of your appliance to any whom I know to be suffering with rupture.

R. O. Morrow, Sedalia, Alberta, Can.

Can't Praise Appliance Enough

Your appliance is beyond praise. I think anyone suffering from rupture should positively send for your appliance if he wants permanent relief. My case was severe, but after wearing your appliance for six months, I no longer needed it. Wishing you many years of success in helping those afflicted.

S. E. Podolsky, 3208 Dawson St.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Well in Year's Time

After using your appliance, I was entirely well in a year's time. I suffered untold agony with the rupture, having to work hard, and all at once I found myself perfectly o. k. I no longer feel any symptoms of my rupture and wear no truss. Can shoulder bags of potatoes and wheat with ease. I am now 65 years of age, hale and hearty.

A. B. Blankinship, Virginia City, Mont.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

GEORGE.—If you have not paid income tax heretofore you may not receive a notice. Getting the blank and making the return is your own responsibility. Blanks for return on State tax may be had at City Hall.

MRS. WORRIED AND JUSTICIA.—Report the facts to the Prohibition Agent in charge, room 244, Federal Building, Eighth and Olive streets, by letter, telephone or personal call. About 99 per cent of liquor law violations are reported by telephone by persons who do not give their names. The telephone number is CHestnut 6020; ask for th Prohibition Office. It is not the same as Internal Revenue office. The office has charge of violations in St. Louis and County and 51 counties of Eastern Missouri.

EX-SOLDIER'S WIFE. — The American Legion was organized in Paris by 1000 officers and men of the American Expeditionary Forces, March 15 and 16, 1919, at a meeting which adopted tentative aims, a temporary constitution and the name. The action of the Paris meeting was confirmed and indorsed by a similar meeting in St. Louis, May 8 and 10, 1919, when machinery was created to effect a permanent organization. The Paris meeting had appointed an Executive Committee of 17, which attended the St. Louis meeting to represent the troops in France, and the St. Louis meeting appointed a similar committee of 17 men. The American Legion was incorporated by act of Congress, Sept. 16, 1919, and the charter convention was held in Minneapolis Nov. 10, 11 and 12, 1919. This convention approved the acts of the temporary organization and adopted a permanent constitution, in the preamble of which the purposes and principles of the Legion are outlined.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

B. R.—Suit for divorce can be brought in St. Louis in the case outlined.

F. B.—You cannot recover damages from the city on account of streets not being repaired when the city was notified of a necessity for repairs.

A TEACHER.—If the teacher in the case was not negligent, and had no reason to suspect that the food given the child was not wholesome, she could not be held liable in any way.

D. F. S.—The administrator of the owner's estate may be able to get permission from the Probate Court to continue the business or to sell it.

ANXIOUS TO KNOW.—As the children's mother is living, and is provided for in the will, it is not necessary to name the three great-grandchildren in the will. It would do no harm, however, to leave a nominal sum to each of them.

THANKS.—After five years, suit on such a bill as you describe would be barred by the Statute of Limitations.

H. E. D.—You would not need a license for the first few days, and probably you would not have to take one out at all for the business as described.

CARONDELET—What you ask about recovering transferred property would depend upon the circumstances under which it was transferred.

DESPERATE.—The amount allowed would depend upon the circumstances. Probably alimony would be allowed and for the support of the three children, from one-half to two-thirds of the father's pay.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

FRIDAY REQUEST.—Salicylic acid one drachm, collodion one ounce mix and apply to warts once daily after soaking in hot water for 10 or 15 minutes, and drying the skin thoroughly. Be careful not to touch the surrounding skin with the medicine.

JANE.—JANE.—The trouble in the back, as mentioned by you, is most likely tubercular, and if so, could not be relieved by any process of rubbing. However, this can best be determined by the consultant. Names of doctors in Denver cannot be given, but names of St. Louis physicians will be held a few days for you if you wish to send stamped, addressed envelope. Refer to Jane.

EVERY DAY READER.—The tonic, of which you mention the ingredients, is a good compound and should serve to correct your trouble, and is, in any case, worthy of a trial before you resort to something else. The brown spot may be removed by using the following lotion: Hyposulphite of soda one-half ounce, glycerine one ounce, distilled water five and one-half ounces mix and apply night and morning.

A READER.—For a black eye: Hot applications made with cloths wrung out of a solution of a teaspoonful of boracic acid in a quart of hot water, applied for 15 or 20 minutes, two or three times daily. Time, of course, will correct the disfigurement without medication.

GODFREY.—It is practically impossible to suggest a probable cause for your trouble without examination. This should be made so that proper treatment can be had. For quick and safest results you should consult a foot specialist, and if you have opportunity to consult those in St. Louis, the name of one will be mailed if you wish to send stamped, addressed envelope, referring to "Godfrey."

E. N.—For the child who seems to have no appetite, the taking of tablespoonful doses three times daily after meals of the Wine of Codliver Oil and Iron will provide nourishment, and in doing so will stimulate the appetite also, avoid sweets, candies, cakes, etc., and especially avoid eating between meals. Systematic, outdoor exercise is necessary for such a child. The varicose veins you mention can be reduced by surgical operation, which is the only thing recommended. When done by a capable specialist the operation is effective and painless.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Schachner, who departed this life Feb. 11, 1926 Sadly missed by CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In memory of Odell Geers, who died one year ago, Feb. 7.
Her suffering has ceased.
Her cough has stilled.
Her place is vacant still.
God thought it was best to grant her eternal rest.
Sadly missed by all.

In loving memory of William Dixon, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 10, 1927.
Days of sadness oft come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow.
Love shall always keep you near,
Though you left us one year ago.
Sadly missed by WIFE AND SON. (c)

In loving memory of Mr. F. B. Ehrler, who departed this life Feb. 13, 1927:
A loving soul, true and kind;
No father like him we'll ever find.
God called him home it was His will,
But in our hearts he lingers still.
For all of us he did his best;
God grant him eternal rest.
Sadly missed by his beloved
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In loving remembrance of Flossie Bridges, who departed this life Feb. 10, 1927.
We often sit and think of you
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by
RELATIVES AND ALL WHO LOVED HER

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mary Bosch (nee Griemel) who departed this life six years ago today, Feb. 14, 1922.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss her,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God alone knows how we miss her
In a home that is lonesome today.
Sadly missed by husband and daughter and all those who loved her.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Henry J. Kraleman, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 11, 1927.
Loving and gentle in all of his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
True and sincere in his heart and his mind,
Serving humanity faithful and kind,
His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In memory of Nellie Krage, who died seven years ago, Feb. 10:
No one knows how much we miss you;
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, Since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear Nellie,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND SISTER.

In loving memory of Mrs. Viola Kaufmann, who departed this life Feb. 9, 1927:
There is a mother who misses you sadly
And finds the time long since you went;
And I think of you daily and hourly,
But try to be brave and content.
But the tears that I shed in silence
And I breathe a sigh of regret.
For you were mine and I remember,
Though all the world forgets.
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND MOTHER.

In memory of my dear daughter, Edna Missler, who passed away one year ago, Feb. 11, 1927.
We do not forget you, nor do we intend,
We think of you often and will to the end.
You suffered hours, yes, hours of pain
To wait for cure but all in vain.
'Til God alone knew what was best,
He called you home to give you rest.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Secret tears often flow.
But memory keeps you ever near us,
Though you died one year ago.
Sadly missed by mother, brother, sister and all who loved her.
MRS. FRIEDA MISSLER AND FAMILY.

In sad memory of our darling daughter, Malinda Schaumann, who died Feb. 15, 1919.
Our life is so lonely without you,
Oh, why were you taken away,
Dear mother, we are always thinking about you,
And there is nothing can brighten the day.
We can see you in the arms of Jesus,
Who is keeping and loving you now,
And rejoice with tears of gladness—
But the loneliness, thinking of you.
Sadly missed by heart-broken
PARENTS, DAUGHTER, BROTHERS AND SWEETHEART.

In loving memory of our darling son, William Nicholas, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 14, 1927.
Our home is no home since William is gone.
The angels have taken him out of our care
Dark is his room empty is his chair.
God alone knows how we miss William.
In a home that is lonesome today,
What would we give to clasp his hand
His happy face to touch,
To hear his voice, to see his smiles
That meant so much to us.
Sadly missed by mother, daddy, his pals and all who loved him.

In loving remembrance of Flossie Bridges, who departed this life Feb. 10, 1927:
We often sit and think of you
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by
RELATIVES AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

Sacred to the memory of my beloved sister and our aunt, Anna M. Becher (nee Hoelscher), who died 22 years ago this month:
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to your name;
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Do love you in death just the same.
From this world of pain and sorrow
To the land of peace and rest
God has taken you, dear Annie,
Where you've found eternal rest.
HER DEVOTED SISTER, MARY BIEGER OF WASHINGTON, D. C., AND FAMILY.

In memory of my dear husband, Vincent Spicuzza, who passed away Aug. 9, 1927:
The face I loved is now laid low,
His loving voice is still,
The hand so often clasped in mine
Lies now in death's cold chill.
Oh, what would I give to clasp his hand,
His dear kind face to see,
To hear his voice, to see his smile
That meant so much to me.
I miss him no less as the time passes on
Than I did on the day of his going,
For absence can never close the door of my heart,
And the lamp of my love is still glowing.
Sadly missed by his WIFE, MOTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Joseph Dennis, who died Feb. 9, 1926:
The golden sun is shining
Upon dear daddy's grave;
One we loved so dearly,
Tried so hard to save;
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
When we lost our dear daddy
We lost our dearest pal.
We love and miss you
And forever shall.
So rest in peace, dear daddy;
Your place in heavenly bower,
The day when we shall meet
Grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

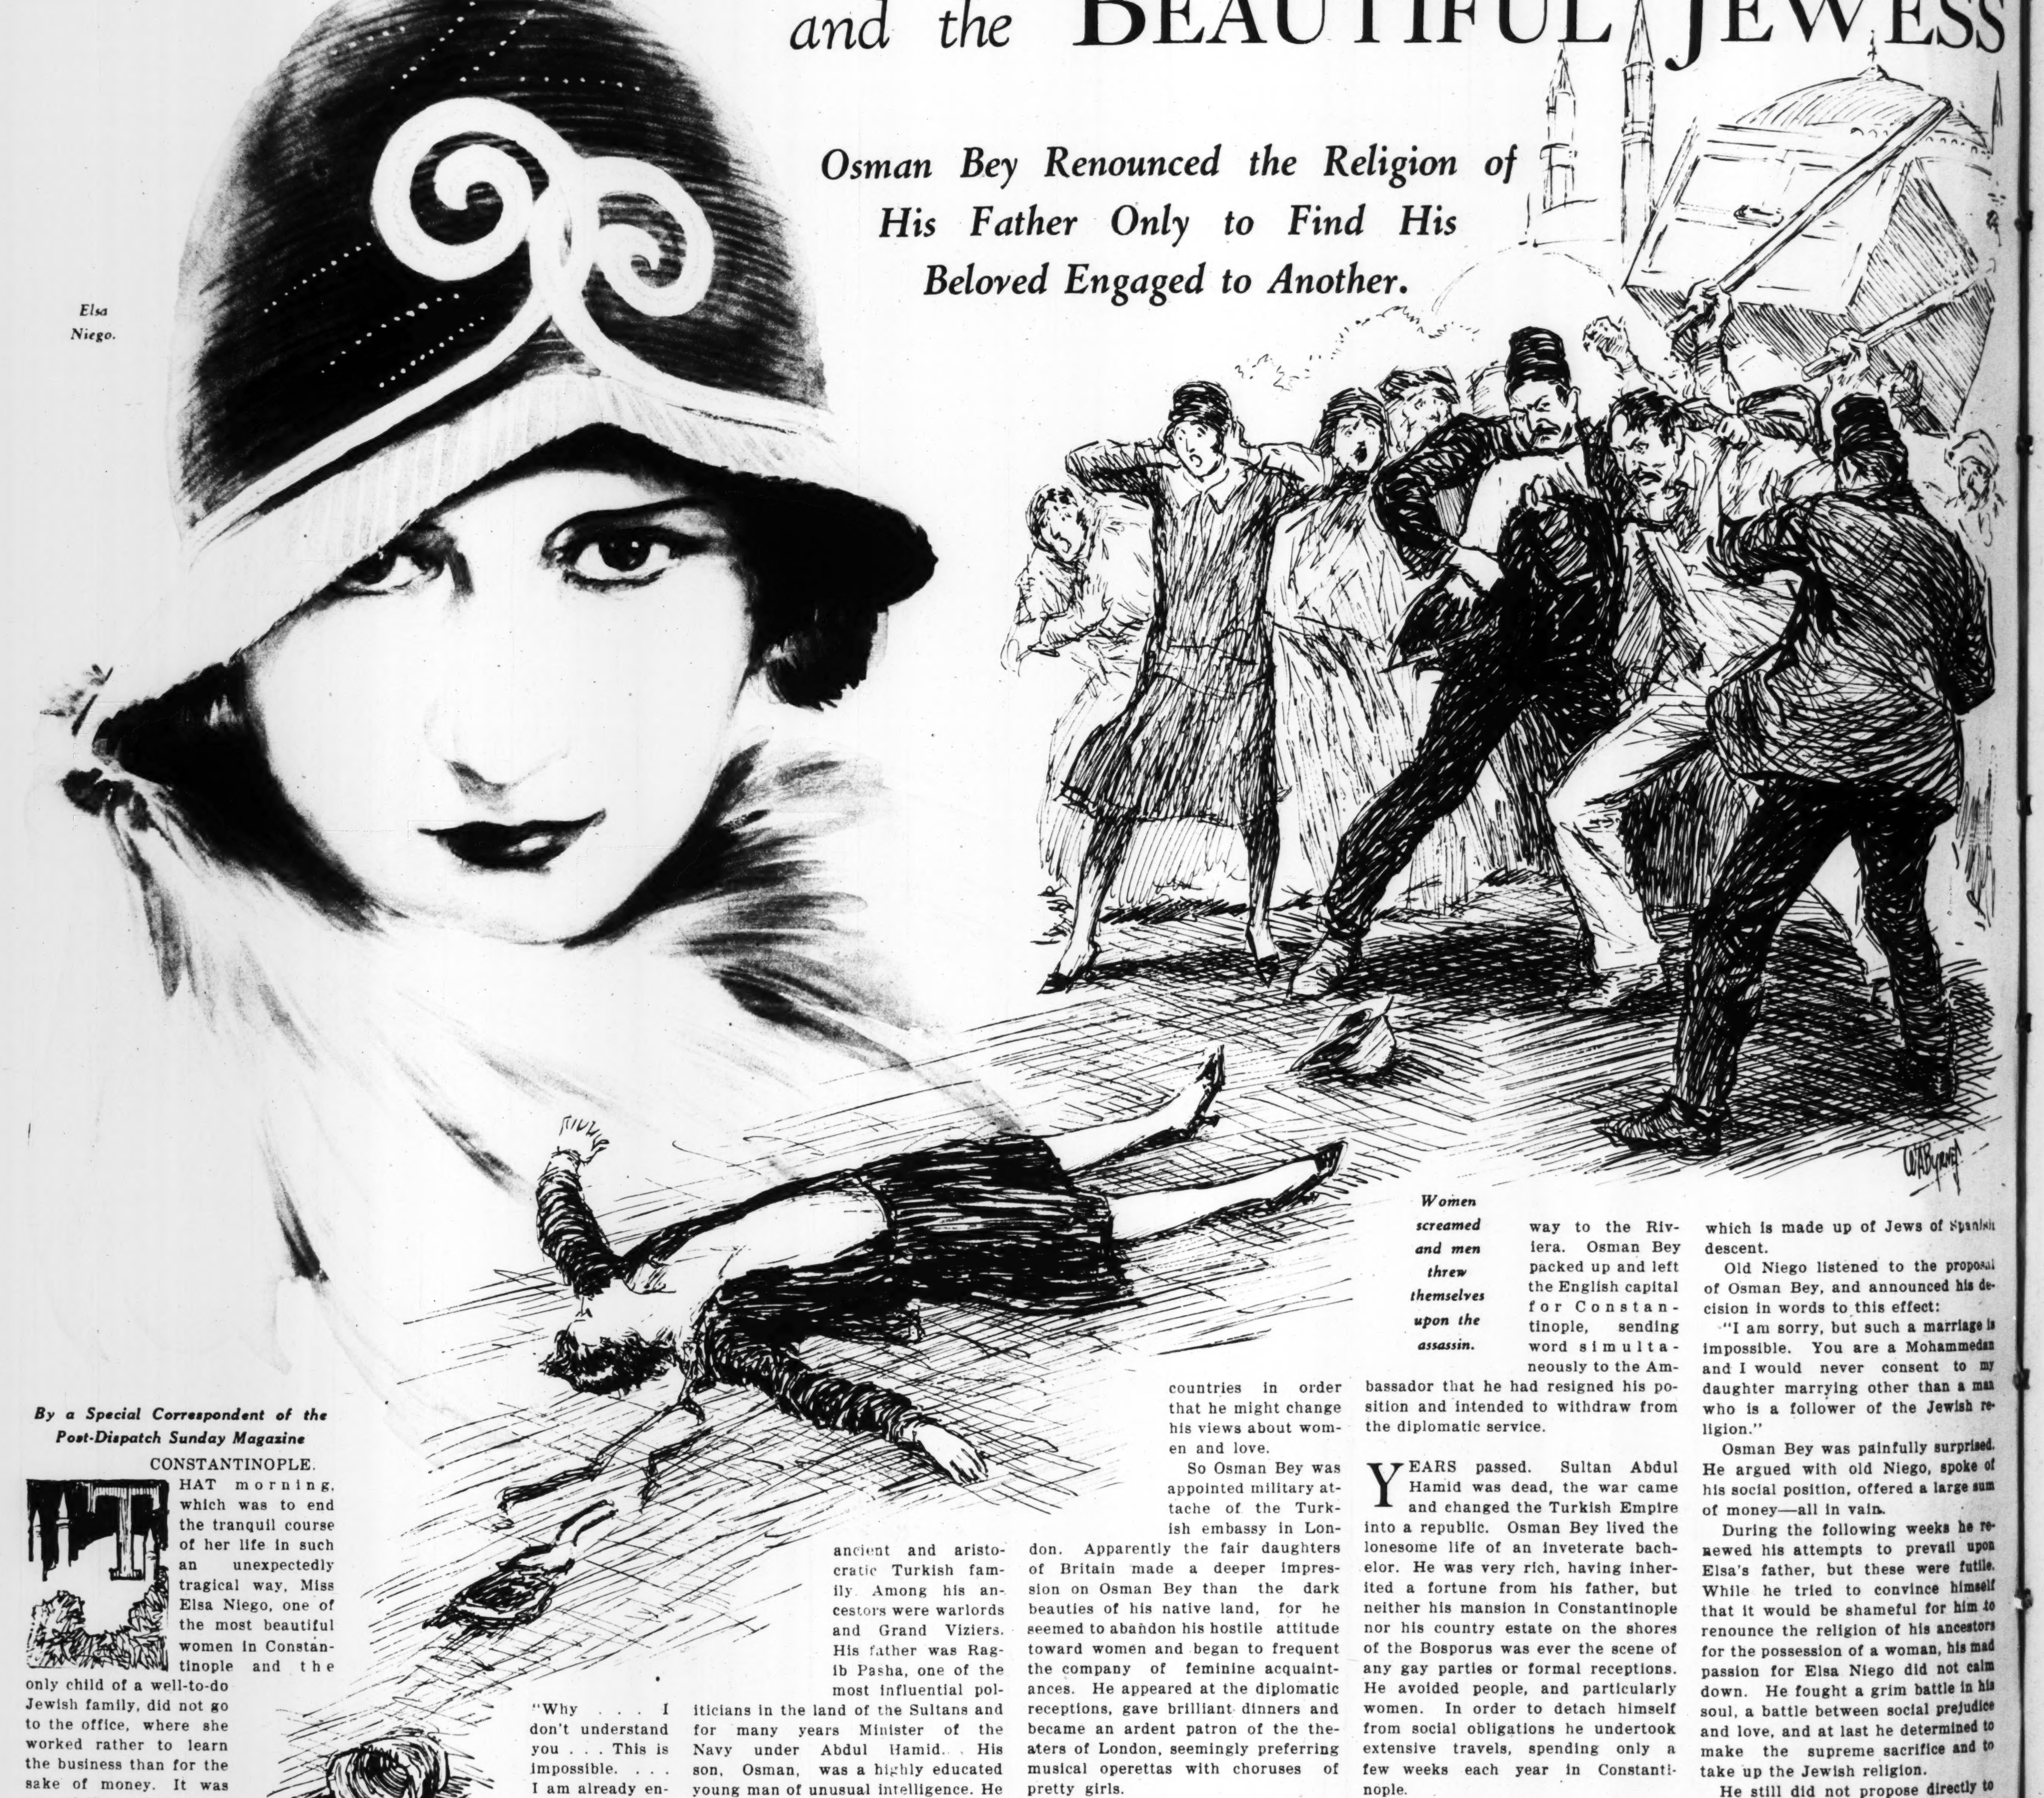
LOVE TRAGEDY OF THE NOBLE TURK and the BEAUTIFUL JEWESS

Osman Bey Renounced the Religion of His Father Only to Find His Beloved Engaged to Another.



Elsa Niego.

Women screamed and men threw themselves upon the assassin.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

CONSTANTINOPLE.

THAT morning, which was to end the tranquil course of her life in such an unexpectedly tragical way, Miss Elsa Niego, one of the most beautiful women in Constantinople and the only child of a well-to-do Jewish family, did not go to the office, where she worked rather to learn the business than for the sake of money. It was one of those rare occasions when she had a day off and a very cogent reason had prompted her asking for this privilege. Two days previously she had celebrated her engagement to a young merchant of Salonica and she needed time to do some shopping with the help of two girl friends who promised to accompany her on the tour through the picturesque bazaars and European shops of Constantinople.

It was a glorious day, the sunshine gilded the tall minarets of the mosques, and the three girls chose to walk instead of hiring a cab. They crossed the Galata Bridge, continued on their way, strolling through the crooked streets of the business section, and they had just reached the stately palace of the Banque Ottomane when they were stopped by an elegantly dressed man, who reverently greeted the beautiful Miss Niego and asked her pardon for opening a conversation on the street. Apparently he was an acquaintance, for Miss Niego smilingly returned his greeting and stopped to exchange a few words with him.

"I just wanted to tell you," he said, "that I have abandoned the creed of my ancestors and adopted the Jewish religion, according to the wish of your father. I now hope that he will be satisfied and will approve of our marriage."

Miss Niego looked in astonishment at the stranger.

"Our marriage?" she repeated. "Why . . . I don't understand you . . . This is impossible. . . . I am already engaged to someone else."

What happened next was so incredible and so unexpected that even Miss Niego's friends, standing close beside her, could not afterward describe it exactly. Something—a bluish-white, glittering object—flashed in the hand of the stranger. With maniacal fury he stabbed her in the breast, in the face, in the body.

Women screamed and men threw themselves upon the assassin. Policemen ran to the scene and saved the murderer from being lynched. In 10 minutes, handcuffed and bleeding from the beating he had received, the man stood before the desk of the Police Lieutenant.

"NO NEED to question me," he said in a hoarse, broken voice. "I'll tell you all. My name is Osman Bey . . . yes . . . the Osman Bey, former aide-de-camp of Sultan Abdul Hamid. . . I killed Miss Niego. . . . I took my revenge on her, and not only on her but on women generally. I loved her, and—— But, no, I must tell you the whole story. It began in London 15 years ago."

And Osman Bey narrated the fantastic story of his unfortunate love, revealing the motive of this murder which was to keep Constantinople seething with excitement for many weeks.

Osman Bey was the descendant of an ancient and aristocratic Turkish family. Among his ancestors were warlords and Grand Viziers. His father was Ragib Pasha, one of the most influential politicians in the land of the Sultans and for many years Minister of the Navy under Abdul Hamid. His son, Osman, was a highly educated young man of unusual intelligence. He studied in England and France, became a naval officer and everybody prophesied for him a brilliant career.

His father introduced him at court, and the Sultan Abdul Hamid became so interested in him that he made him his aide-de-camp. For years Osman Bey remained in this position and became, as a favorite of the Padishah, one of the most influential men in the Turkish Empire.

There was only one thing about him which worried his relatives and friends—his strange disinclination toward marriage and his avoidance of parties where ladies were present. The most distinguished families of the empire would not have been averse to marrying their daughters to him. His father proposed various advantageous marriages to young Osman Bey—but all this was unavailing. He remained steadfast in his misogynistic attitude, and his only answer to queries regarding his antipathy for women was that they were all fickle and that not one of them was worthy of the faithful devotion of a man.

In those days the institution of polygamy still flourished in Turkey and Osman Bey was one of the few distinguished Turks who did not keep a harem.

RAGIB PASHA thought that behind this monastic attitude of his son there might be some unfortunate love affair and he asked the Sultan to send Osman Bey to foreign countries in order that he might change his views about women and love.

So Osman Bey was appointed military attache of the Turkish embassy in London. Apparently the fair daughters of Britain made a deeper impression on Osman Bey than the dark beauties of his native land, for he seemed to abandon his hostile attitude toward women and began to frequent the company of feminine acquaintances. He appeared at the diplomatic receptions, gave brilliant dinners and became an ardent patron of the theaters of London, seemingly preferring musical operettas with choruses of pretty girls.

A few months later the friends of Osman Bey began to gossip about the "misogynist's" courtship of a certain chorus girl, and some of them went so far as to hint at an impending engagement. These rumors, however, proved to be premature for the time being.

FOR a year or two Osman Bey kept his secret to himself. Only in the third year of his sojourn in London did he surprise his friends with announcement of his engagement to a Miss Blair, a chorus girl in one of London's well known theaters. The announcement created somewhat of a sensation and the friends of Osman Bey awaited with high-pitched expectation the festive engagement dinner which the bridegroom-elect was to give in a separate room of the Hotel Cecil.

About 50 guests were invited to Osman Bey's banquet. They were received by Osman Bey alone—the bride having been detained, so it was understood. The dinner was to start at 7 o'clock but at 8 o'clock the bride was still missing. At 9 o'clock Osman Bey, with a voice betraying his nervousness, announced that his fiancee had been suddenly taken ill and that he must go to her immediately.

This was the last his English friends saw of Osman Bey. The next day they learned from the newspapers that Miss Blair, fiancee of a young military attache of the Turkish embassy, had eloped with a dancer and was on her way to the Riviera. Osman Bey packed up and left the English capital for Constantinople, sending word simultaneously to the Ambassador that he had resigned his position and intended to withdraw from the diplomatic service.

YEARS passed. Sultan Abdul Hamid was dead, the war came and changed the Turkish Empire into a republic. Osman Bey lived the lonesome life of an inveterate bachelor. He was very rich, having inherited a fortune from his father, but neither his mansion in Constantinople nor his country estate on the shores of the Bosporus was ever the scene of any gay parties or formal receptions. He avoided people, and particularly women. In order to detach himself from social obligations he undertook extensive travels, spending only a few weeks each year in Constantinople.

In the spring of last year, 1927, he went to Italy, to return only in the fall, when he boarded a steamer at Naples, bound for Constantinople. It was on board this steamer that his last and so tragic love affair had its fateful beginning.

Miss Elsa Niego was among the passengers and, though Osman Bey generally disliked women, he could not forego the company of this interesting and attractive young girl. Somehow, she appeared different from all women Osman Bey had ever known. In spite of her youth—she was but 22, more than 20 years his junior—she was serious and cared for the more important affairs of life—business, politics, literature and art. She conversed freely, without restraint of any kind, and Osman Bey gained the impression that here was a woman with whom he could exchange ideas as he would with a man. He spent as much time as possible with her, and she seemed to like his company.

AT THE end of the journey Osman Bey was madly in love with Elsa Niego. He did not propose to her, however. He knew that she lived in Turkey and a marriage proposal in Turkey must be through the parents. So Osman Bey determined to negotiate this affair with Elsa's family.

Shortly after his arrival in Constantinople he visited the father of Elsa, a pious Jew, prominent member of Constantinople's colony of Sefardim, which is made up of Jews of Spanish descent.

Old Niego listened to the proposal of Osman Bey, and announced his decision in words to this effect:

"I am sorry, but such a marriage is impossible. You are a Mohammedan and I would never consent to my daughter marrying other than a man who is a follower of the Jewish religion."

Osman Bey was painfully surprised. He argued with old Niego, spoke of his social position, offered a large sum of money—all in vain.

During the following weeks he renewed his attempts to prevail upon Elsa's father, but these were futile. While he tried to convince himself that it would be shameful for him to renounce the religion of his ancestors for the possession of a woman, his mad passion for Elsa Niego did not calm down. He fought a grim battle in his soul, a battle between social prejudice and love, and at last he determined to make the supreme sacrifice and to take up the Jewish religion.

He still did not propose directly to Elsa. Why should he? He knew that the girl liked his company, and this, with the parental consent, ought to suffice for the arrangement of a marriage in Turkey.

SO OSMAN BEY changed his religion and was on his way to Elsa's home to settle definitely the affair of the marriage—then, just at the moment when he thought he had found the woman of his heart, when happiness seemed to be within his grasp, he met his beloved and heard from her own lips that she was already engaged.

"I did not know what I was doing," Osman Bey declared later before the court. "I took my dagger, which I always carry, and stabbed her. It was not she I wanted to kill. I wanted to take revenge on life, on women, on the whole world for the second and greatest tragedy in my life."

The court had mercy upon Osman Bey. He was sentenced to three years' imprisonment only. The Jewish population resented the sentence and there were riots and demonstrations of protest. The Supreme Court, however, refused to amend the sentence. Its motivation of the decision contained these characteristic words:

"It is unnecessary to punish this man more severely. He killed his own happiness and thereby punished himself more than would be possible under our laws. It is an unusual punishment, but so is this crime and the unfortunate man who committed it."

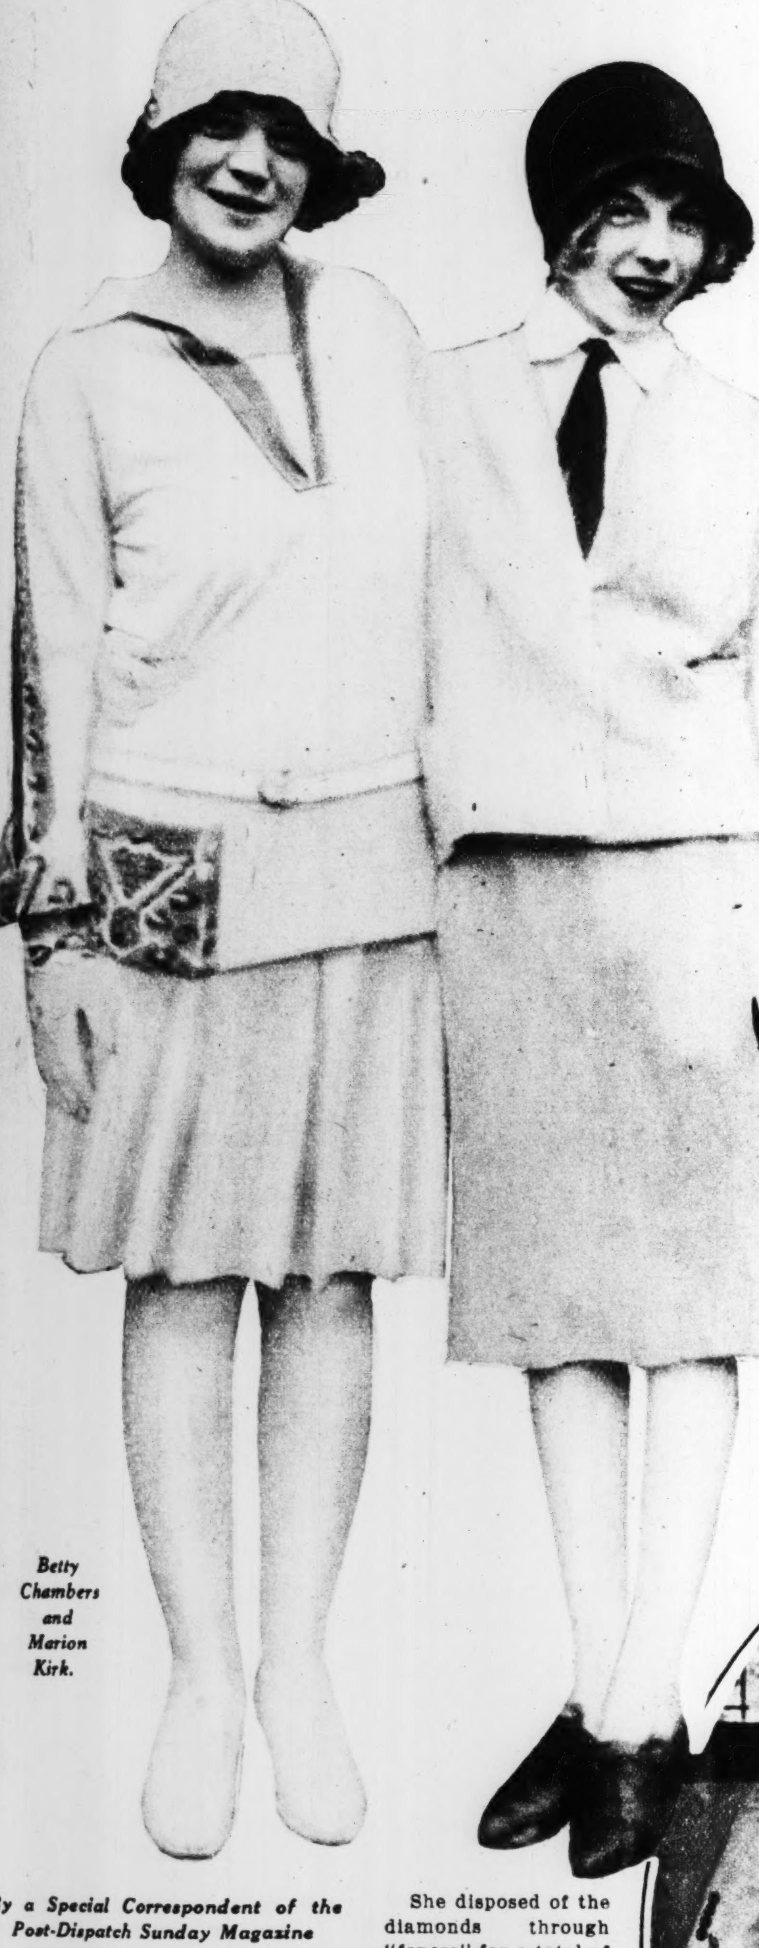
"White Diamond's" Tongue Stopped FOREVER

What Happened to the Notorious Betty Chambers When She Lost Her Lover and Threatened to Squeal.



Betty Chambers and Marion Kirk.

CHICAGO.

A MAID was the first one to find the body of Betty Chambers, clever woman diamond thief, in her luxurious apartment here recently. The "White Diamond," as she was called, had been strangled with the cord of an electric floor lamp. Around her mouth and nose had been wrapped nine yards of adhesive tape, notice from the underworld that she had been murdered for "squealing."

Behind the maid came neighbors who dimly recollected having heard voices raised in argument. Then the police arrived, notes were compared and detectives sent out to bring in certain well-known police characters who had been associates of the "White Diamond." The days passed and the search failed to locate the fugitives. One or two minor figures surrendered, but their testimony was vague.

The fugitives' were finally located, but not by the police. Reporters found the men living in a roadhouse near Chicago, promised to keep their hiding place secret and printed interviews and photographs of the men in the Chicago papers. The police redoubled their efforts but were still unable to find their men.

Attorneys for the men visited prosecuting officials and offered to bring in their clients, provided the questioning would be limited to the Chambers murder and not go into their past records. Also, there must be no "goldfish," or third degree. The prosecutors refused to submit to the conditions of the treaty and the search went on. It is still on. The case has made no progress.

BETTY CHAMBERS was no primer class shoplifter or pickpocket. Her line was diamonds. She moved in the big time and let her mob do the odd jobs. For six years, following her departure from Detroit, her home town, she had moved in the upper reaches of the underworld. The climax in her career came a few months before her murder, when she "lined up," planned and, with the help of two men, executed the lifting of $250,000 in diamonds from a Cleveland jewelry store.

She disposed of the diamonds through "fences" for a total of $50,000, paid off the hired hands and settled down in Chicago. But she got sentimental. Love knocked Betty for a whole tray of "rocks." She loved J. Gordon Chambers, one of the hired help in the Cleveland expedition. Betty had about $30,000, in cash and diamonds, and Gordon fancied that. So they lived in a luxurious apartment—furnished by Betty.

That was the first defect in Betty's makeup, her vulnerable heart. The second was her poor marksmanship. It was incredibly rotten. She couldn't hit a man 10 feet away. Three times she had wonderful chances to pump lead into the soft form of Gordon Chambers, and three times, in the anguish of her maudlin, jilted heart, she tried and missed.

BLONDE little Marion Kirk, a former choir organist in Estherville, Iowa, whom Betty had taken to her bosom and taught shoplifting and opium smoking, was the immediate cause of the trouble. Gordon Chambers, his pocket crackling with Betty's yellowbacks, took a fancy to Marion Kirk and they went to the night clubs together on the sly. Betty gave Gordon a $3000 diamond for Christmas, and what did he do with it but turn it over to the little slip of a blonde, whose racket was department stores?

If Betty were sore with Marion, she was dismayed at the action of Gordon Chambers. She pleaded with him, wrote him letters, telephoned him, but couldn't move him. The blonde "had" him. In her desperation, this underworld queen, a leader in her realm, resorted to an attack on her lover's sympathies to regain his parasitical affections.

She feigned illness and summoned her boy friend. He called a physician. The physician made an examination, wrote a prescription and winked at Gordon as he went out. Betty was shamming. The doctor knew it and the man knew it.

Gordon Chambers came home that night and threw open the door. As he did so, he was met by a shower of bullets which splintered the woodwork all around him, but failed to so much as graze his flesh. He ran.

He never came back, so Betty, once the proud "brains" of the quarter-million-dollar job in Cleveland and a score of other accomplishments, laid for him. Once she caught him on the street with the light-haired Marion and went into action with a pistol—and missed. Again, she caught him alone on the street, begged him to come back and, failing in her appeal, again fired and missed.

Convinced, apparently, of the futility of her efforts with firearms, Betty took to writing letters. There was no response to these, and then the third big defect of the "White Diamond" cropped out.

She talked. She gabbled. She was going to "turn up" everyone connected with the Cleveland deal. Would that make Gordon come back and ask for mercy? Possibly. So, in the last stages of desperation, Betty threatened to tell all.

This, of course, was a "squeal," and everyone knew what that called for.

IT HAPPENED, all right. Her body was found on the floor of her apartment, under a pile of silken pillows—a woman's touch, said the police. Around her neck, which was just beginning to get a little fleshy, was the cord of an electric floor lamp, drawn tightly, so as to choke off her breathing.

And around her mouth and nose—a warning to all "squealers"—was wrapped yards and yards of adhesive tape.

The wastebasket was cluttered up with half-written notes. Betty had been trying to compose a letter to Gordon, it seemed. The one on top of the pile began: "Dear Gordy: Revenge is the sweetest thing I know of"——

Occupants in neighboring apartments flocked around. They had heard loud voices on the morning of the murder and thought there were three or four men and another woman present in the Chambers suite. One of them had overheard the remark: "Here, Marion, hold this." And the police, knowing Marion Kirk had once been Betty's best friend, scoured the city for her.

MARION gave the detectives the slip. They searched her room and found a number of trinkets that had belonged to Betty, in addition to one of the murdered woman's numerous fur coats. There was also a complete opium smoking outfit. Betty had taught Marion how to smoke the poppy seed, and in the old days they had rolled many a friendly pill together.

J. Gordon Chambers had "lammed it" and was not available to the bluecoats. So had one "Eaglebeak" Joe Miller, also sought as an accomplice. While a private taxicab driver, who knew the Chambers mob, was telling the District Attorney that he had been with Gordon Chambers when he purchased a roll of adhesive tape such as had been wound around the murdered woman's mouth, Chambers and "Eaglebeak" Joe Miller were found by reporters and photographers in a roadhouse, holding high revel.

Miller was grinding tinny songs out of the cigarette-charred piano and Chambers was exhorting the world to "Baby Your Mother Like She Babied You."

The reporters were delighted. Here were two fugitives, sought by the Chicago police force, having a high time in a dump less than an hour's ride from the loop. Both men talked freely and told what a fine time they were having, and Chicago was duly notified in print inside of a few hours. But the reporters would not give the hiding place away and the police continued their search.

LAWYERS approached the District Attorney and offered to surrender their clients if the officials would promise to question them only about the murder and not go into past history, which might prove embarrassing. The officials refused and Chambers and Miller were kept in hiding. They drank deeply and had a fine time. There were more interviews in the papers, and pictures, too.

Meanwhile, Marion Kirk had surrendered. She walked into a police station and calmly gave herself up. She was so "hopped up" with opium that she was unable to talk coherently until the next day, and when she did talk, the police got no satisfaction. Marion was a shoplifter, yes; she had been on many shoplifting excursions and told all about them. But she was no murderer. And if she was, why should she murder her best friend? Anyway, she was going to "go straight" and settle down with a pickpocket, who had also decided to forsake crime.

Thus the case rests. Betty Chambers' mother came on from Detroit to claim her belongings. There were half a dozen fur coats, a score of evening dresses and many pairs of dancing slippers. Only one plain street dress was in the wardrobe.

"Betty chose the fast pace. She wished to lead a butterfly life," said the mother, speaking in the language of the tabloids. "She left Detroit six years ago. We didn't disown her. She became an outcast at her own choice. Less than a year ago her father burned the only photograph we had of her." Betty had also changed her name, which had been a long German one. When she met Chambers her name was McDonald, which she abandoned in favor of Chambers.

That was her first big mistake—meeting Chambers and getting sentimental. Her second was in missing him at close range three times; her third in smoking too much opium and getting loquacious.

The extent of her surrender to Chambers' doubtful charms is indicated in the following letter which she wrote him:

"DEAREST GORDY: Why are you so stubborn? It won't get you nowhere. Why don't you defy the world and admit the truth, that you love ME? Remember the argument I had with you at the Burbank (Hotel), when I cried and pleaded with you? You cried yourself. Why? For no other reason than that you loved me, and you know it, but you are afraid to declare yourself to the boys for fear they will ridicule you. Are you yellow, afraid to come and talk to me?

"You never had a girl that treated you as square as I did in your life. That's why you don't know what it's all about. Ask your boy friends. They will tell you the same. I always acted the part of a lady, which I am. You're accustomed to going out with bums. Tell your dear mother that it was me who remembered her at Christmas and not you. Also tell her that I said God bless her.

"I could do you so much dirt, but what's the use? There is no gain. Bury me here in Chicago and occasionally put a rose on my grave. Always yours, BETTY."

TO SUCH a pass had come the "White Diamond," leader of a small group of her own and a clever, resourceful worker, who had a ready entree into the highest circles of gem thieves. A master mind, a flashy, good-looking woman, a shrewd appraiser of jewelry store stocks, a cool one when the zero hour came—she had been completely humbled by a breath of love and the mawkish and fleeting affections of a subordinate, a mere hired hand.

Her downfall robbed her of her business acumen and the many qualities which made her valuable in the big time and reduced her from an attractive girl to a plump, fading woman, steeped in cheap sentiment and wrenched inwardly with all the anguish of the female whose love has scorned her. What an end for one who worked with an automatic—to be garroted with an electric light cord!

That isn't the worst anticlimax. The Don Juan for whom she kicked herself off the pedestal is still at large and in the neighborhood of Chicago. He drinks and sings. He has flitted from the blonde and now worships at other shrines and other checkbooks. He dickers with lawyers and newspaper reporters. He hands out interviews. He will surrender if they don't ask him about anything but the murder. And, mind, there must be no "goldfish."

The Many-Wived, Dandified MORMON PROPHET

Bones of Joseph Smith Dug Up and Reinterred at Nauvoo, Where He Saw His Greatest Glory and Near Which He Was Slain.

NAUVOO, Illinois.

THE hallowed skeleton of Prophet Joseph Smith, founder of the Mormon Church, was sealed in a cement crypt here a fortnight ago, after it had been found in a search fraught with prayer and fasting. A stone shaft on the river bank, near the house where the prophet of God wooed his many wives when this was the Mormon Mecca, will be raised to his memory above the crypt.

The bullet-riddled body of the mystic Vermonter, who claimed constant revelations from God and gave the world the Book of Mormon in the year 1830, had lain in an unmarked grave for 81 years. He was killed by a mob in Carthage, Illinois, in 1844, and Mormon brethren hurriedly brought the body to Nauvoo and hid it, fearing its disfigurement. Two years after its first burial, the prophet's body was again secretly interred, this time in an abandoned springhouse, near the historic "Nauvoo House," the hotel the prophet ran for tourists to the Illinois City of Saints.

Anti-Mormon mobs looked high and low for the body when they forced the exodus of the faithful, under artillery fire, in 1846. It wasn't found. It was hidden so well, in fact, that later searches by Mormon brethren failed to bring it to light until Frederic M. Smith, a grandson of the prophet and head of the schismatic branch of the Church of Latter Day Saints, ordered the hunt that culminated in the "inspired" discovery.

SIX days of digging for the ruins of the springhouse cellar failed to uncover a clew. The diggers followed directions left by long-dead persons who had been present at the secret burial, but in vain. They couldn't locate so much as a brick of the abandoned springhouse. Then the Mormon elder in charge of the digging decided to ask divine aid in locating the bones. He fasted an entire day and spent several hours on his knees, according to the prophet's grandson, and toward nightfall rose excitedly and summoned the diggers.

He indicated an undigged place, and in a comparatively short time the prophet's remains, with those of his brother, Hyrum, also a victim of the Carthage mob, came to light. Biographers of the prophet would find it fitting that revelation, which played such a large part in his life, was also a factor in the discovery of his grave.

Dandified Joseph Smith, polygamous prophet of God, drew the eyes of the world to Nauvoo in the '40s. Under his direction, a raw river town, with a handful of houses, turned into a religious capitol that boasted commercial, agricultural and political importance. No European visitor of prominence failed to visit this Mormon-created metropolis, one of the major towns in the State of Illinois. It was talked of in London and Paris and from the English mill towns thousands of Mormon converts set sail to hear from Joseph Smith his own message of salvation.

Joseph Smith was born at Sharon, Vermont, in 1805. His parents later moved to New York State and he grew up near Palmyra. He was descended on his mother's side from Scotch covenanters. His paternal grandfather was subject to "fits." On both sides, apparently, he had ancestors who held public office in their communities and were accounted men of worth. Joseph was an imaginative youth, uneducated, and he disliked work. He was also, his early contemporaries declare, inordinately fond of drink and spent much time with divining rods and colored glasses, seeking for buried treasure. He had read the Bible, the life history of Captain Kidd and the memoirs of a certain British evangelist when he was vouchsafed, at the age of 18, the Book of Mormon revelation.

JOSEPH said he had been visited by an angel from God named Moroni. The angel—a radiant person in a white robe—told Smith the Bible had been corrupted "in the Middle Ages" and that Joseph was to be the vehicle for giving a new text to the world. This had been written on golden plates in Chaldean, Assyrian, Greek, Egyptian and other languages by a heretofore unheard-of hero named Mormon—a deceased chieftain part Jewish and part American Indian. Joseph's task was to translate the golden plates, with the aid of Urim and Thummim, transparent magic stones from heaven that would make all clear to him.

When Smith first related the story of his vision, skeptics at Palmyra hooted at him. But he kept on repeating the tale and announced further that the translation was already under way. There are eight testimonials from persons who swore they saw and "hefted" the golden plates, and three other disciples of the prophet had a simultaneous vision of the plates, after hours of prayer, and "heard the voice of God." Psychologists have written much on the score of this "testimony" and its value. It is believed implicitly by the faithful. There are other stories to the effect that Smith filled several sacks with sand and carried them about with him, saying the bundle contained the plates. When the curious bothered him, he declared that no one could look on the plates with naked eye and live.

The book was dictated to disciples by Joseph as he sat, with Urim and Thummim over his eyes, hidden from the vulgar by a stretched blanket. Its actual composition began in 1827, four years after the prophet was first visited by Moroni, the angel. It was finished in 1829 and published in 1830—588 pages of revelation for $1.50.

THE book savored strongly of the Old and New Testaments. It obviously sought to identify the Lost Tribes of Israel—what had become of them was a burning religious speculation of the era—with the American Indian. There are phrases in the Book of Mormon that strangely resemble lines in William Shakspeare. There are other lines peculiarly like excerpts from the work of Alexander Pope. But Smith found few persons to test his inspired translation in analytical scales. In Palmyra, where he spent his boyhood, it is true, not many took seriously the revelation from "Peepstone Joe," as the prophet was called because of his attempt to see into rocks with colored glasses. But a prophet, of course, is never honored in his own country.

When Joseph Smith left the scene of his adolescence, however, and set out to make converts in distant places, he found hundreds thirsty for the strong drink of his prophecies. Not long after he set up shop as a prophet in Kirtland, Ohio, in fact, murmurs of his fame began to sweep the country.

To farm populations in 1831 the Book of Mormon was an impressively erudite piece of work. And it came from an ignorant youth whose only instruction had been at the hands of farm laborers in the field or barnyard. Ergo, it must be inspired. But the question rose: was it inspired by God, as Smith claimed, or by the devil? The question was important, because hell was all but a photographed fact in the public mind. If a man accepted the Book of Mormon and it was truly the latest revelation from God, then he was saved. But if the Book of Mormon came from the devil, to accept it would be to burn.

Baptist, Methodist and Campbellite preachers had no doubts as to the book. They saw in it plainly the horns and hoofs of Beelzebub. Yet converts went over daily to the prophet's flock. A band of enraged Baptists and Campbellites tarred and feathered the prophet, but he had a revelation stating his persecutors would be "destroyed," and the work went on. Joseph Smith led his flock in the ways of the Lord, established a tithe system of church revenues, built a sawmill and a tannery, opened a store and founded a bank, which God had revealed to him would absorb all other banks. But the hand of the law interfered with divine process and the bank was closed for failure to pay its debts. Prophet Joseph Smith left Kirtland under cover of night and set out for Missouri.

MISSOURI had at first welcomed Mormon settlers, and there were hundreds of them in Jackson County. But Missouri was beginning to have its doubts about the Mormons. Stories were circulated that the sect believed God had decreed whole counties for their use and the non-Mormons would eventually have to retire when enough Mormons had settled to vote fellow religionists into all public offices. There was also the rumor of Mormon polygamy. Persecution of the faithful began with heaving of brickbats and ended with a gubernatorial ultimatum—the Mormons must either leave Missouri or be exterminated. So the Mormons and their prophet went to Illinois.

It was here in this now sleepy river town, say Mormon chronicles, that Joseph Smith elaborated the doctrine of plural wives and added so many "stars to his crown"—figurative Mormon speech for taking additional consorts. The revelation from God authorizing polygamy came to the prophet in 1843, after, it must be said, his crown was already multi-starred. The purpose of the Lord, said God to Joseph Smith, was to raise up a populous people who would praise His name. Abraham took unto himself many wives, said the divine voice, only because God had so ordered.

"GO YE therefore," Joseph Smith quoted the Lord. "Go ye and do the work of Abraham, enter ye into my law, and ye shall be saved."

Joseph Smith lost no time. As quickly as possible he brought the number of his wives up to a full dozen. They dwelt with him in the same house and, with the exception of Emma Hale Smith, his first wife, were introduced to strangers as "nieces." It was not considered expedient to promulgate publicly the doctrine of polygamy. Joseph shied away even from imparting the revelation on plural wives to Emma, and it is said she did not suspect at first the relationship between Joesph and the numerous young women sheltered under the prophet's roof. Emma is said to have disapproved violently of the revelation when told of it by Hyrum, Joseph's brother. A compromise, however, was finally struck, and two of the new wives were allowed to stay in the house with Emma. The prophet had to board out the other nine.

That same year—1843—the prophet imparted to other elders the plural wives revelation. Many set out joyfully to follow it. Others balked. One of the elders wept at the prophet's command that he must marry other women besides his wife, whom he loved. But the prophet was adamant. He pointed out that those who did not follow the dictates of God were damned. The sorrowful elder quickly proposed to a maiden, a new convert to the faith, and was accepted. He took her to his home as wife No. 2.

The Mormon revelation, it appeared, attracted many more women than men. And polygamy was one way of binding them closer to the faith.

One of the prophet's wives later wrote: "In 1842 President Joseph Smith sought an interview with me and said: 'I have a message for you. I have been commanded by God to take another wife and you are the woman.' My astonishment knew no bounds. He asked me if I believed he was a prophet of God. 'Most assuredly I do,' I replied. He fully explained to me the principle of plural or celestial marriage. . . . He said: 'If you pray sincerely for light and understanding in relation thereto, you shall receive a testimony of the correctness of this principle.'"

Lucy Walker, a Scotch girl, reared in a strict home, could not bring herself to accept the prophet, but she prayed for several days, and finally "a great peace entered into her soul" and she knew it was a sign from heaven. "The first day of May, 1843," she wrote, "I consented to become the prophet's wife and was sealed to him for time and all eternity."

LUCY was wife No. 13. The prophet added others rapidly, sometimes as many as four a month, until the number reached 28. At the time Joseph Smith was 37 years old. He was 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighed 210 pounds. He was, say historians, "a fine figure of a man, very handsome." He dressed like a dandy and, according to Governor Ford of Illinois, "drank like a sailor and swore like a pirate." He was also fond of wrestling and boxing and could outdo any Mormon brother in feats of strength. His marital activities and athletic exercises did not interfere with his revelations from God. These kept up unceasingly on all manner of topics.

The prophet was dictator of Nauvoo and "Lieutenant-General" of the Nauvoo Legion of the militia. His underlings controlled the courts. No Eastern potentate wielded more absolute power than did Joseph Smith, and he could be led modestly to admit: "I combat the error of ages, I cope with

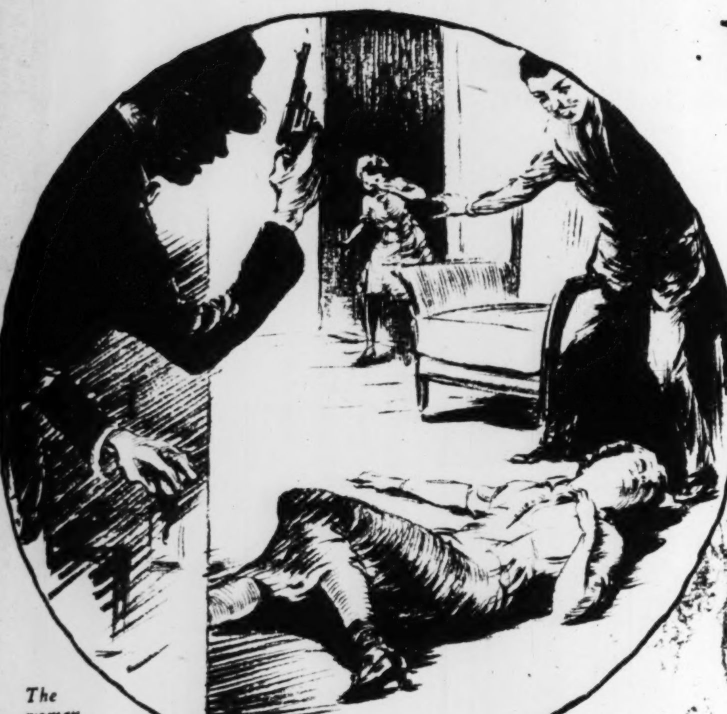
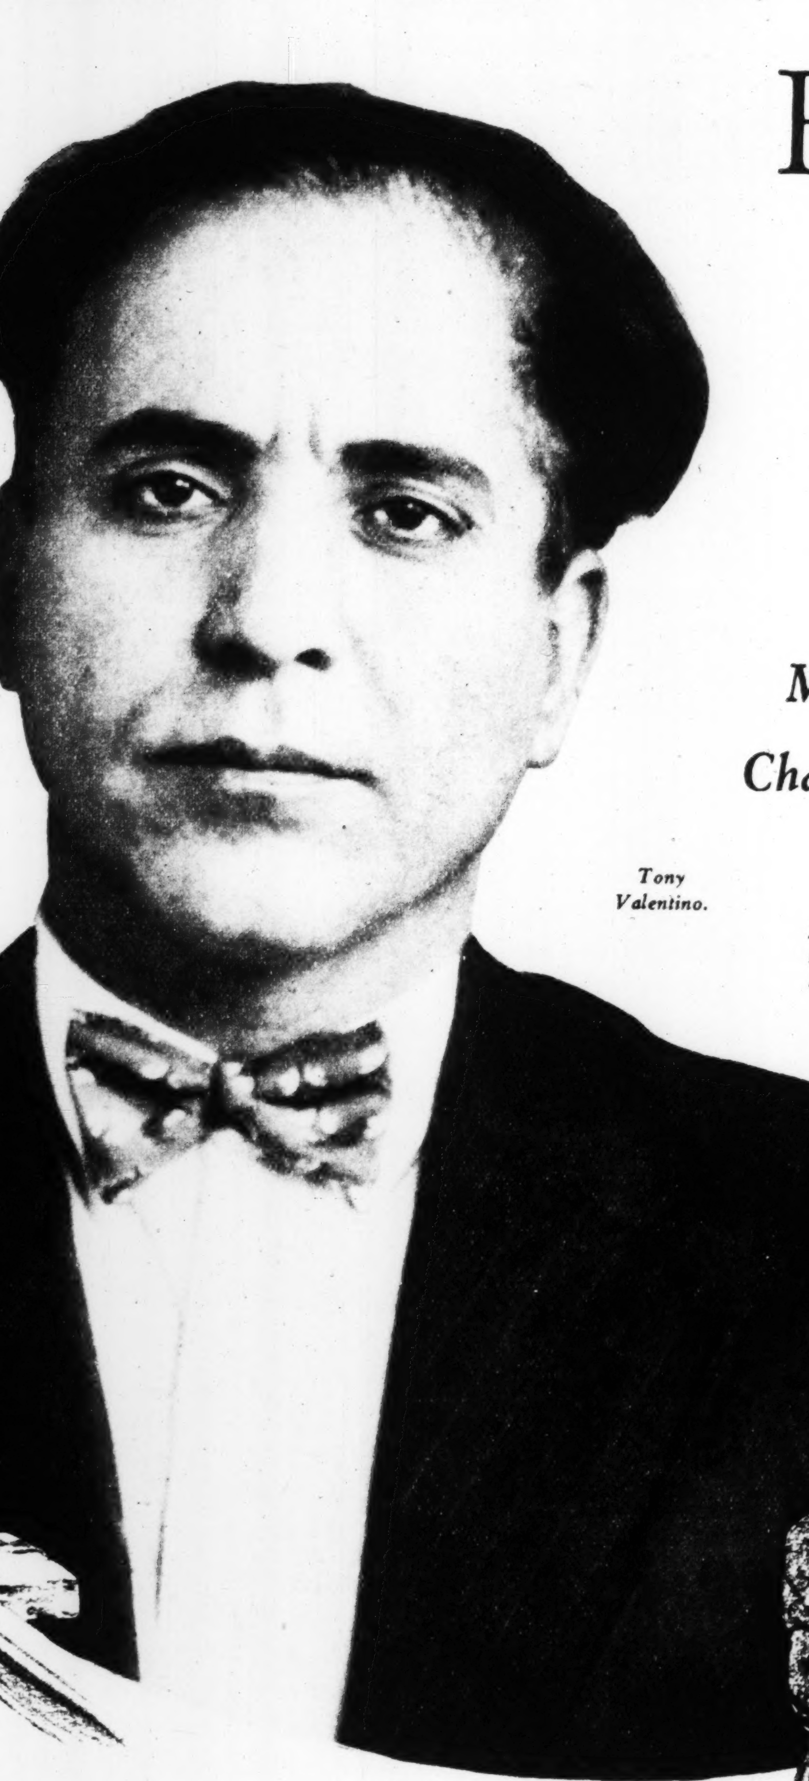
WHEN the WIFE-KILLER RETURNED

The Daughter Whom He Sought Has Disappeared and He Must Face a Fourteen-Year-Old Murder Charge.



The woman fell, mortally wounded.

He obtained work with a railroad gang.



Tony Valentino.

No one knew the whereabouts of his daughter.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

KENOSHA, Wisconsin.

IN a small garden plot, screened by some bushes, a man lay in wait one night, watching the windows of a flat above a neighborhood store.

A certain movement of the shadows against the curtain at one window confirmed his suspicions. He drew a gun, crept up the stairs leading to the flat and flung open the door to confront his wife and the man whom he had long suspected of being her lover.

Without hesitation he leveled the gun and fired. But even before he could do so the wife screamed and stepped between the two men. The woman fell, mortally wounded, while the husband turned and fled, hearing in his ears the frightened crying of their only child.

That happened nearly 14 years ago, and the principals involved were all Italians. The husband was Tony Valentino. His young wife had been, before her marriage, Lena Ruffalo, and the second man was an Italian who has since been deported. Now, Italian murders are common enough in police annals. So are unsolved Italian murders. And after 14 years the murder of the young Italian woman was just a dead entry on ancient police records.

But the other day Tony Valentino came back. In the intervening years he had struggled and toiled and saved for just one thing—so that he might come back to find the child he had left behind when he fled.

THE marriage of Tony Valentino and Lena Ruffalo had been an event of great importance in the Italian colony here. There were many reasons for this.

One reason—perhaps the principal one—was Lena Ruffalo's beauty. They still talk about it. At 15, they say, she was the most sought-after girl in the colony. She was of that early flowering Latin type, the type that Shakspeare has immortalized in the ill-starred Juliet. Very dark, with splendid eyes and the figure of a mature woman, she might have married almost any man she desired.

But she fell in love with Tony Valentino, who was a boarder in her parents' home. Nearly twice her age, he had been a persistent suitor, with a kind of doglike devotion that was never failing. Her parents opposed the match. They said she was too young for marriage. They said Valentino was too old for her. Her answer was that if she couldn't marry Tony she would marry no one. They at last gave their reluctant consent.

The marriage meant the union of two opposing factions, clans coming from different parts of Italy, which is a very significant factor among Italians in this country. It was a great occasion. There were many days of feasting, drinking and merry-making.

For three years Tony and Lena lived with the bride's parents. And everything seemed to go fairly well. A daughter was born to them in the first year of the marriage. But Tony was jealous of his beautiful wife almost from the first, almost fanatically jealous at times. With the elder Ruffalos in the same house, however, things went smoothly enough, even though Tony's job as night engineer in an automobile plant here permitted him to be home only during the day.

Then the Ruffalos decided to move to a new home, leaving their former establishment to Lena and Tony. In the two months that followed, Tony's jealousy came very close to madness. He was suspicious of every man, but particularly of one Luciani, a handsome young Romeo, who had been involved in several shooting scrapes.

The climax came on that night on which Tony Valentino went to work as usual, but returned to watch for confirmation of his suspicions. And such was the intensity of his jealousy that he would have found confirmation had Lena Valentino been the most innocent wife in the world, as, it is now maintained, she was.

With the shooting, his jealous torment ended but a greater torture began. More than any fear for himself—police efforts in Italian murder cases of this sort are never very exhaustive—there was a terrible uncertainty. Had he killed his wife or was she still living? What would happen to his child? These questions and a thousand others haunted him in the months that followed the shooting, Valentino told his attorney on his return the other day.

HIS hair turned white in two months, he says. A thousand phantoms haunted him. He went first to Chicago and there obtained work as a day laborer with a railroad gang. He learned, after a long time, that his wife was dead, that he was a murderer.

It was then, he says now, that a plan took shape in his mind. One idea came to dominate him—he must atone to the child for the murder of her mother. He must be reunited with his daughter, whose name, too, was Lena, and who might embody all that he had once worshiped in the other Lena Valentino.

Shortly after this he went to Crystal, Michigan, where a Chicago labor agency had secured a job for him as night engineer in a factory. It was not Tony Valentino, the murderer, who went to the little town of Crystal, it was another man altogether, a close-mouthed, quiet man, with a new name, with little information to give out about his past, who very soon became a hard-working member of the community and was accepted.

They liked Tony in the little Michigan town, letters which his attorneys have requested from various authorities there have disclosed. They admired and respected him.

At the outbreak of the war, Tony sought to join the army, but was rejected because of age. Thereupon he joined the home guards and gave all his spare time to various civilian duties, more or less directly connected with the war.

All this time Tony's bank account was growing. Each dollar he added meant one step nearer the goal he never lost sight of, never forgot. He says he thought a great deal about his daughter. Imagined her growing up in Kenosha, a little girl in pigtails, and then, perhaps, flowering as early as her mother had into a beautiful woman. Always he thought of her as with her mother's parents.

The payday on which his balance reached $6000 was a great day. That meant he was very close to his goal. He knew that it would take a great deal of money to employ attorneys to fight for the custody of the child and for his own freedom. Freedom for himself was definitely a part of the plan that he had formulated.

HE BEGAN negotiations with Judge R. V. Baker, whom he wished to retain as his attorney. A meeting was arranged with Judge Baker on neutral ground—in the Northwestern station in Chicago. This precaution was taken so that if anyone in Kenosha was very anxious to press the old charge he would be safe for the time being, anyway. From Judge Baker, Tony got the impression that the Ruffalo family was not very much inclined to push the murder charge, that to a certain degree he had been forgiven. It was decided that he should return to Kenosha to face the past. Nothing was said of the daughter. Everything up to this point had gone just as he had planned it.

What he felt as he stepped off the train on that day not long ago, 14 years after his flight, it would be difficult to say. Here was everything that he had worked and pinched for for so long.

But in one day the whole structure of his dream crumbled. He learned the following facts from friends in the colony:

NO ONE knew the whereabouts of his daughter. It was said that she had been adopted, through the offices of an Italian doctor, by a barber whose name even had been forgotten. This man and his family long since left the community. And no one knows their whereabouts. The District Attorney's office was apparently as anxious to convict him of murder as though the crime had happened last month instead of 14 years ago.

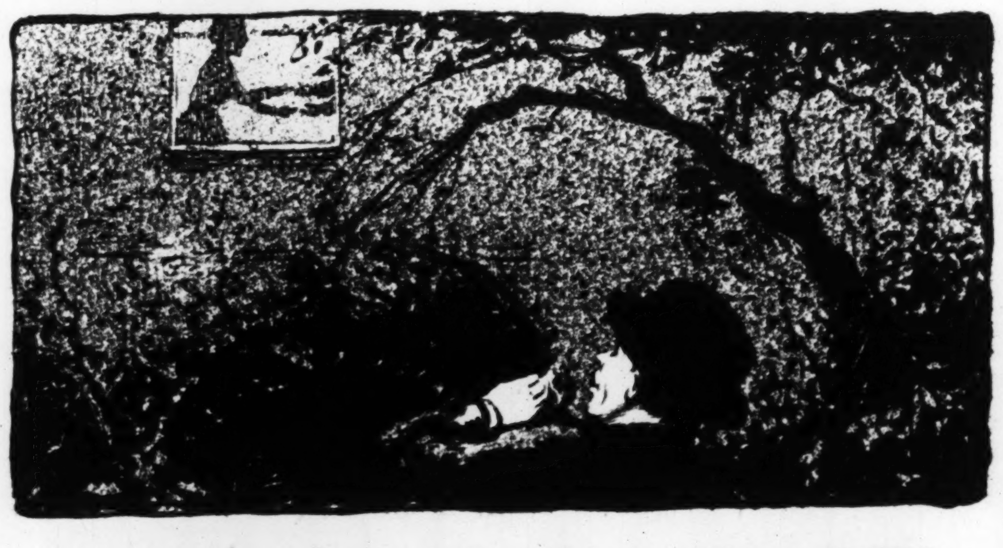
But even knowing these things, he was undaunted. He proceeded to go through the necessary legal motions, as directed by his attorney. He went to District Attorney Lewis V. Powell to surrender and make a formal confession of the crime and was put in jail.

He did not stay in jail long, however. Friends, who had remained loyal to him through the years, came forward to pledge $100,000 in property to free him on bond which had been set at $20,000. After a night in jail—the first time he had ever spent in prison—he was released and declared that he would henceforth devote all his time and money to a nation-wide search for the daughter.

He saved and saved.

Before he could take any action in this direction, it was impressed upon him that he would have a very stiff fight for his freedom, perhaps even for something less than life imprisonment. His defense, as now contemplated, will be based in part upon the "unwritten law" and in part upon self-defense.

BUT the District Attorney's office hopes to upset this. They will seek to prove that Valentino murdered his wife following an argument, that there was no third person present, that the motive for the crime grew out of his own jealous imagination.



The trial may be delayed for some weeks or months. Much hinges upon the testimony of Angelo Germano, an Italian doctor who has lived in this community for many years. He is at present traveling in Italy, and the trial may await his return. Doctor Germano was the first person to be summoned following the shooting. He attended Mrs. Valentino during the two months that she lived. It is said that what he knows—and no one is exactly sure what that is—will decide the case one way or the other.

It is rumored, too, that he knows the whereabouts of Tony's daughter, who would now be 17 years old. But again, whether or not he will tell is a question.

Judge Baker has impressed upon Tony that until the trial is over he must not attempt to prosecute his search. To do so would prejudice his case, Judge Baker believes.

Already it has served, more even than Tony's return, to revive the bitter hatred of his murdered wife's family, the Ruffalos. If, indeed, that hatred ever actually subsided.

Mrs. Joseph Ruffalo, the mother, is the embodiment of fury when she talks of the murder of her daughter. "Tony Valentino!" She draws the name out with a passionate intensity of scorn and hatred. "That man come back! For three years I live with them and nothing wrong. Then I move over on Benil street and it all happen. Just all happen.

"And he say she was a bad girl! Oh, she was a beautiful girl, a nice little girl. Nothing happen for three years! And then"—— She goes into a torrent of abuse too rapid to follow.

"HE'LL never find his daughter," another member of the family says, with a wise assurance. They sit about a littered table—all the Ruffalos. It is a gathering of the clan, for Tony Valentino has come back.

"He'll buy his way off, probably," another adds. "He'll buy his way free."

"And what do they say of us? When we sit here and do nothing and Tony Valentino walks around the streets."

Thus the Ruffalos are talking.

But Tony Valentino professes to be unafraid of threats, implied or otherwise. He is living here with relatives and seldom goes out unless it is to his lawyer's office. He has a quietly prosperous air, having spent a small part of his $6500 to make himself presentable with a new suit, overcoat and hat.

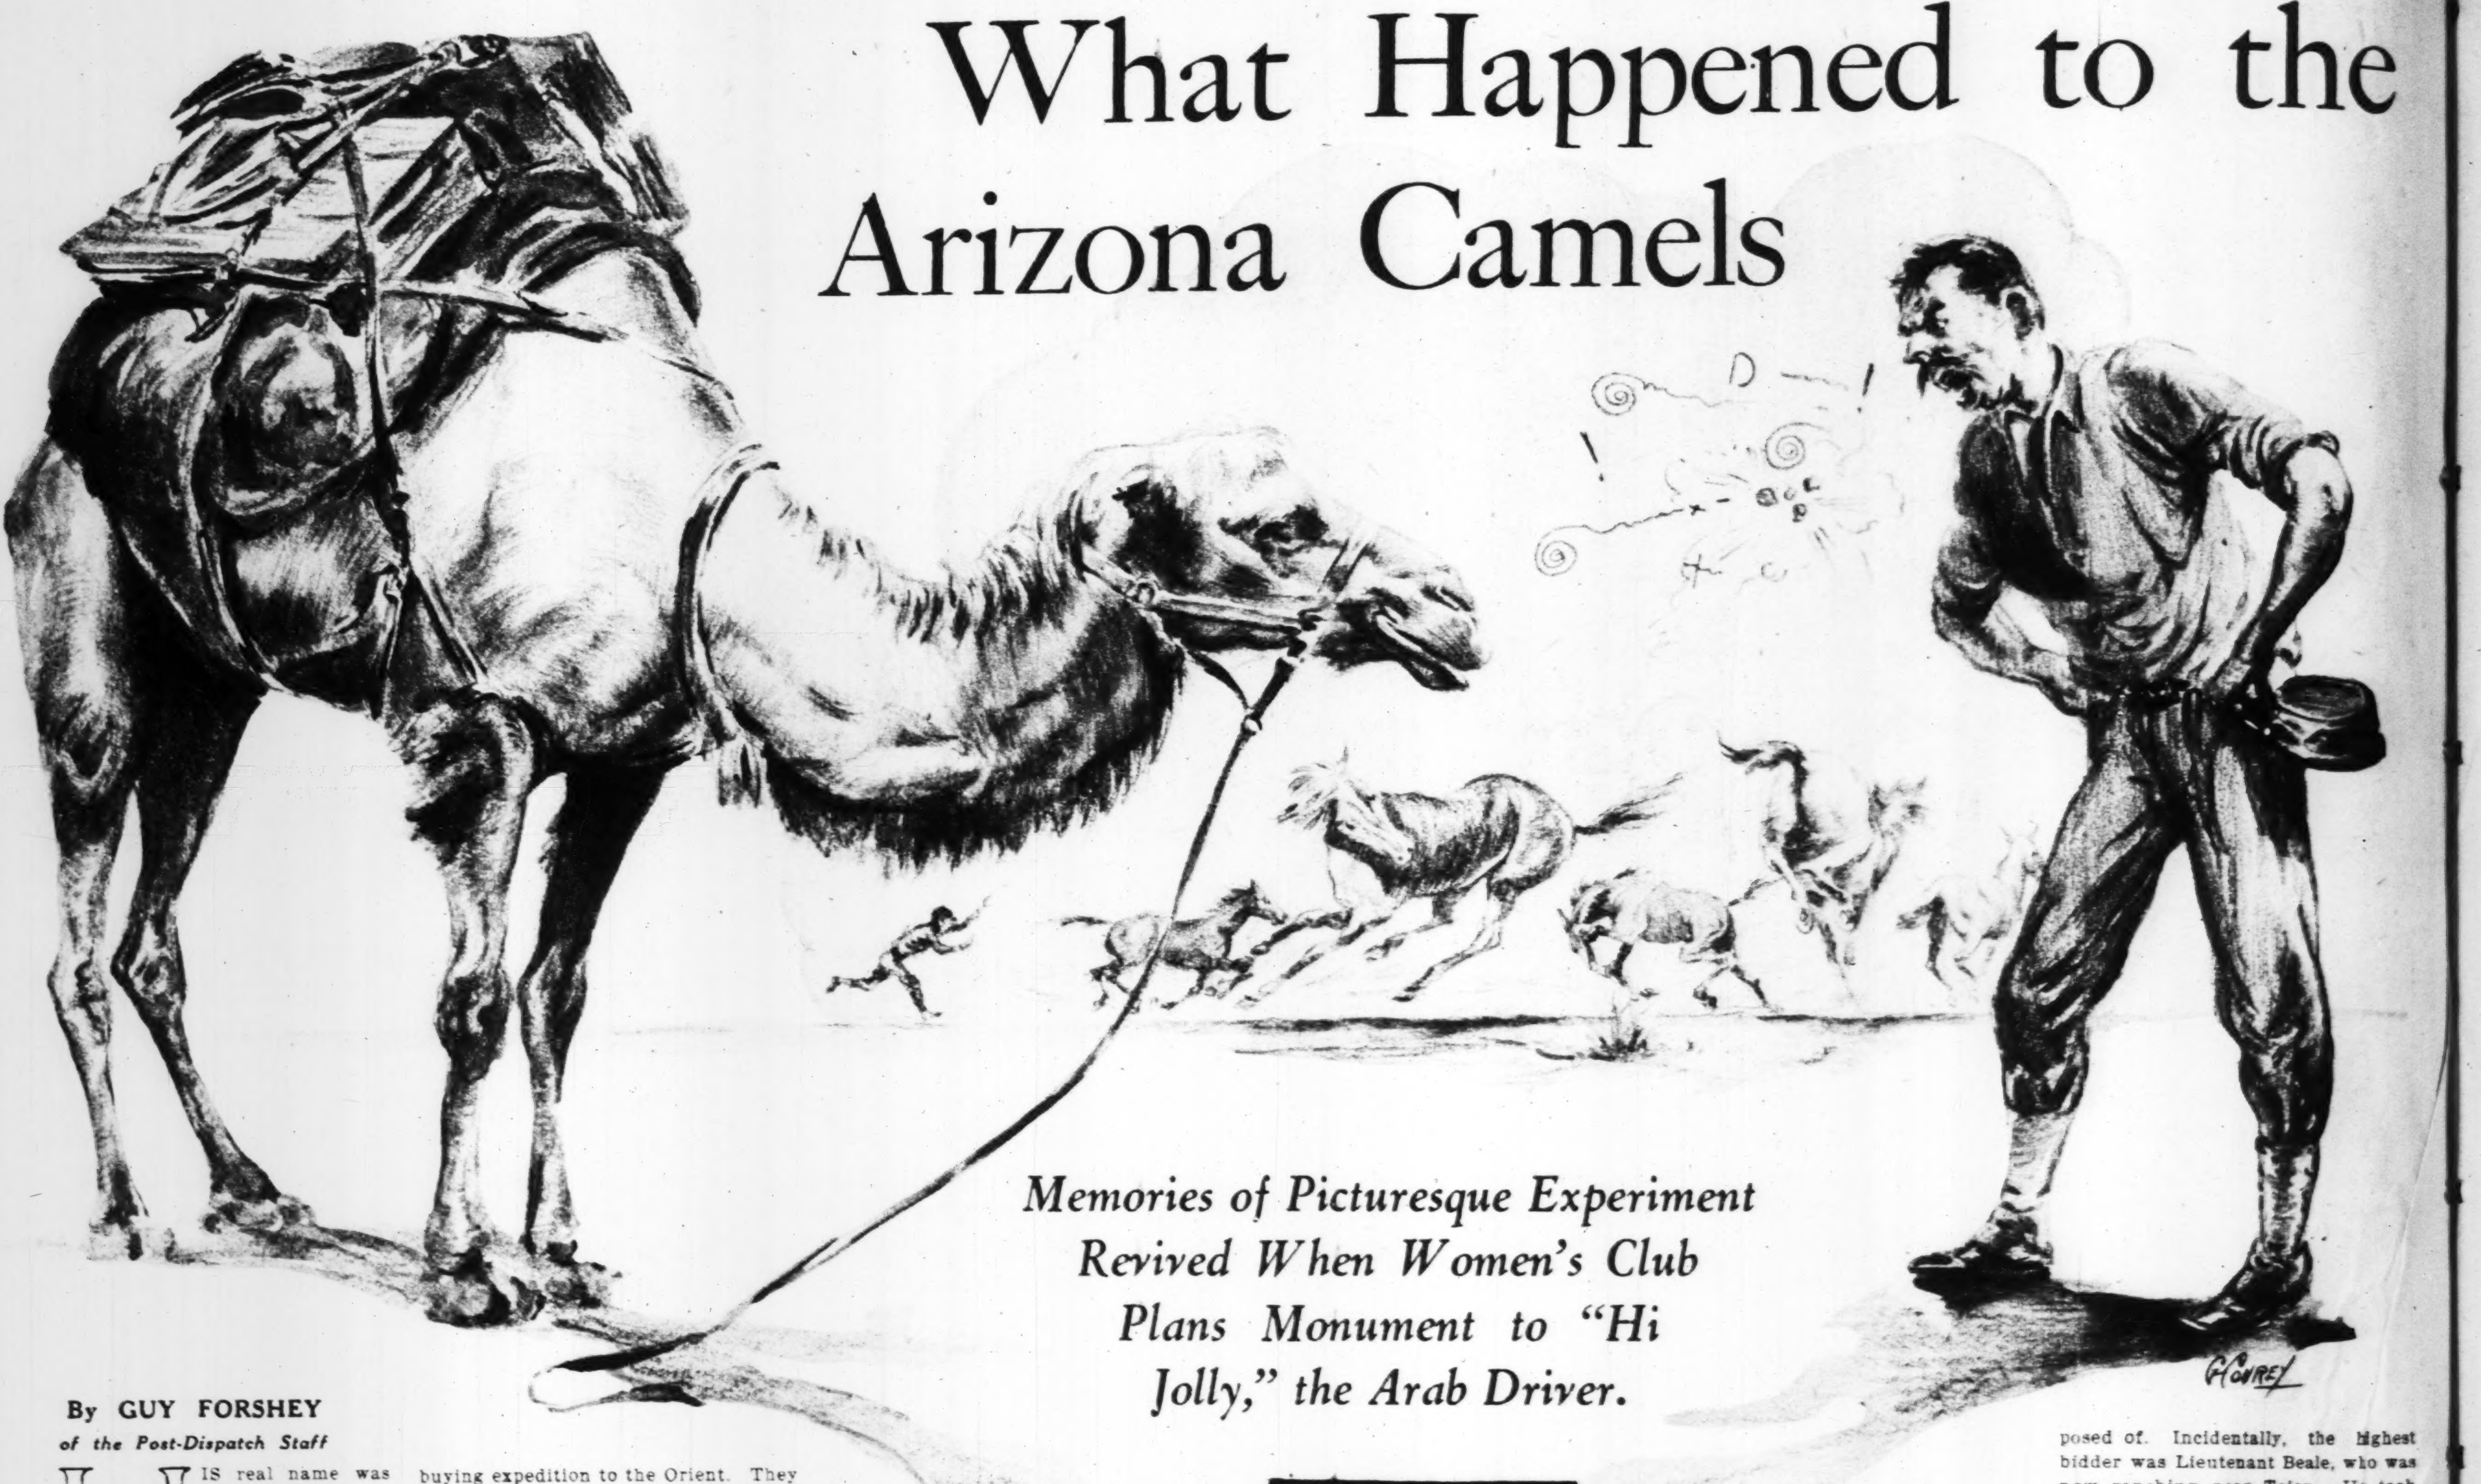
If you ask Tony about his approaching trial, he says:

"I don't know what they do about that. I leave it to my lawyer. But that don't matter. Maybe I get off, maybe not. But I want to find my little girl. That's what I have the money for. If I don't think I could find her I never would come back."

The older members of the colony are very dubious as to his chances of success in the search. The Ruffalos may know where the girl is, but they will never tell, they say. And if Doctor Germano knows, it is doubtful if he will disclose her whereabouts. It is so easy for Italians to move from one city to another and merge their identity completely in a new existence.

Meanwhile, Tony's $6500 is melting away. There are legal fees, living expenses, delay, always delay, and then more legal fees. But with it all he has that same quiet patience. He is going to find his daughter if she is alive. And there is something about the determined cast of his face that makes you believe that perhaps he will.

What Happened to the Arizona Camels



Memories of Picturesque Experiment Revived When Women's Club Plans Monument to "Hi Jolly," the Arab Driver.

By GUY FORSHEY
of the Post-Dispatch Staff

HIS real name was Charles Teadore, but that is a matter of no great consequence to this narrative because he didn't become famous as Charles Teadore. It is doubtful if anybody in Arizona in the early days ever heard his real name. The only time he ever used it was when he signed the army payroll and that, as every former soldier knows, is an activity celebrated in song and anecdote for its ineffectuality. By the soldiers, the desert teamsters, the mule skinners, prospectors and the rest of that motley crew with whom he lived when the Southwest was young he was known as "Hi Jolly," and as Hi Jolly he has come down in history. Even as Hi Jolly he cannot be said to have amounted to much in the record of great events. Hi Jolly defended no Alamos and tamed no frontier mining camps. The story of Arizona can be told adequately without mention of his name. He was only a good-natured camel driver, a short, squat, amiable little Arab who, back in 1857, transferred his affections from the sands of Arabia to the sands of Arizona, but he did his bit, quaint though it was, in helping build the American Southwest. He died in 1904 and his camel trails along the Gila River are becoming dim. Wherefore the Women's Club of Quartzite, Arizona, sees fit to perpetuate his memory with a monument. The shaft will rise in the public square at Quartzite, near the California line. There it will glare white in the desert sunshine to tell its story, now almost forgotten.

THE monument to Hi Jolly is somewhat more than a marker to the memory of a man. It points the way to a picturesque epoch in the history of the Southwest. It recalls a day when the American deserts made their bid for the romance of the Orient, when camel caravans were to be seen trekking across the Arizona sands under their loads of minerals and miner trappings. Not many remember now that America once tried to introduce the camel as a beast of burden. That fact itself, without further assertion, is sufficient perhaps to declare the experiment was short-lived and unsuccessful. But it is a fact that the experiment was tried. The monument to Hi Jolly revives the memory of the ill-fated venture.

It was none other than Jefferson Davis, later to be President of the Southern Confederacy, who first conceived the idea of conquering the American desert regions with camels. While Davis was still a Senator from Mississippi he hit upon the scheme, and in 1854, when he was Secretary of War, he moved to put it into execution. He first obtained from Congress an appropriation of $30,000 for the purpose, and in 1855 sent Major Henry C. Wayne, David D. Porter and Lieutenant E. F. Beale on a camel-buying expedition to the Orient. They went first, it seems, to Tunis and later canvassed half a dozen Mediterranean ports in quest of a cargo, having overlooked the fact that all available camels at that time were in use in the Crimean War district. They finally rounded up a shipload by going directly to the seat of war. On February 10, 1857, the naval store ship, Supply, landed 72 of the shaggy beasts at Indianola, Texas, and the quaint experiment was begun.

THE herd was divided into two trains at Indianola. One was taken overland to Albuquerque, New Mexico. There an expedition bound for Fort Tejon, California, was fitted out under the command of Lieutenant Beale. It reached Fort Tejon safely and a regular caravan service was established.

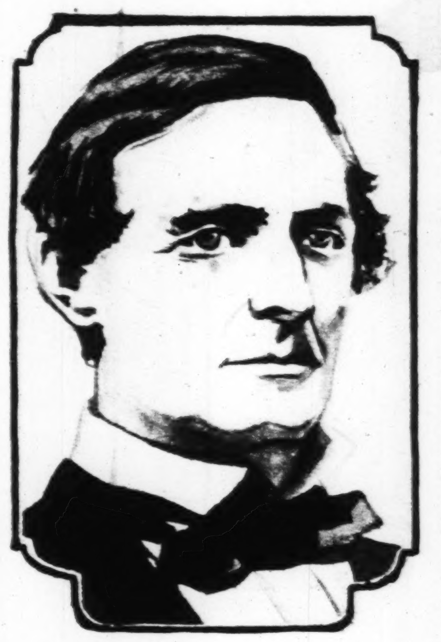
The other half of the herd was employed in packing on the plains of Texas and in Southern Arizona. It was with this herd that Hi Jolly cast his lot. Such fame as he gained in this world he gained as captain of that camel train. All the way from Arabia he had come—5000 miles—to show Americans how to handle camels, and if they never learned it was not his fault. He knew his profession. He was the best camel driver that ever whacked a dromedary across the knees, and he was a likeable chap. He was extremely courteous, almost obsequious. His courteousness seemed almost out of place on the rough American frontier. Besides his invariable good nature he had one other outstanding characteristic. That was his inevitable greeting, the salutation of the Saracen. "Hadj Ali," he would say to all comers. The soldiers thought that was funny. They began to call him "Hadj Ali," and this soon became Hi Jolly. Ever afterwards he was Hi Jolly. He became Charles Teadore only when he went to the paymaster's office to draw his $50 a month.

It looked at first as if the camels were to be a great success in their new desert. Lieutenant Beale became an enthusiastic supporter of the borrowed method of transportation. He was one of the few Americans who ever warmed up to the quaint animals, and openly admitted he liked them better than army mules. On his first trip between Indianola and Albuquerque, he wrote from El Paso all aflame in his praise of them.

"They are the most docile, patient and easily managed creatures in the world," he declared, "infinitely more easily worked than mules. From personal observation of the camels I would rather undertake the management of 20 of them than of five mules. They kneel to receive their load, which may be put on at the convenience of their master, and the process of packing is infinitely easier than the process of mule packing. These animals remain quietly on their knees until loaded. Contrast the lassoing, the blinding, the pulling and hauling of the ropes, the adjustment of the pack on an animal like the mule, flying around in all directions (to say nothing of a broken limb received from one of its numerous kicks) with the patient quiet of the camel kneeling for its load. We had them on this journey sometimes for 26 hours without water, exposed to intense heat, the mercury standing at 104 degrees, and when they came to water they seemed almost indifferent to it. Not all drank and those that did, not with the famished eagerness of other animals deprived of water for the same length of time."

OTHER army officers seemed to be of the same opinion. The majority were favorable toward the experiment and urged the army teamsters to give the camels a fair trial. But here arose the difficulty that was to spell defeat for the camel in America, in spite of his patience and efficiency. There was something in the temperament of the American soldier that made him forever incompatible with a camel. They were not violent enemies. They simply had no use for each other, or rather, the soldier had no use for the camel. The shaggy, docile, drowsy beast bored him to desperation. With a mule whose kick was ever ready and ever loaded with dynamite the case was different. He was interesting.

A mule was a responsive creature. When a teamster let loose with choice vocabulary, both teamster and mule enjoyed it. The teamster knew he understood and when the mule kicked back and put up a fight the teamster admired him for it. Even when the mule landed one on him, the ill-feeling thus engendered healed along with the bruise. Mules and soldiers went well together. They were friendly enemies who made life exciting for each other. But camels!



Jefferson Davis.

A mule skinner might cuss himself blue in the face and a camel wouldn't even wiggle an ear. Camels had no spirit. There wasn't a fight in a shipload of them. No way to get a rise out of them. They were too meek and tame. And, moreover, they never could learn to understand or appreciate good American cussing. That was what taxed the doughboy's patience most. A pack animal that understood only Syrian and didn't know when he was being cussed in American was impossible. It made no difference that a camel could pack a thousand pounds and travel at the rate of 16 miles an hour. The fact he could subsist on cactus and sage brush and go for 10 days without a drink counted not at all. His capacity for filling the need for cheap and rapid transit on the deserts of the Southwest all went for nothing against that one unpardonable fault — his obliviousness to strong language. Soldiers and teamsters could not be induced to like or even endure him.

It seems now that the Government made its mistake in not bringing along more men like Hi Jolly. The camels needed native drivers to look out for them and their needs. Men like Hi Jolly would have brought out the best in them. But not doughboys. The doughboys from the first were bent on undermining the reputation of this exasperating beast that couldn't be angered. They soon found other cause for complaint and a widespread propaganda against camels sprang up.

What if a camel could subsist on sagebrush? teamsters argued. It wasn't safe to turn him loose in the evening to graze. He was just as likely as not to take a stroll of 25 or 30 miles before supper. This, of course, meant staying up half the night to catch him or it meant a very late start next morning. There was another fault: Pack mules knew enough to respect each other's right of way in a narrow pass. Mules never willfully ran into each other. But camels would lumber right on until they collided, and then scrape around each other, scattering their packs and disarranging their equipment.

STILL another shortcoming speedily came to light and added its weight to the case against camels. Army horses and mules were frightened out of a year's growth every time a camel came on the premises. Just let one of the humpy creatures lift his voice and there was a stampede. With a snort and a plunge, any horse that happened to be nearby would hurriedly depart for the next county. The tired teamster would then have to hustle out and run down the fugitive. He never forgot the cause of his trouble, either. The soldiers, sympathizing with the teamsters, joined in their hatred of camels. Teamsters, impressed as camel drivers, would desert and soldiers would refuse to take their places. There was only one Hi, Jolly, so the ships of the desert finally came to anchor for want of pilots. There were little herds of them stranded in half a dozen forts over the Southwest. From then on their status went from bad to worse.

Finding itself unable to procure drivers, the Government finally gave up the experiment as a failure and announced that all herds would be sold at auction. Those at Forts Yuma and Tejon were taken to Benicia, California, and disposed of. Incidentally, the highest bidder was Lieutenant Beale, who was now ranching near Tejon. He took some of the herd to his ranch, and for a long time after that drove camels instead of horses. Others of the herd were bought by two Frenchmen, who took them to Nevada for use in the transportation of salt from the Reese River region to the Comstock mines. The rough and rocky terrain of Nevada, however, proved to be too hard for camels' feet, and the animals were of little use. Besides, the railroad soon came and rendered them unnecessary. Eventually they were returned to Arizona and for a time were used in freighting ore from the Silver King mine down the Gila River to their old headquarters at Yuma.

Finally came the end. When it seemed that camels could no longer be made to pay for their keep and the trouble of handling them, what remained of the band—about 35 in all—was rounded up and ungratefully set adrift on the Arizona desert near Maricopa Wells. That was in the early seventies. For years after that, travelers unfamiliar with the story of Jeff Davis' camels would be startled and amazed now and then at sight of one of the strange beasts ambling across the sands. Loath to shift for themselves, the camels lingered near the overland trails, and again won the hatred of the teamsters by invading camps and stampeding the mules.

THE teamsters and soldiers never forgot their old grudge, and now that camel hunting could be conducted in the manner most pleasing to them, they never missed an opportunity to kill one. The Indians learned to hunt camels, too. There was irony in this. When Secretary Davis imported the beasts, one of his strongest arguments with the War Department was that they would be useful in hunting Indians. Now they were a prey to the Indians. The Apaches, never noted for fastidious tastes, grew very fond of camel meat and pursued them hungrily.

Thus with the Apaches after them for food and the teamsters after them for vengeance, the famous Jeff Davis camels were doomed to extinction. In 1882 a few of them that had survived were rounded up and sold to a circus. The others, there is every reason to believe, perished quickly. But it was a long time before the "wild camel" legends wore themselves out. As late as 1901 tales could still be heard of shaggy, uncouth animals, white with age, still wandering on the Arizona deserts. Lively legends sprang up about some of these derelicts. One came to be known among the Mexicans as "La Phantasmia," and to American settlers as "the Red Ghost." Strange powers and a great deal of viciousness were imputed to this wandering beast. One particularly gruesome tale was that for years the animal carried about with it the corpse of a Mexican who had been slain and bound upon its back. Lonely campers and prospectors lived in horror of "the Red Ghost."

TALES OF REAL DOGS

BOUNCE: the Mongrel Hero.

I AM not going to give the true names of the people who figure in this tale. As I have said in earlier articles, it is not my aim to throw discredit on any of the humans who figure in my series, but merely to tell the worth-while true stories of certain dogs whose lives were dramatic or otherwise interesting.

So we will call the family's name "Jones" and say they dwelt in a mid-western village. They were three in number, a husband and wife and their 2-year-old baby. They were well-to-do farmfolk and lived on the outskirts of their little town.

One blizzardy winter night, as Jones and his wife were making ready for bed, there was a lull in the roar of the storm; and through this lull they heard a faint whine and a sniffing sound, just outside the front door. Jones went to investigate.

On the threshold huddled something that looked like a miniature snowdrift. With a final effort of its frozen and exhausted body it stumbled into the hallway and sank helpless at Jones' feet.

The lamplight showed it to be a half-grown shaggy mongrel puppy; its thick coat matted with sleet and its paws bleeding and raw from long travel over rutted winter roads. It was a pitiful sight, as it lay moaning and shuddering there on the floor, more dead than alive.

Jones and his wife had no dog. Unlike most of their rural neighbors, they did not care to own a dog. Moreover, this ice-coated and starving creature was not prepossessing in appearance as it sprawled at their feet and stared up at them in dumb entreaty.

Jones did not intend to harbor tramp dogs in his clean house. So he strode to the front door and held it open, preparatory to kicking the piteous mongrel back into the blizzard, whence it had crawled to him for mercy.

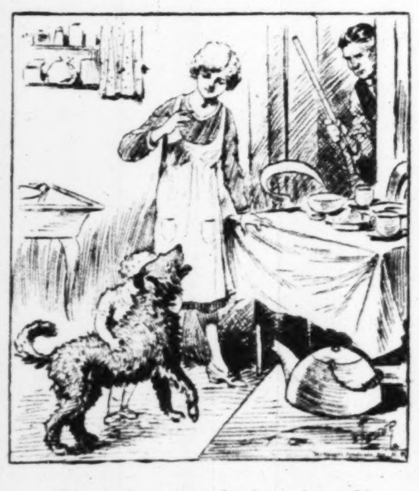
AS he opened the door a swirl of snowy wind swept in and blew out the lamp Mrs. Jones was holding above her head. Two or three minutes passed before the couple could grope their way back into the living room and find matches and relight the lamp. Then they found Jones had forgotten to shut the front door and that snow was drifting in across the threshold and along the hallway.

By the time the snow was swept out and the door safely shut, Jones remembered the shivering puppy and his own plan to kick it out into the night. But the pup was nowhere to be found. Then Jones decided the mongrel had been scared by their angry words and by the vigorous snow sweeping and that it had slunk out again, whence it came.

The couple went to bed, dismissing the incident from their minds. Next morning, as they and the baby were in the kitchen at breakfast time, a big and fluffy puppy came wiggling out toward them from behind the stove. In the excitement and the darkness of the night before the pup had made his way instinctively to the warmest place he could find.

While the Joneses had been relighting the lamp, he had summoned strength enough to creep past them to the kitchen and to hide in the ample space between the kitchen wall and the range.

There, apparently, he had lain until he was rested and thawed enough to realize he was hungry. Thence he had issued forth to seek food. He had found a pan of milk, "set" for cream, and had drunk it all. A half-loaf of bread, on the kitchen table, had also served to ease his hunger. Then, fed and warm and sleepy, he had retired behind the stove to finish his nap.



The father came back to face this pretty spectacle.

The Joneses were furious. This shambling mongrel had tricked them and had robbed them of food. Jones resolved not to be content with merely kicking him out into the snow this time. The man hurried into the next room for his gun.

But the baby had caught sight of the friendly advancing intruder. With a squeal of delight the little girl toddled across to the dog and flung both pudgy arms around his neck. The father came back to face this pretty spectacle, and to see a new look of tolerance in his wife's eyes. The couple adored this baby daughter of theirs.

The upshot of the matter was that the puppy was allowed to stay. Jones named him "Bounce." The mongrel grew rapidly into a big and handsome and powerful young dog. He was as devoted to the baby as was the baby to him. He followed the child everywhere and slept at the side of her crib at night.

ONE spring day she fell into the brook, near the house, tumbling from the bank into a deep waterhole, where she must have drowned had not Bounce plunged in and dragged her to safety. Her father, from a distance, had seen the mishap, and the rescue, but had been too far away to save the child. After that Bounce's place in the household was assured.

The baby's name was Gladys. It became a favorite stunt for her parents, when there were visitors at the farm, to ask Bounce: "Where is Gladys?" Always the puppy would rush off in search of the child. It was not much of a trick, perhaps, but it amused the Joneses, and it was to have terrible results later on.

One night Bounce broke into thunderous barking and ran into Jones' bedroom, seizing and shaking the man by the shoulder. The house was on fire, ignited by the upsetting of that same kitchen range behind which Bounce had hidden on the night he arrived at the farm.

Jones and his wife were very heavy sleepers. But for the dog's warning they and Gladys might well have been burned to death before they could have awakened. As it was, they got out of the house in time, and were not only able to save their own lives and to carry Gladys to safety, but also to telephone for aid.

Gladys was carried to a neighbor's home. As Jones and his wife and the other onlookers stood gazing helplessly at the house which had become a mountain of living flame, a new arrival noticed that the baby was not with them. Not knowing the little girl had been taken to a place of safety, this newcomer waved his hand dramatically toward the blazing house and yelled:

"Where's Gladys?"

At the familiar question and the signal, Bounce dashed madly into the mass of flames, to rescue his adored little friend, who, presumably, still was there. In through the flaming doorway he charged. Days later his bones were found among the ruins of the house.

Richthofen Brought Down but Not Fatally — Formation Flying Developed — British Bomb Richthofen's Headquarters — His Victories Mount Up.

PART IV.

(Editor's Note: Richthofen had scored 17 victories at the close of the preceding installment. It remained, as now will be told, for a "dud" photography plane, making pictures over Vimy Ridge, to bring him down.)

AT HIGH NOON the next day, January 24, Richthofen's swarm found its prey in the air just west of Vimy Ridge, then held by the Germans.

It was an English photography plane from the Twenty-fifth Squadron, Royal Flying Corps, calmly engaged in taking mosaic photographs. Captain O. Greig was at the controls and Second Lieutenant J. E. Maclenan was working the camera.

Greig and Maclenan's bus was an F. E. 2b, another type of the old British Fighting Experimental. It was a two-seater pusher—with the propeller behind—and its power consisted of a 160-horsepower Beardmore motor.

It was equipped with two Lewis machine guns, one firing in a forward arc and the other firing upward in an arc above the upper plane. With this rather cumbersome armament, controlled only by the observer, it was impossible to fire backward and downward.

Richthofen's machine was a single-seater B. U. Albatross, with two synchronized guns firing through the propeller and fitted with a 200-horsepower Mercedes motor. At that time it was considered the fastest plane in the war.

Maclenan, in the forward compartment, with his eyes glued on the camera sights pointed toward the earth, suddenly heard the rat-tat-tat of a machine gun from behind. A burst of leaden pellets from Richthofen's twin barrels sprayed the plane.

The lead missed Maclenan, due to his being in a bent-over position at the time, but Greig's feet were actually lifted off the pedal controls when bullets tore their way through both of his legs below the knees. The oil and petrol tanks were punctured, releasing the pressure, and the propeller was shattered.

MACLENAN stood up in the plane and grabbed the trigger of the aft machine gun that fired upward over Greig's head. He saw the red machine diving away below him.

Only once did Richthofen depart from his tactics of attacking the English bus from its blind spot behind and below. That was when, in returning to his favorite position, he swept at terrific speed directly in front of the English plane, and Mac managed to rip out two short bursts of bullets from the forward gun.

Some of that lead went home, cracking one of the Albatross' wings, but the machine held together and Richthofen managed to bring it safely to earth a quarter of a mile away from the spot where Greig had landed the limping F. E. 2b on an even keel. They were behind the German lines.

Greig couldn't stand, but Mac crawled into the pilot's compartment and pulled his wounded comrade out. He carried Greig 20 feet away from the plane; then, running back, he reached into the cockpit and pulled the flare torch provided for that purpose. In a minute the English plane was blazing.

The two Englishmen surrendered with smiles to the German soldiers who ran forward, somewhat chagrined that they had allowed them time to fire their machine.

During the following week the jagdstaffel devoted itself seriously to building up its score of killings so that it would make a showing against the record of the Boelke squadron.

THERE were daily patrols in the bitter winter air high above the lines, and brushes occurred with the English during every flight. Richthofen opened the month of February with another successful combat, in which two more English flyers paid with their lives—Lieutenant P. W. Murray, an old pilot of the Sixteenth Squadron, R. F. C., who was handling the controls, and Lieutenant T. D. McRae, operating the camera.

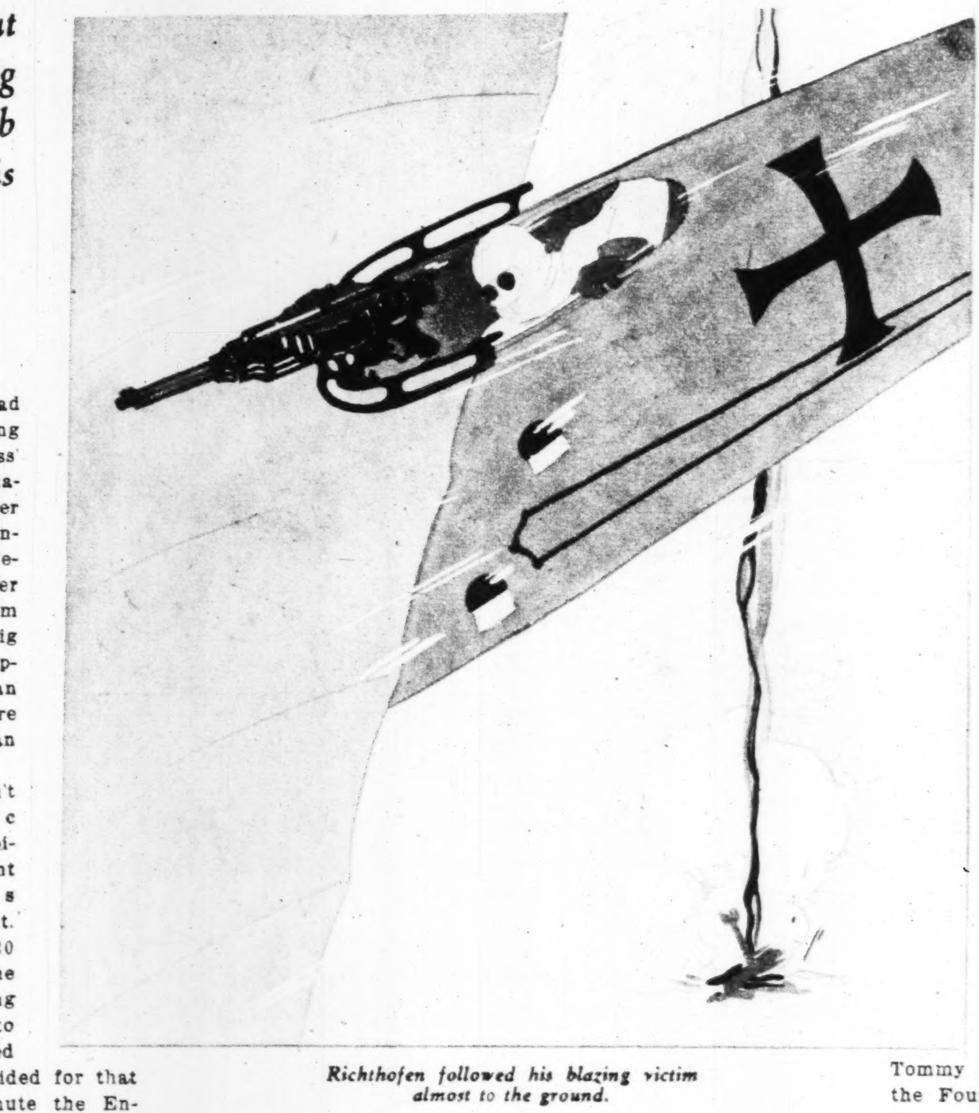
Richthofen's next victory came 13 days later.

Doug Bennett was missing to his parents for two months. To Richthofen he was dead. The German ace reported by name that he had killed him.

But he was not killed. He's alive today. He is Cyril Douglas Bennett, who was the pilot of the plane that Richthofen knocked down that February noon, 11 years ago.

Bennett was 19 years old then. Second Lieutenant H. A. Croft, his observer, was killed; but Bennett pulled through with a base fracture of the skull that completely wiped out every memory of his fight in the air.

Richthofen had another fight on that same day. The plane he shot down landed on the English side of the lines, but the British records reveal no air casualty at the time stated.



Richthofen followed his blazing victim almost to the ground.

It is presumed that the occupants of the machine escaped without sufficient injuries to place them on the casualty lists, although Richthofen's report would make such an outcome seem almost a miracle. It was his twenty-first victory.

Although he flew almost every day and fighting was always his principal duty, there was other work required of the German ace. This concerned principally his ingenuity in creating or perfecting new methods of individual and organized attack, and also in analyzing the air tactics of the enemy.

As squadron and close-formation flying developed on both sides, it became the tactics of the most successful air scouts to lie in wait for the plane that dropped out of formation. The lone plane was almost "cold meat" to an experienced scout pilot.

On March 4, Richthofen shot down his twenty-second plane, as the result of a clash between a German and an English formation.

Lieutenant Herbert J. Green was the pilot and Lieutenant W. Reid was the observer in the English plane, which went up early that afternoon on an offensive patrol over the lines.

EARLIER on the same day that he killed Green and Reid, Richthofen had encountered another English plane and shot it down, but credit for the victory was not acknowledged by the high command until some time later, on account of the death of witnesses and the fact that the plane fell in the English lines. In consequence, the combat is registered as his twenty-third, and not his twenty-second.

The English casualty list reveals that this plane was from the Eighth Squadron and was being flown on an artillery patrol by Pilot Sergeant R. J. Moody, with Second Lieutenant E. E. Horn in the observer's seat. English infantry witnessed the air fight and watched Moody's plucky attempts to regain his own lines.

The plane crashed between the lines and could not be reached during daylight. That night, when patrols reached the wreckage, Moody and Horn were dead.

In the German records there are sufficient inconsistencies to reveal that great pains were taken to verify the claims made by flyers for combats that took place over the enemy lines. As a result of this, earlier victories sometimes bear a record number not in keeping with the date on which they occurred.

On March 3, Richthofen claimed to have shot down an English plane behind the English lines, but acknowledgment of his report was withheld until some days later, and subsequent victories having been acknowledged in the meantime, the March 3 claim was entered on the records as his twenty-fourth victory.

He said that the plane was a B. E. two-seater and that the fight occurred at 5 p. m. over Souchez, but it is apparent that a mistake exists in one of the two records, as the English records report no air casualty on that day.

On his silver victory cups Richthofen inscribed his twenty-fourth victory under date of March 6. In that Valhalla where the heroes of the air must meet some day there will be ample material for argument.

For example, the spirit of Richthofen will undoubtedly want to know who it was that shot him down on March 9, 1917, just after the official acknowledgment of the twenty-fourth victory.

The flying uhlan has written at length on that experience, which gave him a chance to feel some of the things that his opponents felt when they fell under his guns.

It occurred early in the morning over the German artillery positions around Lens, where the English flyers were out in force—making observations, photographing trench lines, bombing ammunition dumps and directing artillery fire. Richthofen's squadron was attacked by a formation of English pursuit planes. Describing it, he said:

"Soon I had lost sight of the enemy plane. I had fallen to an altitude of perhaps 1000 feet, and had to look out for a landing. I found a meadow. It was not very large, but it just sufficed if I used due caution. I landed without accident."

A German officer rushed into the field and found Richthofen sitting in the cockpit of his bus with his legs dangling over the side.

The man took him to a nearby officers' mess, but failed to recognize the German ace either by face or name.

"Have you ever brought down an Englishman?" the officer asked.

"Oh, yes, I have done so now and then," replied Richthofen, proud, but a little pained.

"Indeed," the officer replied; "maybe you have shot down two?"

"No, not two," replied the flying uhlan, "but 24."

RICHTHOFEN said later that the officer looked at him as if he were talking to a colossal liar. The explanation came when the German ace removed his flying togs and stepped forth in uniform, with the Pour le Merite order hanging from his neck. The mess feasted Richthofen with champagne.

Richthofen's twenty-fifth victory resulted in the death of Lieutenant A. W. Pearson.

Identification had been difficult because, as Richthofen stated in his report, Pearson's body had been almost completely incinerated before his flaming coffin struck the earth.

Richthofen, who had followed his flaming victim almost to the ground, saw at close hand the fearful death that Fate had spared him just three hours earlier that day. The sight did not unnerve him.

Two days later he killed two more men. One of these was Eddy Byrne, whose death deserves particular attention because he was one of those ardent spirits who refused to recognize the generally accepted dictum that air fighting is a young man's game.

Eddy was 37 years old and a veteran of the regular army with 12 years of service in China, India and Africa.

When war broke out, Eddy, having retired from the army, was managing the establishment of a wealthy Scotchman in Edinburg, but always maintained his rooms at the Catholic Working Boys' Home in that city.

He went to France at once with the Australian Volunteer Hospital Corps and, finding this too dull and different from his old army life, switched to the armored motor car corps for more excitement.

When the armored car went into the limbo of bows and arrows at at the end of the war of movement, its commanding officer, the Duke of Westminster, recommended the old Tommy for a commission in the Fourth Gordon Highlanders. He served in the trenches with them and was severely wounded.

Two weeks after leaving the hospital he was undergoing instruction for the air, and a month later saw him as a qualified observer on flights over the German lines.

Eddy went to his death on March 11. At 10:30 o'clock that morning Byrne, with Second Lieutenant J. Smith in the pilot's office, went aloft in one of the old B. E. two-seaters to photograph certain German artillery positions. The plane was armed with two Lewis machine guns.

Over Givenchy, another English flyer saw a lone German plane drop out of the upper blue and rip a merciless volley of lead into the photography plane. They saw Byrne and Smith go down on the German side of the line with smoke pouring from the plane.

Richthofen's next victory cost the lives of Lieutenant A. E. Boultbee and Air Mechanic F. King, who fell to their death near Oppy.

RICHTHOFEN was in excellent form. He had killed two men in the morning. In the afternoon he killed two more.

One of them was Second Lieutenant G. M. Watt, a 27-year-old pilot of the Sixteenth Squadron, and the other was his observer, Sergeant F. A. Howlett, who had come into the flying corps from an East Kent regiment in which he had distinguished himself.

Without being marked by battles of major importance, the months of January, February and March had been punctuated with numerous fierce actions and engagements that have been placed under the general heading of the operations on the Ancre.

Richthofen's squadron had participated in the fighting around Miraumont on February 17 and 18.

On that March 17 when Richthofen snuffed out the lives of Boultbee and King and Watt and Howlett, English ground forces pushed their way into Bapaume in the face of considerable resistance, and on the following day occupied Peronne.

Although he spent from three to six hours every day in the air and engaged in numerous hot combats, it was not until three days after the English occupation of Peronne that Richthofen succeeded in registering his next victory, which he did at the cost of two more English lives, those of Pilot Sergeant S. H. Quicke, a London youngster, who had said good-by to his mother several weeks before at East Finchley, and Second Lieutenant W. J. Lindsay, who were doing their second patrol of the day on the afternoon of March 21.

On the following day, March 22, Richthofen received his first promotion of the war. The uhlan of the sky became a First Lieutenant, which, in consideration of his age—he was only 24—was an exceptional advancement under the strict regulations of the German army.

Two days later he celebrated the promotion with another successful combat and the capture of Lieutenant Baker, forced to land.

The day after his capture of Baker, Richthofen took another prisoner, this one being Second Lieutenant C. G. Gilbert, a pilot of the Twenty-ninth Squadron, who was flying a fast French Nieuport machine on escort duty.

The flying uhlan was proud of the ease and dispatch with which he handled this English adversary, because it was the first time he had had an opportunity to perform in the air on the same mission as his brother, Lothar.

The little silver cups ranged on Richthofen's desk now numbered 31. It was not quite three months since he had been placed in command of his own squadron and he had jumped his individual bag of victories from 16 to 31, almost doubling the score.

To kill, to wound or to capture an average of a man a day for a month is the unprecedented war record which young Von Richthofen wrote in blood during the 30 days of April, 1917.

It was the month America entered the war.

THE appearance of this new and formidable ally in the ranks of Germany's foes added fresh fuel to the killer spirit that dominated the uhlan of the skies.

He produced results and demanded increased production from the members of his unit. He kept careful books on their killings and became intolerant of those who lagged on the record. His own bag increased almost daily.

German technical genius and industrial efficiency were responsible in no small degree for the April successes of their flying forces. They brought out their new spring model planes at least six weeks before the British could deliver theirs at the front.

For this failure on the part of home production in England, scores of young British flyers paid with their lives. Their old last-year machines—of the slow, cumbersome B. E. and F. E. type and the De Haviland pusher system—were hopelessly outclassed by the new Halberstadt and Albatross scouts.

The German machines could literally fly circles around their adversaries; could outclimb and outmaneuver any British plane in the air.

IT was not until the middle of the following May that the lagging British supply department was able to equalize matters by delivering numbers of the new English models—the two-seater Bristol fighters, the S. E.-5 single-seater fighting planes, and the De Haviland-4 two-seater fighting and bombing planes.

By April 5 the Germans had completed their retreat to the Hindenburg line, and four days later the allies opened their spring offensive of 1917 with the attack on Vimy Ridge and the first battle of the Scarpe.

The conflict waged unremittingly night and day throughout the month, and the activity of both sides in the air reached a peak never before touched in the war.

When to Suspect Acid Scalp

It isn't age that dulls the hair. Nor frequent washing or curling. If your hair lacks all life and lustre, it may be due to a condition you can correct in twenty-four hours. Acid scalp.

Neutralize the acid secretions of the scalp, and your hair will have the lovely sheen that makes any hair so attractive. A few drops of Danderine will do this; and as its name implies, Danderine is a scientific dandruff dissolvent. Five minutes after Danderine is applied, every particle of dandruff has been dissolved!

Acid scalp should be suspected if your hair is at all stiff or stringy, or won't hold a wave. Another sign—not so easily detected in one's self—is an acrid odor to the hair when it is warm, or after exercise. And for thirty-five cents at any drugstore, you can get a bottle of Danderine that will keep your hair soft and sweet and "on its good behavior" for weeks!

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or constipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell parents they may use it freely with children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One word of warning; get the pure, real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind doctors specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother so remember; tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria.

RUPTURE IS NOT A TEAR

NO BREAK TO HEAL

Some people have a mistaken idea that rupture is a tear. Rupture is not a tear, but purely a muscular weakness in the abdominal wall. Trusses merely brace these muscles, but do not strengthen them—on the contrary the gouging of the ordinary truss pad often increases this weakness, because it tends to shut off blood circulation. STUART'S ADHESIF PLAPAO-PADS are entirely different—being mechanico-chemico applicators—made self-adhesive purposely to keep the muscle-tonic, called "Plapao" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. No straps, buckles or springs attached. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome, Grand Prix, Paris, Honorable Mention, Panama Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, etc. For almost a quarter century satisfied thousands report success—without delay from work. Stacks of sworn testimonials received even from the far corners of the Earth. Process of recovery is natural, so no subsequent use for trusses.

fight in April is perhaps the best-documented combat of his career.

The flying uhlan took a photograph of the wrecked plane in which he killed Lieutenant J. C. Powell and Air Gunner P. Bonner. It remains today, with his notations on the back, in one of his several scrapbooks in his mother's home at Schweidnitz.

Further documentation comes in a detailed account of the fight that Richthofen wrote for publication. Another account of it was written by his younger brother, Lothar, who was now a full-fledged member of Jadgstaffel II, which name had been abbreviated to jasta. In addition to the above, Richthofen's official report on the combat has been found in the German Reich's archives in Berlin.

Before noon of that same day Richthofen had gone aloft again and brought down another plane, his thirty-third.

There are two accounts of this fight, which took place more than two miles above the earth, by Richthofen, and they contradict each other vitally.

In the war-time account that Richthofen wrote for publication, and that has every appearance of careful editing by the military censor, the flying uhlan takes credit for having spared the lives of his adversaries.

In his military report of the affair he wrote that he deliberately killed one of the English flyers after the plane had landed behind the German lines.

The observer was Sergeant R. Dunn, who died shortly after the plane landed. Death came as the result of a bullet through his abdomen, but it was a bullet that he received at 12,000 feet in the air and not after he was on the ground, according to the accounts of Lieutenant Peter Warren, the pilot, who was taken prisoner and now lives in London.

BRITISH general headquarters still demanded more accurate information and photographs of Vimy Ridge, against which a massed attack was to be launched early in April, 1917. The lives of thousands of infantrymen depended upon this information, and it was up to the flyers to get it.

Photographic patrols went over daily on this hazardous mission, and the next adversaries that went down under the guns of Richthofen—Lieutenant O'Beirne, who was killed, and Observer McDonald, who was taken prisoner—were engaged in that work.

There must have been rain or otherwise inclement weather on the Somme on April 4, 1917, the day after Jack O'Beirne's fatal fight, because Richthofen, whether he took the air or not, appears to have missed one day without having his customary Englishman for dinner.

But on the following day he made up for it by knocking down two planes in less than 15 minutes. In these two combats he killed one man and captured three, two of whom he wounded.

The arrival of the new English air steeds was the subject of many reports and much discussion that night at Richthofen's airdrome at Douai. At the long mess table the flyers gave heated accounts of their encounters during the day, pointing out the strength or weakness of the British planes as they found them.

During that dinner events were shaping themselves not many miles away that would rudely disturb the evening's discussion.

In an airdrome near the village of Izel-le-Hameau, behind the English lines, there were indications of unusual activity.

Soon the planes, with loaded bomb racks and fuel tanks, were pushed out of the hangars, like giant night birds surrounded by retinues of attending gnomes.

The orders for the night were simple. They read:

"No. 100 Squadron will bomb Douai airdrome on the nights of April 5 and 6, if the weather is suitable."

There was no question about the weather. It was made to order. An early moon was rising to the full. The wind was light.

Eighteen planes of the squadron were lined up, ready for the start. They had been painted dull black from wing tip to wing tip, with the bodies of the planes a dull gray.

An officer read 10:30 o'clock on the illuminated dial of his wrist watch. The wave of his hand was answered by increased life in the idling motor of the first plane in the line. A sign from the pilot and the wheel chocks were pulled away. The plane moved across the field, gathering speed. The rest of the planes pulled out at three-minute intervals.

A LARGE fire was burning in Lens behind the German lines. It was an excellent landmark. The squadron climbed steadily in the hope of crossing the lines without the knowledge of the enemy. It was to be a surprise attack.

In the swoop of the first plane the two incendiary bombs exploded right on the airdrome. Richthofen's nest was lit up like a carnival. From above, the rest of the squadron could easily see the three sides of the triangular flying field with the hangars ranged at regular intervals on two sides.

The downpour of fire and explosives lasted about 20 minutes and ended as suddenly as it had begun. The night riders, after dropping their bombs, climbed to safer altitudes, although searchlight beams still whipped the heavens and the night sky was punctured with the burst of anti-aircraft shells and flaming strings of "Spanish onions."

RICHTHOFEN and his flyers rushed from their shelters and directed their attention to preventing the flames from spreading. The planes were pushed out of the threatened hangars. Ancient French fire apparatus was rushed from the town, fire extinguishers were applied and men were put to work filling the holes in the flying field made by the bombs.

Back to the airdrome at Izel-le-Hameau went the exultant pilots of No. 100 Squadron. They flashed on their landing lights, received their signals from the ground and landed down the broad beam of the station searchlight, flattened out across the flying field to make a path of light.

All returned. As each plane landed it was surrounded by its crew of mechanics, who hurried to the task of immediate inspection, refueling and lubrication.

Thirty minutes later, with bomb racks replenished, they went back over the same route.

They arrived over the Douai airdrome just in time to interrupt the reconstruction work.

Down went the squadron leader again, and two more phosphorus 40-pounders were released to provide the footlights for the second show. They landed close to the two hangars, which immediately went up in flames. The burning phosphorus ignited everything inflammable that it touched. The gentlemen "upstairs" swooped down, as before, to do their stuff.

With its mission performed, the squadron headed for home, followed by the groping beams of the searchlights and the angry puffs of shell and shrapnel.

Again the waiting crews tended the returning planes, repaired fabric rents, replaced stay wires that had been cut by bullets, or repaired piping that had been struck by shell particles.

One crew waited in vain.

The missing machine was that piloted by Second Lieutenant A. R. M. Richards, with Second Class Air Mechanic E. W. Barnes presiding over the "lump sugar" and the "pepper box."

Their old F. E., during its low swoop over Richthofen's home grounds, had been mortally wounded by a burst of machine gun lead which found its way to the motor's vitals. Richards and Barnes made an unconventional landing in the dark in a field close to Douai. They spent the rest of the war as guests of the Kaiser.

THE flying uhlan's campground, the next morning, looked as if a cyclone had struck it. Four hangars had been burned completely, all the rest of them had been damaged, and many of the jagdstaffel's machines had been temporarily, if not permanently, put out of action.

It is significant that the squadron leader's almost daily record of a victory for the month, so far, shows no kills on April 6, the day after No. 100 Squadron left its cards. It is quite probable that the all-red Albatross was among the wounded birds that couldn't take the air.

While extra gangs of workers repaired the hangars and filled up the holes in the flying grounds, the mechanics busied themselves with the damaged machines. Others were put to work ramming piles and posts into the ground, on which machine guns could be mounted for high-angle fire.

Richthofen placed great reliance upon the dependability of the English. If they had come last night at a certain hour, they would be certain to come at the same hour the following night. He had reason.

"AGAIN we were sitting in our mess," he wrote concerning that night of April 6. "Of course, we were discussing the problem of the night flyers. Suddenly an orderly rushed into the room shouting:

"'They are there! They are there!' pointing above.

"We all rushed to our machine guns. The rest of the men were provided with carbines.

"The first Englishman arrived, exactly as on the previous evening, at a very great altitude. Then he came down to about 150 feet, and, to our greatest joy, was making for our barracks. Just then he got into the glare of the searchlight.

"When he was only 300 yards away someone fired the first shot and all the rest of us joined in. He flew exactly over our heads.

"At the moment when he was directly above us we jumped quickly into our bomb-proof. It would have been too silly for flying men to die by a rotten bomb. As soon as he had passed we rushed out again and fired after him."

That first swoop, as on the night before, was the one that turned on the light. Two more hangars blazed upward as a pair of phosphorus bonfires landed neatly between them.

The conflagration made every detail of the airdrome stand out in bright relief. As before, the rest of the squadron swooped down and across, but this time there were only 13 planes. In addition to the captured bus of Richards and Barnes, four other machines had been so badly hit by antiaircraft fire in the previous visits that they were unable to take part in the second night's excursion.

If the intensity of the German reception was a surprise to the English visitors, the German defenses had a surprise in store for them also.

As soon as each machine had dropped its bombs, it remained at the low height and started looking for more trouble. They directed their attention particularly to searchlights, diving straight down the beams and spraying the lamps and their crews with lead.

In Richthofen's opinion, the only effect of bomb dropping at night was a moral one. He did not believe that the material damage done was worth the effort.

It was too impersonal to suit the spirit of Germany's leading ace. He liked to see his adversary, lay plans to get him, and then get him.

He got one the following day. It was his thirty-seventh.

(Copyright for the Post-Dispatch.)

(A plunge of two miles downward in a broken plane, a mighty crash, and then darkness—this is the other side of the story of Richthofen's battles in the air. It is told in next Sunday's Post-Dispatch Magazine by one of his victims—an Englishman—who escaped death by a miracle.)

The Dandified Mormon Prophet

illegal proceedings from executive authority; I cut the Gordian knot of powers and I solve mathematical problems of universities, with TRUTH, diamond truth, and God is my right-hand man."

JOSEPH had played a skillful political game with Illinois Whigs and Democrats, but he now condemned publicly both parties and announced his candidacy for the presidency on the Mormon ticket. This immediately cut off his political support, the strongest assurance of security the Mormons had. Shortly after he made another blunder. He had pointed out that it was possible for a woman to be married to one man on earth and to another for eternity. He now sought the wife of Elder William Law, who had repudiated polygamy, as his "spiritual" bride, and Elder Law heard of it and denounced him. Further, Elder Law procured a newspaper press, gathered dissenters about him in Nauvoo and published one scorching issue of a newspaper called The Nauvoo Expositor. The journal made flagrant charges against the prophet and spoke boldly of nauseous conditions in Nauvoo. Smith gathered his cohorts, wrecked the newspaper plant and declared martial law in Nauvoo. Elder Law fled the Mormon city and went to Carthage, the county seat, where he swore out a warrant against the prophet, alleging destruction of property, and circulated stories of Smith's unprophetlike behavior.

Governor Ford hurried to Carthage, where feeling ran high, and assembled the militia. It was contended that Smith, in declaring martial law, conspired against the peace of the State and committed treason. The prophet was alarmed and started to flee, but the insistence of his wives drew him back to Nauvoo. Though a plural, he was a loyal, husband. He decided to answer the summons of the Governor, although he said: "It means going to the slaughter like a lamb."

SMITH never uttered a truer prophecy. He and his brother were ordered held in jail at Carthage to await a hearing on the charge of treason. Governor Ford made an empty promise of protection to the prophet and then marched to Nauvoo to deliver a speech, leaving Carthage unguarded. In his absence a mob formed, rushed the jail, shot down the prophet and his brother. One of the mob, say Mormon chronicles, probably apocryphal, drew a bowie knife and advanced to cut off the prophet's head, but "sudden lightning forked out of the sky" and the man's arm hung limp at his side. Thereafter the crowd dispersed, leaving the bodies untouched.

That was in 1844. Three years later, Brother Brigham Young was leading the faithful across the desert to the promised land of Utah.

Active artillery by an anti-Mormon mob, directed by a minister whom Governor Ford termed "a semi-barbarian," had forced the faithful to flee their metropolis. The great stone temple, the Mormon meeting hall with the Yankee spire, the prophet's house and his hotel for tourists, the trim brick houses of the apostles and elders, with the hand-carved tables and walnut four-post beds that are prized by collectors today; the shops and the smithies, the rich outlying farms—these were abandoned. Three Mormons were killed. The rest—men, women and children—were glad to escape into Iowa with their lives.

TODAY the main street of Nauvoo is the top of a lazy hill that slopes gently to flat lands along the river bank. The hillside is covered with vineyards, the contribution of a band of French communists who vainly tried to make Nauvoo bloom again in the '50s. A handful of shops dot the main street. There are strikingly few houses and most of them are old. The two or three frame buildings used by the prophet and several of the square-fronted, stubborn brick houses of the elders have been preserved. The big Mormon temple is gone. Its rough stones, when it was toppled in a tornado, were used to make a rather forbidding residence. The schismatic branch of the Mormon Church has put a tabernacle on the river bank in brash new brick. The structure, by contrast, emphasizes the somnolent beauty of the rest of the faded town—Nauvoo of the departed glories from which the bustling life is absent as the startling figure of the prophet himself.

Joseph's remains sleep here where he knew his greatest triumphs. To his left lie the bones of his brother Hyrum. To his right lie the bones of his wife Emma, although she married a militia Major following Smith's violent demise. At the burial ceremonies the prophet's grandson, a descendant of Emma, the first wife, contended, in the face of accepted history, that the prophet had been a militant, nay, a crusading, monogamist. If that is true, then the Mormon chroniclers will have much to answer for when Joseph comes into his own celestially. For they have told that the stars on the prophet's crown will make a veritable firmament in the days of glory to come.

NEW WATER FERN

Beautiful House Plant -- REQUIRES NO SOIL

A peculiar and interesting plant that is admired by everyone; handsome, velvety, fine, fern-like foliage. Curls up and goes to sleep when taken out of water, and keeps in its sleeping or dormant state for weeks and awakens again in a few minutes after being placed in water. Owing to the fact it is capable of sleeping and awakening repeatedly, it is called the Opossum Fern. Do not confuse this plant with the much advertised Resurrection plant. If you want one of the most satisfactory and beautiful "Table Ferns," something entirely new, get one of these marvels of plant life. Plants, 25c each; 3 for 50c; 7 for $1.00, postpaid. RUPTURE IS NOT A TEAR

NO BREAK TO HEAL

Some people have a mistaken idea that rupture is a tear. Rupture is not a tear, but purely a muscular weakness in the abdominal wall. Trusses merely brace these muscles, but do not strengthen them—on the contrary the gouging of the ordinary truss pad often increases this weakness, because it tends to shut off blood circulation. STUART'S ADHESIF PLAPAO-PADS are entirely different—being mechanico-chemico applicators—made self-adhesive purposely to keep the muscle-tonic, called "Plapao" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. No straps, buckles or springs attached. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome, Grand Prix, Paris, Honorable Mention, Panama Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, etc. For almost a quarter century satisfied thousands report success—without delay from work. Stacks of sworn testimonials received even from the far corners of the Earth. Process of recovery is natural, so no subsequent use for trusses.

Stop wasting your time and money on old-fashioned truss devices. Learn how to close the hernial opening so the rupture can't come down. Send the coupon below for "FREE TEST OF PLAPAO" and 48-page illustrated book on rupture. This will cost you nothing! Do not send any money; just your name and address. "No scrubbing for me – yet my clothes wash whiter!" says Mrs. B. Fink, 4103 De Tonty St.

"MY very first trial of Rinso showed me why so many women praise it," says this local woman, one of many readers of this newspaper who have written us.

"It certainly works wonders in the water here. What thick suds! And without a softener, too.

"Rinso saves so much rubbing that cuffs, collar edges, etc., are never frayed out now. I just soak the wash overnight and in the morning it's ready to be rinsed and hung out. You don't even have to boil. Yet the wash always looks whiter than ever.

"I always keep a big package handy for I use Rinso for all other cleaning, too. It's grand for dishes, woodwork, floors, sinks, etc.—it contains no grit."

Try this hard-water soap in tub or machine

Rinso, the granulated hard-water soap, asks no help from bar soaps, chips or softeners. In hardest water, it whips into creamy, lasting suds.

Grease, dirt, stains—all soak out. Clothes come from tub or washer the whitest white ever. Safely!

No wonder 32,000 washing machine demonstrators use Rinso to show whiter clothes. And the makers of 32 washers say "Rinso for safety."

GIVE ME 10 MINUTES TO STOP GRAY HAIR
[Pictures show How I Do It]

1 You try it first on a single lock of your hair and see what it does. Thus have no fear of results.

As gray and faded streaks disappear, youth's charms return. Years vanish from one's face and hair that betrays age regains its girlhood gleam and brilliance. Women have found in this simple treatment the greatest beauty aid they know.

2 Then simply comb this water-like liquid through your hair. Clean . . . safe. Takes 7 or 8 minutes.

3 Arrange hair and watch color gradually creep back. Restoration will be perfect and complete.

NO longer need gray hair embarrass you. There is a safe way to end it that specialists and doctors vouch is safe. A way that restores faded and graying parts to youthful color. That makes hair live looking and lustrous. That does not make it difficult to wave. That is not noticeable as are "crude dyes."

Please accept free proof. Test at home the way endorsed by 3,000,000 women and many Broadway stars. It is beauty science's most amazing contribution. Send coupon below or go to nearest druggist.

You let a safe and natural treatment bring back youthful color—over night

Millions of women know age brings waning popularity, so they have found a safe way to avoid gray hair. No one even suspects that they do anything at all, so natural does their hair look. Not even their own husbands know it. And they receive scores of compliments upon its radiantly live appearance, its luxuriant sheen and richness.

Science has ended the embarrassment of graying hair

Several years ago science found a way to end the humiliation of gray hair. The now famous Mary T. Goldman, whose experiments were prompted by the premature graying of her own hair, made a far-reaching discovery.

She found that hair becomes faded, gray or discolored because certain color elements are lacking. Finally she discovered what these elements were and what elements applied to the hair would give it youthful color.

Ordinary "dyeing" had always been abhorrent to her. She detested the mere thought of obviously "colored" hair. So, after her final successful experiment, one can imagine her delight and amazement to find her image in the mirror again that of a charming, piquant woman of thirty.

Her friends were astounded at this miraculous transformation. Scientists were dumbfounded at what was seemingly a reappearance of youth. And, indeed, it seemed like a miracle, for nothing on earth makes such a difference in a woman's looks as youthful hair. Years vanish over night.

The simplest way—also safest

Hair fades and turns gray when natural color pigment is lacking. So science, by a highly scientific method, supplies a liquid containing certain necessary elements that take its place—hence gives natural shade. The formula is called Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer, after its discoverer.

Simply dampen a comb in this amazing liquid—clear and colorless as water—then run it through the hair. That's all. In 10 minutes you are through.

Touch only certain parts or the entire head. You can almost see the natural color creep back, so quickly does it do its work. Streaks disappear...gray vanishes.

If auburn, your hair reverts to auburn. If black, black it will be. Tests under observation of world's scientists prove this true.

No need now for crude dyes judged dangerous to hair. They are noticed by your friends. This way defies detection. Nothing to wash or rub off. Nothing to stain fingers.

Let strong sunlight strike your hair. Not a vestige of artificial color will betray it—for its color will be natural looking. There will not be the streaks or discoloration which follow the use of crude, old-fashioned hair dyes. Your hair will have the tint, the fascinating color that it had in schoolgirl days.

It is all very simple — like all highly scientific methods are. Yet results are beyond the average woman's sunniest dreams.

Free—an amazing 5-minute test that brings out the natural color of your hair. Perform this miracle yourself.

You'll be amazed and delighted at what this scientific way will do. Please try it by sending coupon for free test. I will send you a free sample of Mary T. Goldman's Hair Color Restorer. You snip off a single lock of your hair and try it first on that. You see exactly what results will be. Thus take no chances. Which is the safe thing to do. Besides you'll get a thrill.

Or go to your nearest drug store and get a bottle. A few cents' worth is sufficient to restore your hair completely. If not delighted, your money will be returned. Do not delay another day.

Lose Fat
in an easier way

Don't over-exert—correct the cause

Some can reduce by starvation or abnormal exercise, but the way is long and hard. Not one in ten of the over-fat has the patience to continue. And even then the best efforts may fail unless the inner cause is corrected.

Over twenty years ago scientific men discovered a great cause of excess fat. They found a substance which Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. They proved that an extra supply of that substance could check the formation of fat.

That substance was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. Now you can see in almost every circle how much they have done for beauty, health, and vitality. Doubtless some of your friends can tell you. Slenderness prevails today, fat is the exception.

The use of Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. Users simply take four tablets daily until the weight comes down to normal. They combat the cause.

Try the help which has done so much for so many. You owe that to yourself. You cannot afford to stay over-fat when reduction is so easy and so pleasant. Watch the results, then tell your friends, as people have for 20 years been doing. All your life you will be glad that you know Marmola. Go order now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Sleeplessness

Now overcome
—without drugs

Here's instant sleep that gives you buoyant, energetic days

Make This 3-Day Test

From tonight on you can always be sure of getting instant, deep sleep—without the use of drugs. You will awaken each morning fairly tingling with healthy vigor.

No drug can give you restful sleep. For while drugs may put you to sleep, they always leave you "logy" and befuddled when you awaken.

But science has developed a wonderful food-beverage that brings sound, restful sleep in a natural way. It is called Ovaltine. It puts you to sleep instantly. And as you sleep its special food properties restore your tired mind and body—build up boundless vitality and energy.

Morning finds you a new woman. Fresh, clear-eyed, buoyant; youthful in looks and spirits. You have the energy to carry you right through the day and into the evening.

The 3-day test we offer here will prove all we claim. Note, most carefully, how good you feel when you get up in the morning.

Why Ovaltine brings restoring sleep

Authorities agree that digestive unrest is the main cause of sleeplessness. Ovaltine overcomes this condition in two ways:

First—It digests very quickly itself. Even in cases of impaired digestion.

Second—It has the unusual power of digesting 4 to 5 times its weight of other foods you eat. Hence it aids your stomach. Digestion goes on speedily and efficiently. Frayed nerves are soothed. Sound sleep follows.

And as you sleep the special food properties of Ovaltine also help to restore your tired mind and body. (One cup of Ovaltine has actually more food value than 12 cups of beef extract, 7 cups of cocoa, or 3 eggs.)

That is why after drinking a cup of hot Ovaltine at night you awaken in the morning so completely refreshed—abounding with new-found vitality and tireless energy. Note the unsolicited testimonials below.

Hospitals and Doctors recommend it

Ovaltine has been in use in Switzerland for over 30 years. Now in universal use in England and her colonies. During the great war it was served as a standard ration to invalid soldiers.

A few years ago Ovaltine was introduced into this country. Today hundreds of hospitals use it. More than 20,000 doctors recommend it. Not only for sleeplessness, but because of its special dietetic properties, they also recommend it for nerve-strain, malnutrition underweight and delicate children, nursing mothers, and the aged.

Make this 3-day test

Just make a 3-day test of Ovaltine. Note the difference not only in your sleep but in your next day's energy. You tackle your work with greater vigor. You "carry through" for the whole day. You aren't too tired to go out for the evening. There's a new zest to your work; to all your daily activities. It's truly a "pick-up" drink—for any time of the day.

Druggists and grocers sell Ovaltine in 4 sizes for home use. Or get it at the soda fountain. But to let you try it we will send a 3-day introductory package for 10c, to cover cost of packing and mailing. Just send in coupon with 10c.

I was very nervous and restless and could not get to sleep until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. I found Ovaltine very beneficial and slept fine the first time I took it.
Mrs. W. Harris,
Holland, Mich.

I took Ovaltine for sleeplessness and a tired, worn out feeling in the morning. After taking Ovaltine a week I slept soundly at night and felt more like working during the day.

LOOK TO YOUR EYES

THROAT

Age makes its first appearance in these three places:

1. In wrinkles about the eyes and mouth.
2. At the under-chin line.
3. In the texture of the throat.

NOT only did Dorothy Gray discover this during the many years in which she studied and cared for the faces of thousands of women, but she also evolved a successful method of treatment for each of these three tell-tale signs of age.

Miss Gray believes that a rapid, healthy circulation is the prerequisite for the firm muscles, smooth skin and clear color that are essential to a youthful appearance. Miss Gray has formulated specific preparations that cleanse the skin, that protect it, and correct excessive oiliness or dryness. But the basis of her method is the stimulation of the circulation into healthy activity.

That is why Dorothy Gray has had so remarkable a success in strengthening sagging muscles, in restoring the firm contour of youth and the satiny skin texture which is every woman's natural heritage.

"I AM keenly interested in sports, and wanted to take part in all the athletic and social events of my school—but for a time I was so embarrassed by eruptions on my face that I hated to go out at all. It so happened that my mother had derived splendid results from eating Fleischmann's Yeast. I began eating it myself—two cakes a day dissolved in milk. My face cleared up entirely and my pleasure in school activities revived. I ate Yeast for a year—in fact, I still eat it off and on, just to keep in condition."

"Now so well I can eat anything!"

Minneapolis, Minn.

"FOOD did not appeal to me in any form. In fact, my stomach was in such shape that anything I ate disagreed with me.

"And I had lost all my old vitality.

"Three cakes a day of Fleischmann's Yeast and today I am again eating my meals with real enjoyment and relish. My wife and three children have also become ardent users of Fleischmann's Yeast and are enjoying the same beneficial results that I am."

Arthur C. Kyhn

EVERY bit as fresh as any garden vegetable, Fleischmann's Yeast is not a medicine, but a pure corrective food.

Fleischmann's Yeast restores your health and energy by keeping your intestinal tract clean, by strengthening the sluggish, weak intestinal muscles.

Gradually these muscles begin to do their work again. Elimination becomes more regular, more complete. Food wastes, now promptly thrown off, no longer poison your system. Your digestion improves. Your skin clears and freshens. Once again you feel your old vigorous, happy self!

All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Buy two or three days' supply at a time and keep in any cool, dry place. You can also get it at many leading cafeterias, lunch counters and soda fountains.

And write today for a free copy of the latest booklet on Yeast in the diet. Address Health Research Dept. N-949, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington St., New York City.

Chicago, Ill.

"IT WAS about a year ago that I first complained to my husband of feeling ill. My appetite had vanished. My sleep no longer rested me. I felt sluggish, tired—only half alive. And I was troubled with constipation. My housework grew irksome and even my social activities turned from a pleasure to a grievous burden . . . I was doubtful when my husband suggested Fleischmann's Yeast. After eating it for a time, however, I became aware of feeling better than I had in many months. Well! I continued to improve right along. My constipation left me, the color returned to my cheeks. I began to feel active and strong—and able to do my work without any special effort on my part. Of course Fleischmann's Yeast plays a prominent part in our family's diet now."

Mrs. F. A. Lindenmyer

EAT
YEAST
FOR HEALTH

Health for you—this new easy way

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast regularly every day, one cake before each meal or between meals. Eat it plain, or dissolved in water (hot or cold) or any other way you like. For stubborn constipation physicians say to drink one cake in a glass of hot water—not scalding—before meals and before going to bed. Train yourself to form a regular daily habit. Dangerous cathartics will gradually become unnecessary.

I'LL SEND THIS VALENTINE TO OLD MAN REGNA — IT JUST FITS HIM — HE'S ALWAYS CHASING US KIDS AWAY FROM HIS HOUSE.
HE'S THE WORST CRANK — I NEVER SAW HIM SMILE OR SAY HELLO OR NOTHIN' GEE THIS VALENTINE FITS HIM ALLRIGHT.
THAT'S THAT BAD NEBB BOY — HE'S ALWAYS UP TO SOME DEVILMENT!
LOOK AT THAT DISRESPECTFUL THING! I'LL GO OVER AND SPEAK TO THE BRAT'S FATHER!
MR. NEBB, YOUR SON WAS JUST OVER TO MY HOUSE AND LEFT THE MOST INSULTING VALENTINE!
LET ME SEE IT, MR. REGNA — IF IT'S NOT NICE I'LL PUNISH HIM EVEN THOUGH IT IS JUST CHILDISH AMUSEMENT.
You never laugh — don't even smile — You've got a crab beat bout a mile — Your face has all the discontent — That nature ever ever sent ~ To anyone!
HA-HA-HO-HO — I'M SURPRISED AT YOU GETTING ANGRY AT SUCH A LITTLE THING — HO-HO-HO — THE KID JUST INTENDED IT FOR A LITTLE INNOCENT FUN — HA! HA!
LIKE FATHER LIKE SON — HE'LL GROW UP TO BE LIKE YOU AND IT WILL SERVE HIM RIGHT!!
HA HA HA — I DON'T EXACTLY APPROVE OF YOU TAKING LIBERTIES WITH OLDER PERSONS BUT THIS OLD CRAB DESERVES IT SO I WON'T PUNISH YOU THIS TIME.
MOTHER, YOU SHOULD SEE THE VALENTINE JUNIOR SENT TO OLD REGNA — IT'S A KNOCK-OUT — FITS HIM TO A "T" HERE'S ONE FOR YOU SOME BOY LEFT UNDER THE DOOR.
You certainly do gab a lot — Your mouth goes faster'n a horse can trot — The whole day long it wags and wags — With nothing but just brags and brags
I'D LIKE TO KNOW WHO SENT THAT TO ME!!! IT SHOULD BE A CRIME TO SEND OUT THESE INSULTING THINGS — I'D LIKE TO GET MY HANDS ON HIM — HE'D NEVER SEND OUT ANOTHER ONE.

ROD WE'RE GIVING DORA A SURPRISE PARTY TONIGHT AND IT'S YOUR DUTY TO KEEP HER HOME
THIS IS A FINE TIME TO TELL ME -- BUT I'LL DO MY DUTY, THE BOY SCOUT IN ME WILL SEE TO THAT
KEEPING DORA HOME AN EVENING IS HARDER THAN KEEPING A PRETTY GIRL ON THE FARM -- I MAY HAVE TO COMMIT A SLIGHT PERJURY
WHAT'RE YOU DOING TONIGHT, DORA?
WELL, THAT'S IT, ROD -- BOB WANTS TO TAKE ME TO DINNER -- JOE THE THEATRE AND BERT WANTS TO TAKE ME DANCING AFTER

IT'S IN THE BAG, BABIES, I HAVE A DATE WITH HER AND WILL KEEP HER HOME
OH, ROD, YOU'RE JUST ANOTHER LINDBERGH
WE'RE ABOUT READY TO LEAVE NOW
I'LL STALL AROUND HERE UNTIL THE GANG ARRIVES
ROD, GO DOWN AND BANK THE FIRE · IT'S CHILLY HERE
I HOPE THEY BLOW IN RIGHT AWAY --- IT'S GOING TO BE HARD KEEPING DORA HERE
WHAT? NO COAL? THE HOUSE WILL BE FREEZING --- WE CAN'T HAVE THE PARTY HERE TONIGHT
DORA, THE COAL BIN'S AS CLEAN AS A PUP'S PLATE --; ISN'T THERE ANY COAL? IT'S BELOW ZERO OUTSIDE
OH! DEAR, DAD DID TELL ME TO ORDER COAL AND I FORGOT. WELL, WE WONT BE HOME ANYWAY
10
I HAVEN'T THE HEART TO TELL THE GANG --- I'M DOOMED TO TAKE HER OUT AS I PROMISED! I'M SUNK
I KNOW DAD'S GOING TO GIVE ME THE MERRY DICKENS, BUT I CERTAINLY DESERVE IT
